Compliance With Statutory Annexation Provisions Required — Standard of Review: Municipal annexation statutes contain numerous and detailed requirements for a city to annex property, some of which charge city planners to make subjective value judgments and statements of opinion, especially those concerning plans for the future. Pursuant to Gregory v. Forsyth, 187 M 132, 609 P2d 248 (1980), and Nilson Enterprises, Inc. v. Great Falls, 190 M 341, 621 P2d 466 (1980), the cardinal considerations for requiring substantial compliance with the annexation laws are public notice and participation, particularly for those affected by a proposed annexation. If all of the substantive and procedural requirements are included and complied with by a municipality, the law will have been followed, and if each of the statutory mandates that contain a subjective component are considered and included in the required plans, notice and the opportunity to participate are considered proper. Thus, compliance with annexation statutes must be complete and must be substantial when a statute requires a municipality to exercise discretion in making planning decisions. If there are no disputed issues of fact, the Supreme Court will review a Making Court's decision on whether there was compliance with the law de novo. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

Former Law: Prior to the enactment of this section, the exclusive manner of annexation was through statutory provisions and failure to substantially comply with such provisions defeated annexation. Gregory v. Forsyth, 187 M 132, 609 P2d 248, 37 St. Rep. 277 (1980); Balock v. Melstone, 186 M 303, 607 P2d 545, 37 St. Rep. 288 (1980).

Part 46 Annexation by Petition

Part Case Notes

Standing to Sue Government in General — Annexation Proceedings in Particular: Before one has standing to sue a governmental entity, there must be a case or controversy. The plaintiff must clearly allege past, present, or threatened injury to a property or civil right, and the injury must be distinguishable from injury to the public in general, though it need not be exclusive to the plaintiff. In an annexation protest, annexation is a political matter exclusively for legislative control, absent a constitutional prohibition. The annexation must be void ab initio, and the challenger must be a property owner who would suffer a tax increase. The available remedy is an injunction, not monetary damages. A count of petition signatures for only one of many annexed areas, by a plaintiff who used his own criteria for the count, is insufficient to support a claim that the government entity inaccurately counted the signatures. Since plaintiff here had no standing to directly attack the annexation, he could not collaterally attack it by attempting to show negligence. O'Donnell Fire Serv. & Equip. Co. v. Billings, 219 M 317, 711 P2d 822, 42 St. Rep. 2051 (1985), followed in Knudsen v. Ereaux, 275 M 146, 911 P2d 835, 53 St. Rep. 83 (1996), and Lohmeier v. Gallatin County, 2006 MT 88, 332 M 39, 135 P3d 775 (2006).

Constitutionality — Annexation Generally: Annexation, in the absence of a constitutional prohibition, is a political matter exclusively for the Legislature to control, and unless specifically restrained by the Montana Constitution, the Legislature can authorize annexation without the consent or even against the wishes of the people living in the annexed corporation or territory. Harrison v. Missoula, 146 M 420, 407 P2d 703 (1965).

Remedy for Illegal Inclusion: The remedy of injunction is available to one whose taxes would be increased by an illegal inclusion of his property within the limits of a city. Sharkey v. Butte, 52 M 16, 155 P 266 (1916).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 186 in (3)(a)(ii) substituted “real property representing 50% or more of the total area” for “50% of the real property in the area”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 15, 2011.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 66 in (3)(a)(i) substituted “resident electors owning real property in the area” for “resident freeholder electors of the territory”; in (3)(a)(ii) substituted “50% of the real property in the area” for “each parcel of property in the territory”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective February 16, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In (3)(a) after “municipality”, substituted “need not submit the question of annexation to the qualified electors as provided in subsection (2) if it has received” for “upon receiving”; in (3)(a)(i), after “annexed”, deleted “need not submit the question of annexation to the qualified electors as provided in subsection (2)”; inserted (3)(a)(ii) relating to property owners; and in (3)(b) in first sentence, after “petition”, inserted “submitted under the provisions of subsection (3)(a)”.

Case Notes

Lack of Property Ownership Within Proposed Annexation — No Standing to Challenge Annexation Resolution — Summary Judgment Proper Despite Lack of Notice to Parties of Intent to Convert Motion to Dismiss Into Motion for Summary Judgment: It is error for a court to fail to give formal notice of the intent to convert a motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment, giving the party opposing the motion an opportunity to produce additional facts by affidavit or otherwise that would create a genuine issue of material fact to preclude summary judgment. However, in this case, plaintiffs lacked standing to challenge an annexation resolution because they did not own property within the proposed annexation. Without standing to state a claim, plaintiffs could prove no set of facts in support of their action that would entitle them to relief. Therefore, failure by the court to give the parties notice of conversion of the motion to dismiss was harmless error. Knudsen v. Ereaux, 275 M 146, 911 P2d 835, 53 St. Rep. 83 (1996), following O'Donnell Fire Serv. & Equip. v. Billings, 219 M 317, 711 P2d 822 (1985).

Attorney General's Opinions

Growth Policy Required Prior to Annexation of New Territory but Not for Continued Subdivision Review: Under 7-2-4734, a growth policy covering an area proposed for municipal annexation is required before a municipality may extend corporate limits under Title 7, ch. 2, part 47, but the requirement does not apply to annexations conducted under 7-2-4201, 7-2-4301, 7-2-4401, 7-2-4501, or this section. A growth policy is also required before certain subdivision review procedures and city powers of annexation are authorized. However, a growth policy is not required to continue subdivision review unless the city or county wishes to qualify for streamlined review processes. 49 A.G. Op. 23 (2002).

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted current text requiring an election on the question of annexation to be conducted in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 4, for former text that read: "(1) The question of annexation may be submitted at the next general municipal election to be held in the municipal corporation or it may be submitted prior to the general election, either at a special election called for that purpose or at any other municipal election, except an election at which the submission of such question is prohibited by law.

(2) The election shall be conducted and the returns made in the same manner as other city or town elections. All election laws governing city and town elections shall govern, insofar as they are applicable.

(3) Whenever the question of annexation under this title is submitted at either a general city or town election or at a special election, separate ballots, shall be provided therefor"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1)(a) after "If" deleted "it is found that"; in (1)(b) near beginning substituted "include a statement" for "state" and substituted "containing" for "with", in middle substituted "ordering the election" for "ordering a general or special election", and near end inserted "a statement"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 186 in (2) in first sentence near middle substituted "real property representing 50% or more of the total area" for "50% of the area". Amendment effective April 15, 2011.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 66 in (1)(b), in first sentence, substituted "resident electors owning real property in the area" for "resident freeholder electors of the territory"; in (2), in first clause of first sentence, substituted "resident electors owning real property" for "resident freeholder electors" and substituted "50% of the area" for "all of the territory"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective February 16, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In (2) after "resident freeholder electors", inserted "or the owners of all".

Commissioner Correction: The term "The resolution" which originally appeared in subsection (2) was changed to "A resolution adopted pursuant to 7-2-4601(3)" by the Code Commissioner, 1979, because of rearrangement of sec. 1, Ch. 641, L. 1979, during codification.

Composite Section: This section was amended by Ch. 250, Ch. 641, and Ch. 642, L. 1979, and a composite section was prepared by the Code Commissioner, 1979. Chapter 250 was a Code Commissioner bill and was not intended to make substantive changes in the law. Consequently a conflict of language in subsection (1) between Ch. 250 and Ch. 641 has been resolved in favor of the language used in Ch. 641.

Compliance With Statutory Annexation Provisions Required — Standard of Review: Municipal annexation statutes contain numerous and detailed requirements for a city to annex property, some of which charge city planners to make subjective value judgments and statements of opinion, especially those concerning plans for the future. Pursuant to Gregory v. Forsyth, 187 M 132, 609 P2d 248 (1980), and Nilson Enterprises, Inc. v. Great Falls, 190 M 341, 621 P2d 466 (1980), the cardinal considerations for requiring substantial compliance with the annexation laws are public notice and participation, particularly for those affected by a proposed annexation. If all of the substantive and procedural requirements are included and complied with by a municipality, the law will have been followed, and if each of the statutory mandates that contain a subjective component are considered and included in the required plans, notice and the opportunity to participate are considered proper. Thus, compliance with annexation statutes must be complete and must be substantial when a statute requires a municipality to exercise discretion in making planning decisions. If there are no disputed issues of fact, the Supreme Court will review a District Court's decision on whether there was compliance with the law de novo. *Gregg v. Part Case Notes

Provision Made for Water and Sewer Mains — City Annexation Plan in Substantial Statutory Compliance: Plaintiff was one of 277 property owners who contended that a plan for the extension of services into areas annexed by the city of Whitefish did not comply with annexation statutes. The Supreme Court examined the plan and concluded that: (1) the statement required by 7-2-4731 regarding extension of municipal services was included; (2) provision for future development in conformance with 7-2-4732 was made; (3) the plan included a financing method conforming with 7-2-4732 and 76-3-510; (4) tax burden statements conforming to 7-2-4732 and voting methodology statements conforming to 7-2-4733 were included; (5) the plan contained a long-range plan as required in 7-2-4732; (6) a timetable required by 7-2-4732 was included; and (7) the plan included maps of general land use, the city's present and proposed boundaries, and present and proposed streets and water mains, and a statement regarding other boundaries was included in conformance with 7-2-4731. The District Court's conclusion that the plan for the extension of services met statutory requirements was affirmed. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

Each Method of Annexation as Separate Procedure: Each of the eight methods of municipal annexation is a separate and distinct procedure. Therefore, the statutory exemption for golf courses found in 7-2-4503 does not apply to annexations commenced under Title 7, ch. 2, part 47 (Planned Community Development Act). State ex rel. Hilands Golf Club v. Billings, 198 M 475, 647 P2d 345, 39 St. Rep. 1132 (1982).

Cross-County Annexation Lawful — County Approval Not Required: Montana law does not expressly or impliedly limit annexation by county boundaries. In liberally construing the powers of incorporated cities and towns and counties, the Attorney General held that cross-county annexation is permitted by Montana law and is not dependent upon county approval. Case Notes

Annexation of Golf Club: The city of Billings began proceedings to annex a golf club. Upon petition of the golf club, the District Court issued a Writ of Mandamus and then ruled, after trial, that 7-2-4503 deprived the city of the authority to annex a golf club. The city appealed, claiming that it had been proceeding under the Planned Community Development Act and that golf courses were not exempt from annexation under that Act. The Supreme Court agreed with the city that golf courses were not exempt from annexation under the Planned Community Development Act but held that under that Act, the golf club could prevent annexation. The court further ruled that because the Planned Community Development Act provides for judicial review, issuance of a Writ of Mandamus was premature. State ex rel. Hilands Golf Club v. Billings, 198 M 475, 647 P2d 345, 39 St. Rep. 1132 (1982).

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) substituted “be published as provided in 7-1-4127” for “fix the date, hour, and place of the public hearing”; deleted former (2) that read: “(2) Such notice will be given by publication in a newspaper having general circulation in the municipality once a week for at least 4 successive weeks prior to the date of the hearing. The date of the last publication shall not be more than 7 days preceding the date of the public hearing. If there is no such newspaper, the municipality shall post the notice in at least five public places within the municipality and at least five public places in the area to be annexed for 30 days prior to the date of public hearing”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-2-4710. Protest.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 66 in (1), near end, substituted “real property owners of the area” for “freeholders of the territory”; in (2), near beginning, substituted “real property owners” for “freeholders” and near middle, after “annexed”, inserted “may not be considered or acted upon by the governing body on its own initiative, without petition”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective February 16, 1995.

1985 Amendment: Near beginning of (1) increased protest period from 20 to 45 days; in (1) and (2) deleted “resident” before “freeholders”.

Case Notes

Failure to Stop Annexation Process — Judicial Review Not Precluded: The right to protest annexation under this section is separate from the right to request judicial review under 7-2-4741. Thus, even though a property owner does not stop the annexation process under this section, the property owner is still entitled to the judicial review in 7-2-4741 to ensure that a city met the statutory requirements of this part. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

City Resolution Allowing Implied Consent to Annexation Upon Continued Use of Utility Services Affirmed: The city of Whitefish adopted a municipal resolution requiring that property owners consent to annexation in order to continue to receive city utility services and allowing the city to imply consent to annexation from property owners that continued to receive the services after they received notice requiring them to disconnect from the utilities. Property owners contended that the resolution was invalid, but the District Court held the resolution valid, and the Supreme Court affirmed. The Attorney General held in 46 A.G. Op. 12 (1995), that a municipality may establish a rule requiring consent to annexation as a condition for continued receipt of services, and that opinion is in accord with 69-7-201. Further, the utility rule in this case put the burden on the property owner to arrange to disconnect from services if protesting annexation, so once proper notice was given, under 28-2-503 and this section, the city's procedure to imply consent was a proper method to determine if a property owner wished to continue to receive city services or to protest annexation. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

Recorded Waiver of Annexation Protest by Prior Property Owner — Present Owner Precluded From Protesting Annexation: In 1966, the city of Whitefish adopted a policy that a landowner outside the city boundary had to agree to waive the right to protest future annexation in order to continue to receive city water and sewer services. The waivers were properly recorded and later used by the city to invalidate annexation protests by current landowners in 1998. The District Court concluded that the waivers constituted a covenant running with the land and that the current owners were precluded from protesting the proposed annexation. On appeal, the current owners argued that the right to protest in this section resided with the current property owner and that the statutory consent to annexation authorized by 7-13-4314 only applied to the initiation of services and could not transfer to subsequent purchasers. The Supreme Court disagreed. Under 7-1-113, a self-governing entity may act even when there are controlling state laws as long as the local government's actions are not inconsistent with or lower or less stringent than state requirements. The purpose of 7-13-4314 is to ensure that property owners outside a municipality can request utility services and to ensure that the local government can later require annexation in exchange for utilities. Creating a covenant that runs with the land furthers this purpose. In addition, 70-17-203 also provides that every covenant made for the direct benefit of the property runs with the land. The waivers directly benefited the property and were allowable, so the District Court was affirmed. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004). Provision Made for Water and Sewer Mains — City Annexation Plan in Substantial Statutory Compliance: Plaintiff was one of 277 property owners who contended that a plan for the extension of services into areas annexed by the city of Whitefish did not comply with annexation statutes. The Supreme Court examined the plan and concluded that: (1) the statement required by 7-2-4731 regarding extension of municipal services was included; (2) provision for future development in conformance with this section was made; (3) the plan included a financing method conforming with 76-3-510 and this section; (4) tax burden statements conforming to this section and voting methodology statements conforming to 7-2-4733 were included; (5) the plan contained a long-range plan as required in this section; (6) a timetable required by this section was included; and (7) the plan included maps of general land use, the city's present and proposed boundaries, and present and proposed streets and water mains, and a statement regarding other boundaries was included in conformance with 7-2-4731. The District Court's conclusion that the plan for the extension of services met statutory requirements was affirmed. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

Annexation Without Cost-Benefit Analysis and Resulting Increased Tax Burden Not Unconstitutional: Kudloff brought an action against the city of Billings, alleging that the city had wrongfully annexed his property because no cost-benefit analysis had been performed by the city and the annexation would result in an increase in Kudloff's tax burden. The Supreme Court held that a regulatory taking of property by a municipality is allowed even if the value of that property and its usefulness is diminished. The Supreme Court cited Harrison v. Missoula, 146 M 420, 407 P2d 703 (1965), for the proposition that the levying of future taxes after annexation does not constitute a taking of property. Kudloff v. Billings, 260 M 371, 860 P2d 140, 50 St. Rep. 1108 (1993).

Growth Policy Required Prior to Annexation of New Territory but Not for Continued Subdivision Review: Under this section, a growth policy covering an area proposed for municipal annexation is required before a municipality may extend corporate limits under this part, but the requirement does not apply to annexations conducted under 7-2-4201, 7-2-4301, 7-2-4401, 7-2-4501, or 7-2-4601. A growth policy is also required before certain subdivision review procedures and city powers of annexation are authorized. However, a growth policy is not required to continue subdivision review unless the city or county wishes to qualify for streamlined review processes. 49 A.G. Op. 23 (2002).

7-2-4736. Preservation of existing garbage or solid waste service in event of annexation.Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 301 substituted current language for: "(1) A municipality that annexes or incorporates additional area receiving garbage and solid waste disposal service by a motor carrier authorized by the public service commission to conduct such service may not provide competitive or similar garbage and solid waste disposal service to any person or business located in the area for 5 years following annexation except:

(a) upon a proper showing to the public service commission that the existing carrier is unable or refuses to provide adequate service to the annexed or incorporated area; or

(b) after the expiration of 5 years, if a majority of the residents of the annexed or incorporated area sign a petition requesting the municipality to provide the service.

(2) If a proper showing is made that the existing carrier is unable or refuses to provide adequate service to the annexed or incorporated area or, after the expiration of 5 years, if a majority of the residents sign a petition requesting service from the municipality, the municipality may provide garbage and solid waste disposal service to the entire annexed or incorporated area.

(3) For the purposes of determining whether an existing motor carrier provides adequate service, those services provided by the carrier prior to annexation are considered adequate services." Amendment effective April 29, 2011.

1987 Amendment: In (1), near end of introductory clause, inserted "any person or business located in"; in (1)(b) substituted "after the expiration of 5 years, if a majority of the residents of the annexed or incorporated area sign a petition requesting the municipality to provide the service" for "after the expiration of 5 years, the municipality may provide such service only if a majority of the residents of the annexed or incorporated area request in writing to the municipality that such service be provided by the municipality"; in (2), after "incorporated area or", inserted "after the expiration of 5 years", after "residents" substituted "sign a petition requesting" for "request", and near end substituted "provide" for "assume sole jurisdiction for"; and inserted (3) relating to adequate motor carrier service.

Preamble: The preamble to Ch. 381, L. 1987, which amended this section, provided: "WHEREAS, the Montana Supreme Court, in D & F Sanitation Service v. Billings, [219] Mont. [437], 713 P.2d 977, 43 St. Rep. 74 (1986), interpreted section 7-2-4736, MCA; and

WHEREAS, the Supreme Court's interpretation of the section was contrary to the commonly understood intent of the statute and results in an unwieldy provision of services."

Case Notes

Adoption of Self-Government Charter — Doctrine of Implied Preemption: Appellant garbage haulers contended that the Legislature preempted the field of garbage regulation by enacting 7-2-4736. Powers specifically denied to local governments are enumerated in 7-1-111 and include the exercise of any power that prohibits the grant or denial of a certificate of public convenience and necessity. Under 69-12-314, garbage haulers are required to get a certificate of public convenience and necessity prior to doing business. The decision by Billings voters that the city should provide garbage services in no way prohibits the grant or denial of a certificate of public necessity. The Supreme Court held that the city was simply exercising its self-government powers to provide a service for its residents and was taxing them for that service. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Billings, 219 M 437, 713 P2d 977, 43 St. Rep. 74 (1986), overruling Billings v. Weatherwax, 193 M 163, 630 P2d 1216, 38 St. Rep. 1034 (1981).

Annexation — Preservation of Existing Garbage Service — Constitutionality: The city of Billings contended that 7-2-4736 was a special or local act which violated Art. V, sec. 12, Mont. Const. The Supreme Court determined that the legislative purpose of the section to encourage private garbage service to unannexed areas was a sufficiently important governmental interest to justify the classification; hence, 7-2-4736 was held to be a general law which does not violate Art. V, sec. 12, Mont. Const. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Billings, 219 M 437, 713 P2d 977, 43 St. Rep. 74 (1986).

Classification Rationally Related to Governmental Interest: The city of Billings alleged that 7-2-4736 violated Art. II, sec. 4, Mont. Const., by placing a greater tax on annexed taxpayers than on unannexed taxpayers, thereby denying equal protection to both classes of taxpayers. The court found that the classification of people in annexed areas using private garbage services prior to annexation bears a rational relation to the governmental purpose of encouraging private garbage service in unannexed areas. Therefore, 7-2-4736 was held to be constitutional under Art. II, sec. 4, Mont. Const. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Billings, 219 M 437, 713 P2d 977, 43 St. Rep. 74 (1986).

Franchise Not Irrevocable — Constitutionality: On cross-appeal, respondent city of Billings contended that 7-2-4736 violated Art. II, sec. 31, Mont. Const., because it granted an irrevocable franchise to appellant private garbage haulers. The Supreme Court agreed that 7-2-4736 conferred a special privilege or franchise upon the garbage haulers, but noted that the franchise was not an irrevocable one within the meaning of Art. II, sec. 31, Mont. Const., since the privilege could be terminated by either a showing that the private carrier was unable or refused to provide adequate service or by written request of a majority of residents after a set period of time.

Therefore, 7-2-4736 was held to be constitutional under Art. II, sec. 31, Mont. Const. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Billings, 219 M 437, 713 P2d 977, 43 St. Rep. 74 (1986).

Interpretation of Statute — Customers After Annexation: The Supreme Court upheld the District Court's interpretation of this section (prior to 1987 amendment), which interpretation stated that in the event of annexation, a private garbage carrier may continue to provide services only to those customers it had prior to annexation. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Billings, 219 M 437, 713 P2d 977, 43 St. Rep. 74 (1986).

Property Owners Barred From Amending Petition — Rules of Civil Procedure Inapplicable: The plaintiff property owners filed a petition for review of an annexation ordinance before the 30-day statutory deadline. However, the plaintiffs initially filed the petition without a majority of real property owners, instead naming John Does 1-200. The plaintiffs eventually amended the petition by including more property owners pursuant to the Montana Rules of Civil Procedure. The District Court dismissed the petition, holding that the plaintiffs failed to meet the 30-day deadline and rejecting the amendment of the petition. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that the Rules of Civil Procedure do not supersede the provisions of statutes relating to appeals to or review by the District Courts. Case Notes

Compliance With Statutory Annexation Provisions Required — Standard of Review: Municipal annexation statutes contain numerous and detailed requirements for a city to annex property, some of which charge city planners to make subjective value judgments and statements of opinion, especially those concerning plans for the future. Pursuant to Gregory v. Forsyth, 187 M 132, 609 P2d 248 (1980), and Nilson Enterprises, Inc. v. Great Falls, 190 M 341, 621 P2d 466 (1980), the cardinal considerations for requiring substantial compliance with the annexation laws are public notice and participation, particularly for those affected by a proposed annexation. If all of the substantive and procedural requirements are included and complied with by a municipality, the law will have been followed, and if each of the statutory mandates that contain a subjective component are considered and included in the required plans, notice and the opportunity to participate are considered proper. Thus, compliance with annexation statutes must be complete and must be substantial when a statute requires a municipality to exercise discretion in making planning decisions. If there are no disputed issues of fact, the Supreme Court will review a District Court's decision on whether there was compliance with the law de novo. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

Former Law: Prior to the enactment of this section, the exclusive manner of annexation was through statutory provisions and failure to substantially comply with such provisions defeated annexation. Gregory v. Forsyth, 187 M 132, 609 P2d 248, 37 St. Rep. 277 (1980); Balock v. Melstone, 186 M 303, 607 P2d 545, 37 St. Rep. 288 (1980).

Refusal of Deannexation by City Council — Claims Preclusion Proper: The plaintiffs successfully petitioned the defendant, a city, to have their property annexed to the city. Five years later, the plaintiffs sought to have the same property deannexed, which the defendant denied. The plaintiffs filed a lawsuit against the defendant, which the District Court dismissed because the complaint had not been timely served and the statute of limitations for the plaintiffs' claims barred them from being refiled. One month after the District Court's ruling, the plaintiffs filed another suit against the defendant, and the District Court granted summary judgment in favor of the defendant, holding that claims preclusion barred the plaintiffs' second suit. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that the four-part test for claims preclusion had been satisfied. Schweitzer v. Whitefish, 2016 MT 254, 385 Mont. 142, 383 P.3d 735.

Special Election on Alternative Form of Government — Study Commission to Recommend Adoption: Under 7-3-187, a special election on an alternative form of government is scheduled only if the study commission recommends an alternative. Therefore, a local government study commission may not have an alternative form of local government placed on the ballot unless the study commission recommends adoption of the alternative plan. 41 A.G. Failure to Adopt Alternate Form of Government — Statutory Basis of Government: A local government which fails in an election to adopt an alternate form of government in the manner provided by Art. XI, sec. 3 and 9, Mont. Const., is bound by the features of the existing form of government. The provisions of 7-3-201 through 7-3-224 allow voters to adopt a mayor-council structure with either partisan or nonpartisan elections. The procedures for recommending such a change are set forth in 7-3-121 through 7-3-161 and 7-3-171 through 7-3-193. If a nonpartisan election structure is not adopted, local elections must be conducted on a partisan basis after May 2, 1977, under the provisions of 7-3-113. 41 A.G. Op. 37 (1985).

2017 Amendment: Chapter 242 inserted (2)(b) regarding local government ordinance; inserted (2)(c) regarding study commission recommendation; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 3, 2017.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) after "local government" inserted "as provided in 7-3-149" and deleted former second sentence that read: "To be effective, a proposed amendment must receive an affirmative vote of a majority of the electors voting on the question"; and in (2) substituted "proposed by petition as provided in 7-3-125" for "proposed by initiative by petition of 15% of the electors registered at the last general election of the local government or by ordinance enacted by the governing body. The question on amendment of a charter or an adopted alternative form of government must be submitted to the electors at the next regular or primary election". Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (2), at end, substituted "submitted to the electors at the next regular or primary election" for "submitted to the electors as soon as possible after the submission of a petition or enactment of a resolution, either at a regularly scheduled election or at a special election"; and made minor changes in style.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 319 in first sentence of (2), after "electors", inserted "registered at the last general election".

Case Notes

Form of Government Unchanged by Recodification: The relevant portions of 7-3-102, et seq., contain the same essential characteristics of form of government as were presented under the former codification. Therefore, constitutional mandates were observed and an alternative and the established (whether called "present" or "existing") forms were presented to the electors for their choice. Schuman v. Study Comm'n of Yellowstone County, 176 M 313, 578 P2d 291 (1978).

Attorney General's Opinions

Election on Alternative Form of Government — Study Commission to Recommend Adoption: Under 7-3-187, an election on an alternative form of government is scheduled only if the study commission recommends an alternative. Therefore, a local government study commission may not have an alternative form of local government placed on the ballot unless the study commission recommends adoption of the alternative plan. 41 A.G. Attorney General's Opinions Nonapplicability to Proposed Alternative Forms of Government: The structural characteristics of government required by this section were intended to apply if voters did not adopt an alternate form of local government. The section does not apply to proposed alternate forms of government, which may recommend any of the structural characteristics permitted in the local government statutes; therefore, a proposed municipal commission-executive form of government is not restricted by the structural characteristics in this section. 41 A.G. Op. 88 (1986).

Failure to Adopt Alternate Form of Government: A local government which fails in an election to adopt an alternate form of government in the manner provided by Art. XI, sec. 3 and 9, Mont. Const., is bound by the features of the existing form of government. The provisions of 7-3-201 through 7-3-224 allow voters to adopt a mayor-council structure with either partisan or nonpartisan elections. The procedures for recommending such a change are set forth in 7-3-121 through 7-3-161 and 7-3-171 through 7-3-193. If a nonpartisan election structure is not adopted, local elections must be conducted on a partisan basis after May 2, 1977, under the provisions of 7-3-113. 41 A.G. Op. 37 (1985).

Provision Requiring Partisan Elections to Govern: This section provides that if a local government organized under the general statutes authorizing the mayor-council form of government did not adopt a new form of government, then it is governed by certain statutes after May 2, 1977, including 7-3-219(1) (formerly section 47A-3-203(h)(i), R.C.M. 1947), which requires partisan elections. Failure of such local government to adopt a new form of government binds it to the features of the existing government, including partisan elections; however, city officials elected on a nonpartisan basis are considered de facto public officials, and their official acts are regarded as legal. Local elections must be conducted on a partisan basis in the future unless the voters adopt a different plan of government. 41 A.G. Op. 37 (1985).

Appointment of Heads of City Departments by City Council Allowed: The city council in a council-manager form of government may adopt an ordinance pursuant to 7-3-304 authorizing the city council rather than the city manager to appoint the heads of city departments. 45 A.G. Op. 1 (1993).

Increase in Number of City Commissioners — Study Commission Recommendation: A local government study commission may not recommend that the number of City Commissioners be increased from five to seven unless it does so as part of a recommendation to adopt a form of government that permits a seven-member City Commission. 41 A.G. County Government in Transition Period After Vote to Change Form of Government — Not Empowered to Order Special Election on Further Change: In November 1982, the voters in a county voted to change the county form of government from a charter government, provided for in Title 7, ch. 3, part 7, to a commission government, provided for in Title 7, ch. 3, part 4. The new commission government was to take effect in June 1983, after election of new county officers. During the transition period, the existing charter government, in response to a petition filed under 7-3-125, authorized a special election on the question of returning to a charter government. This special election was then challenged in an action for a Writ of Prohibition under Title 27, ch. 27. The Supreme Court upheld the District Court's issuance of the Writ, ruling that placing on the ballot the question of changing the form of county government was in excess of the charter government's jurisdiction. *Allen v. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1981 Amendment: Deleted “or resolution” after “petition” in (3).

Attorney General's Opinions

Required Election Schedule for Nonelected Position: Where the existing office of city treasurer is a nonelected position and the proposed plan of local government calls for an elected city treasurer, the election schedule required by 7-3-160 is to be followed. The exceptions in this section apply only to elected officers. (See 2007 amendment.) 41 A.G. Op. 88 (1986).

Holdover Officers — Exclusive Exceptions: Subsection (3) of 7-3-158 provides the only two exclusive exceptions regarding holdover officers of an existing governing body once a new form of local government has been adopted. If neither exception is provided for by charter or petition, then the general rule in 7-3-158(1) would operate to abolish the prior governing body at the time the new body is elected and qualified for office. (See 2007 amendment.) 41 A.G. Op. 70 (1986).

Increase in Number of County Commissioners — Holdovers — Alteration of District Boundaries: If the electors were to adopt a proposal to increase the number of County Commissioners, all of the incumbent Commissioners would lose their positions unless otherwise required by the adopted plan, pursuant to 7-3-158. If no provision were made for holdovers in the local government study commission plan, they would remain in office only until the newly elected Commissioners take office. However, a study commission proposal is not invalid because it provides for holdover

County Commissioners, even when the proposal alters the commission district boundaries. (See 2007 amendment.) (See 40 A.G. Op. 1 (1983)). 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

Required Election Schedule for Nonelected Position: Where the existing office of city treasurer is a nonelected position and the proposed plan of local government calls for an elected city treasurer, the election schedule required by this section is to be followed. The exceptions in 7-3-158 apply only to elected officers. (See 2007 amendment to 7-3-158.) 41 A.G. Op. 88 (1986).

Study Commission to Establish Election Dates for New Officers: Under 7-3-187(1)(c), a local government study commission, rather than a Board of County Commissioners, is responsible for setting the dates of a special primary and a general election for officers of a new government, if the proposal is approved by the electors. However, the dates must fall within the time periods provided in 7-3-160(2) (decided prior to 1986 amendment). 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

Timetables for Filing Declarations of Nomination and Changing Precinct Boundaries — Study Commission Recommendations: The timetable for filing declarations of nomination found in 13-10-201(6) and the timetable for changing precinct boundaries found in 13-3-102(1) apply to candidates for County Commissioner positions created by the adoption of a local government study commission proposal. 41 A.G. Attorney General's Opinions

Mill Levy Question Precluded on Study Commission Ballot: A local governing body is required to conduct a decennial election on the question of local government review and establishment of a study commission. Prior to 1999, under 7-3-184, a local government under study was also required to appropriate an amount necessary to conduct the study and local governments were allowed a mill levy to do so. However, the 1999 Legislature eliminated a local government's authority to levy for a study commission in favor of a generic mill levy election procedure. Thus, local governments may now choose whether or not to fund study commissions, but any appropriation for that purpose is subject to the mill levy limitations of 15-10-420. The ballot form in 7-3-175 is limited to the single question of establishing a local government study commission, so a local government may not combine a mill levy question with the study commission question. Rather, the mill levy question may be presented pursuant to the general-purpose mill levy election procedure in 15-10-425. 50 A.G. Op. 5 (2004).

Existing Nonelected Study Committee — 1984 Election Required: The question of conducting local government review and establishing a study commission must appear on the June 1984 primary election ballot pursuant to this section, notwithstanding any recommendations made by a nonelected study committee now reviewing a county government or the placing of its recommendations on the ballot. 40 A.G. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 521 in (1) in ballot form in both for and against statement after “establishment” inserted “and funding, not to exceed (insert dollar or mill amount)” and in against statement after “of a” inserted “local government” and at end inserted “consisting of (insert number of members) members to examine the government of (insert name of local government) and submit recommendations on the government”; and made minor changes in style. Service Consolidations Submitted to Governing Bodies: A local government study commission may recommend a change in the form or structure of local government. Recommended changes in structure are to be set forth in the study commission's final report and placed on the ballot for voter approval. A study commission may also recommend a service consolidation or transfer in cooperation with a study commission of another county or municipality. A recommendation to consolidate services is to be set forth in a supplemental report and submitted to the appropriate governing bodies for reaction within 1 year. 41 A.G. Op. 80 (1986).

Special Election on Alternative Form of Government — Study Commission to Recommend Adoption: Under 7-3-187, a special election on an alternative form of government is scheduled only if the study commission recommends an alternative. Therefore, a local government study commission may not have an alternative form of local government placed on the ballot unless the study commission recommends adoption of the alternative plan. 41 A.G. Op. 56 (1986).

Recommendation of Shorter Terms of County Commission Office: A local government study commission may recommend that terms of office for County Commissioners be less than 6 years if the county has adopted the statutory county “commission form” of government. A local government study commission may not recommend that the terms of office for County Commissioners be less than 6 years if the county has retained the form of government organized under the statutes listed in 7-3-111. 41 A.G. Increase in Number of City Commissioners — Study Commission Recommendation: A local government study commission may not recommend that the number of City Commissioners be increased from five to seven unless it does so as part of a recommendation to adopt a form of government that permits a seven-member City Commission. 41 A.G. Holdover Officers — Exclusive Exceptions: Subsection (3) of 7-3-158 provides the only two exclusive exceptions regarding holdover officers of an existing governing body once a new form of local government has been adopted. If neither exception is provided for by charter or petition, then the general rule in 7-3-158(1) would operate to abolish the prior governing body at the time the new body is elected and qualified for office. (See 2007 amendment to 7-3-158.) 41 A.G. Op. 70 (1986).

Increase in Number of County Commissioners — Holdovers — Alteration of District Boundaries: If the electors were to adopt a proposal to increase the number of County Commissioners, all of the incumbent Commissioners would lose their positions unless otherwise required by the adopted plan, pursuant to 7-3-158. If no provision were made for holdovers in the local government study commission plan, they would remain in office only until the newly elected Commissioners take office. However, a study commission proposal is not invalid because it provides for holdover County Commissioners, even when the proposal alters the commission district boundaries. (See 2007 amendment to 7-3-158.) (See 40 A.G. Op. 1 (1983)). 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

Study Commission Recommendations — Effective Date: A local government study commission report that proposes an alternative plan of local government, if approved by the electors, takes effect when the new officers take office unless otherwise provided in any charter or consolidation plan, under 7-3-156(1). A study commission proposal involving the creation of new offices and establishing qualifications for office becomes effective immediately upon adoption of the change by the electors, under 7-3-156(2). An amendment to an existing plan of government, including changing from partisan to nonpartisan elections for officers other than County Commissioners, takes effect at the beginning of the local government’s fiscal year commencing after the election results are officially declared, under 7-3-156(3). (See 2007 amendment to 7-3-156.) 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

Case Notes

Staggered, At-Large Election of County Commissioners Violates Section 2 of Voting Rights Act: The United States Department of Justice brought a civil action against Blaine County, Montana, claiming that the county's adoption of an at-large system of electing County Commissioners violated the Voting Rights Act of 1965 (VRA) (42 U.S.C. 1973) because it allowed block voting of whites against Indian candidates, largely from the Fort Belknap Indian Reservation, thereby excluding Indians from participating equally in the county's political process. The District Court found that there was a violation of section 2 of the VRA, enjoined the county from using the at-large election system, and required the county to adopt a curative plan and implement it. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the U.S. District Court's decision and held: (1) U.S. Supreme Court summary affirmances of lower court decisions may be relied on as precedent, unless circumstances have changed since the court's order; (2) Congress did not exceed its authority in failing to limit the application of section 2 of the VRA to only certain geographic localities found by the Congress to have discriminated against minorities in the past; (3) the VRA was constitutional in its requirement that only a discriminatory result, rather than a discriminatory intent, be found for there to be a violation of the law; (4) the District Court was correct in its conclusion that, taking into consideration the totality of the circumstances existing in Blaine County, an at-large voting system violated section 2 of the VRA; and (5) although the District Court did fail to rule on the reliability of some of the expert witnesses used by the United States, the error was harmless error and would not require the court of appeals to overturn the District Court's judgment. *U.S. v. Staggered, At-Large Election of County Commissioners Violates Section 2 of Voting Rights Act: The United States Department of Justice brought a civil action against Blaine County, Montana, claiming that the county's adoption of an at-large system of electing County Commissioners violated the Voting Rights Act of 1965 (VRA) (42 U.S.C. 1973) because it allowed block voting of whites against Indian candidates, largely from the Fort Belknap Indian Reservation, thereby excluding Indians from participating equally in the county's political process. The District Court found that there was a violation of section 2 of the VRA, enjoined the county from using the at-large election system, and required the county to adopt a curative plan and implement it. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the U.S. District Court's decision and held: (1) U.S. Supreme Court summary affirmances of lower court decisions may be relied on as precedent, unless circumstances have changed since the court's order; (2) Congress did not exceed its authority in failing to limit the application of section 2 of the VRA to only certain geographic localities found by the Congress to have discriminated against minorities in the past; (3) the VRA was constitutional in its requirement that only a discriminatory result, rather than a discriminatory intent, be found for there to be a violation of the law; (4) the District Court was correct in its conclusion that, taking into consideration the totality of the circumstances existing in Blaine County, an at-large voting system violated section 2 of the VRA; and (5) although the District Court did fail to rule on the reliability of some of the expert witnesses used by the United States, the error was harmless error and would not require the court of appeals to overturn the District Court's judgment. *U.S. v. County Government in Transition Period After Vote to Change Form of Government — Not Empowered to Order Special Election to Further Change: In November 1982, the voters in a county voted to change the county form of government from a charter government, provided for in Title 7, ch. 3, part 7, to a commission government, provided for in Title 7, ch. 3, part 4. The new commission government was to take effect in June 1983, after election of new county officers. During the transition period, the existing charter government, in response to a petition filed under 7-3-125, authorized a special election on the question of returning to a charter government. This special election was then challenged in an action for a Writ of Prohibition under Title 27, ch. 27. The Supreme Court upheld the District Court's issuance of the Writ, ruling that placing on the ballot the question of changing the form of county government was in excess of the charter government's jurisdiction. *Allen v. Butte-Silver Bow Self-Government Charter Held Not Superior to Wrongful Discharge From Employment Act: When Babb was appointed the chief executive officer of the Butte-Silver Bow consolidated city-county government, he immediately fired both Johnston and Shea, who had been department heads of the consolidated government for many years. Johnston and Shea then sued Babb for violation of the Wrongful Discharge From Employment Act (WDEA). Babb argued that because the self-government charter of the consolidated government provided that department heads serve "at the pleasure of" the chief executive officer (CEO) of the local government and because self-government charters are superior to statute, Johnston and Shea were "at will" employees to whom the WDEA did not apply. The U.S. Magistrate Judge decided, citing MacMillan v. St. Comp. Ins. Fund, 285 M 202, 947 P2d 75 (1997), that the Montana Supreme Court has held that municipalities operating under self-government charters have limitations as provided in Title 7, ch. 1, part 1, which the self-government charter itself cited, and 7-1-111(2), which applies Title 39 to local governments operating with self-government powers. Further, the Magistrate Judge decided that under Art. XI, sec. 5(3), Mont. Const., and Billings Firefighters Local 521 v. Billings, 1999 MT 6, 293 M 41, 973 P2d 222 (1999), the language of the self-government charter requiring department heads to serve "at the pleasure of" the CEO is not such a part of the structure and organization of local government that it is superior to statute. For these reasons, the Magistrate Judge decided that the WDEA did apply to the firing of Johnston and Shea and that they therefore could not be fired without good cause and granted Johnston and Shea's motion for summary judgment. Johnston v. Babb, Cause No. CV-05-03-BU-CSO (D. Mont. 2005).

Establishment of Refuse Disposal District by County With Self-Governing Power: Title 7, ch. 13, part 2 (now repealed), is not mandatory upon a county charter form of government when it establishes a refuse disposal district and system. That part applies to the establishment of a refuse disposal district by governments that are of general power status, not those with self-government status. Title 7, ch. 13, part 2 (now repealed), does not direct or require a local government to provide a service within the meaning of 7-1-114. Clopton v. Madison County Comm'n, 216 M 335, 701 P2d 347, 42 St. Rep. 851 (1985).

Case Notes

Suspension of Firefighters — All Cities Required to Present Charges to City Council for Hearing — Suspension Procedure Not Part of "Structure" of City Government Under Applicable Definitions — Statute Not Superseded by Charter: Elsenpeter, a Billings firefighter, was suspended from duty by the Billings fire chief. The firefighters' union filed a lawsuit in which the union contended that the suspension procedure used by the city was unlawful because the charges against Elsenpeter were not presented to the Billings City Council for hearing pursuant to 7-33-4124. The city contended that the suspension procedure that it used is part of the structure and organization of the city under its charter and that, pursuant to Art. XI, sec. 5, Mont. Const., and subsection (2) of this section, which allow the structure of a chartered city government to supersede statutory requirements, the city may override the statutory requirements for hearing contained in 7-33-4124 because the definition of "structure" contained in 7-1-4121(24) is the definition that should apply. The Supreme Court held that in as much as the definitions in 7-1-4121 are, by the terms of that section, limited in their application to 7-1-4121 through 7-1-4149, the dictionary definition of "structure" is the definition that applies. Because the dictionary definition of structure was narrower, the Supreme Court held that the disciplinary suspension procedure used by the city was not part of the "structure" of city government. Therefore, the Supreme Court held that the statutory procedure contained in 7-33-4124, requiring presentment of the charges to the City Council, was not superseded by the city charter and had to be followed for the purposes of the suspension of Elsenpeter. Billings Firefighters Local 521 v. Billings, 1999 MT 6, 293 M 41, 973 P2d 222, 56 St. Rep. 23 (1999). Billings Firefighters Local 521 II was followed, as to the power of a consolidated local government CEO to fire government employees not being considered a part of

Attorney General's Opinions

Combination of Legislative and Executive Powers Under Charter County Government: Under this section, a charter may provide that the executive and administrative functions of the government will be performed by one or more members of the legislative body, which clearly allows the entire legislative body or commission to perform the executive functions. Accordingly, a county charter may provide that the legislative body or commission will perform the executive functions in addition to its legislative duties. The language of the charter determines whether the executive functions are performed by one or all of the members of the legislative body or commission. 46 A.G. Op. 14 (1996).

Authority of City-County Government to Acquire and Operate Electric and Natural Gas Utilities: A consolidated government with self-government powers, such as the city and county of Butte-Silver Bow, has the authority to acquire and operate electric and natural gas utilities both within and outside the boundaries of the local government unit. The Attorney General determined that Butte-Silver Bow was specifically authorized to do so after considering the local government's charter, constitutional ramifications, and whether the exercise of that authority was prohibited by local government law or other statutes applicable to self-government units and was consistent with state provisions in areas affirmatively subjected to state control, as described in 7-1-113. 48 A.G. Compiler's Comments

Purpose for Representation in Legislature: Article VI, sec. 5, 1889 Mont. Const. (repealed effective Dec. 6, 1966), provided that each county was entitled to at least one state Senator. There is no similar provision in the 1972 Montana Constitution.

7-3-1204. Petition for city-county consolidated government — election required.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2) substituted “7-5-132 through 7-5-135 and 7-5-137” for “7-5-132 through 7-5-137”. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Case Notes

Determination of Sufficiency of Petition: The question of the sufficiency of a petition, filed under subsection (1) (prior to amendment by sec. 3, Ch. 262, L. 1979), requesting the calling of a county election submitting the proposition of the consolidation of the county and all cities and towns into one municipal corporation, is to be determined by the County Clerk and not the Board of County Commissioners, and when he certifies the petition as sufficient, it is the clear duty of the Board to order an election unless the petition is void on its face. State ex rel. Freeze v. Taylor, 90 M 439, 4 P2d 479 (1931).

7-3-1205. Certification of petition — board action — election.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2) substituted “an election” for “a special election” and substituted last sentence concerning conduct of election for “The order must specify that the election will be held in conjunction with the next regular or primary election. The board of county commissioners shall issue a proclamation setting forth the purpose for which the special election is held and the date of holding the election. The proclamation must be published in the manner prescribed by 13-1-108”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (2), at end of first sentence, deleted “shall be submitted to the registered electors of the county”, at end of second sentence substituted “in conjunction with the next regular or primary election” for “which shall be not less than 90 or more than 120 days from and after the day when such order is made, and”, and in third sentence, after “shall”, deleted “immediately upon making such order”; and made minor changes in style.

7-3-1206. Form of ballot.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted “The ballot for an election pursuant to 7-3-1205 shall present the following question” for “At such election the ballots to be used shall be printed on plain white paper, shall conform as nearly as possible to the ballots used in general elections, and shall have printed thereon the following”. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

7-3-1208. Election of commission upon favorable vote.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) substituted “an election” for “a special election”, substituted “in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 4” for “in conjunction with the next regular or primary election”, near end substituted “date” for “time”, and deleted last two sentences that read: “The board of county commissioners, immediately upon making the order, shall issue a proclamation setting forth the purpose for which the special election is held and the date of holding the election. The proclamation must be published in the manner prescribed by 13-1-108”; in (2) at end of first sentence deleted “for members of the commission to be voted for at the special election” and substituted last sentence concerning filing declaration for “The candidates must be nominated directly by a petition that is in substantially the same form and signed by the same number of signers as required for primary nominating petitions. The election must be conducted, the vote must be returned and canvassed, and the result must be declared in the same manner as provided by law in respect to general elections”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1), in first sentence near middle after “held”, inserted “in conjunction with the next regular or primary election” and in second sentence, after “held”, deleted “which shall be not less than 90 or more than 120 days after the day when such order is made; provided, however, that if any general election is to be held in such county after 3 months but within 6 months from the date of the making of such order, then such order shall require such special election to be held at the same time as such general election”; and made minor changes in style.

7-3-1209. Resolution declaring creation of consolidated government.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) in first sentence in two places substituted reference to election for reference to special election; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

7-3-1214. Consolidated municipality commission.

Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 128 in (1) deleted second sentence that read: “For the purpose of determining the number of members composing the commission, consolidated municipalities organized under the provisions of this part and part 13 shall be classified and all of the provisions of 7-1-2111 and 7-1-2112 govern and control the classification of the consolidated municipalities”; in (2)(a) after “municipalities” substituted “having a taxable valuation of $50 million or more” for “of the first class”; in (2)(b) after “municipalities” substituted “having a taxable valuation of $12.5 million or more and less than $50 million” for “of the second class, third class, or fourth class”; in (2)(c) substituted “municipalities having a taxable valuation of less than $12.5 million” for “municipalities of the fifth class, sixth class, or seventh class”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2011.

7-3-1215. Qualifications for commission.

1985 Amendment: In (1) substituted “the first Monday of January” for “July 1”; and in two places in (2) substituted “when their successors are elected and qualified” for “on June 30”.

7-3-1218. Meetings of commission.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1)(a) substituted “general” for “regular”; in (1)(b) before first “election” deleted “special” and near end substituted “their election” for “such special election”; in (2) substituted “meet as prescribed” for “meet at such times as may be prescribed” and in last sentence in two places before “meeting” inserted “special”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Composite Section: This section was amended by Ch. 262 and Ch. 571, L. 1979, and a composite section was prepared by the Code Commissioner, 1979. Chapter 262 was a Code Commissioner bill and was not intended to make substantive changes in the law. Consequently a conflict of language in subsection (1) between Ch. 262 and Ch. 571 has been resolved in favor of the language used in Ch. 571.

7-3-1219. Organization and officers of commission.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 29 in (2) near middle of first sentence after "aggregate" substituted "that exceeds 1.51% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111, within the municipality" for "exceeding 28% of the taxable value of the taxable property therein"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1981 Amendment: Changed "The municipality shall not" to "The municipality may not" at the beginning of (2); and substituted "exceeding 28% of the taxable value" for "exceeding 5% of the value" in the middle of (2).

Validation: Section 64, Ch. 614, L. 1981, provided: "Notwithstanding any provisions of this act, any outstanding indebtedness or bond issue on January 1, 1982, of any governmental subdivision is not invalidated because of any changes in the taxable valuation of the subdivision due to removal of automobiles and trucks having a rated capacity of three-quarters of a ton or less from the tax base."

Effect of 1981 Amendment: The primary purpose of Ch. 614, L. 1981, was to replace the system of taxation of automobiles and light trucks with a fee system. With the adoption of the fee system, automobiles and light trucks are no longer taxable property. The resulting loss of taxable valuation has a direct effect on the amount of indebtedness a political subdivision can incur. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

Case Notes

City Gross Revenue Franchise Fee on Facilities Using Public Right-of-Way Illegal Tax on Goods and Services: The city of Billings by ordinance established a franchise fee on several public utilities and telecommunications corporations with facilities located in the public right-of-way, and the utilities challenged the fee. The District Court held that the fee constituted an unlawful tax, and the city appealed. Despite the fact that the ordinance was subsequently rejected by voters, rendering the issue moot, the Supreme Court noted that the issue was capable of repetition and therefore accepted jurisdiction of the issue as appropriate in order to finally settle the legality of such fees in case similar ordinances were brought forth in the future. The fee in question was characterized as a franchise fee based on 4% of gross annual revenue generated by each utility that occupied the public right-of-way within the city. However, money collected was not earmarked for right-of-way maintenance or regulation, but was to be used to reduce general property taxes and to fund transportation improvement projects, public safety operations, and park maintenance, and the fee was separate from the city's police power over streets and alleys. The Supreme Court agreed that the unilaterally imposed, revenue-generating gross revenue fee, which was unrelated to the use or occupancy of the right-of-way, was in fact a tax based exclusively on the sale of a product or service within the city and was thus prohibited pursuant to 7-1-112. *Mont.-Dak. Attorney General's Opinions

Town With Weak-Mayor Government Not Authorized to Adopt Statutory Quorum Provisions: A town with a weak-mayor form of municipal government does not have authority to adopt by ordinance the quorum provisions of this section. Those provisions would conflict with 7-5-4121, which states that a majority of the members of the town council constitute a quorum and does not include the mayor as a member of the town council for the determination. 47 A.G. Op. 20 (1998).

7-3-4222. Adoption of ordinances — petition to protest — election.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2) in middle substituted “protesting against the ordinance and signed by at least 25% of the qualified electors of the city registered for the last preceding general city election” for “signed by electors of the city equal in number to at least 25% of the entire number of persons registered to vote at the last preceding general municipal election, protesting against the passage of the ordinance” and substituted “in an election conducted in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 4” for “either at a general election or at a special municipal election held in conjunction with a regular or primary election”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (2), at end of third sentence after “municipal”, substituted “election held in conjunction with a regular or primary election” for “election to be called for that purpose”; and made minor changes in style.

1981 Amendment: Deleted references to the provisions of 7-3-4224; made minor changes in grammar, punctuation, and phraseology.

Case Notes

Application to Commission City: The fact that a city has adopted the commission form of government does not render an ordinance or resolution, enacted as required in subsection (1), any the less indispensable as a part of the proceedings for the creation of an improvement district. Shapard v. Missoula, 49 M 269, 141 P 544 (1914).

Case Notes

Removal of Chief of Fire Department: The chief of a fire department of a city operating under the commission form of government was removed by the Council, his name, however, being restored to the roll of members, thus entitling him to the safeguards afforded him as such member under the civil service rules of 7-33-4121 through 7-33-4131. He later was suspended under this section, but a hearing on his appeal was not accorded him. Held, that failure to hear his appeal rendered the order of suspension of no effect, automatically reinstated him, and entitled him to compensation during the period of his suspension. State ex rel. Daly v. Dryburgh, 62 M 36, 203 P 508 (1921).

Removal of Police Officer:

A police officer may be suspended or discharged for neglect of duty or disobedience of orders by the Chief of Police under this section, subject to review by the Superintendent of the Police Department, from whose order of approval the accused may appeal to the City Council or the Police Commission, under 7-32-4155 through 7-32-4164, upon charges filed with it, a copy of which must be furnished to him. State ex rel. Lease v. Wilkinson, 59 M 327, 196 P 878 (1921).

Where an acting Chief of Police merely recommended to the Council that a police officer be removed from office but did not actually suspend or discharge him, in conformity with this section, there was no order from which he could appeal, and his attempted appeal was ineffectual for any purpose. State ex rel. Lease v. Wilkinson, 59 M 327, 196 P 878 (1921).

Sections Not Codified: Section 11-3325, R.C.M. 1947, relating to municipal officers at the time Ch. 152, L. 1917, went into effect, was not codified. It is still valid law. It may be referred to as sec. 112, Ch. 152, L. 1917.

Section 11-3327, R.C.M. 1947, a saving clause, was not codified. This section has not been repealed and is still valid law. It may be referred to as sec. 114, Ch. 152, L. 1917.

7-3-4301. Authorization for commission-manager form of municipal government.Attorney General's Opinions

Vacation of Street by Mayor-Council Government — Legal Effect on City's Interest in Street: Under 7-14-4114, a municipality has the authority to close all or part of a street to through traffic without giving up its legal interest in the street or to vacate all or part of the street and revoke its legal interest in it. A municipality with a mayor-council form of government is bound by the procedures in 7-14-4114 rather than by 7-3-4448, which applies only to commission-manager forms of government, when it seeks to discontinue, close, or vacate a street. The choice between vacating a street and closing a street is a matter for the discretion of the municipal officers of a mayor-council form of government. 46 A.G. Op. 4 (1995), clarifying Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802 (1979).

7-3-4302. Construction.Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 214 in (2) after "public service commission" deleted "and any order made, action taken, or regulation provided by the commission shall supersede and nullify any order, regulation, ordinance, or other action authorized by this part or part 44 in conflict with any such order, regulation, or action of said public service commission. However, the annual report relating to the operation of a public utility owned by a municipality operating under this part and part 44 to be made to the public service commission shall conform to the fiscal year of the city or town"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

7-3-4305. Petition to organize under commission-manager form — election required.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) substituted "order an election" for "order a special election" and substituted "in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 4" for "in conjunction with a regular or primary election"; in (2) inserted "pursuant to 13-1-405"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1), near end of first sentence after "shall", deleted "within 30 days" and after "held" inserted "in conjunction with a regular or primary election"; in (2), at end after "held", deleted "which may not be less than 75 or more than 90 days from the date of the order of the council"; and made minor changes in style.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 319 near beginning of (1) decreased percentage of necessary petition signatures from 25% to 15% of qualified electors; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: At end of (2) substituted "no less than 75 and no more than 90 days from the date of the order of the council" for "within 90 days from the date of filing of such petition".

Case Notes

Filing: Filing petition seeking to reorganize city government with City Clerk is equivalent to filing with the City Council. The city must hold the election petitioned for within 90 days (see 1995 amendment) of initial filing with City Clerk. State ex rel. Espelin v. Great Falls, 160 M 135, 500 P2d 1194 (1972).

Attorney General's Opinions

Qualified Electors — Petitions: Petitions for a city election for reorganization under this section require the signatures of presently qualified electors totally not less than 25% of the number of qualified electors registered for the last preceding general municipal election. 34 A.G. Op. 49 (1972).

7-3-4307. Form of ballot.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted "At an election under 7-3-4305, the ballots to be used must be headed "Election for the purpose" for "At such election, the ballots to be used shall be printed on plain white paper and shall be headed "Special election for the purpose"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2) substituted "failed" for "shall not be adopted at such special election" and after "electors" deleted "of such municipality"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

7-3-4310. Election for municipal officers after reorganization.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) in first sentence substituted "order an election" for "order a special election", substituted "in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 4" for "in conjunction with a regular or primary election", inserted "which must be in accordance with 13-1-405", and substituted last two sentences of (1) regarding first election of officers for "The mayor shall issue a proclamation setting forth the purpose for which the special election is held and the day of holding the election. The proclamation must be published for 10 successive days in each daily newspaper published in the municipality if there is a daily newspaper or for 2 successive weeks in each weekly newspaper published in the municipality. A copy of the proclamation must also be posted at each voting place within the municipality and in five of the most public places in the municipality"; substituted current text in (2) and (3) regarding subsequent election of officers and notice and posting of copies for former text that read: "(2) The election must be conducted, the vote must be canvassed, and the result must be declared in the same manner as provided by law for other municipal elections.

(3) The provisions of 7-3-4341 are to be followed in the special election, except that the date of the election must be in conjunction with a regular or primary election held before the special election"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1), in first sentence after "favor of", substituted "reorganization" for "such proposition" and after "held" inserted "in conjunction with a regular or primary election" and in second sentence, at end, deleted "which must be no less than 75 or more than 90 days after the making of such order"; in (3) substituted "election must be in conjunction with a regular or primary election held" for "primary election shall be at least 85 days"; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: In (1) in second sentence, substituted "no less than 75 or more than 90 days" for "within 90 days"; and in (3) substituted "85 days" for "30 days".

1981 Amendment: In (3), substituted "7-3-4341 are" for "[7-3-4345 through 7-3-4347] and [7-3-4349(1)] are specifically"; deleted "The provisions of [7-3-4350] shall be applicable to subsection (2)" from the end of (3).

7-3-4311. Procedure for multimunicipality organization — petition — election — elector qualifications.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) at end substituted "ordering an election to be held in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 4" for "ordering a special election to be held in conjunction with a regular or primary election"; in (3) substituted "qualified electors" for "legal voters"; in (4) substituted current language requiring notice pursuant to 13-1-108 for former language that read: "shall give notice for 30 days in a newspaper published within the proposed municipal district or, if a newspaper is not published in the proposed district, by posting notices in six public places within the limits of the district of the time and place or places of holding the first election for commissioners of the municipal district under this law"; in (5) substituted current language concerning conduct of elections for former language that read: "At the election, all electors qualified by the general election laws of the state who have resided within the limits of the municipal district for 6 months are qualified electors. The board of county commissioners shall appoint judges and clerks of election and canvass and declare the result of the election. The election must be held in conjunction with a regular or primary election and must be conducted in the manner prescribed by law for the election of county officers"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1), near beginning after "unincorporated", deleted "which are situated in such proximity or location with reference to each other as to make single municipal control necessary or desirable, shall" and at end inserted "in conjunction with a regular or primary election"; in (2), in second sentence after "held", deleted "which must be no less than 75 or more than 90 days from the date of filing such petition"; in (3), in fourth sentence, inserted "must be held in conjunction with a regular or primary election and"; and made minor changes in style.

City Manager Chief Executive Under Commissioner-Manager Form of Government: The city manager filed an order confirming the recommendation of the police commission directing the permanent discharge of a police officer. A few days later, the Mayor signed an order to retain the police officer subject to certain conditions and limitations. The city filed a declaratory judgment action appealing the decision of the Mayor. The District Court held that under 7-32-4153 the city manager, rather than the Mayor, was the proper party to review the decision of the police commission. The Supreme Court affirmed the District Court decision and held that under the commissioner-manager form of government, the city manager, not the Mayor, is the chief executive with power to affirm, modify, or veto decisions of the police commission. *Raynes v. Case Notes

Resolution Creating Special Improvement District — Not Subject to Referendum: A resolution creating a municipal special improvement district that encompasses less area than the municipal limits is not subject to referendum because the resolution affects only the people within the improvement district rather than the people of the municipality as a whole. The Supreme Court further held that the resolution creating a special improvement district is part of an administrative procedure, not a legislative action subject to referendum. Shelby v. Sandholm, 208 M 77, 676 P2d 178, 41 St. Rep. 186 (1984), distinguished in The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Authority of Board of County Commissioners to Approve Subdivisions Within Three-Mile Area Outside Corporate Limits: The city of Bozeman sought a reversal of 43 A.G. Op. 26 (1989), in which the Attorney General held that the Board of County Commissioners has final authority to approve subdivisions that are within the 3-mile area immediately outside the corporate limits of the city when the city has a commission-manager form of government. Bozeman asserted that 76-2-312 was not a limitation on the authority of commission-manager governments but rather an acknowledgement by the Legislature that such municipal governments already had extraterritorial subdivision authority under this section and that 76-2-312 exempted cities with a commission-manager form of government from procedural requirements that other forms of municipal government have to follow in order to exercise their extraterritorial subdivision authority. However, this section does not refer to the city commission, but instead clearly provides that the authority granted is to the city director of public services to ensure that the involved plat complies with platting regulations. If the plat complies, the director must approve it. The District Court properly found that 76-2-312 took away the extraterritorial subdivision authority over subdivisions that Bozeman, as a commission-manager form of government, would otherwise have had under 76-2-310 and 76-2-311. Bozeman v. Racicot, 253 M 204, 832 P2d 767, 49 St. Rep. 435 (1992).

Authority of County Commissioners to Approve Subdivisions Under Commission-Manager Government: The Board of County Commissioners has final authority to approve subdivisions that are within the 3-mile area immediately outside the corporate limits of the city when the city has a commission-manager form of government. 43 A.G. Op. 26 (1989).

Compiler's Comments

1983 Amendment: In (2), after "persons" deleted "whose" and inserted "who are owners or purchasers under contracts for deed of"; and after "property" inserted "that".

Case Notes

Closure Versus Vacation: Closure and vacation are not synonymous. The former merely alters the use of a street, while the latter effects the vacation of the city's legal interest in the street. Therefore, a city may close a street without meeting the notice requirements of 7-3-4448 if it complies with the notice requirements of 7-14-4114, and in such a case the requirement of 7-3-4448 that the right of access be maintained does not apply. Further, there is no reversion to the lot owners of half the closed street since the city retains its rights in the street. Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802, 36 St. Rep. 1589 (1979).

Standing: Plaintiffs whose property abutted a portion of the street affected had standing to bring action to invalidate ordinance vacating street for parking facilities, even though plaintiffs' property did not abut portion of street vacated. Kemmer v. Bozeman, 158 M 354, 492 P2d 211 (1971).

Attorney General's Opinions

Vacation of Street by Mayor-Council Government — Legal Effect on City's Interest in Street: Under 7-14-4114, a municipality has the authority to close all or part of a street to through traffic without giving up its legal interest in the street or to vacate all or part of the street and revoke its legal interest in it. A municipality with a mayor-council form of government is bound by the procedures in 7-14-4114 rather than by this section, which applies only to commission-manager forms of government, when it seeks to discontinue, close, or vacate a street. The choice between vacating a street and closing a street is a matter for the discretion of the municipal officers of a mayor-council form of government. 46 A.G. Op. 4 (1995), clarifying Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802 (1979).

Section Not Codified: Section 11-3271.2, R.C.M. 1947, relating to initial election of the City Judge, was not codified because it was temporary. This section is still valid law and has not been repealed. It may be referred to as sec. 3, Ch. 219, L. 1977. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

Case Notes

Termination at Will Unconstitutional: Former provision of this section which allowed termination of a Police Judge at the will of the City Commission was unconstitutional as a violation of the mandate of the doctrine of separation of powers. State ex rel. Morales v. City Comm'n, 174 M 237, 570 P2d 887 (1977). (Annotator's Note: The constitutional infirmity was corrected by amendment effective April 4, 1977.)

Attorney General's Opinions

Term of Appointment of Vacancy in Office of City Judge — Commission-Manager Form of Government: Under the specific provisions of this section, a person who is appointed to fill a vacancy in the office of City Judge under a commission-manager form of city government shall serve the remainder of the existing term. 52 A.G. Op. 2 (2007).

Appointment of City Judge by Third-Class City: Under 7-4-4102, the governing body of a third-class city has the authority to determine by ordinance how a City Judge is selected. However, nothing in statute precludes the city from amending the ordinance in order to provide for the election of the judge. Therefore, when a city of the third class adopts a commission-manager form of government, the city is not bound by this section, which requires election of a City Judge, but may continue to appoint its judge under an ordinance passed pursuant to 7-4-4102. 45 A.G. 1995 Amendment: Chapter 216 in (1), in first sentence after "business", substituted "during the office hours determined by the governing body by resolution after a public hearing and only if consented to by any affected elected county officer" for "continuously from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m." and deleted second sentence that read: "Every officer shall keep his office open at such other times as the accommodation of the public or the proper transaction of business requires"; in (3), at end, deleted "that are different from the days and times required by subsection (1)"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Special Session Amendment: In (1), after "requires", deleted "except county"; in (2), at beginning, inserted "County" and after "city treasurers" deleted "who in their discretion"; inserted (3) allowing third-class cities and towns to establish the days and times municipal offices are open; and made minor changes in phraseology and form. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

Attorney General's Opinions

Secretarial Services for Private Practice of County Attorney: A secretary employed by the county to assist a County Attorney may work on the County Attorney's private business during time when the secretary's services are not needed on county business. The County Attorney must account for the time that the secretary spends on private business and reimburse the county for any county-compensated time spent on the County Attorney's private business. A claim by a County Attorney for secretarial services reasonably required for the conduct of the County Attorney's official duties is a legitimate claim against the county. The reasonableness of the claim is a question of fact vested in the sound discretion of the county governing body. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995). See also 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996), in which the Attorney General held that a County Attorney may not compel the County Commissioners to authorize the hiring as a county employee of a legal secretary for the County Attorney absent a showing that any other arrangement would prevent the County Attorney from performing the minimum statutory duties.

Establishment of City Court Office Hours by Governing Body: Subsection (3) of this section permits the governing body of a third-class city or town to set the office hours of the City Court at times other than between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, except on Sundays and other legal holidays. (See 1995 amendment.) 43 A.G. Op. 61 (1990).

Legality of Evening City Court Hours: A City Judge is not prohibited by 3-1-301, 3-1-302, or 3-11-101 from establishing regular sessions of the court during evening hours as long as regular sessions are not convened on Sundays or other legal holidays and the court is open for business on judicial days. These sections place no limitations on the hours of business. Although this section requires that City Court offices be open for business continuously from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on weekdays, this does not prohibit a City Judge from setting office hours after 5 p.m. on weekdays. As long as the office is open during the required hours for the transaction of business, such as the filing of court documents with the clerk, the City Judge may set additional hours for regular court sessions. (See 1995 amendment.) 43 A.G. Op. 61 (1990).

City Not Authorized to Reduce Office Hours: The phrase "unless otherwise provided by law", as used in this section, does not authorize a city to enact a municipal ordinance reducing the number of hours during which city offices must be open. Subsection (1)(f) of 7-1-114 prohibits a city from reducing its office hours beyond those required by this section. (See 1995 amendment.) 43 A.G. Op. 16 (1989).

Heritage Day — Single Calendar Day Only: The governing body of a political subdivision must schedule the Heritage Day legal holiday on a single calendar day each year. 42 A.G. Op. 22 (1987).

Office Closure When Employees Observe Holidays: Public officer must close on the appropriate day if office employees are entitled to have off the Friday preceding a legal holiday falling on a Saturday or the Monday following a legal holiday falling on a Sunday. 34 A.G. Op. 27 (1971).

Part 21County Commissioners*Part Case NotesManner of Exercising Power:

Where by law the Board of County Commissioners or other county officer is required to do an act but the method of doing it is not provided, any reasonable and suitable means may be adopted for performing it. Ransom v. Pingel, 104 M 119, 65 P2d 616 (1937); Simpson v. Silver Bow County, 87 M 83, 285 P2d 195 (1930); Arnold v. Custer County, 83 M 130, 269 P 396 (1928), distinguished in Judith Basin County ex rel. Vralsted v. Livingston, 89 M 438, 298 P 356 (1931).

Where the Legislature has prescribed with particularity the essential steps necessary to be taken by a county in the exercise of a power granted, the statute must be held to exclude any other mode of procedure, under the doctrine expressio unius est exclusio alterius. Franzke v. Fergus County, 76 M 150, 245 P 962 (1926).

Contracts:

While the Board of County Commissioners is without power to enter into a contract for services the performance of which is cast upon another county official or board, it may contract with a private individual for information relative to matters of taxation to aid it in the performance of its duties as a County Board of Equalization (now County Tax Appeal Board), even though, incidentally, the information received may aid other officials in the performance of their duties, provided the grant power is to be found in the statutes. Simpson v. Silver Bow County, 87 M 83, 285 P 195 (1930).

A contract made by a Board of County Commissioners, a few weeks before the expiration of its term of office and upon the expiration of a prior contract, for county printing for the 2 succeeding years, is valid in the absence of fraud or bad faith in the making and is not against public policy. Picket Publishing Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 36 M 188, 92 P 524 (1907).

A contract with an attorney for his services, entered into by the Chairman of the Board individually, is not binding on the county, since the Commissioners have power to bind the county only where they act as a legal entity. Williams v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 28 M 360, 72 P 755 (1903).

Existence of Power:

The Board of County Commissioners may exercise powers not specifically granted if they are necessarily implied from those granted, and under its implied power it may contract to have work done which is necessary for the proper management of the county's business and the preservation of its property, if the law does not make it the duty of some county officer to do the work. Arnold v. Custer County, 83 M 130, 269 P 396 (1928).

Counties and school districts are subdivisions of the state government with fixed powers and duties, and any act taken by the Commissioners of the former or the trustees of the latter must be justified by the provisions of the statutes defining and limiting their powers. State ex rel. School District v. McGraw, 74 M 152, 240 P 812 (1925).

A Board of County Commissioners is one of limited powers and must in every instance justify its action by reference to the provisions of law defining and limiting these powers. If, however, there is no question of the existence of the power to do the act proposed [decided prior to the adoption of Art. XI, sec. 4(2), Mont. Const.—Annotator], and the mode of its exercise is not pointed out, the Board is left free to use its own discretion in selecting the mode it shall adopt or the course it shall pursue, and the result cannot be called in question if the course pursued is reasonably well adapted to the accomplishment of the end proposed. Hersey v. Neilson, 47 M 132, 131 P 30 (1913); Morse v. Granite County, 44 M 78, 119 P 286 (1911); State ex rel. Gillett v. Cronin, 41 M 293, 109 P 144 (1910); State ex rel. Lambert v. Coad, 23 M 131, 57 P 1092 (1899).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Office of County Commissioner Incompatible With Office of School Trustee: The current nature and duties of the offices of County Commissioner and county high school trustee could give rise to possible conflicts of governmental interest if one person were to retain both offices simultaneously. The Attorney General affirmed the decision in 8 A.G. Op. at 402 (1920), holding that the offices are incompatible in light of the fact that under state law a County Commissioner has certain supervisory powers over a school trustee. However, nothing in state law prohibits an individual from holding one of these offices while seeking the other. 42 A.G. Op. 94 (1988).

Absence of County Commissioner From State: A County Commissioner is subject to the provisions of 7-4-2208 requiring all county officers to secure consent of the Board of County Commissioners before absenting themselves from the state for a period of more than 5 days. 37 A.G. Op. 19 (1977).

1983 Amendment: At end of (1), substituted “primary election” for “general election”.

Case Notes

At-Large Voting System Invalid as Discriminatory: Blaine County, located in north central Montana, is vast and sparsely populated. Its 7,009 residents are spread out over 4,638 square miles, which places the county in the top 5% of counties nationwide in terms of size. American Indians constitute 45.2% of the population and 38.8% of the voting age population, while whites make up 52.6% of the population and 59.4% of the voting age population. The American Indian population is geographically concentrated, with 80% of the county's American Indians residing on the Fort Belknap Reservation. Despite their geographic concentration, no American Indians were ever elected to the Blaine County Commission under the at-large voting system. Under the at-large voting system, the Blaine County Commission consisted of three Commissioners, each of whom was required to reside in one of three different residential districts. Each Commissioner was elected by a majority vote of the entire county, not just by voters in the Commissioner's residential district. The Commissioners served 6-year staggered terms, so that each even-numbered year, one Commissioner stood for election. The United States brought an action under section 2 and section 12(d) of the Voting Rights Act of 1965, challenging the county's at-large voting system. The United States sought a declaration that the existing at-large voting system violated section 2. The United States also sought an injunction to prevent the county from using at-large voting in future elections and to require the county to submit a new districting plan for the District Court's approval. The Supreme Court applied section 2 to multimember districts in Thornburg

v. Gingles, 478 US 30 (1986). In that case, the court held that when plaintiffs challenge at-large voting schemes under section 2, they must prove at a minimum that "a bloc voting majority must usually be able to defeat candidates supported by a politically cohesive, geographically insular minority group". Broken down, this test has three requirements known as the "Gingles factors": (1) compactness; (2) cohesive minority voting; and (3) a bloc voting majority that can usually defeat the minority preferred candidate. If the plaintiff establishes these three factors, the court then must consider whether under the totality of circumstances, the at-large voting system operates to prevent the minority group from participating equally in the political process and electing representatives of its choice. The evidence presented in this case established that Blaine county's at-large voting system violated section 2. U.S. v. Blaine County, 363 F3d 897 (9th Cir. 2004).

Applicability of Deadline to Redistricting: The Supreme Court, in Barthelme v. Bergerson, 218 M 398, 708 P2d 1010, 42 St. Rep. 1685 (1985), ordered the redistricting of Custer County to comply with 7-4-2102, including the provision that "no change in the boundary lines of any commissioner district shall be made within 6 months next preceding a primary election". A primary election was scheduled for June 2, 1986, necessitating a December 2, 1985, deadline for redistricting. On December 3, 1985, the two judges of the district issued a memorandum expressing concern over the inability to create new districts within the time prescribed by 7-4-2102, and not until January 3, 1986, was a redistricting plan reviewed and approved. The Supreme Court noted that the purpose of the deadline was to prevent gerrymandering and to provide sufficient time for candidates for County Commissioner to file for election. The provision should not be construed so as to prevent the formation and filing of districts when, as here, the former districts did not meet the statutory requirements of compactness and equality of population. Strict enforcement of the 6-month provision in this case would prevent the residents from legally electing their Commissioners, disenfranchising the voters and impeding county business. The court stated the concept in 1-3-201 that when the reason for a rule ceases, the reason for its enforcement also ceases. By way of declaratory relief, the court upheld the January 3, 1986, districting plan and allowed the County Commissioners to append to the plan a copy of the court order in lieu of the requirement of 7-4-2103 that the certificate shall be dated and signed by the District Judges. Barthelme v. Bergerson, 220 M 74, 713 P2d 990, 43 St. Rep. 186 (1986).

Equality of Area: Custer County Commissioner district lines were redrawn according to the latest federal census report to achieve simple, identifiable districts as equal in population as possible. No attempt was made to equalize geographic area, as required by this section. The Supreme Court held that the County Commissioners have limited discretion in determining boundaries and mathematical exactness is required only when reasonably possible. However, compliance with the statute requires at least an attempt to equalize both area and population, and hence the new districts are void and the prior districts remain valid until the county is redistricted. Barthelme v. Bergerson, 218 M 398, 708 P2d 1010, 42 St. Rep. 1685 (1985).

Attorney General's Opinions

Eligibility for Election of Person Transferred Into County Commission District Through Reapportionment: A person who is transferred into a County Commission district by virtue of a reapportionment conducted pursuant to this section is not disqualified from standing for election as long as the person has resided at the same address in the new district for the requisite 2-year period set out in 7-4-2104. 49 A.G. Op. 17 (2002).

Increase in Number of County Commissioners — Holdovers — Alteration of District Boundaries: If the electors were to adopt a proposal to increase the number of County Commissioners, all of the incumbent Commissioners would lose their positions unless otherwise required by the adopted plan, pursuant to 7-3-158. If no provision were made for holdovers in the local government study commission plan, they would remain in office only until the newly elected Commissioners take office. However, a study commission proposal is not invalid because it provides for holdover County Commissioners, even when the proposal alters the commission district boundaries. (See 40 A.G. Op. 1 (1983)). 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

Timetables for Filing Declarations of Nomination and Changing Precinct Boundaries — Study Commission Recommendations: The timetable for filing declarations of nomination found in 13-10-201(6) and the timetable for changing precinct boundaries found in 13-3-102(1) apply to candidates for County Commissioner positions created by the adoption of a local government study commission proposal. 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

Bergerson*, 218 M 398, 708 P2d 1010, 42 St. Rep. 1685 (1985), ordered the redistricting of Custer County to comply with 7-4-2102, including the provision that “no change in the boundary lines of any commissioner district shall be made within 6 months next preceding a primary election”. A primary election was scheduled for June 2, 1986, necessitating a December 2, 1985, deadline for redistricting. If the plaintiff establishes these three factors, the court then must consider whether under the totality of circumstances, the at-large voting system operates to prevent the minority group from participating equally in the political process and electing representatives of its choice. The evidence presented in this case established that Blaine county's at-large voting system violated section 2. U.S. v. Blaine County, 363 F3d 897 (9th Cir. 2004).

Separation of Powers Doctrine Not to Preclude Compliance With Employee Grievance Procedure by Justice's Court: A Justice of the Peace involved in a disciplinary action against the court office manager contended that a grievance hearing before the County Commission would violate the separation of powers doctrine by interfering with the independence of the court by requiring the Justice of the Peace to be an adverse witness against court personnel, allowing the Justice of the Peace's decision on personnel matters to be overruled by another branch of government, and possibly requiring the Justice of the Peace to accept an employee believed to be unsatisfactory. However, as established in Hillis v. Sullivan, 48 M 320, 137 P 392 (1913), the hiring by the County Commission of a clerk to assist a court does not violate the separation of powers doctrine. In addition, the County Commission is statutorily required to provide a Justice of the Peace with clerical assistance. Thus, a grievance hearing before the County Commission does not violate the separation of powers doctrine because the County Commission's independent hiring of the office manager is consistent with the doctrine; nor does the County Commission's hearing of the grievance constitute an exercise of authority belonging to the Judicial Branch. Clark v. Dussault, 265 M 479, 878 P2d 239, 51 St. Rep. 642 (1994).

Election of Nonresident — Redistricting: Custer County Commissioner district lines were redrawn prior to election of respondent as County Commissioner. Respondent ran for and was elected to the office of County Commissioner for new district 2, although he resided in new district 3. Appellants claimed this section precluded respondent from holding office because of nonresidency. However, the new district boundaries were held void in this decision as not having been established in compliance with 7-4-2102, so respondent was allowed to hold office from the previous district 2 (of which he was a resident) until the next general election, at which time the district boundaries were to be reestablished. Barthelmess v. Bergerson, 218 M 398, 708 P2d 1010, 42 St. Rep. 1685 (1985).

Attorney General's Opinions

Eligibility for Election of Person Transferred Into County Commission District Through Reapportionment: A person who is transferred into a County Commission district by virtue of a reapportionment conducted pursuant to 7-4-2102 is not disqualified from standing for election as long as the person has resided at the same address in the new district for the requisite 2-year period set out in this section. 49 A.G. Op. 17 (2002).

Residency Requirements for County Commissioners — Study Commission Recommendations: The residency requirements of 7-4-2104(2) apply to candidates for County Commissioner positions created by the adoption of a local government study commission proposal. 41 A.G. Op. 44 (1986).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 in (1) in first sentence inserted "unless otherwise provided for under a plan of government provided for in a county adopting an optional or alternative form of government". Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 131 in (2) near middle after "office on" inserted "or before". Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 421 in (1) substituted "at 12:01 a.m. on January 1" for "on the first Monday of January"; and inserted (2) relating to taking the oath of office.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 421, L. 1997, provided: "WHEREAS, current law requires an elected official to take the oath of office on the first Monday of January succeeding the election; and

WHEREAS, the first Monday in January can be as late as the 7th day of January; and

WHEREAS, employing two elected officials in the same month can cause confusion and disagreement regarding compensation and benefits to each official; and

WHEREAS, employing the newly elected official on January 1 would simplify the payroll process, save local governments and taxpayers money, and make it easier for all concerned to remember the official transition date."

1985 Amendment: Inserted second sentence relating to when commissioner takes office.

Attorney General's Opinions

Recommendation of Shorter Terms of Office by Local Government Study Commission: A local government study commission may recommend that terms of office for County Commissioners be less than 6 years if the county has adopted the statutory county "commission form" of government. A local government study commission may not recommend that the terms of office for County Commissioners be less than 6 years if the county has retained the form of government organized under the statutes listed in 7-3-111. 41 A.G. Op. 51 (1986).

2015 Amendment: Chapter 262 in (2)(a), (2)(b), and (5)(c)(ii) after "at least 2 years" inserted "immediately"; in (2)(b) near beginning inserted "nonpartisan"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 143 in (3) substituted "prior to August 1" for "75 days or more"; in (3)(a) substituted "prior to March 1" for "75 days or more"; in (3)(b) in first sentence substituted "on or after March 1" for "after the 75th day", in second sentence substituted "county election administrator" for "clerk and recorder", and in last sentence substituted "county election administrator prior to August 1 before" for "clerk and recorder on or before the 75th day prior to"; and in (4) substituted "July 31" for "the 75th day". Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 266 inserted (6) prohibiting resigning member from participating in filling vacancy. Amendment effective April 21, 2011.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 219 inserted (5) concerning multiple vacancies occurring simultaneously or when prior appointments have not been made. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 42 in (4) substituted "subsection (2)" for "7-4-2106(2)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

1985 Amendments: Chapter 250 throughout section substituted references to 75 days for references to 50 days; and in (3)(b) in fourth sentence, substituted "75th day" for "40th day".

Chapter 551 in (2), near middle of first sentence, substituted "remaining county commissioners" for "district judge or judges in whose district the vacancy occurs" and after first sentence, inserted lead-in to (a) and (b) and inserted (a) and (b) relating to procedure based upon party affiliation or lack thereof; and in (4) near end, substituted "remaining county commissioners" for "district judge".

Case Notes

Prospective Appointment to Fill Vacancy: Under 2-16-501, refusal or neglect of an officer-elect to file his bond within the time prescribed creates a vacancy in the office, and in the case of a County Commissioner (prior to the 1985 amendment of this section) the District Judge had authority under this section, upon the expiration of the 30-day period provided for the filing of a bond, to declare the office vacant and make a prospective appointment, to fill the vacancy when it did occur, i.e., at the commencement of the new term. State ex rel. Wallace v. Callow, 78 M 308, 254 P 187 (1927).

Annulment of Order Filling Vacancy: The power to fill a vacancy in the office of County Commissioner was conferred by Art. XVI, sec. 4, 1889 Mont. Const., upon the District Judge of the district in which the vacancy occurred. The provisions of this section were enacted in pursuance thereof (amended in 1985 to change power of appointment to remaining commissioners and amended in 2007 to require the County Compensation Board or a District Judge to make the appointments to multiple positions). Such appointing power is ministerial, not judicial, in character. Certiorari does not lie to annul an order filling a vacancy deemed by the Judge to exist in that office in a newly created county because of the alleged unconstitutionality of the act under which the office was filled by election and because the incumbent was holding two other offices regarded by him as incompatible. State ex rel. Doven v. District Court, 50 M 249, 146 P 467 (1915).

Attorney General's Opinions

Filling Vacant Office: Prior to the 1979 amendment of this section, the Attorney General held that if the office of County Commissioner has become vacant with no opportunity to nominate candidates in the primary election, the selection of candidates for the general election will be made by each political party according to 13-10-327; and, pursuant to 13-12-208 (now repealed), write-in candidates may also seek the office. The appointee to fill the immediate vacancy will hold that office until the next general election. 37 A.G. Op. 147 (1978).

7-4-2107. Compensation of county commissioners.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 507 in (1) in first sentence at beginning substituted "Subject to subsection (2)" for "Except as provided in subsection (3)" after "board of county commissioners" deleted "in counties of the first, second, third, and fourth class" and deleted former second sentence that read: "However, the county commissioners may, for all or the remainder of each fiscal year, in conjunction with setting salaries for other officers as provided in 7-4-2504(1), set their salaries at the prior fiscal year level if that level is lower than the level required by this subsection"; in (2) in first sentence at beginning substituted "Each board may elect to serve on a part-time rather than a full-time basis and receive part-time annual salaries based on the annual salary established in 7-4-2503(1)(a)" for "Each member of the board in all other counties may receive an annual salary equal to the annual salary established in 7-4-2503(1)(a)(ii)" and at end after "clerk and recorder" deleted "or a salary at a per-day rate determined by using the salary established in 7-4-2503(1)(a)(ii) for the clerk and recorder" and deleted former second and third sentences that read: "However, the county commissioners may, for all or the remainder of each fiscal year, in conjunction with setting salaries for other officers as provided in 7-4-2504(1), set their salaries at the prior fiscal year level if that level is lower than the level required by this subsection. The salary determined by the board must apply uniformly to all board members"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) Each member of the board of fourth-class counties may receive a salary at a daily rate determined by using the salary established in subsection (1). If a daily rate is used, then all board members must be paid on that basis"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 1, 2001.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 28 in (1), at beginning, inserted exception clause; inserted (3) regarding salary of Board members of fourth-class counties at a daily rate; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective February 10, 1993.

1991 Amendment: Near beginning of (2), after "counties", substituted language concerning Board member salary being equal to annual salary or per-day rate based upon salary established in 7-4-2503 for Clerk and Recorder for language setting salary for Board member of $60 per day beginning July 1, 1985, and adjusted every July 1 thereafter by adding a cost-of-living adjustment to $60 amount and inserted last sentence concerning established salary being applied uniformly to all Board members. Amendment effective April 22, 1991.

1986 Amendment: In (1) following "$2,000" inserted remainder of subsection allowing a uniform freeze in compensation; and in (2) following "calculated as provided in 7-4-2504" inserted remainder of subsection allowing a uniform freeze in compensation.

1985 Amendment: In (2) in first sentence, after "salary", deleted "of not more than $50", and inserted the second and third sentences setting $60, then $60 plus a cost-of-living increment, for a daily salary.

1981 Amendment: Substituted "an annual salary equal to the annual salary established in 7-4-2503 for the clerk and recorder plus $2,000" for "an annual salary to be established by resolution of the board in an amount not to exceed the annual salary established in the schedule in 7-4-2503 for the clerk and recorder" at the end of (1); and substituted (2) establishing a $50-maximum daily salary for "Each member of the board in all other counties is entitled to a salary to be established by the board by resolution in an amount not to exceed $40 per day for each day's attendance on the sessions of the board."

Attorney General's Opinions

Change in County Classification — Adjustment of Salaries of County Officials: When the classification of a county under 7-1-2111 (now repealed) changes, salaries of County Commissioners, the County Attorney, and county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1) must be adjusted as of July 1 of the following year. Adjustments are computed as follows: (1) for County Commissioners, according to this section; (2) for a part-time County Attorney, according to 7-4-2503(3); and (3) for county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1), according to 7-4-2503. (See 2001 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 85 (1988).

Timing of Salary Increases Caused by County Classification Change: Under the reasoning of 40 A.G. Op. 81 (1984), when a county's classification changes according to 7-1-2111 (now repealed), the salaries of the County Commissioners, as provided for in 7-4-2107, must change as of July 1 of the following year, the onset of a new fiscal year for the county. 41 A.G. Op. 6 (1985).

Computation of Cost-of-Living Increase: The cost-of-living increase authorized for county officials by this section applies only to the annual base salary plus population increment established by 7-4-2503(1) and not to the additional sums included in the salaries of the Superintendent of Schools, Sheriff, and Commissioners under 7-4-2503(2) and this section. (See 2001 amendment.) 39 A.G. Op. 65 (1982).

Board of County Commissioners Not to Reduce Workload of One County Commissioner and Reduce His Pay Accordingly: A County Commissioner of a first-, second-, third-, or fourth-class county may not reduce his workload relative to the workloads of the other Commissioners and have his pay reduced accordingly. 36 A.G. Op. 48 (1976).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 in (1) after "county commissioners" deleted "in counties of the first, second, third, and fourth class"; in (2) deleted former first sentence that read: "Each member of the board in all other counties is entitled to a mileage allowance as provided in 2-18-503 for the distance necessarily traveled in going to and returning from the county seat and the commissioner's place of residence each day that the trip is actually made to perform official duties" and near end after "county seat" substituted "the rate for lodging established in Title 2, chapter 18, part 5, or the amount calculated in this section for mileage, whichever is less" for "$18 per day"; in (4) in first sentence after "commissioner" substituted "the rate for noncommercial, nonreceiptable lodging established in Title 2, chapter 18, part 5" for "the amount of $7"; and made minor changes in style. Case Notes

County Assessor as Agent of Department of Revenue: This section grants to the Board of County Commissioners supervisory control of County Assessors "under such limitations and restrictions as are prescribed by law". Section 15-8-102 is such a limitation and removes supervision of all internal operations of the County Assessor's office from the County Commissioners and places it with the Department of Revenue. Cantwell v. Geiger, 228 M 330, 742 P2d 468, 44 St. Rep. 1574 (1987).

Supervision of Officers: The Board of County Commissioners has general supervision and control over the officers, affairs, and finances of its county, and it may be conceded that, unless authority therefor shall be found in the statutes, no other county officer may bind the county by contract. A person dealing with a county through one of its agents is bound to know the extent of such agent's authority, and if he enters into an unauthorized contract, he does so at his own risk. Hicks v. Stillwater County, 84 M 38, 274 P 296 (1929). See also Pue v. Lewis & Clark County, 75 M 207, 243 P 573 (1926).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Attorney as Employee for Purposes of Lawsuit Regarding Administrative Actions: A County Attorney is not liable for civil damages for conduct within the scope of his prosecutorial duties; however, that immunity does not extend to the discretionary administrative business of running a County Attorney's office. Thus, a County Attorney is considered a county employee for purposes of the Montana Comprehensive State Insurance Plan and Tort Claims Act whenever the County Attorney is named in a civil lawsuit for actions regarding county administrative business, such as the hiring and firing of staff. 44 A.G. Op. 29 (1992).

Office of County Commissioner Incompatible With Office of School Trustee: The current nature and duties of the offices of County Commissioner and county high school trustee could give rise to possible conflicts of governmental interest if one person were to retain both offices simultaneously. The Attorney General affirmed the decision in 8 A.G. Op. at 402 (1920), holding that the offices are incompatible in light of the fact that under state law a County Commissioner has certain supervisory powers over a school trustee. However, nothing in state law prohibits an individual from holding one of these offices while seeking the other. 42 A.G. Op. 94 (1988).

Departmental Responsibility for Operation of County Assessor's Office — Exceptions: The Department of Revenue is responsible for the internal operation of a County Assessor's office, including employment practices, except with regard to County Assessors and their deputies, who serve at the instance of the electorate or appointing power, as determined statutorily. 42 A.G. Op. 52 (1988).

Manner in Which Duties Performed — No Control by Commissioners: The County Commissioners, in the exercise of their statutory supervisory control over county officers, may assure that the officers fulfill their statutory duties but may not assume control over the manner in which those duties are performed. 38 A.G. Op. 85 (1980).

Supervisory Power Over All Enumerated County Officers: The supervisory power of the County Commissioners under 7-4-2110 extends to all county executive officers enumerated in 7-4-2203. 38 A.G. Op. 85 (1980).

Attorney General's Opinions

No Authority of Board of County Commissioners to Reduce County Auditor Office to Part-Time Position: Montana statutes contemplate a full-time County Auditor with a full-time salary in every county with a population of greater than 15,000. Although County Commissions do have the authority to consolidate certain county offices, including the County Auditor's office, no existing statute contemplates a reduction of the office of County Auditor to a part-time position. Had the Legislature intended to expressly authorize County Commissions to reduce the office, it would have adopted legislation similar to that for County Attorneys and County Superintendents. The authority in 7-6-2412 extends to the imposition of additional County Auditor duties, not to the reduction of hours worked. There is no express or implied authority for counties with general powers to reduce the office of County Auditor to a half-time position. 47 A.G. Op. 18 (1998).

Departmental Responsibility for Operation of County Assessor's Office — Exceptions: The Department of Revenue is responsible for the internal operation of a County Assessor's office, including employment practices, except with regard to County Assessors and their deputies, who serve at the instance of the electorate or appointing power, as determined statutorily. 42 A.G. Case Notes

Sheriff's Unauthorized Absence From State — Reimbursement of Expenses: A Sheriff predicated his demand for reimbursement for expenses incurred by him for services performed beyond the state line upon his legal rights incident to his position as Sheriff and not upon a contract of employment by the County Attorney at whose direction he acted. The Sheriff did not show that he first obtained the consent of the Board of County Commissioners to absent himself from the state, thus he was not entitled to recover on the theory that the claim was allowable under authority of 7-6-2426, making the county chargeable with expenses necessarily incurred by the County Attorney in criminal cases arising within the county. *Brannin v. 7-4-2211. County offices.Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 82 in (1) after "3-10-101" inserted "and except as provided in subsection (3)"; and inserted (3) allowing a county to locate the office of a county officer outside the county seat. Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 216 in (2)(a), after "business", substituted "during the office hours determined by the governing body by resolution after a public hearing and only if consented to by any affected elected county officer" for "from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. continuously", before "holidays" inserted "legal", and at end deleted "provided, however, that the offices enumerated herein shall be kept open on Saturdays and on holidays and at other times when the business of said offices requires them to be kept open"; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Application of Section: A county extension officer is not a county officer subject to this section. Neither the law relating to his office nor section 16-2403, R.C.M. 1947 (since repealed), enumerating county officers, designates him as county officer. Turnbull v. Brown, 128 M 254, 273 P2d 387 (1954).

Attorney General's Opinions

Secretarial Services for Private Practice of County Attorney: A secretary employed by the county to assist a County Attorney may work on the County Attorney's private business during time when the secretary's services are not needed on county business. The County Attorney must account for the time that the secretary spends on private business and reimburse the county for any county-compensated time spent on the County Attorney's private business. A claim by a County Attorney for secretarial services reasonably required for the conduct of the County Attorney's official duties is a legitimate claim against the county. The reasonableness of the claim is a question of fact vested in the sound discretion of the county governing body. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995). See also 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996), in which the Attorney General held that a County Attorney may not compel the County Commissioners to authorize the hiring as a county employee of a legal secretary for the County Attorney absent a showing that any other arrangement would prevent the County Attorney from performing the minimum statutory duties.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 420 near middle substituted "photographic, micrographic, electronic" for "photostatic, microphotographic, microfilm"; deleted (2) regarding the manner of recording or photographing and storing of loose pages (see 1993 Session Law for text); and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 20, 1993.

Attorney General's Opinions

County Clerk and Recorder — No Refusal to Record a Valid Deed: Since the Clerk and Recorder of a county is not a law enforcement officer and enforcement of a criminal statute is not within his prescribed duties, he may not refuse to record a deed that has not met the prerequisite, set forth in the Montana Subdivision and Platting Act (Title 76, ch. 3), that an approved, certified plat be filed before the land is transferred. 35 A.G. Op. 25 (1973).

7-4-2222. Substitution of reproduction for original document.Compiler's Comments

2019 Amendment: Chapter 94 in (1) substituted "pursuant to the requirements of 2-6-1012 and Title 2, chapter 6, part 12" for "only upon order of the district or probate court having jurisdiction"; in (2) at beginning substituted "A reproduction" for "The copy" and near middle substituted "of the reproduction" for "thereof"; in (3) at beginning substituted "The custodian of the records shall" for "It is the duty of the custodian of the records to"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2019.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 420 in (1), after "7-4-2221", deleted reference to subsection (1) and deleted "the original of which is not less than 10 years old"; in (2), at beginning after "The", deleted "photostatic, microphotographic, or microfilmed"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 20, 1993.

7-4-2223. Duplicate records — safe storage of one copy.Compiler's Comments

1993 Amendment: Chapter 420 in (1), after "or reproduced", deleted "by microphotographic, microfilm, or other mechanical process"; in (2), near beginning of first sentence after "place", substituted "the master" for "one" and in second sentence, after "equipment for", substituted "reproducing the record or document" for "displaying such record by projection to not less than its original size or for preparing copies of the record"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 20, 1993.

Part 23Consolidation of County Offices*7-4-2301. Authorization to consolidate county offices.*Attorney General's Opinions

Consolidated Offices — Ballot Listing: It is within the discretion of the Board of County Commissioners to designate how consolidated county offices may be listed on the primary and general election ballots. 37 A.G. Op. 141 (1978).

7-4-2302. Petition for consolidation of county offices.Compiler's Comments

1987 Amendment: In (1) substituted "45 days before the date on which declarations for nomination may first be filed for any county office" for "7 months before the date of any general election at which any county officers are to be elected"; and in (2) substituted "registered electors" for "qualified electors" and at end deleted "whose names appear on the registration records thereof".

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1987 Amendment: In (2), before "post-office address", inserted "printed last name" and substituted "signature" for "name"; and inserted (3) concerning means of determining number of signatures needed on petition.

7-4-2306. Processing of petition — resolution of intent and hearing.Compiler's Comments

1987 Amendment: In (2), in first sentence, substituted "registered electors of the county" for "qualified electors of the county whose names appear on the registration records".

7-4-2307. Notice of hearing.Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: Substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "one time in the official newspaper of the county, which publication must be at least 10 days before the date set for said hearing. If there is no newspaper of general circulation printed and published in said county, then such notice must be posted by the county clerk or clerks, at least 10 days before the date set for such hearing, in three public places in the county or counties"; and deleted former (2) that read: "Said notice shall either contain a copy of said petition, with the signatures omitted, or a copy of the resolution of intent passed by the board or boards of county commissioners and shall state the time and place fixed for hearing the same and that on such hearing, any taxpayer of the county may appear and be heard in support of or in opposition to said petition."

7-4-2309. Conduct of hearing — decision.Compiler's Comments

1987 Amendment: In (1), at beginning of second sentence, substituted "registered elector" for "qualified elector"; and in (2) inserted "Such order must be made at least 7 days before the date on which declarations for nominations may first be filed for any county office."

7-4-2310. Order for consolidation of offices.Compiler's Comments

1987 Amendment: In middle of (1) substituted clauses requiring Commissioners to enter order for office consolidation not less than either 7 days before filing of nominations or 6 months prior to appointment to consolidated office for "6 months prior to the general election held for the purpose of filling the offices to be consolidated".

7-4-2312. Salary and bond of officer following consolidation.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 262 in (1)(b) in first sentence after "7-4-2503" deleted "annually", substituted "January 1" for "with the first Monday in January", and inserted last sentence concerning adoption of resolution for subsequent term of consolidated office. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 in (1)(b) after "boards shall" substituted "in conjunction with setting elected officials' salaries as provided in 7-4-2503, annually adopt a resolution fixing the percentage adjustment of the salary of the officer holding the consolidated office" for "in June of each fourth year, adopt a resolution fixing the salary of the officer"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Deputy Officers in General

7-4-2401. Deputy officers.Compiler's Comments

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 27 in (1), after "justice of the peace", inserted "and the county assessor"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1994.

Applicability: Section 171(2), Ch. 27, Sp. L. November 1993, provided that the amendments to this section apply to tax years after December 31, 1993.

Case Notes

No Legal Duty to Fund Deputy Position: The Lewis and Clark County Auditor petitioned for a Writ of Mandamus to compel the Board of County Commissioners to fund a Deputy Auditor position eliminated by the Commissioners because of budget cuts. The District Court dismissed the petition on the ground that there was no legal duty of the Commissioners to fund the position. On appeal, the Supreme Court had to reconcile three statutes: 7-4-2401(1), under which county officers may appoint as many deputies or assistants as necessary to discharge the duties of the office; 7-4-2402, which provides the County Commissioners with authority to fix and determine the number of county deputy officers; and 7-6-2413, which provides that the number of Deputy Auditors in first-, second-, and third-class counties must not exceed one. The court held that the specific statute, 7-6-2413, must control over the general statute, 7-4-2401(1). The specific statute does not mandate a Deputy Auditor but merely permits one deputy. Based on 7-4-2402, the court held that the authority to determine whether to appoint a deputy resides with the Commissioners and not the Auditor. Based on this statutory scheme, the court held that the Commissioners had no clear legal duty to fund the position of Deputy Auditor. Spotorno v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 212 M 253, 687 P2d 720, 41 St. Rep. 1722 (1984).

Appointment of Deputy County Attorneys:

Although 7-4-2703 provides that a County Attorney of a first- or second-class county may appoint only one Chief Deputy and one Deputy County Attorney, this section provides for appointment of such additional Deputy County Attorneys as may be reasonably necessary to discharge the duties of the office. The prosecutors here were appointed properly and had the lawful authority to prosecute the matter. St. v. Poncellet, 187 M 528, 610 P2d 698, 37 St. Rep. 760 (1980).

Under 2-16-213 and this section, a County Attorney may appoint a deputy to serve without compensation and such deputy may legally act in the name of his principal in the filing of informations and the prosecution of criminal action. St. v. Crouch, 70 M 551, 227 P 818 (1924).

The provisions of this section have no application to the appointment by the court of counsel to assist a County Attorney in prosecuting persons charged with crime. St. v. Whitworth, 26 M 107, 66 P 748 (1901).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of County Commission to Restrict Number of Deputies Hired by Elected Officials: A Board of County Commissioners has authority through control of the county budget to restrict the number of deputies hired by elected officials. Therefore, a Clerk of the District Court may not employ a chief deputy or any other deputies without authorization of the Board. 43 A.G. Op. 77 (1990).

Departmental Responsibility for Operation of County Assessor's Office — Exceptions: The Department of Revenue is responsible for the internal operation of a County Assessor's office, including employment practices, except with regard to County Assessors and their deputies, who serve at the instance of the electorate or appointing power, as determined statutorily. (See 1993 special session amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 52 (1988).

Addition or Elimination of Salaried Deputy Position — Authority Resident With County Commission: As between the County Assessor and the Board of County Commissioners, the authority to add or eliminate a salaried deputy position resides with the Board of County Commissioners. 42 A.G. Op. 23 (1987).

Establishment and Elimination of Deputy Position in County Office — Authority Resident With County: As between the state and county governments, the authority to establish a deputy position and the commensurate authority to eliminate a deputy position in the office of the county reside with county government. 42 A.G. Op. 23 (1987).

7-4-2402. Authorization to exceed limitation on number of deputy officers.

Compiler's Comments

Section Not Codified: The phrase relating to payment of deputies in section 16-3704, R.C.M. 1947, was not codified because it was redundant with 7-4-2505. That phrase has not been repealed and is still valid law. It may be referred to as sec. 1, Ch. 365, L. 1971. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

Authority of Sheriff to Appoint Deputies — Consolidated City-County Government: Where the charter of a consolidated city-county government, which was approved by the voters on November 2, 1976, and took effect on May 2, 1977, specified the manner in which promotions of Sheriff's deputies were to be made, promotions made on April 12, 1977, were governed not by the provisions of the charter but by provisions of state law requiring that the appointment of a greater number of deputies than that allowed by statute is subject to the approval of the Board of County Commissioners. As the promotions were not so approved, they are void. Butler v. Local 2033 Am. Fed'n of County Employees, 186 M 28, 606 P2d 141, 37 St. Rep. 168 (1980).

Employee on Commission Basis: If the services the County Commissioners seek to have done involve only an investigation of county offices for abstracting purposes, that can be done by a regularly appointed deputy county officer. There is no statutory authority for the Commissioners to employ anyone to perform such services on a commission basis. Kelly v. Silver Bow County, 125 M 272, 233 P2d 1035 (1951).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of County Commission to Restrict Number of Deputies Hired by Elected Officials: A Board of County Commissioners has authority through control of the county budget to restrict the number of deputies hired by elected officials. Performance of Duties of Clerk of District Court by Deputy District Court Clerk: Under the plain meaning of this section, any deputy clerk of the District Court may act on behalf of the Clerk of Court in performing any of the Clerk's functions and duties. 43 A.G. Op. 77 (1990).

Disposition of Money Received by County Officers for Preparation of Abstracts: Preparation of abstracts by a Clerk of District Court, a County Clerk, or their respective deputies is an official service of the office. Therefore, compensation paid to them by title companies, credit bureaus, banks, realtors, and others for preparation on a regular basis of abstracts of instruments recorded in their respective offices may not be retained for their personal use, but rather must be paid to the county general fund, District Court fund, or state, as provided by law. 43 A.G. Op. 75 (1990).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 128 in (1) at beginning substituted "A deputy" for "In any county of the seventh class having less than 2,000 population, there shall not be appointed any deputy" and after "county officer" substituted language pertaining to county having valuation less than $5 million for: "of such county unless the appointment of such deputy, designating the term of service and compensation thereof, shall be first authorized by the board of county commissioners of such county"; in (2) after "appointment" substituted "has not been authorized by the board as provided in this section" for "as herein provided, shall not have been authorized and approved by the board of such county"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2011.

Part 25

Compensation and Official Fees

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of Public Safety Commission to Set Salary of Deputy Sheriff: In a department of public safety created pursuant to Title 7, ch. 32, part 1, the public safety commission may set the salary of a department Deputy Sheriff under 7-32-104 at any level at or above the amount that would be paid to the deputy under 7-4-2508. To the extent that 7-4-2508 and 7-32-104 conflict, the provisions of 7-32-104, which allow the public safety commission to set the salaries of department employees, are the more specific and therefore are controlling. 48 A.G. Op. 20 (2000).

Part-Time Deputy County Attorney Entitled to Longevity Pay — Year of Service Composed of Calendar Year: The Legislature did not distinguish full-time Deputy County Attorneys from part-time Deputy County Attorneys for purposes of eligibility pay. Therefore, a part-time Deputy County Attorney is entitled to longevity pay under 7-4-2503 after completing the required years of service. As used in that section, the term “year of service” means a calendar year rather than 2,080 hours of employment. 48 A.G. Op. 19 (2000), following Phillips v. Lake County, 222 M 42, 721 P2d 326 (1986), and overruling 39 A.G. Op. 78 (1982), 40 A.G. Op. 61 (1984), and 43 A.G. 77 (1990), to the extent that a different definition of year of service was applied.

Calculation of Years of Service of Part-Time County Employee: The Board of County Commissioners may calculate the years of service of a part-time county employee based on the number of hours worked rather than the number of calendar years in part-time service. 43 A.G. Op. 77 (1990), overruled in 48 A.G. Op. 19 (2000), in which, pursuant to Phillips v. Lake County, 222 M 42, 721 P2d 326 (1986), the term “year of service” was construed to mean a calendar year.

Computation of Salaries, Longevity Payments, and Overtime for Sheriffs, Undersheriffs, and Deputy Sheriffs: Chapter 603, L. 1981, amended 7-4-2505 and 39-3-406 and enacted 7-4-2507 through 7-4-2510. Under Ch. 603, the following holdings were made:

- (1) an individual Undersheriff or Deputy Sheriff is entitled to an initial longevity payment on his first employment anniversary occurring after October 1, 1981;
- (2) years of service prior to October 1, 1981, must be considered in determining the amount of longevity payments to Deputy Sheriffs and Undersheriffs;
- (3) the “minimum base annual salary” for calculating longevity payments is the statutory minimum level for the county involved, as specified in 7-4-2508;
- (4) the “salary” of a Sheriff, for purposes of calculating the annual compensation of Deputy Sheriffs and Undersheriffs, includes the additional $2,000 received by the Sheriff pursuant to 7-4-2503; and
- (5) the payment of overtime compensation to Undersheriffs and Deputy Sheriffs is within the discretion of the individual Boards of County Commissioners. 39 A.G. Op. 21 (1981).

1981 Amendments: Chapter 518 and Ch. 575 deleted subsection (3) which provided: “The coroner is entitled to receive a salary established prior to July 1 of each year by the board of county commissioners. The salary must be in effect upon the first day of each ensuing fiscal year.”

Composite Section: This section was amended by Ch. 371 and Ch. 443, L. 1979, and a composite section was prepared by the Code Commissioner, 1979. Chapter 443 was a Code Commissioner bill and was not intended to make substantive changes. Consequently a conflict of language in subsection (1) between Ch. 371 and Ch. 443 has been resolved in favor of the language used in Ch. 371.

Compensation Plan: Chapter 545, L. 1979, established a County Compensation Board to consider the salaries of elected county officials and present to the Legislature an ongoing salary plan.

Case Notes

“Fees” Defined: In this section the term “fees” means a mode of compensation different from salary. St. v. Story, 53 M 573, 165 P 748 (1917).

Officers Receive Salaries: Subsection (2) is unnecessary, unless its purpose is to advise the people that salaried officers are not to have “fees and emoluments” other than salaries from the state or county. Scharrenbroich v. Lewis & Clark County, 33 M 250, 83 P 482 (1905).

2021 Amendment: Chapter 51 inserted (3)(b)(iii) providing that payments required under subsection (3)(b)(i) are not affected if the governor directs the suspension of the employer contribution for employee group benefits. Amendment effective July 1, 2021, and terminates June 30, 2022.

2017 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 3 inserted (3)(b)(iii) concerning payments when the governor directs a state agency not to pay the employer contribution for employee group benefits. Amendment effective November 24, 2017, and terminates June 30, 2019.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 230 in (2) at beginning after "The" substituted "funding for the salary and health insurance benefits for" for "salary of" and after "attorney is" substituted "a shared responsibility of the state and the county. The state's share is payable as provided in subsection (3)" for "payable one-half from the general fund of the county and, if the county has supplied the information to the department of justice for inclusion in its budget, the other one-half from the state treasury upon the warrant of the state treasurer. If the county has not supplied information concerning any scheduled or proposed increase in salary for the county attorney to the department of justice for inclusion in material submitted to the budget director under Title 17, chapter 7, part 1, the county is responsible for any increased salary. The state's share of the county attorney's salary is payable every 2 weeks.

(b) The county commissioners of each county shall, within 30 days after the election or appointment to fill a vacancy for any cause in the office of county attorney, certify the election or appointment to the department of justice. The department shall notify the state treasurer of the salary of the county attorney. The state treasurer shall draw warrants for the county attorney salaries in the same manner as for state officers. In case of a vacancy, the county commissioners shall immediately notify the department of justice, and the department shall compute the salary due on the basis of the notification"; inserted (3) establishing the state's share of county attorney funding and defining terms; inserted (4) providing that the amount to be paid to each county is statutorily appropriated; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

(1) a significant portion of the work done by county attorneys is for the prosecution of criminal cases under state law and for the enforcement of state civil law concerning child abuse and neglect pursuant to Title 41, chapter 3;

(2) the county attorney workloads vary greatly from county to county;

(3) it is in the state's best interest to promote consistent statewide prosecution services and to support the office of county attorney as a career position that will attract experienced and well-qualified attorneys, especially considering the enactment of a statewide public defender system in 2005;

(4) because a county attorney is an elected county official and has a vital role in providing civil legal services to the county and because each county has unique needs to consider, the county attorney's salary should be set by the county;

(5) because county attorneys provide both state and county services, the responsibility for funding county attorney salaries should be a responsibility shared by the state and the counties; and

(6) the state's funding responsibility should be met through a predictable and ongoing appropriation, thus through a statutory appropriation."

2003 Amendment: Chapter 114 in (3) near end deleted reference to subsection (1) of 7-4-2504. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 75 at beginning of (1) deleted exception clause; at beginning of (2)(a) deleted "salaries of the county attorney and deputy county attorneys authorized by 7-4-2703 are payable monthly, with" and inserted last sentence concerning payment of state's share every 2 weeks; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 16, 1999.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 325 in (2)(a), at end of first sentence, and (2)(b), in second and third sentences, substituted "state treasurer" for "auditor"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 332 in (2)(a), in first sentence after "county and", inserted "if the county has supplied the information to the department of justice for inclusion in its budget" and inserted last sentence providing that if the county has not provided a proposed County Attorney salary increase to the Department for inclusion in the budget, the county must pay the increase; and made minor changes in style.

1991 Amendment: In (2)(b), at end of first sentence after "appointment to the", substituted "department of justice" for "state auditor, who shall thereafter draw warrants for such salary in the same manner as for state officers", inserted second and third sentences concerning Department notifying State Auditor of salary of County Attorney and Auditor drawing warrants for County Attorney salary, and in fourth sentence, near middle after "notify the", substituted "department of justice" for "state auditor" and before "shall compute" substituted "department" for "auditor". Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

1986 Amendments: Chapter 12 in (3) following "payment of the same" inserted remainder of subsection allowing a uniform freeze in compensation.

Chapter 17 in (2)(a) substituted “salary of the county attorney” for “salaries of the county attorney and no more than two deputies”; at end of (2)(a) deleted “Such salaries for the deputy county attorneys include the longevity increases provided by 7-4-2503(3)(d)”; and in first sentence of (2)(b) after “county attorney” deleted “or within 30 days after the appointment of a deputy county attorney authorized by 7-4-2703”.

1985 Amendment: In (2)(a) substituted “The salaries of the county attorney and deputy county attorneys authorized by 7-4-2703 are payable monthly, with the salaries of the county attorney and no more than two deputies payable one-half from the general fund of the county and the other one-half from the state treasury upon the warrant of the state auditor. Such salaries for the deputy county attorneys include the longevity increases provided by 7-4-2503(3)(d)” for “The salary of the county attorney is payable monthly, with one-half from the general fund of the county and the other one-half from the state treasury upon the warrant of the state auditor”; and in (2)(b) near middle of first sentence, after “office of county attorney”, inserted “or within 30 days after the appointment of a deputy county attorney authorized by 7-4-2703”.

Composite Section: This section was amended by Ch. 109 and Ch. 443, L. 1979, and a composite section was prepared by the Code Commissioner, 1979. Ch. 109 provided for twice monthly and biweekly paychecks in subsection (1)(a) and in former subsection (1)(b). Ch. 443, a Code Commissioner bill, deleted subsection (1)(b) referring to payment from the contingency fund as inconsistent with subsection (1)(a) referring to payment from the general fund. The composite deleted subsection (1)(b) to avoid the inconsistency. The intent of Ch. 109 is preserved in subsection (1).

Case Notes

County Properly Ordered to Pay County Attorney's Salary Increase: Although the Board of County Commissioners had been notified that the state would be unable to pay an increased contribution to the County Attorney's salary, the Board awarded the County Attorney a salary in excess of twice the amount appropriated by the state. When the state's one-half share of the salary failed to cover the salary increase, the County Attorney sued the county for the shortfall. The District Court ordered the county to pay the salary increase, and the county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that counties are responsible for any increases in County Attorneys' salaries that are not taken into account and included in the state appropriation for paying County Attorneys' salaries (decision issued before the 2007 amendment to this section). Oster v. Valley County, 2006 MT 180, 333 M 76, 140 P3d 1079 (2006).

Deputy Sheriffs — Number and Compensation: The Board of County Commissioners has the power to determine, within the maximum limits prescribed by law, the number and compensation of deputies allowed by the Sheriff. (Decided prior to the enactment of 7-4-2507 through 7-4-2510, and see 1999 amendment.) Jobb v. Meagher County, 20 M 424, 51 P 1034 (1898), explained in Penwell v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 23 M 351, 59 P 167 (1899), and Hogan v. Cascade County, 36 M 183, 92 P 529 (1907).

Attorney General's Opinions

Justice of the Peace — Reduction From Full-Time Status: Absent a voluntary waiver by the incumbent, the proper time at which to reduce a full-time Justice of the Peace position to a part-time position is before the next election. 38 A.G. Op. 90 (1980).

Justice of the Peace — When Pay Raise May Be Diminished: Any pay raises given a Justice of the Peace must stand for the remainder of the term, and only at the beginning of the next term may such raises be diminished. 38 A.G. Op. 90 (1980).

Salary Diminution Prohibited for Justices of the Peace: The reduction of a full-time Justice of the Peace to a part-time Justice of the Peace with a salary commensurate to the workload and office hours constitutes a prohibited salary diminution within the language of Art. VII, sec. 7, Mont. Const. 38 A.G. Op. 90 (1980).

Increase in County Attorney's Salary: A county having self-government powers may grant an increase in salary to its County Attorney in excess of the amount provided in 7-4-2503, but the increase must be borne by the general fund of the county. 37 A.G. Op. 70 (1977).

Joint Employment: A County Attorney, for purposes of administration, is jointly employed by both the county and the state. 36 A.G. Op. 32 (1975).

Method of Setting Salary of County Attorney: The County Commissioners must set the salary of the County Attorney by resolution and must forward a copy of the resolution to the State Auditor (see 1995, 1999, and 2007 amendments) for proper payment of the County Attorney. 35 A.G. Op. 24 (1973).

Method of Paying County Attorneys' Salaries: Upon implementation of the 1972 Constitution of Montana, on July 1, 1973, the salaries of County Attorneys shall be payable monthly, one-half from the general fund of the county and the other half from the state treasury, upon the warrant of the State Auditor (function now transferred to State Treasurer — see 1995, 1999, and 2007 amendments). 35 A.G. Op. 15 (1973).

7-4-2503. Salary schedule for certain county officers — county compensation board.

Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 302 in (2)(b) inserted last sentence specifying that the additional salary must be included as salary for the purposes of computing the compensation for undersheriffs and deputy sheriffs as provided in 7-4-2508; inserted (2)(c) concerning additional salary as determined by the board of county commissioners; in (2)(d) in first sentence substituted “subsections (1) and (2)(b)” for “subsection (1)”, at end of first sentence deleted former text that read “but years of service during any year in which the salary was set at the level of the salary of the prior fiscal year may not be included in any calculation of longevity increases”, and inserted second sentence concerning the impact of any salary paid under (2)(c) on the longevity payment; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

2015 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 178 in (2)(e) inserted “clerk of district court, and justice of the peace”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

Chapter 218 inserted (2)(g) concerning compensation for a justice of the peace; in (3)(c)(i) at end of third sentence substituted “annual longevity salary increase of $500 or a greater amount based on the schedule developed and recommended by the county compensation board as provided in subsection (4)” for “annual increase in salary of $500” and inserted last sentence concerning annual longevity salary increase after the 11th year of service; inserted (3)(c)(ii) related to service accumulated after the 11th year of service as a deputy county attorney; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

2009 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 133 inserted (4)(a)(v) adding nonmandatory resident taxpayers appointed by each of three county officials to the county compensation board; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Chapter 291 in (1)(a) near middle after “justice of the peace” inserted “county coroner”; inserted (2)(f) providing that county coroner may be part-time position; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2007 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 200 in (1)(b) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (2)(e) allowing a county treasurer to receive up to $2,000 a year in addition to the base salary and providing that the additional salary may not be included when computing compensation for other county officers or employees; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

Chapter 230 in (3)(a) substituted “Subject to subsection (3)(b), the salary for the county attorney must be set as provided in subsection (4)” for “In each county with a population in excess of 30,000, the county attorney must be a full-time official under 7-4-2704, and the salary is $50,000 a year, subject to adjustment as provided in subsection (3)(c). In counties with a population less than 30,000, the county attorney who is a part-time official is entitled to receive an annual base salary equal to the salary received for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2001.

(b) In those counties where the office of the county attorney has been established as a full-time position pursuant to 7-4-2706, the salary of the county attorney is the same as that established for full-time county attorneys in subsection (3)(a)”; in (3)(b) at beginning inserted “If the uniform base salary set for county officials pursuant to subsection (1) is increased, then the” and after “entitled to” substituted “at least the same increase unless the increase would cause the county attorney’s salary to exceed the salary of a district court judge” for “an increase in salary based upon the schedule developed and approved by the county compensation board as provided in subsection (4)”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

(1) a significant portion of the work done by county attorneys is for the prosecution of criminal cases under state law and for the enforcement of state civil law concerning child abuse and neglect pursuant to Title 41, chapter 3;

(2) the county attorney workloads vary greatly from county to county;

(3) it is in the state’s best interest to promote consistent statewide prosecution services and to support the office of county attorney as a career position that will attract experienced and well-qualified attorneys, especially considering the enactment of a statewide public defender system in 2005;

(4) because a county attorney is an elected county official and has a vital role in providing civil legal services to the county and because each county has unique needs to consider, the county attorney's salary should be set by the county;

(5) because county attorneys provide both state and county services, the responsibility for funding county attorney salaries should be a responsibility shared by the state and the counties; and

(6) the state's funding responsibility should be met through a predictable and ongoing appropriation, thus through a statutory appropriation."

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 36 in (2)(c) near middle of first sentence substituted "sheriff's office" for "sheriff's department". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

Chapter 182 inserted (2)(d) providing that a clerk and recorder who is also the county election administrator may receive up to $2,000 a year in addition to the base salary, which may not be included as salary when computing the compensation of any other county officer or employee. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 487 in (4)(a) in first sentence substituted "two to four resident taxpayers" for "two resident taxpayers" and in two places substituted "one or two taxpayer members" for "one taxpayer member"; and inserted (4)(d) relating to inapplicability of subsection (4) to certain forms of local government. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 7 near end of (1)(a)(i) and near end of (1)(a)(ii) substituted "latest federal decennial census" for "1990 federal decennial census"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001. The amendment by Ch. 507, rendered the amendment by Ch. 7 void.

Chapter 507 in (1)(a) inserted reference to justice of the peace and at end substituted "established by the county governing body based upon the recommendations of the county compensation board provided for in subsection (4)" for "established by the county governing body at no less than 80% of the annual base salary of:

(i) $25,000 for counties of the first through fifth class added to the population increment of $10 for each 100 persons or major fraction of 100 persons included in the county's population as determined by the 1990 federal decennial census; or

(ii) $18,000 for counties of the sixth and seventh class added to the population increment of $10 for each 100 persons or major fraction of 100 persons in the county's population as determined by the 1990 federal decennial census"; in (1)(b) substituted "annual salary established pursuant to subsection (1)(a)" for "annual base established by the county governing body in subsection (1)" and at end substituted "subsection (1)(a)" for "subsection (1)"; in (2)(c) near beginning of first sentence substituted "1% of the salary determined under subsection (1)" for "1% of the base salary set forth in subsection (1)" and near middle of second sentence substituted "salary" for "base salary"; in (3)(a) at end of first sentence inserted reference to adjustment made in subsection (3)(c), in second sentence after "part-time official" deleted "for a county of the first, second, or third class" and substituted "receive an annual base salary equal to the salary received for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2001" for "receive an annual salary equal to 60% of the annual salary of a full-time county attorney", and deleted former third sentence that read: "A county attorney who is a part-time official for a county of the fourth, fifth, sixth, or seventh class is entitled to receive an annual salary equal to 50% of the annual salary of a full-time county attorney"; in (3)(c) substituted "Each county attorney is entitled to an increase in salary based upon the schedule developed and approved by the county compensation board as provided in subsection (4)" for "On August 1 of each year, each county attorney is entitled to an increase in salary calculated by adding to the annual salary a percentage of up to 100% of the previous calendar year's consumer price index for all urban consumers, U.S. department of labor, bureau of labor statistics, or other index that the bureau of business and economic research of the university of Montana-Missoula may in the future recognize as the successor to that index. However, the county commissioners may, for all or the remainder of each fiscal year, in conjunction with setting salaries for other officers as provided in 7-4-2504(1), set the salary at the prior fiscal year level if that level is lower than the level required by this subsection (3)(c). The cost-of-living increment for each fiscal year must be added to all cost-of-living increments granted for previous years unless salaries were set for the fiscal year at the level of salaries received in the prior fiscal year. Unless restored pursuant to 7-4-2504(2), a cost-of-living increment that would have been received for the fiscal year, computed on the prior fiscal year, may not be added to previous increments"; in (3)(d)(i) near middle of third sentence substituted "for each year of additional service" for "for each year of service thereafter"; at end of (3)(d)(ii) after "longevity increase" deleted "but, unless longevity increases are restored pursuant to 7-4-2504(2), the years of service during a year in which the salary was set at the level of the salary of the prior fiscal year may not be included in a calculation of longevity increases"; deleted former (4) that read: "(4) The latest federal decennial census statistics are the basis for computation of population increments under this section. During the intervening 9 years, the computation of population increments applicable on July 1 of each year is based on the most current calendar year's estimates of counties' populations compiled by the federal-state cooperative program for estimates of the university of Montana-Missoula bureau of business and economic research and the U.S. bureau of the census or other estimate that the bureau of business and economic research may certify"; inserted (4)(a) establishing county compensation board; inserted (4)(b) requiring board to establish compensation schedule for county officials; inserted (4)(c) requiring majority vote of board to establish recommended compensation schedule, including at least two county commissioners; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 411 in four places in (3)(a) and two places in (3)(b) before "salary" inserted "base"; inserted (3)(d)(ii) authorizing county with full-time county attorney to pay same longevity increase provided for deputy county attorneys; at beginning of (3)(d)(iii) deleted "The years of service as a deputy county attorney accumulated prior to July 1, 1985, must be included in the calculation of the longevity increase, but"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1999, and terminates July 1, 2001.

1995 Amendments: Chapter 230 near end of (1)(a), after "authorized", deleted "for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1991, and each year thereafter"; at beginning of (3)(c) substituted "On August 1 of each year" for "Beginning July 1, 1991, and on July 1 of each succeeding year"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Chapter 233 in (1)(a), (3)(a), (3)(b), and in two places in (3)(c) deleted provision applying law beginning July 1, 1991; in first sentence of (3)(c) substituted "a percentage of up to 100% of" for "the percentage change in" and in third sentence deleted provision applying law beginning July 1, 1983; at beginning of (4) deleted "For each 10th year after the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1981"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

Name Change — Directions to Code Commissioner: Pursuant to sec. 36, Ch. 308, L. 1995, in this section the Code Commissioner changed "university of Montana" to "university of Montana-Missoula".

1993 Amendment: Chapter 10 in (3)(c), near middle of first sentence after "1991", substituted "the percentage change in" for "an increment of 100% of the last"; in (4), in second sentence, substituted "most current calendar year's estimates" for "last calendar year's annual estimates"; and made minor changes in style.

1991 Amendments: Chapter 527 near end of (1)(a) substituted "1991" for "1981" and substituted "and each year thereafter must be established by the county governing body at no less than 80% of" for "is computed by adding"; at beginning of (1)(a)(i) increased base salary from $14,000 to $25,000 and near end updated reference from 1980 to 1990 federal decennial census; in (1)(a)(ii) increased base salary from $12,000 to $18,000, decreased population increment from $20 to $10, and near end updated reference from 1980 to 1990 federal decennial census; inserted (1)(b) concerning annual base established by county governing body being uniform for subject county officers; near beginning of (3)(c) substituted "1991" for "1982" and near middle substituted "1991" for "1981" and increased increment from 70% to 100%; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 22, 1991.

Chapter 667 in (3)(a), (3)(b), and (3)(c) substituted "1991" for "1981"; in (3)(a), at end of first sentence, increased County Attorney salary from $36,500 to $50,000; in (3)(b), at end after "shall be", substituted "the same as that established for full-time county attorneys in subsection (3)(a)" for "$36,500"; and in (3)(c), near beginning of first sentence, substituted "1991" for "1982" and near middle increased increment of consumer price index from 70% to 100%. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 257 at beginning of last sentence of (3)(c) substituted "Unless restored pursuant to 7-4-2504(2), any" for "In such case the"; and in middle of (3)(d)(ii) inserted "unless longevity increases are restored pursuant to 7-4-2504(2), the". Amendment effective June 30, 1989.

Chapter 505 inserted (1)(c) providing for longevity payment of 1% of base salary for County Sheriffs and excluding additional salary from use in computing compensation for Deputy Sheriffs and undersheriffs; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

1986 Amendment: In (3)(c) inserted second sentence allowing a uniform freeze in compensation and following "previous years" inserted remainder of subsection relating to increments occurring after a freeze in compensation; and at end of (3)(d)(ii) following “longevity increase” inserted remainder of subsection relating to calculation when compensation had been frozen.

1985 Amendments: Chapter 562 in (2)(a), at beginning of sentence substituted “An elected county superintendent” for “The county superintendent” and at end of sentence, after “$400 per year”, inserted remainder of (a) relating to increased compensation for greater education and endorsement.

Chapter 719 in (1) in introductory clause after “clerk of the district court”, deleted “part-time county attorney”; in former (2)(c) deleted first sentence that read: “In counties with a population less than 30,000, the county attorney who is a part-time official shall receive, in addition to the salary based upon subsection (1), the sum of $1,200 per year”; renumbered second sentence of former (2)(c) as (3)(a) and in (3)(a) inserted second and third sentences all relating to part- or full-time County Attorney status and salary percentages; renumbered first sentence of former (2)(d) as (3)(b) (full time pursuant to 7-4-2706); renumbered remainder of former (2)(d) as (3)(c) (computation of cost-of-living increments); inserted (3)(d)(i) and (3)(d)(ii) concerning longevity increases; and renumbered former (2)(e) as (4) (computation of population).

1981 Amendment: Rewrote entire section (see sec. 1, Ch. 518, L. 1981, for text) to substitute language for specific dollar amounts based on population. For former text see sec. 1, Ch. 459, L. 1979, and sec. 4, Ch. 669, L. 1979. For language of former composite section, see 7-4-2503, MCA 1979.

Case Notes

Deputy Salary as Percentage of Sheriff's Salary, Including Supplement: Section 7-4-2510 requires that longevity should be 1% of a deputy's minimum base annual salary. A deputy's salary is based on the salary of the sheriff, which must include the $2,000 statutory supplement provided for a sheriff's salary in 7-4-2503. Clouse v. Lewis & Clark County, 2008 MT 271, 345 M 208, 190 P3d 1052 (2008).

Attorney General's Opinions

Part-Time Deputy County Attorney Entitled to Longevity Pay — Year of Service Composed of Calendar Year: The Legislature did not distinguish full-time Deputy County Attorneys from part-time Deputy County Attorneys for purposes of eligibility pay. Therefore, a part-time Deputy County Attorney is entitled to longevity pay under this section after completing the required years of service. As used in this section, the term “year of service” means a calendar year rather than 2,080 hours of employment. 48 A.G. Op. 19 (2000), following Phillips v. Lake County, 222 M 42, 721 P2d 326 (1986), and overruling 39 A.G. Op. 78 (1982), 40 A.G. Op. 61 (1984), and 43 A.G. 77 (1990), to the extent that a different definition of year of service was applied.

County Attorney Longevity Increase for Time as Deputy County Attorney — 1999 Statutory Amendment: The 1999 amendment to subsection (3)(d)(ii) of this section authorizes a Board of County Commissioners to grant a longevity increase to a full-time County Attorney for years served as a Deputy County Attorney, in addition to years served as a County Attorney. (See 2007 amendment.) 48 A.G. Op. 8 (1999).

Provision of Office Space and Equipment by County for Part-Time County Attorney: A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide office space for a part-time County Attorney by providing space in a county building or, if no suitable space is available, by renting office space. Use of the space for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the space for private business purposes. Alternatively, the governing body may allow a claim by the County Attorney for the rental of office space needed to conduct the county's business if suitable office space is not available in county buildings. A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide necessary equipment for a part-time County Attorney by providing the use of the equipment owned by the county or, if no suitable equipment is available, by renting equipment. Use of the equipment for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the equipment for private business purposes. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995), followed in 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996).

Office Manager / Secretary Defined as Assistant — Determination of Salary: An office manager/secretary hired as a county employee to assist a County Attorney is considered an assistant whose compensation may be set by the Board of County Commissioners under 7-4-2505. However, the statute is limited to persons who serve as county employees and does not apply to independent contractors or consultants. Assistants must be paid a salary to be determined by the Commissioners at no more than 90% of the principal officer's salary, unless a specific provision allows greater compensation. 46 A.G. Op. 6 (1995).

Calculation of Base Salary of Sheriff — Longevity to Include Total Years of Service: The base salary of a Sheriff under this section is based on the class of the county and the county population. For purposes of calculating a Sheriff's longevity payments, total years of service with the Sheriff's Department are included. 43 A.G. Op. 44 (1989).

Change in County Classification — Adjustment of Salaries of County Officials: When the classification of a county under 7-1-2111 (now repealed) changes, salaries of County Commissioners, the County Attorney, and county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1) must be adjusted as of July 1 of the following year (see 1995 amendment). Adjustments are computed as follows: (1) for County Commissioners, according to 7-4-2107; (2) for a part-time County Attorney, according to 7-4-2503(3); and (3) for county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1), according to 7-4-2503. (See 2001 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 85 (1988).

Change in County Classification — Time for Setting County Officials' Salaries: When a county's classification changes pursuant to 7-1-2111 (now repealed), the salaries of the county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1) must also change. The salaries must change as of July 1 of the following year (see 1995 and 2001 amendments), with the onset of a new fiscal year for the county. 40 A.G. Op. 81 (1984), followed in 41 A.G. Op. 6 (1985).

Computation of Cost-of-Living Increases: The cost-of-living authorized for county officials by 7-4-2504 applies only to the annual base salary plus population increment established by subsection (1) of this section and not to the additional sums included in the salaries of the Superintendent of Schools, Sheriff, and Commissioners under subsection (2) of this section and 7-4-2107. (See 2001 amendment.) 39 A.G. Op. 65 (1982).

Compensation of County Clerk and Recorder for Work as Election Administrator: A County Clerk and Recorder (see 2005 amendment) is not entitled to compensation for services as an election administrator. Without a specific grant of authority to allow additional compensation beyond that for the duties as a County Clerk and Recorder, no additional compensation is allowed. An election administrator who is not also the County Clerk and Recorder may be compensated for his election duties. 39 A.G. Op. 7 (1981).

Full-Time County Attorney — County Population Requirements: A county with a population of less than 30,000 may establish a full-time County Attorney position. The position need not be filled on July 1 but may be filled at some specified reasonable time after July 1 (see 1995 amendment). The salary for such a full-time County Attorney is the same as a full-time County Attorney in a county having more than 30,000 population. (See 1999, 2001, and 2007 amendments.) 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979).

Full-Time County Attorney — Residency Requirements: A practicing attorney who has declared his intention to make a county his permanent home, is actively seeking a permanent residence in that county, and is in the process of terminating his personal business affairs at his former residence has become a resident of the county and is eligible for appointment as a full-time County Attorney once he has resided in the county for 30 days if he becomes a qualified registered elector and meets other qualifications for the office. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979).

Self-Government Powers: This section does not apply to self-government units since it may be superseded by ordinance or resolution of the Commission and is not prohibited by 7-1-114(g). 37 A.G. Op. 68 (1977).

7-4-2504. Salaries to be fixed by resolution — cost-of-living increments.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 62 substituted "annually adopt a resolution by the date established in 7-6-4036 to" for "by resolution on or before August 1 of each year". Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 near middle after "justice of the peace" inserted "county coroner"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 507 near middle inserted reference to justice of the peace and at end substituted "by adding to the annual salary provided for in 7-4-2503(1) a cost-of-living increment based upon the schedule developed and approved by the county compensation board provided for in 7-4-2503(4)" for "The salaries fixed may be no less than 80% of the annual base salary provided for in 7-4-2503(1) plus a cost-of-living increment based on a percentage of up to 100% of the previous calendar year's consumer price index for all urban consumers, U.S. department of labor, bureau of labor statistics, or other index that the bureau of business and economic research of the university of Montana-Missoula may in the future recognize as the successor to that index" and deleted former third, fourth, and fifth sentences that read: "The county governing body may, however, for all or the remainder of each fiscal year, in conjunction with setting salaries for the same action on the salaries of justices of the peace (if applicable), the county governing body, the county attorney, and the coroner, set the salary at the prior fiscal year level if that level is lower than the level required by this subsection. The cost-of-living increment for each fiscal year must be added to all cost-of-living increments granted for previous years unless salaries were set for the fiscal year at the level of salaries received in the prior fiscal year. In such a case, the cost-of-living increment that would have been received for the fiscal year, computed on the prior fiscal year, may not be added to previous increments"; deleted former (2) and (3) that read: "(2) The county governing body may, in any subsequent fiscal year, restore for 1 or more years the annual cost-of-living increments withheld pursuant to subsection (1). If cost-of-living increments are restored, the longevity increases provided for sheriffs in 7-4-2503, for deputy county attorneys in 7-4-2503(3)(d)(i), and for undersheriffs and deputy sheriffs in 7-4-2510 must also be restored for the years for which the cost-of-living increment was restored.

(3) The county governing body shall by resolution, prior to August 1 of each year, establish the salary of the coroner and may, for all or the remainder of each fiscal year, in conjunction with setting salaries for other officers as provided in subsection (1), set the salary at the prior fiscal year level. The salary must be in effect on the first day of each ensuing fiscal year"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 1, 2001.

1995 Amendments: Chapter 230 in (1), in first sentence after "before", substituted "August 1 of each year" for "July 1, 1992, and on or before July 1 of each year thereafter" and in fourth sentence, after "increment for", deleted "the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1992"; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) If the application of 7-4-2503 does not qualify a county official for a salary increase, the salary base for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1991, must be the fiscal year 1990-91 salary plus 100% of the last previous calendar year's consumer price index for all urban consumers, as set forth in subsection (1)"; near beginning of (3) substituted "August" for "July"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Chapter 233 in two places in (1) deleted references to July 1, 1992, and subsequent years and at beginning of second sentence deleted "Except as provided in subsection (3)" and near middle inserted "a percentage of up to 100%"; deleted former (3) establishing a salary base for fiscal 1991 and subsequent years; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

Name Change — Directions to Code Commissioner: Pursuant to sec. 36, Ch. 308, L. 1995, in this section the Code Commissioner changed "university of Montana" to "university of Montana-Missoula".

1993 Amendment: Chapter 10 in (1), near middle of second sentence, deleted "last" before "previous calendar year's"; and made minor changes in style.

1991 Amendment: Near beginning of (1) substituted "1992" for "1982", at end of first sentence, after "salary", deleted "for cost-of-living increase by adding to the annual salary computed under 7-4-2503 an increment calculated by applying to the annual salary established by 7-4-2503(1) plus previous cost-of-living increments, 70% of", at beginning of second sentence inserted exception clause and language fixing salaries at no less than 80% of annual base salary plus a cost-of-living increment, and near beginning of fourth sentence substituted "1992" for "1983"; and in (3), after "increase", substituted language concerning salary for fiscal year beginning July 1, 1991, being the 1990-91 salary plus 100% of previous calendar year's consumer price index for "of at least 7% on July 1, 1981, his salary on that date shall be increased by an amount sufficient to provide him total salary equal to 7% more than during the previous year". Amendment effective April 22, 1991.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 257 inserted (2) authorizing restoration of cost-of-living increments and longevity increases for Deputy County Attorneys, undersheriffs, and Deputy Sheriffs. Amendment effective June 30, 1989.

Chapter 505 inserted (2) authorizing restoration of cost-of-living increments and longevity increases for County Sheriffs. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

1989 Composite: The language of the amendments made by Ch. 257 and Ch. 505 was identical except for the officials dealt with. The Code Commissioner has combined the amendments in order to keep internal references correct.

1986 Amendment: In (1) inserted second sentence allowing a uniform compensation freeze and following "previous years" inserted remainder of subsection relating to cost-of-living increments after a compensation freeze; and in (3) following "coroner" inserted remainder of first sentence relating to a compensation freeze.

1981 Amendments: Chapter 518 rewrote entire section (see sec. 3, Ch. 518, L. 1981, for text) to provide for cost-of-living increments. For former text see sec. 10, Ch. 443, L. 1979, and sec. 2, Ch. 459, L. 1979. For language of composite section, see 7-4-2504, MCA 1979.

Chapter 575 deleted "(if he receives a salary)" after "county coroner" in two places. Chapter 518 also deleted this language.

Attorney General's Opinions

Seven Percent Increase as Cost of Living Increment — Addition to 1982 Base Salary: The 7% increase in subsection (3) (prior to the 1991 amendment; see also 1995 amendment) of this section must be considered a cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) used to determine salaries for elected county officials in fiscal year 1982 and must be added to the base salary on July 1, 1982, before computing the COLA for fiscal year 1982-83. 43 A.G. Op. 58 (1990).

County Reclassification — Section Application Limited to Initial Salary Computation: The language of this section confines its application to the initial computation of salaries in accordance with the 1981 amendments; therefore, subsection (2) of this section is not applicable to salary adjustments due to reclassification of counties. A county official's base salary established under this section on July 1, 1981, lasts only until county reclassification necessitates a salary adjustment in accordance with 7-4-2503. 42 A.G. Op. 85 (1988).

Change in County Classification — Time for Setting County Officials' Salaries: When a county's classification changes pursuant to 7-1-2111 (now repealed), the salaries of the county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1) must also change. The salaries must change as of July 1 of the following year (see 1995 amendment), with the onset of a new fiscal year for the county. (See 2001 amendment.) 40 A.G. Op. 81 (1984).

Computation of Cost-of-Living Increase: The cost-of-living increase authorized for county officials by this section applies only to the annual base salary plus population increment established by 7-4-2503(1) and not to the additional sums included in the salaries of the Superintendent of Schools, Sheriff, and Commissioners under 7-4-2503(2) and 7-4-2107. (See 2001 amendment.) 39 A.G. Op. 65 (1982).

Full-Time County Attorney — County Population Requirements: A county with a population of less than 30,000 may establish a full-time County Attorney position. The position need not be filled on July 1 but may be filled at some specified reasonable time after July 1 (see 1995 amendment). The salary for such a full-time County Attorney is the same as a full-time County Attorney in a county having more than 30,000 population. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979).

Full-Time County Attorney — Residency Requirements: A practicing attorney who has declared his intention to make a county his permanent home, is actively seeking a permanent residence in that county, and is in the process of terminating his personal business affairs at his former residence has become a resident of the county and is eligible for appointment as a full-time County Attorney once he has resided in the county for 30 days if he becomes a qualified registered elector and meets other qualifications for the office. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979).

7-4-2505. Amount of compensation for deputies and assistants.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 2 in (2)(a) in second sentence after "provided in" substituted "7-4-2503(3)(c)" for "7-4-2503(3)(d)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 27 deleted former (1)(d) that listed the assessor; deleted (2)(c) that provided for deputy assessors' salaries; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1994.

Applicability: Section 171(2), Ch. 27, Sp. L. November 1993, provided that the amendments to this section apply to tax years after December 31, 1993.

1985 Amendment: In (2)(a), in first sentence near middle, after "subsection (1)", inserted "other than a deputy county attorney", and inserted second sentence limiting total salary of a Deputy County Attorney.

1981 Amendment: In (1), substituted "Subject to" for "Except as provided in", and deleted "sheriff" from the list of officers; in (2)(a), substituted "The salary of a deputy or an assistant listed in subsection (1) may not be" for "Except as provided in subsection (2)(b), the salary of no deputy or assistant shall be"; and deleted former subsection (2)(b), which read:

"In fixing the compensation allowed the undersheriff, the board must fix the same at 95% of the salary of the officers under whom such undersheriff is serving. In fixing the compensation allowed the deputy sheriffs, the board must fix the same at 90% of the salary of the officer under whom such deputy sheriff is serving, except in counties of the first, second, or third class, in which the board must fix the same at not less than 75% or more than 90% of the salary of the officer under whom such deputy sheriff is serving."

Case Notes

County Properly Ordered to Pay County Attorney's Salary Increase: Although the Board of County Commissioners had been notified that the state would be unable to pay an increased contribution to the County Attorney's salary, the Board awarded the County Attorney a salary in excess of twice the amount appropriated by the state. When the state's one-half share of the salary failed to cover the salary increase, the County Attorney sued the county for the shortfall. The District Court ordered the county to pay the salary increase, and the county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that counties are responsible for any increases in County Attorneys' salaries that are not taken into account and included in the state appropriation for paying County Attorneys' salaries. Oster v. Valley County, 2006 MT 180, 333 M 76, 140 P3d 1079 (2006).

Equitable Estoppel Inapplicable When County Knew That Insufficient Money Would Be Available to Pay County Attorney's Salary: County Attorney Oster brought an action against Valley County for underpayment of salary. The county contended that Oster should be equitably estopped from bringing suit because Oster actively knew and concealed the fact that the state would be contributing a lesser amount toward Oster's salary and because Oster misled County Commissioners into believing that the state would pay half of Oster's salary increase. The Supreme Court held that equitable estoppel did not apply because the county knew the truth of the facts that Oster allegedly misrepresented at the time that the County Commissioners approved Oster's pay raise. Oster v. Valley County, 2006 MT 180, 333 M 76, 140 P3d 1079 (2006).

Salary of Deputy Sheriff: Plaintiff was not entitled to the salary of a Deputy Sheriff when she did not perform duties required of a Deputy Sheriff. Bynum v. Howard, 34 St. Rep. 1285 (D.C. Mont. 1977) (apparently not reported in Federal Supplement).

Salary for Time Not Served — Illness: Where Deputy Sheriff did not serve for 3 months because of illness, the County Commissioners could not be forced to pay him his salary for those 3 months. State ex rel. Rusch v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 121 M 162, 191 P2d 670 (1948).

Fixing Compensation:

Board of County Commissioners may exercise its statutory power to fix the compensation of deputies and assistants in the county offices by providing for such compensation in the annual budget. State ex rel. Thompson v. Gallatin County, 120 M 263, 184 P2d 998 (1947).

Designation of compensation in the budget is not the only way in which the Board of County Commissioners can exercise its power to fix salaries, but the Board can fix such salaries by minute entry, motion, or in any of the ways employed before passage of the Budget Act (Ch. 148, L. 1929, codified in Title 7, ch. 6, part 23, now repealed). State ex rel. Thompson v. Gallatin County, 120 M 263, 184 P2d 998 (1947).

Where Board of County Commissioners appropriated funds for office at rate of $170 a month but in their journal stated that the salary for the office was fixed by the Board at $150 a month, the salary for the office was $150 a month. State ex rel. Thompson v. Gallatin County, 120 M 263, 184 P2d 998 (1947).

Extra Deputies — Temporary Service: While the Board of County Commissioners had no power to decrease the compensation of regular deputies of county officers fixed by section 25-603, R.C.M. 1947 (since repealed), it has discretion, under this section, to fix the compensation of extra deputies appointed for temporary service at any rate it may deem expedient, provided it does not exceed the rate paid the regular deputies. Modesitt v. Flathead County, 57 M 216, 187 P 911 (1920). See also Farrell v. Yellowstone County, 68 M 313, 218 P 559 (1923).

Attorney General's Opinions

Office Manager/Secretary Defined as Assistant — Determination of Salary: An office manager/secretary hired as a county employee to assist a County Attorney is considered an assistant whose compensation may be set by the Board of County Commissioners under this section. However, the statute is limited to persons who serve as county employees and does not apply to independent contractors or consultants. Assistants must be paid a salary to be determined by the Commissioners at no more than 90% of the principal officer's salary, unless a specific provision allows greater compensation. 46 A.G. Op. 6 (1995).

Authorization by County Commission of Increase in Salary of County Officer: Even if the county budget allows for an increase in the salary of a county officer, only the Board of County Commissioners may authorize an increase through the budgetary process. Therefore, a Clerk of Court is not authorized to promote a deputy clerk to a chief deputy position at a higher pay scale without authorization in the county budget and approval of the Board. 43 A.G. Op. 77 (1990).

No Salary Limitation as to Assistants to County Commissioners: The salaries of administrative assistants employed by a Board of County Commissioners are not limited by 7-4-2505, since County Commissioners are not included in the definitive list of county officers to which that section applies. Salaries of the administrative assistants may be set pursuant to 7-5-2107, which contains no limitation as to amount. 38 A.G. Op. 43 (1979).

Deputies as Ambulance Drivers — Stipends: Deputy Sheriffs receiving maximum statutory salary may receive a stipend for operating the county ambulance in addition to their regular salary. 37 A.G. Op. 13 (1977).

7-4-2507. Deputy sheriff and undersheriff provisions — construction.

Case Notes

Deputy Sheriffs' Overtime and On-Call Time Before and After "Garcia Decision": Section 39-3-405 relates to overtime compensation generally, while 7-4-2507 through 7-4-2509 specifically address the salary and overtime compensation of Deputy Sheriffs. Therefore, under the rule that the specific statute governs over the general, 39-3-405 does not apply to Deputy Sheriffs. Furthermore, 7-4-2507 provides that 7-4-2508 through 7-4-2510 govern if they conflict with any other law. Under 7-4-2509, payment of overtime for time worked beyond the regularly scheduled work period is not mandatory and lies in the discretion of the Board of County Commissioners. Since 39-3-405 does not apply to the deputies, the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and Garcia v. San Antonio Metropolitan Transit Authority, 469 US 528, 83 L Ed 2d 1016, 105 S Ct 1005 (1985), set the threshold (171 hours per 28-day work period) above which the deputies must be paid overtime, retroactive to April 15, 1985, the date Garcia was decided; it could not be argued that the FLSA intended that the lower of the FLSA and the 39-3-405 (160 hours) threshold for a 28-day period should be used to determine when overtime begins. The deputies' claim for compensation for on-call time was another claim for overtime, and payment for on-call time prior to Garcia was in the discretion of the County Commissioners. On-call time since Garcia did not constitute work under a United States Supreme Court test that for FLSA purposes work is physical or mental exertion controlled or required by the employer and pursued necessarily and primarily for the benefit of the employer. Phillips v. Lake County, 222 M 42, 721 P2d 326, 43 St. Rep. 1046 (1986).

Salary for Time Not Served — Illness: Where deputy did not serve 3 months because of illness, he could not, by mandamus, force payment of his salary for those 3 months. State ex rel. Rusch v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 121 M 162, 191 P2d 670 (1948).

Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 302 in (1) increased compensation of the undersheriff from 95% to 98% of the salary of the sheriff; in (2) in each row of table substituted "95%" for "90%"; in (3) at end of introductory clause substituted "following definitions apply" for "term"; in (3)(b) inserted definition of salary of that sheriff; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 36 in (2)(b) at end substituted "office" for "department". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

Case Notes

Calculation of Longevity Using Minimum Base Annual Salary Rather Than Statutory Minimum Allowed: County deputies had a collective bargaining agreement that calculated the base salary for longevity using the percentage of salary that each deputy earned as the base salary of their respective rank. Citing 7-4-2510, the county unilaterally changed the minimum base salary to reflect the lowest possible compensation allowed under 7-4-2508, rather than to reflect each deputy's assigned rank within the department's rank structure, and the deputies protested. Following administrative hearings, the District Court used a rank-based minimum salary rather than the department's minimum salary to determine longevity. The county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. Nothing in 7-4-2510 prevented the county from using a rank-based minimum base annual salary, and it was improper for the county to depart from the terms of the collective bargaining agreement to change to the more limited definition of minimum base annual salary. Clouse v. Lewis & Clark County, 2008 MT 271, 345 M 208, 190 P3d 1052 (2008).

Deputy Salary as Percentage of Sheriff's Salary, Including Supplement: Section 7-4-2510 requires that longevity should be 1% of a deputy's minimum base annual salary. A deputy's salary is based on the salary of the sheriff, which must include the $2,000 statutory supplement provided for a sheriff's salary in 7-4-2503. Clouse v. Lewis & Clark County, 2008 MT 271, 345 M 208, 190 P3d 1052 (2008).

Deputy Sheriffs' Overtime and On-Call Time Before and After "Garcia Decision": Section 39-3-405 relates to overtime compensation generally, while 7-4-2507 through 7-4-2509 specifically address the salary and overtime compensation of Deputy Sheriffs. Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of Public Safety Commission to Set Salary of Deputy Sheriff: In a department of public safety created pursuant to Title 7, ch. 32, part 1, the public safety commission may set the salary of a department (now Sheriff's office) Deputy Sheriff under 7-32-104 at any level at or above the amount that would be paid to the deputy under this section. To the extent that 7-32-104 and this section conflict, the provisions of 7-32-104, which allow the public safety commission to set the salaries of department (now Sheriff's office) employees, are the more specific and therefore are controlling. 48 A.G. Op. 20 (2000).

Calculation of Base Salary of Deputy Sheriff and Undersheriff — Longevity to Include Each Year of Service: The minimum base annual salary of a Deputy Sheriff or undersheriff for purposes of determining longevity payments under 7-4-2510 is based on the Sheriff's base salary as set forth in this section. Each year of service with the Sheriff's Department is included when calculating longevity payments for a Deputy Sheriff or undersheriff. 43 A.G. Op. 44 (1989).

Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of State Law Other Than Montana Minimum Wage and Maximum Hours Law to Workers Covered by Fair Labor Standards Act: The federal Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 requires provisions of state law other than the Montana minimum wage and maximum hours law (Title 39, ch. 3, part 4), which set shorter workweeks for specified groups of employees, to be given effect. 41 A.G. Op. 58 (1986).

Deputy Sheriffs and Undersheriffs — Compensatory Time: Since no statutory right to compensation for overtime for Deputy Sheriffs and undersheriffs existed prior to enactment of 7-4-2509 in 1981, they are not entitled to a cash payment in lieu of compensatory time off for overtime hours worked before July 1, 1981. The enactment of 7-4-2509 was not expressly retroactive. 40 A.G. Op. 55 (1984).

Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 36 in first sentence in two places substituted "office" for "department"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1986 Amendment: Following "service with the department" inserted remainder of first sentence relating to longevity payments and a compensation freeze.

Deputy Salary as Percentage of Sheriff's Salary, Including Supplement: Section 7-4-2510 requires that longevity should be 1% of a deputy's minimum base annual salary. A deputy's salary is based on the salary of the sheriff, which must include the $2,000 statutory supplement provided for a sheriff's salary in 7-4-2503. Clouse v. Lewis & Clark County, 2008 MT 271, 345 M 208, 190 P3d 1052 (2008).

"Year of Service" Defined: As used in this section, "year of service" means calendar year, not 2,080 hours of work. Phillips v. Lake County, 222 M 42, 721 P2d 326, 43 St. Rep. 1046 (1986).

Attorney General's Opinions

Calculation of Base Salary of Deputy Sheriff and Undersheriff — Longevity to Include Each Year of Service: The minimum base annual salary of a Deputy Sheriff or undersheriff for purposes of determining longevity payments under this section is based on the Sheriff's base salary as set forth in 7-4-2508. Each year of service with the Sheriff's Department (now Sheriff's office) is included when calculating longevity payments for a Deputy Sheriff or undersheriff. 43 A.G. Op. 44 (1989).

Mandatory Method of Calculating Longevity — Collective Bargaining Not Applicable: A Board of County Commissioners sought to implement a collective bargaining agreement provision that authorized longevity increases to Deputy Sheriffs, predicated on years of service, including any years during which the Deputy's base salary was set at the same level as the previous year. However, this section constitutes a mandatory condition of employment that a Board of County Commissioners may not deviate from or alter through collective bargaining. Therefore, the collective bargaining agreement provision was held unenforceable to the extent it permitted inclusion of service years for the purpose of calculating longevity pay increases expressly excluded under this section. 43 A.G. Op. 34 (1989). See also 42 A.G. Op. 37 (1987).

Effect of Pay Freeze on Deputy Sheriff's Longevity Pay: If the County Commissioners set the salary of a Deputy Sheriff at the same level as for the previous fiscal year, that year may not be used when calculating longevity pay and the Deputy's longevity pay is, in effect, frozen. If the pay freeze is lifted and the salary increased, the Deputy's longevity pay does not include additional longevity pay for the period when the salary was set at the same level as the prior fiscal year. Pursuant to this section, loss of an increase in longevity pay due to a pay freeze is permanent. 42 A.G. Op. 76 (1988).

Part-Time Deputies — "Year of Service" Defined: Under this section, "year of service" means each 2,080 hours of employment when used to compute longevity payments for deputy sheriffs or undersheriffs who have worked for the department (now Sheriff's office) on a part-time basis. 39 A.G. Op. 78 (1982), overruled in 48 A.G. Op. 19 (2000), in which, pursuant to Phillips v. Lake County, 222 M 42, 721 P2d 326 (1986), the term "year of service" was construed to mean a calendar year.

Case Notes

Passport Execution Not "Official Service": Execution of a passport by a Clerk of District Court is not an "official service" within the meaning of subsection (2) of this section. Platz v. Hamilton, 201 M 184, 653 P2d 144, 39 St. Rep. 2041 (1982).

Retention of Passport Execution Fees by Clerk of District Court: Because the execution of passport applications is not an official duty imposed upon a Clerk of District Court by state statute and since the Legislature has not enacted a specific statute with regard to the disposition of execution fees, the Clerk has no duty to remit the fees to the county general fund. Platz v. Hamilton, 201 M 184, 653 P2d 144, 39 St. Rep. 2041 (1982).

"Fees" Defined: The term "fees", as used in this section, imports specific charges to be collected from private individuals for particular services. St. v. Story, 53 M 573, 165 P 748 (1917).

Clerk of District Court — Probate Fees: The fees of the Clerk in probate proceedings, exacted under section 25-233, R.C.M. 1947 (since repealed), must be paid by him to the County Treasurer, and they become a part of the public money of the county. Hauser v. Miller, 37 M 22, 94 P 197 (1908).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Superintendent Serving as Substitute — No Additional Compensation: A County Superintendent, who is serving as a substitute superintendent is not allowed to charge hourly fees in addition to the regular salary paid by the county in which the County Superintendent is elected since serving as a substitute is part of the statutory job responsibilities. 54 A.G. Op. 1 (2011).

Sheriff Authorized to Accept Compensation From Federal Agency for Performance of Services Outside Official Duties: A Sheriff may receive compensation from a federal agency under the terms of a cooperative law enforcement agreement without violating any Montana statutory or constitutional provision, so long as the services rendered by the Sheriff fall outside the scope of the Sheriff's official duties. 49 A.G. Op. 12 (2001).

Court Reporter Filing Fee — Clerk of District Court to Collect Fee in Appeal From Justice's Court or City Court — Appeal Is "Civil Action" Under Statutes: The Attorney General was asked whether a Clerk of District Court must collect the $20 filing fee, required by 25-1-202 and used to help pay the salary of the court reporter, in appeals filed in District Court from judgments of a Justice's or City Court. The Attorney General concluded that: (1) a private legal action in a Justice's or City Court is a civil action; (2) an appeal from a Justice's or City Court may include appeal of a civil action; (3) an appeal from either of those courts results in most cases in a new trial in District Court and that the need for a court reporter in that instance is obvious; and (4) the payment of the additional $20 filing fee required by 25-1-202 is mandatory. 48 A.G. Op. 1 (1999).

District Court Clerk Not Authorized to Charge Nonparty State Agency for Copies and Certification of Public Records: Access to and fees for copying public court records are not absolute and are controlled by state law. Fees allowed by law are enumerated in 25-1-201, and the collection of those fees is mandatory. Fees for preparing copies and for certification of documents are also specified in that section. Section 25-10-405 clarifies that fees are collectible from state agencies that are a party to an action but has no effect in cases in which the agency is not a litigant. In those cases, the rule in 7-4-2516 applies, exempting agencies of state and county government from paying official fees. Therefore, a Clerk of District Court may not charge a nonparty state agency for copies and certification of public District Court records. 47 A.G. Op. 3 (1997).

County Attorney Serving as City Attorney — Acceptance of Fee From Private Company Prohibited: A full-time County Attorney serving as city attorney pursuant to an interlocal agreement may not personally receive a fee from a private company for work performed on a city-county bond issue. Attorney fees so paid should be remitted to the county general fund. 45 A.G. Op. 14 (1993).

Disposition of Money Received by County Officers for Preparation of Abstracts: Preparation of abstracts by a Clerk of District Court, a County Clerk, or their respective deputies is an official service of the office. Therefore, compensation paid to them by title companies, credit bureaus, banks, realtors, and others for preparation on a regular basis of abstracts of instruments recorded in their respective offices may not be retained for their personal use, but rather must be paid to the county general fund, District Court fund, or state, as provided by law. 43 A.G. Op. 75 (1990).

Passport Fees — Retention by Clerk of Court: County Clerks of Court may personally retain the fees collected for issuance of passports. 34 A.G. Op. 41 (1972).

Motor Vehicle Ownership Transfer — Late Penalty: Penalties assessed for failure to register a motor vehicle pursuant to 61-3-201 must be credited to the county general fund by the County Treasurer. 34 A.G. Op. 38 (1972).

Case Notes

Clerk's Refusal to File Until Fee Paid: It was proper for the Clerk of the District Court to hold proffered answer in suspense and not file it until the officially required filing fee had been paid. Johnson v. Murray, 201 M 495, 656 P2d 170, 39 St. Rep. 2257 (1982).

Payment of Fees to County Clerk: Under subsection (2), the County Clerk may but is not required to demand prepayment of filing or other fees. Subsection (1), having to do with the payment of fees in advance, is inapplicable. Minneapolis Steel & Mach. Co. v. Thomas, 54 M 132, 168 P 40 (1917).

Insufficient Demand: A statement of the amount of the fee for filing made upon a request for the fee amount is not a demand for prepayment as contemplated by subsection (2). Minneapolis Steel & Mach. Co. v. Thomas, 54 M 132, 168 P 40 (1917).

“Fees” Defined: The term “fees”, as used in this section, imports specific charges to be collected from private individuals for particular services. St. v. Story, 53 M 575, 165 P 748 (1917).

What Constitutes Filing: Where a paper entitled to be filed is deposited with the proper custodian, and if prepayment of the filing fee is required, the fee tendered, it is filed, the marking thereof as “filed” not constituting the filing. In re Dewar’s Estate, 10 M 426, 25 P 1026 (1891).

Recovery of Illegal Fees: A civil suit to recover illegal fees that had been demanded and received under color of office can be brought against an officer who has not been convicted in a criminal action. Ming v. Truett, 1 M 322 (1871), overruled on another point in Ming v. Foote, 9 M 201, 23 P 515 (1890).

Liability for County Recording and Copying Fees: The Department of Natural Resources and Conservation must pay the fees set forth in 7-4-2631 for recording of water use permits, despite the language in 7-4-2516, but the County Clerk and Recorder may not collect a fee from the Department for the copying of documents on file with the county. 38 A.G. 7-4-2519. Prohibition upon receiving other fees.

Case Notes

Reward Not a Fee: The State sought treble damages from a County Sheriff for receiving prohibited fees. Summary judgment was granted the Sheriff and upheld on appeal. The Supreme Court held the reward money received by the Sheriff from the state prison was not a fee under 7-4-2519. Further, it was noted that 7-32-2301 deals with the entitlement of Sheriffs to rewards. It does not address rewards from the state prison but does indicate rewards are not equivalent to fees. Finally, the plain language indicates rewards are not covered by the prohibitions of 7-4-2519. “Fees” in that section refers to charges authorized by law to be made by the Sheriff for the performance of specific services enumerated in 7-32-2141 and 7-32-2142. It does not refer to or include reward money. Because 7-4-2519 was the only statute the Sheriff was charged with violating, he was entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law. St. v. DeMers, 192 M 367, 628 P2d 676, 38 St. Rep. 877 (1981), distinguishing State ex rel. Holt v. District Court, 103 M 438, 63 P2d 1026 (1936), and State ex rel. Matson v. O’Hern, 104 M 126, 65 P2d 619 (1937).

Recovery of Illegal Fees: A civil suit to recover illegal fees that had been demanded and received under color of office can be brought against an officer who has not been convicted in a criminal action. *Ming v. Case Notes

Right to Question Legality of Claims against County: The duty of the County Clerk to issue warrants for claims passed upon by the Board of County Commissioners is ministerial only, and he is not clothed with supervisory power to either question or determine the legality of the claims, except where they are void upon their face as without the jurisdiction of the Board to pass upon. State ex rel. Lockwood v. Tyler, 64 M 124, 208 P 1081 (1922).

May Not Question Constitutionality of Statute: A ministerial officer, such as a County Clerk, to whom no injury can result and to whom no violation of duty can be imputed by reason of his compliance with a statute cannot refuse to perform a duty imposed by it on the ground of its unconstitutionality, since such an officer is not liable for his official acts when acting under process, warrants, or other instruments fair upon their face and issued from a superior tribunal or board. State ex rel. Lockwood v. Tyler, 64 M 124, 208 P 1081 (1922).

County Power to Grant Franchises — Interlocal Agreements Not Precluded: Article XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const.; 7-3-144; 7-4-2611; and 7-5-2129, as well as applicable case law, imply that a county vested with general government powers may exercise the power to grant franchises. Under 7-11-104, a city-county interlocal franchise agreement is possible. 42 A.G. Op. 87 (1988).

Record of Board Proceedings: The responsibility of the County Clerk and Recorder, as it relates to proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners, is to record the minutes of the proceedings into the minute book maintained pursuant to 7-5-2129, and to make the book available for public examination upon request. 1993 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 366 at beginning of (1)(a) inserted "subject to subsection (1)(b)"; inserted (1)(b) requiring County Clerk to record instrument or deed evidencing a division or merger of real property only if accompanied by certification from County Treasurer that taxes and special assessments have been paid; and made minor changes in style.

Chapter 420 near beginning of introductory clause, after “record”, deleted “photograph, or correctly copy, separately, in large and well-bound or to be bound separate books, either in a fair hand or” and near end, after “photographic”, inserted “micrographic, or electronic”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 20, 1993.

Style changes in introductory clause, (3)(a), and (3)(b) were slightly different in the two chapters. In each case, the codifier chose the more appropriate of the two.

1981 Amendment: Inserted (3) relating to certification to Department of Revenue on termination of deceased person's interest in nonprobate property.

Case Notes

Recording Not Condition Precedent to Judgment Becoming a Lien: This section and 70-21-306 define the effect of recording a final judgment as far as imparting constructive notice is concerned, but they are not controlling as to when the judgment becomes a lien. Section 25-9-301 determines when the lien becomes effective—that the lien attaches when the judgment is docketed; recordation of the judgment is not made a condition precedent to its becoming a lien. Gaines v. Van Demark, 106 M 1, 74 P2d 454 (1937).

Option to Purchase Land: Since an option to purchase land is not itself a contract to purchase the land, the book kept for the recording of contracts for the purchase or sale of real property is not the proper book for recordation. The miscellaneous record book for the entry of such other items required or permitted by law to be recorded is the proper book for such contracts. Guerin v. Sunburst Oil & Gas Co., 68 M 365, 218 P 949 (1923).

Attorney General's Opinions

Blanket Document Listing Multiple Reconveyances of Trust Indentures Allowed: Generally, a County Clerk and Recorder must record reconveyances of trust indentures, which operate the same as a release or satisfaction of a mortgage. In order to effectuate release of a mortgage, the mortgagee or its agent must acknowledge and certify that a release has taken place by presenting a certificate to the County Clerk and Recorder. There is no requirement that each certificate be on a separate piece of paper. As long as each reconveyance meets the statutory requirements for release of a mortgage, the County Clerk and Recorder is obligated to accept for filing a multiple page or “blanket” document listing more than one reconveyance on each page. 48 A.G. Op. 23 (2000).

Survey Requirements for Remainder Created When Highway Right-of-Way Obtained by State: A County Clerk and Recorder may not require a survey or plat for the recordation of an instrument transferring title to a remainder that was created when the state obtained property for a highway right-of-way. 44 A.G. Op. 25 (1992).

Recordation of Trust Indenture — Amount and Maturity Date Not Required: A County Clerk and Recorder may not refuse to accept for filing a trust indenture that does not include an amount secured and a maturity date because there are no specific requirements that such matters be set forth in the instrument. 41 A.G. Op. 11 (1985).

No Duty to Accept Invalid Continuation of Financing Statement: The County Clerk and Recorder is not required to accept for filing a continuation statement made under 30-9-403 (now repealed) but filed outside the 6-month period required by that section. 40 A.G. Op. 60 (1984).

Recording Prerequisites: Transfers of land that do not involve “divisions of land” or “subdivisions”, as defined by the Montana Subdivision and Platting Act (Title 76, ch. 3), do not require the certificate of survey or a plat before being recorded by the Clerk and Recorder. (See 1993 amendment.) 37 A.G. Op. 88 (1977). See also 44 A.G. Op. 25 (1992).

County Clerk and Recorder — No Refusal to Record a Valid Deed: Since the Clerk and Recorder of a county is not a law enforcement officer and enforcement of a criminal statute is not within his prescribed duties, he may not refuse to record a deed that has not met the prerequisite, set forth in the Montana Subdivision and Platting Act (Title 76, ch. 3), that an approved, certified plat be filed before the land is transferred. 35 A.G. Exemption to Sanitation Review — Petition for Writ of Mandamus to Record Certificate of Survey Properly Dismissed — No Legal Duty to Record Unsupported Claim: The petitioner filed a petition for a writ of mandamus to order the County Clerk and Recorder to record a certificate of survey he filed. The clerk had previously refused to record the document because its certification that the parcels were exempt from sanitation review was not supported by proper evidence. The District Court dismissed the petition, finding that the certification of exemption was not supported by evidence, and therefore the Clerk and Recorder was not under a nondiscretionary duty to record the certificate of survey. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, ruling that the District Court correctly dismissed the petition. Richards v. Gernant, 2020 MT 239, 401 Mont. 364, 472 P.3d 1189.

No Duty of Clerk and Recorder to Record Invalid Deed — Writ of Mandamus Improper: Under this section, a County Clerk and Recorder is obligated to record only an instrument, paper, or notice that is authorized by law to be recorded. Under 76-3-302, a County Clerk and Recorder has a mandatory duty not to accept and record an otherwise proper deed if it fails to comply with the applicable survey requirements. The District Court did not err in refusing to issue a writ of mandamus requiring recording of deeds when a landowner attempted to divide a large parcel of land into smaller parcels by executing a deed in which the landowner was both grantor and grantee, which is not authorized by law, and when the statutorily required plat was not filed. Rocky Mtn. Timberlands, Inc. v. Lund, 265 M 463, 877 P2d 1018, 51 St. Rep. 653 (1994).

Attorney General’s Opinions

No Duty in County Clerk and Recorder to Accept Common-Law Liens for Filing: Although a County Clerk and Recorder has a statutory duty to accept for filing any instrument, paper, or notice authorized by law to be recorded, there is no apparent authority in Montana law for allowing the filing of a common-law lien. It is unclear whether Montana even recognizes common-law liens. Because a common-law lien is not authorized by law to be received, County Clerk and Recorders may refuse to accept for filing written instruments purporting to be liens when the writing does not qualify as a statutory lien or lien created by contract. 38 A.G. Op. 114 (1980).

County Clerk and Recorder — No Refusal to Record a Valid Deed: Since the Clerk and Recorder of a county is not a law enforcement officer and enforcement of a criminal statute is not within his prescribed duties, he may not refuse to record a deed that has not met the prerequisite, set forth in the Montana Subdivision and Platting Act (Title 76, ch. 3), that an approved, certified plat be filed before the land is transferred. 35 A.G. 2001 Amendment: Chapter 156 in introductory clause substituted "payment of the applicable fees" for "payment or tender of the fees therefor"; in (1) after "instruments" deleted "papers, or notices"; in (2) after "instruments" deleted "papers, and notices" and near middle deleted requirement that the certificate state the extent to which the instruments purport to affect the property to which they relate; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-4-2622. Availability of records.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-4-2623. Liability of clerk relating to duties as recorder.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 156 in introductory clause after "clerk" deleted "as ex officio recorder" and after "to whom an instrument" deleted "proved or acknowledged according to law, or any paper or notice which may be recorded by law"; in (1) after "instrument" deleted "paper, or notice"; in (2) substituted "falsely records an instrument or records an instrument in any other manner than as directed in this part" for "records any instruments, papers, or notices untruly or in any other manner than as hereinbefore directed"; deleted former (4) relating to neglecting or refusing to make searches and give certificates and incomplete or defective searches or certificates; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-4-2631. Fees of county clerk.Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 160 in (1)(a) inserted reference to this section; in (1)(l) after "death certificate" substituted "$7" for "$5"; inserted (4)(a) concerning fee transfers to the state special revenue fund and (4)(b) concerning the transfer schedule of the fee; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2021.

2019 Amendment: Chapter 461 in (1)(l) raised fee for a certified copy of a birth certificate from $5 to $8 and for a certified copy of a death certificate from $3 to $5. Amendment effective July 1, 2019.

2015 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 201 in (1)(b) substituted "$25" for "$10"; and in (1)(d) substituted "filed" for "recorded" and after "certificate of survey" inserted "for which a filing fee is not otherwise set by law". Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

Chapter 262 inserted (1)(m) concerning electronic storage of certain board, district, and commission minutes; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

Chapter 380 in (1)(l)(ii) raised fee for death certificate from $3 to $15 and inserted remainder of subsection setting fee of $6 for additional copy of death certificate; inserted (1)(l)(iii) concerning authority for county to determine fee for filing death certificate; inserted (4) concerning transferring death certificate fees to department of labor and industry; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 4, 2015, and terminates June 30, 2017.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 207 in (1)(b) increased fee from $5 to $10; in (1)(c) increased fee from $5 to $25; inserted (1)(d) regarding $1 fee; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

2011 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 215 deleted former (1)(a) and (1)(b) that read: "(a) for recording and indexing each certificate of location of a quartz or placer mining claim or millsite claim, including a certificate that the instrument has been recorded with seal affixed, $6;

(b) for recording and indexing each affidavit of annual labor on a mining claim, including certificate that the instrument has been recorded with seal affixed:

(i) for the first mining claim in the affidavit, $3; and

(ii) for each additional mining claim included in it, 50 cents"; inserted (2) regarding fees for certain mining claims; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

Chapter 347 in (1) inserted "7-2-2803(4)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 571 in (1) near beginning of introductory clause after "7-4-2632" inserted "and 7-4-2637". Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 305 in (1)(j) substituted "Title 30, chapter 9, part 5 [now repealed]" for "30-9-401 through 30-9-407"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1991 Amendment: In (1)(c) increased fee for filing and indexing from $2 to $5; in (1)(m) increased birth certificate fee from $3 to $5; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 37 in (1)(m) changed fee for certified copy of birth or death certificate from $2 to $3. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

Chapter 292 at beginning of second sentence of (2) substituted "If a" for "These fees must be paid by a", after "agency" inserted "or political subdivision has requested an account with the county clerk, any applicable fees must be paid", and before "basis" substituted "periodic" for "monthly".

1987 Amendment: In (1)(j) substituted "under" for "in".

1985 Amendments: Chapter 14 inserted (1)(l) relating to instruments not expressly provided for.

Chapter 27 in (1)(f)(ii) increased fee from $1 to $2; and deleted former (1)(k) that read: "for documents requiring multiple indexing (including but not limited to mortgages; releases; deeds; certificates of location; affidavits of annual labor on mining claims; assignments of leases; assignments of mortgages; oil, gas, and mineral leases; releases of oil, gas, and mineral leases; assignments of overriding royalties; executions; lis pendens; attachments; and all liens), 50 cents per entry in excess of the first entry contained in a single document".

Chapter 220 deleted former (1)(d) that read: "for filing and indexing each certificate of fictitious name, $3".

1983 Amendment: At end of (1)(k), changed "50 cents per index" to "50 cents per entry" and "the first index" to "the first entry"; in (1)(o), inserted "certified" before "copy".

Appropriate Fee for Recording Blanket Document Listing Multiple Reconveyances of Trust Indentures: A flat fee of $6 is chargeable by the County Clerk and Recorder for each page of a blanket document listing multiple reconveyances of trust indentures. 48 A.G. Op. 23 (2000).

Disposition of Money Received by County Officers for Preparation of Abstracts: Preparation of abstracts by a Clerk of District Court, a County Clerk, or their respective deputies is an official service of the office. Therefore, compensation paid to them by title companies, credit bureaus, banks, realtors, and others for preparation on a regular basis of abstracts of instruments recorded in their respective offices may not be retained for their personal use, but rather must be paid to the county general fund, District Court fund, or state, as provided by law. 43 A.G. Op. 75 (1990).

Fee for Recording Documents for Mining Claims: Both 7-4-2631 and 7-4-2632 appear to apply to recording mining documents by mechanical means. Section 7-4-2632 was originally enacted as an amendatory addition to the present 7-4-2631. Both were originally parts of section 25-231, R.C.M. 1947, and were separated by the recodification of the R.C.M. into the MCA. The legislative intent indicates that the fee prescribed in 7-4-2632 was originally enacted as an alternative fee rather than an additional fee. When recording documents for mining claims by mechanical means, the Clerk and Recorder is to charge only the fee prescribed by 7-4-2632. 40 A.G. Op. 58 (1984).

Computation of Charges — Entries in Several Indexes: The charge to be computed for multiple entries in several indexes under 7-4-2631(1)(k) is 50 cents an index in excess of the first index contained in the document regardless of the number of entries made in the index. 39 A.G. Op. 64 (1982).

Liability for County Recording and Copying Fees: The Department of Natural Resources and Conservation must pay the fees set forth in 7-4-2631 for recording of water use permits, despite the language in 7-4-2516, but the County Clerk and Recorder may not collect a fee from the Department for the copying of documents on file with the county. 38 A.G. Op. 36 (1979), overruling 37 A.G. Op. 146 (1978).

County Clerk — Joint Tenancy Terminations: County Clerk and Recorders are not required to issue "transfers of title" to survivors of a joint tenancy interest. Rather, upon filing of the application and certificates (form INH-3), the Clerk should index the transfer in the grantor and grantee index, noting the time and place of filing. 37 A.G. Op. 134 (1978).

1991 Amendment: Increased recording fee from $5 to $6. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

1985 Amendment: Increased charge from $2.50 to $5.

1983 Amendment: Increased the per page charge from $2 to $2.50.

Case Notes

Student Attorney Considered to Be Practicing Law: Following the resignation of the acting County Attorney, Jefferson County Commissioners interviewed applicants and subsequently selected Valerie Wilson to fill the position effective August 18, 1995. To be qualified for the position, state law requires an attorney to be admitted to practice for at least 5 years prior to appointment or election. The District Court concluded that although Wilson had begun practicing law as a student attorney in 1990, she was not admitted to the Montana Bar until October 1991 and thus would not achieve the required 5 years until October 1996. On appeal, the Supreme Court reversed, ruling that state law does not require that one must be admitted to the State Bar in order to be "deemed practicing law" in Montana. Certification of student attorneys by Supreme Court order along with certification by the dean of the law school provide the guidelines for admission of a student attorney to the practice of law. Shapiro v. Jefferson County, 278 M 109, 923 P2d 543, 53 St. Rep. 848 (1996).

Full-Time County Attorney — County Population Requirements: A county with a population of less than 30,000 may establish a full-time County Attorney position. The position need not be filled on July 1 but may be filled at some specified reasonable time after July 1. The salary for such a full-time County Attorney is the same as a full-time County Attorney in a county having more than 30,000 population. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979), followed in 42 A.G. Op. 125 (1988).

Full-Time County Attorney — Residency Requirements: A practicing attorney who has declared his intention to make a county his permanent home, is actively seeking a permanent residence in that county, and is in the process of terminating his personal business affairs at his former residence has become a resident of the county and is eligible for appointment as a full-time County Attorney once he has resided in the county for 30 days if he becomes a qualified registered elector and meets other qualifications for the office. 38 A.G. Op. 22 (1979), followed in 42 A.G. Op. 125 (1988).

7-4-2702. Procedure to fill vacancy in office of county attorney.

Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 160 near beginning deleted prerequisite that there be no licensed attorney residing in county and at end inserted authorization for County Commissioners to appoint an attorney to fill vacancy; deleted former provisions regarding employment, duties, and compensation of acting County Attorney; deleted (2) containing requirement for County Commissioners to appoint a resident attorney to fill vacancy of County Attorney rather than special attorney (see 1997 Session Law for former text); and made minor changes in style.

Attorney General's Opinions

Appointment of County Attorney — Procedure — Eligibility: In a county with a population of less than 30,000, if no licensed attorney (see 1997 amendment) in the county wishes to be appointed County Attorney, the Board of County Commissioners should proceed to fill a vacancy under this section as if there were no licensed attorneys in the county. If one or more licensed attorneys are residents of the county and wish to be appointed but the County Commissioners do not want to appoint one of them, the County Commissioners may recruit and appoint an out-of-county attorney only if the attorney will be a county resident and meet other eligibility requirements by the time of appointment. 42 A.G. Op. 125 (1988).

2007 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Chapter 230 in (2) at beginning inserted exception clause, after "county" substituted "in which the office of county attorney is a full-time position pursuant to 7-4-2706" for "with a population in excess of 30,000", and at end deleted "and except as provided in subsection (4)"; in (3) at beginning inserted exception clause, after "county" substituted "in which the office of county attorney is a full-time position pursuant to 7-4-2706 and" for "with a population in excess of 30,000", and at end deleted "and except as provided in subsection (4)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

Legislative Findings: Section 1, Ch. 230, L. 2007, provided: "The legislature finds that:

(1) a significant portion of the work done by county attorneys is for the prosecution of criminal cases under state law and for the enforcement of state civil law concerning child abuse and neglect pursuant to Title 41, chapter 3;

(2) the county attorney workloads vary greatly from county to county;

(3) it is in the state's best interest to promote consistent statewide prosecution services and to support the office of county attorney as a career position that will attract experienced and well-qualified attorneys, especially considering the enactment of a statewide public defender system in 2005;

(4) because a county attorney is an elected county official and has a vital role in providing civil legal services to the county and because each county has unique needs to consider, the county attorney's salary should be set by the county;

(5) because county attorneys provide both state and county services, the responsibility for funding county attorney salaries should be a responsibility shared by the state and the counties; and

(6) the state's funding responsibility should be met through a predictable and ongoing appropriation, thus through a statutory appropriation."

1981 Amendment: Inserted "and except as provided in subsection (4)" at the end of (2) and (3); inserted (4) allowing up to 3 months in office to complete pending private matters.

Case Notes

Prosecutorial Discretion — Deputy's Prior Representation: The Lemmons were divorced after 20 years of marriage. Leroy was seeing Donna Myers, and Koralyn was seeing John Sweeting. Myers and Sweeting had just ended a personal and business relationship. Sweeting asked Koralyn to get a briefcase out of Leroy's truck. The briefcase actually belonged to Myers. Leroy and Myers returned to the truck and found the briefcase missing. They concluded Koralyn had taken it since the truck was not broken into. Leroy and Myers went to Koralyn's home. She heard them drive up and put a gun in the waistband of her pants. Leroy and Koralyn fought, and Leroy struck her in the head with the gun. Leroy and Myers put Koralyn on the floor of the truck and went to the Sheriff's department. The Sheriff was not immediately available, so Leroy and Myers left, with Koralyn still on the floor of the truck, to find Sweeting. A high speed chase ensued in which the cars rammed together and gunshots were exchanged. The chase ended when Leroy's transmission caught fire. The charges arising from the pursuit were dropped. Leroy was charged with aggravated assault and kidnapping. He was convicted of assault and unlawful restraint. Leroy contended the County Attorney abused his discretion in not acting on his complaints against Koralyn and for not disqualifying the office since a deputy had represented Koralyn in the divorce. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that the abuse of discretion issue had not been raised at trial and could not be raised on appeal. The court also stated that selectivity in enforcement is not a violation of the U. S. Constitution if the selection is not based on an unjustifiable or arbitrary classification. The court construed DR 5-105(D) to concern conflicts in representation, not prosecution. Also, the court stated that it was not established that the County Attorney would have been disqualified from the prosecution for representing Koralyn, let alone a deputy. St. v. Lemmon, 214 M 121, 692 P2d 455, 41 St. Rep. 2359 (1984). See also Helena Parents Comm'n v. Lewis & Clark County Comm'rs, 277 M 367, 922 P2d 1140, 53 St. Rep. 687 (1996).

Attorney Fees Award — Disposition: Attorney fees awarded on appeal of Fair Labor Standards Act claim must be paid into the Cascade County general fund and not given to the County Attorney as private attorney fees because the population of Cascade County is in excess of 30,000 people, prohibiting profits by the County Attorney from private practice of law. St. v. Holman Aviation Co., 176 M 31, 575 P2d 925 (1978).

County Attorney Serving as City Attorney — Acceptance of Fee From Private Company Prohibited: A full-time County Attorney serving as city attorney pursuant to an interlocal agreement may not personally receive a fee from a private company for work performed on a city-county bond issue. Attorney fees so paid should be remitted to the county general fund. 45 A.G. Op. 14 (1993).

Rural Improvement Districts — Representation by Part-Time County Attorney in Private Practice Permitted: After a rural improvement district has been created pursuant to 7-12-2113, a part-time County Attorney may represent a rural improvement district in his private practice and receive payment for such legal representation. 40 A.G. Op. 27 (1983).

State Conservation Districts — Legal Representation: The Attorney General is responsible for civil legal representation upon request from supervisors of a state conservation district, but private counsel may be employed as Special Assistant Attorneys General. The compensation may be set by the supervisors and becomes a district obligation. County Attorneys' duty to represent districts extends only to giving their opinion in writing to the officers of the district on matters pertaining to their offices. 37 A.G. Op. 76 (1977).

Successor to Part-Time County Attorney: The appointed or elected successor to a part-time County Attorney may complete that term on a part-time basis. 36 A.G. Op. 115 (1976).

7-4-2706. County attorney to be full or part time — resolution.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 230 in (1)(a) near end after "full-time" inserted "or part-time" and after "position" deleted "subject to the provisions of 7-4-2701 and 7-4-2704" and deleted former second sentence that read: "The salary for this position is the salary established pursuant to 7-4-2503"; inserted (1)(b) requiring that a copy of a resolution be provided to the department of justice; in (2) substituted "In a county with a population of 30,000 or more, the office of county attorney must be a full-time position" for "In any county in which the office of county attorney has been established as a full-time position under subsection (1), the county commissioners may, by resolution and upon the consent of the county attorney, establish the office as a part-time position on July 1 of any year"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

(1) a significant portion of the work done by county attorneys is for the prosecution of criminal cases under state law and for the enforcement of state civil law concerning child abuse and neglect pursuant to Title 41, chapter 3;

(2) the county attorney workloads vary greatly from county to county;

(3) it is in the state's best interest to promote consistent statewide prosecution services and to support the office of county attorney as a career position that will attract experienced and well-qualified attorneys, especially considering the enactment of a statewide public defender system in 2005;

(4) because a county attorney is an elected county official and has a vital role in providing civil legal services to the county and because each county has unique needs to consider, the county attorney's salary should be set by the county;

(5) because county attorneys provide both state and county services, the responsibility for funding county attorney salaries should be a responsibility shared by the state and the counties; and

(6) the state's funding responsibility should be met through a predictable and ongoing appropriation, thus through a statutory appropriation."

2001 Amendment: Chapter 507 in (1) at end of second sentence substituted "the salary established pursuant to 7-4-2503" for "the salary provided by 7-4-2503 for the office of county attorney in a county with a population in excess of 30,000". Amendment effective May 1, 2001.

1981 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to reducing the office from full- to part-time.

County Attorney Serving as City Attorney — Acceptance of Fee From Private Company Prohibited: A full-time County Attorney serving as city attorney pursuant to an interlocal agreement may not personally receive a fee from a private company for work performed on a city-county bond issue. Attorney fees so paid should be remitted to the county general fund. 45 A.G. Op. 14 (1993).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of County Commissioners to Employ Private Attorney: A County Attorney may not unreasonably withhold his consent to the employment of another attorney by the Board of County Commissioners to perform legal services in connection with the civil business of the county. The decision of a County Attorney to withhold his consent is subject to the supervisory authority of the Attorney General. 41 A.G. Op. 34 (1985). See 1989 amendment that does away with the requirement of obtaining the County Attorney's consent.

1991 Amendments: Chapter 7 inserted (2)(e) requiring County Attorney to act as counsel for a county hospital board; and made minor changes in style.

Chapter 88 in (2)(b), after "districts", inserted "and fire service areas".

1989 Amendment: Inserted (2)(d) requiring a County Attorney to act as weed district counsel upon request; and made minor changes in form.

Case Notes

No Opportunity for Parties to Address Issues — Award of Attorney Fees Premature: An award of attorney fees based on this section is premature unless and until an appropriate record is created and the parties have a full and fair opportunity to address the issues. Clark v. Dussault, 265 M 479, 878 P2d 239, 51 St. Rep. 642 (1994).

County Attorney — Conflict of Interests: The County Attorney should advise the school boards they should retain independent counsel to raise the privilege against self-incrimination as a defense to interrogatories propounded by the Human Rights Commission in the investigation of alleged violations of the antidiscrimination law since it is his duty to obtain the evidence and to prosecute if he determines there is a criminal violation. School District v. Human Rights Comm'n, 173 M 113, 566 P2d 799 (1977).

Legal Adviser of Justice of Peace: It is the duty of the County Attorney to advise the Justice of the Peace in preparation of a proper record for appeal to the District Court, and improper submission of such record may not bar defendant's right to appeal. Clark v. District Court, 142 M 56, 381 P2d 472 (1963); Reidelbach v. District Court, 142 M 52, 381 P2d 470 (1963).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Attorney Not Obligated to Serve Hospital District: A County Attorney has no obligation to act as legal counsel for a hospital district formed under 7-34-2101. 43 A.G. Op. 15 (1989).

Authority of County Commissioners to Employ Private Attorney: A County Attorney may not unreasonably withhold his consent to the employment of another attorney by the Board of County Commissioners to perform legal services in connection with the civil business of the county. The decision of a County Attorney to withhold his consent is subject to the supervisory authority of the Attorney General. 41 A.G. Op. 34 (1985). See 1989 amendment that does away with the requirement of obtaining the County Attorney's consent.

District Boards of Health — Formation and Insurance — County Attorney Not Legal Advisor: A District Board of Health formed pursuant to 50-2-107 stands in place of the County Board of Health in those counties that formed the District Board of Health. Once a county joins a District Board of Health, there is no need for the county to maintain a County Board of Health. The District Board of Health has the responsibility of providing its own legal advisor because there is no specific statutory mandate that the County Attorney act as legal advisor to the District Board of Health. The counties creating a District Board of Health are responsible for providing liability insurance for their District Board of Health. 41 A.G. Op. 22 (1985).

Rural Improvement Districts — County Attorney Not Legal Advisor: Except for legal work required by the Board of County Commissioners in connection with the creation of a rural improvement district, it is not the duty of a County Attorney to represent rural improvement districts formed under Title 7, ch. 12, part 21. 40 A.G. Op. 27 (1983).

Rural Improvement Districts — Representation by Part-Time County Attorney in Private Practice Permitted: After a rural improvement district has been created pursuant to 7-12-2113, a part-time County Attorney may represent a rural improvement district in his private practice and receive payment for such legal representation. 40 A.G. Op. 27 (1983).

County Attorney to Provide Legal Services — Conservation District: Sections 7-4-2711 and 76-15-319 require the County Attorney to provide upon request such legal services as the conservation district may require. 38 A.G. Op. 73 (1980).

Defense of County Officers: The County Attorney is not responsible for defending lawsuits brought against a county official in his individual capacity. 37 A.G. Op. 171 (1978).

State Conservation Districts — Legal Representation: The Attorney General is responsible for civil legal representation upon request from supervisors of a state conservation district, but private counsel may be employed as Special Assistant Attorneys General. The compensation may be set by the supervisors and becomes a district obligation. County Attorneys' duty to represent districts extends only to giving their opinion in writing to the officers of the district on matters pertaining to their offices. 37 A.G. Op. 76 (1977).

County Attorney — Fees in Addition to Salary: A County Attorney may not accept a fee from the County Commissioners, in addition to his salary as County Attorney, for prosecuting an appeal from a decision of the State Tax Appeal Board (now Montana Tax Appeal Board) in which the county has intervened as party plaintiff. 37 A.G. Op. 63 (1977).

Joint Employment: A County Attorney, for purposes of administration, is jointly employed by both the county and the state. 36 A.G. Op. 32 (1975).

Case Notes

Failure of District Court to Grant Motions to Dismiss as Directed by Attorney General for Government Misconduct — Violation of Separation of Powers: The Attorney General directed the Lincoln County Attorney to file motions to dismiss charges against certain criminal defendants for the reason that outrageous government misconduct had occurred in the course of the prosecution. The Lincoln County Attorney filed the motions, but they were denied by the District Court. In a proceeding for supervisory control, the Supreme Court held that the Attorney General was within his authority to direct the County Attorney to move to dismiss the charges and held that the Attorney General's conclusion that there had been outrageous government misconduct in the cases served as a basis under 46-13-401(1) for the District Court to dismiss the charges. The refusal of the District Court to dismiss the charges was an abuse of discretion and a violation of the doctrine of separation of powers. By refusing to grant the motions to dismiss, the District Court intruded upon the lawful functions of the County Attorney and the Attorney General, who belong to the Executive Branch of government. State ex rel. Fletcher v. District Court, 260 M 410, 859 P2d 992, 50 St. Rep. 992 (1993). See also St. v. Schneiderhan, 261 M 161, 862 P2d 37, 50 St. Rep. 1242 (1993).

Authority of Prosecutor to Charge Under Alternate Statutes: Defendants Richard and David Fertterer were convicted of felony criminal mischief for illegally killing game. They contended on appeal that they should have been charged under the misdemeanor provisions of Title 87 and not under the felony provisions of Title 45. Citing St. v. Brady, 249 M 290, 816 P2d 413 (1991), the Supreme Court held that the state has the authority to charge under any statute if the conduct of the defendants meets the elements of the crime. St. v. Fertterer, 255 M 73, 841 P2d 467, 49 St. Rep. 846 (1992).

County Attorney's Discretion to Bring Action — Prosecutorial Authority Not Exceeded: In a suit against a county for liability of the County Attorney while carrying out county policy, the Supreme Court found no evidence or specific allegation that the County Attorney exceeded his authority or was derelict in his duty under the law. A determination by the County Attorney to bring an action is discretionary and is his duty under the law. Ronek v. Gallatin County, 227 M 514, 740 P2d 1115, 44 St. Rep. 1275 (1987).

Delegation of Powers Restricted: County Attorney cannot delegate to unofficial counsel his right to advise the grand jury, assist them in their investigations, and examine witnesses, and an order of the District Judge appointing such special prosecutor when the County Attorney was present and able to act could not give such authority. State ex rel. Porter v. District Court, 124 M 249, 220 P2d 1035 (1950).

Duty to Prosecute: Except when the County Attorney is himself the accused, the duty devolves upon him to prosecute public offenses. State ex rel. McGrade v. District Court, 52 M 371, 157 P 1157 (1916).

Duty Upon Appeal to Supreme Court — Expenses: After a criminal case has been appealed to the Supreme Court, the duties of the County Attorney therein and his power to contract expenses for the county cease. Independent Publishing Co. v. Lewis & Clark County, 30 M 83, 75 P 860 (1904).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Attorney as Employee for Purposes of Lawsuit Regarding Administrative Actions: A County Attorney is not liable for civil damages for conduct within the scope of his prosecutorial duties; however, that immunity does not extend to the discretionary administrative business of running a County Attorney's office. Thus, a County Attorney is considered a county employee for purposes of the Montana Comprehensive State Insurance Plan and Tort Claims Act whenever the County Attorney is named in a civil lawsuit for actions regarding county administrative business, such as the hiring and firing of staff. 44 A.G. Op. 29 (1992).

County Responsible for Charges Incurred by City Police — Criminal Prosecutions: The county bears the financial responsibility for charges incurred at the request of the County Attorney, after an arrest by city police, for the preservation and preparation of evidence to be used in felony cases. 38 A.G. Op. 94 (1980).

Private Citizen Cannot Prosecute Complaint: Since the term "magistrate" includes Justices of the Peace in this section, the County Attorney is charged with the responsibility of prosecuting complaints in Justices' Courts and a Justice of the Peace cannot allow a private citizen to prosecute a complaint. However, a County Attorney is vested with normal discretion and need not file and prosecute every individual's complaint when there is insufficient evidence to warrant prosecution or when such a prosecution would not be in the interests of justice. 36 A.G. Op. 47 (1975).

Joint Employment: A County Attorney, for purposes of administration, is jointly employed by both the county and the state. 36 A.G. Op. 32 (1975).

Case Notes

Failure to Appeal County Commission Decision — Not a Bar Under Section: Failure of a taxpayer to appeal to the District Court from an order of the Board of County Commissioners allowing a claim against the county under the authority given him by 7-6-2424 does not limit the right of the County Attorney to sue in the name of the county to recover money illegally paid under this section. Carbon County v. Draper, 84 M 413, 276 P 667 (1929).

Failure to Bring Action: Where a County Attorney fails or refuses to bring an action to recover county funds illegally paid out, he may be compelled to act by mandamus or proceedings for his summary removal may be instituted. Gregg v. Bayers, 73 M 165, 235 P 337 (1925).

Taxpayer Not Real Party in Interest: Under this section an action to recover county funds unlawfully paid must be brought by the County Attorney in the name of the county, it being the real party in interest, and cannot therefore be maintained by a taxpayer. Gregg v. Bayers, 73 M 165, 235 P 337 (1925).

Case Notes

Failure of State to Appeal — County Attorney Representation of State Position as Sufficient Opportunity for Hearing: Despite a District Court order in 1993, Sheppard was not admitted to phase II of the sexual offender program at the state prison. In 1995, Sheppard moved the District Court to order his enrollment in the program, serving the motion on the County Attorney who had prosecuted him for the underlying offense, but not on the state attorney for the Department of Corrections. The County Attorney appeared at the hearing on the motion and, pursuant to this section, advanced the state's position that Sheppard was not eligible for the treatment program because he failed to accept responsibility for the crime. The court affirmed its 1993 order and ordered that Sheppard be allowed into the program. The state did not timely appeal the decision and thus was bound by the 1993 order. The representation by the County Attorney of the state's position at the hearing, coupled with the state's opportunity to address the issue at prior hearings, was adequate consideration. St. v. Sheppard, 277 M 76, 919 P2d 1057, 53 St. Rep. 548 (1996).

County Responsibility for Medical Costs of Detained Person Unable to Pay — "Nature of the Crime" Approach: In determining whether a city or a county is responsible for medical costs incurred by a person ultimately charged with a violation of state law but who is unable to pay, the Supreme Court adopted the "nature of the crime" approach. This approach determines financial responsibility not on the basis of which agency first takes a person into custody, but rather on the basis of the crime charged. Because the county is vested with the primary responsibility for enforcing state law and maintaining facilities to accomplish that responsibility, performance of the task necessarily includes assumption of the associated financial burden. Mont. Deaconess Medical Center v. Johnson, 232 M 474, 758 P2d 756, 45 St. Rep. 1207 (1988).

County Attorney's Discretion to Bring Action — Prosecutorial Authority Not Exceeded: In a suit against a county for liability of the County Attorney while carrying out county policy, the Supreme Court found no evidence or specific allegation that the County Attorney exceeded his authority or was derelict in his duty under the law. A determination by the County Attorney to bring an action is discretionary and is his duty under the law. Ronek v. Gallatin County, 227 M 514, 740 P2d 1115, 44 St. Rep. 1275 (1987).

Power of Attorney General to Institute Actions in District Court:

Although County Attorney may be ordered by Attorney General to initiate a felony prosecution in a District Court, the Attorney General has no power to initiate the action independent of the County Attorney. State ex rel. Woodahl v. District Court, 159 M 112, 495 P2d 182 (1972).

The statutes of this state do not authorize the institution of an action in the District Courts by the Attorney General on behalf of the state, but rather they specifically state that such an action must be brought by the County Attorney of the county; however, under the common-law powers and duties of the Attorney General, he can institute such an action where the public interest is affected and the state is a party in interest. State ex rel. Olsen v. P.S.C., 129 M 106, 283 P2d 594 (1955); State ex rel. Ford v. Young, 54 M 401, 170 P 947 (1918); State ex rel. Nolan v. District Court, 22 M 25, 55 P 916 (1899).

Prosecution in Name of State: Criminal cases arising under the state laws must be prosecuted in the name of the state and by the County Attorney under this section and Art. VIII, sec. 27, 1889 Mont. Const. (No comparable provision in 1972 Mont. Const., however, the provision is codified at 46-11-401). State ex rel. Streit v. Justice Court, 45 M 375, 123 P 405 (1912).

Supervision by Attorney General: The County Attorney, in his every duty, is under the supervisory powers of the Attorney General. There are no official acts to be discharged by him in the performance of which he may not, where public interests require it, be assisted by that official. State ex rel. Nolan v. District Court, 22 M 25, 55 P 916 (1899).

Chapter 622 in (1), substituted "registered professional engineer or registered professional land surveyor" for "professional engineer, not less than 22 years of age" and in second sentence, after "engineering", inserted "or land surveying"; and in (2) after "engineering", inserted "or land surveying".

Case Notes

Test of Statute's Constitutionality: The constitutionality of a statute is tested by the constitution in effect when the law was enacted. The recodification of a statute does not act as a reenactment of the law but is merely a ministerial and administrative function. Therefore, appellant could not be denied his right to hold the office of County Surveyor as the statute was unconstitutional at its inception and was not reenacted under the 1972 Constitution. *Gallatin County v. Purchase of Deepfreeze: County Surveyor could not bind the county in ordering, receiving, charging, and purchasing a deepfreeze. Although the written order described the item as a countershaft and pulley and the county paid the claim, the payment of the claim by the county did not ratify the actions of the County Surveyor or make the transaction a legal sale of the freezer to the county. *St. v. 1995 Amendment: Chapter 24 in (1) inserted second sentence allowing adoption of rules regarding education standards and procedures; and in (2)(b), at beginning of second sentence, inserted "Unless there are exigent circumstances" and inserted third sentence allowing extension of the 2-year period due to exigent circumstances.

1995 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 24, L. 1995, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill because 7-4-2905 grants rulemaking authority to the board of crime control. The rules should provide for:

- (1) essential training of coroners;
- (2) a basic training course or its equivalent;
- (3) continued training courses and education crucial to the professional standards of coroners and deputy coroners;
- (4) board review of training schools other than those operated by the state to determine whether they meet board requirements for training; and
- (5) board review of exigent circumstances that might allow a waiver of the 2-year time period for training."

Case Notes

Appointment of Chief of Police and Police Officers: Insofar as the method of appointment of members of the police force, including the Chief of Police, is concerned, this section is repealed by the Metropolitan Police Act (Ch. 136, L. 1907, codified primarily in Title 7, ch. 41). The method of appointment and removal by the later law is wholly inconsistent with the notion that the Mayor and Council are authorized to exercise the power of appointment as provided in the older law. State ex rel. Wynne v. Quinn, 40 M 472, 107 P 506 (1910).

Execution of Power Granted: The grant of power contained in this section, in the matter of prescribing the duties and fixing the compensation of city officers, is subject not only to the express and implied limitations found elsewhere in the title under which the section falls but contains in itself a limitation as to the mode in which the power granted may be executed. McGillic v. Corby, 37 M 249, 95 P 1063 (1908).

Attorney General's Opinions

Administrative Assistant — Mayoral Appointment: Although the City Council's contract and budget approval powers may affect the mayor's practical ability to provide a particular compensation amount to an administrative assistant or establish other employment conditions, they do not obviate his authority to fill that position without Council approval. Under 7-3-212, a mayor may appoint an administrative assistant without the approval of the City Council. 41 A.G. Op. 45 (1986).

Reapportionment — Holdover Aldermen: There is no provision in the Montana Constitution or statutes that authorizes the shortening of an alderman's term of office. The fact that ward boundaries may change as a result of reapportionment and that some voters may be represented for 2 years by an alderman for whom they had no opportunity to vote has not justified a deviation from state law, the shortening of terms, in other jurisdictions. Where state law provides for the length of term of an elected official and for the staggering of terms to insure continuity and stability, those requirements are paramount to the temporary disenfranchisement that necessarily follows a reapportionment. Montana state law regarding 4-year staggered terms for aldermen and the absence of any applicable statute authorizing the removal of incumbents from office after reapportionment determine that an alderman elected to a 4-year term in 1982 need not run for reelection in 1983 as a result of reapportionment and redistricting. 40 A.G. Op. 1 (1983).

1989 Amendment: Near end of (3), before "city court", substituted "appoint a justice of the peace or the city judge of another city as judge of the" for "designate a justice's court to act as".

1987 Amendment: In (3), at end, inserted "or may designate a justice's court to act as city court as provided in 3-11-205".

Case Notes

Commissioner of Public Works: Commissioner of Public Works, appointed by the Mayor, being a public officer of the city, was under a duty to account for all funds which might come into his hands as such officer, including funds of public housing projects. Roundup v. Liebetrau, 134 M 114, 327 P2d 810 (1958).

Attorney General's Opinions

Appointment of City Judge by Third-Class City: Under this section, the governing body of a third-class city has the authority to determine by ordinance how a City Judge is selected.

However, nothing in statute precludes the city from amending the ordinance in order to provide for the election of the judge. Therefore, when a city of the third class adopts a commission-manager form of government, the city is not bound by 7-3-4462, which requires election of a City Judge, but may continue to appoint its judge under an ordinance passed pursuant to this section. 45 A.G. Op. 15 (1993).

1989 Amendment: Near end of (3), before "city court", substituted "appoint a justice of the peace or the city judge of another city to be judge of the" for "designate a justice's court to act as".

1987 Amendment: Substituted (3) relating to appointment or election of a city judge or designation of a Justice's Court for former (3) that read: "The governing body of the town shall appoint a city judge or may designate a justice of the peace to act as city judge as provided in 3-11-205."

1981 Amendment: Inserted (1)(c) that reads: "one city judge"; inserted "except for the city judge" in (2); inserted (3) relating to decision on election or appointment of city judge.

Attorney General's Opinions

Residency for Justice of the Peace Serving as City Judge: A Justice of the Peace may not be appointed to serve as a City Judge in a town in which he does not reside without violating Art. VII, sec. 9, Mont. Const. 41 A.G. Op. 82 (1986). See 1989 amendment that provides for the appointment of a nonresident Justice of the Peace or City Judge to act as City Judge.

1981 Amendment: Deleted "except for city judges of third-class cities" after "who" in (2); substituted "met the qualifications prescribed by law or by ordinance adopted by the governing body of a city or town" for "resided in the town or city or an area which has been annexed by such town or city for at least 2 years immediately preceding his election or appointment and is not a qualified elector thereof" after "has not" in (2).

Case Notes

City Judge:

The office of the Police Judge (now City Judge) is the creation of the statute and not of the constitution. State ex rel. Shea v. Cocking, 66 M 169, 213 P 59 (1923).

Blindness does not disqualify one from holding the office of Police Judge (now City Judge). State ex rel. Shea v. Cocking, 66 M 169, 213 P 594 (1923).

Legislature Prescribing No Qualifications: Where the Legislature in creating an elective office prescribes no limitations or qualifications, the right to hold it is an implied attribute of citizenship and is presumed to be coextensive with that of voting at an election held for the purpose of choosing an incumbent for that office, those only who are competent to select the officer being deemed competent to hold it. State ex rel. Shea v. Cocking, 66 M 169, 213 P 594 (1923).

Application of Section: This section is of general application and controls aldermanic candidates who aspire to office at a first election after incorporation, as well as those who seek like honors at subsequent elections. Brown v. Foster, 48 M 114, 135 P 993 (1913).

Alderman: The official oath in writing of an Alderman, when taken and subscribed, is intended to become a record of the city. State ex rel. Wilson v. Willis, 47 M 548, 133 P 962 (1913).

Attorney General's Opinions

No Prohibition on City Employee Holding City Office: A municipality may not enact an ordinance prohibiting city employees from holding the office of councilman. 41 A.G. Op. 81 (1986).

7-4-4105. Authority to abolish appointive municipal offices.

Case Notes

City Purchasing Agent: The City Council may, by a bare majority vote, abolish the office of city purchasing agent at any time and discharge the person appointed to fill it. State ex rel. Klick v. Wittmer, 50 M 22, 144 P 648 (1914).

Application of Section: This section has no application to a fireman, since 7-33-4113 declares that he is not to be deemed a municipal officer. State ex rel. Driffill v. Anaconda, 41 M 577, 111 P 345 (1910).

Offices Subject to Abolishment: The only officers of a city of the first class actually created by the Legislature are the Mayor, two Aldermen from each ward, a Police Judge (now City Judge), and a City Treasurer, none of whom can be in any way affected by any action of the Council, though other offices may be abolished. State ex rel. Quintin v. Edwards, 38 M 250, 99 P 940 (1908).

1997 Amendment: Chapter 459 in (7), near beginning, substituted "a city council member" for "an alderman" and inserted second sentence concerning residence of appointed officer; and made minor changes in style.

1981 Amendment: Substantially rewritten based upon 2-16-501; deleted former subsection (1) relating to qualifying for office; inserted introductory clause regarding when an office becomes vacant; inserted (1) through (4) and (8) through (11); and amended (5) through (7) to conform to inserted material (see 1981 Session Law for text).

Attorney General's Opinions

Vacancy Not Created by Holdover Town Attorney: The general rule of law is that an officer must hold over until a successor is appointed and qualified, unless holding over is prohibited by express statutory language or by clear implication. The policy underlying the common-law rule is the strong public interest in continuing the work of important governmental offices when a qualified officer is holding over pending appointment and approval of a successor. With regard to the office of town attorney, absent statutory prohibition, a vacancy in the office of town attorney is not created when the attorney holds over following expiration of the term of office. Therefore, a qualified town attorney lawfully holding over in the office continues to hold office until a successor is nominated by the mayor and approved by the town council. 47 A.G. Op. 16 (1998).

Loss of Office Caused by Change of Residency — Urban Renewal Agency Commissioner: Under 2-16-501, a member of a board of commissioners of an urban renewal agency loses his seat on the board if he ceases to be a resident of the municipality that created the board. (See 1997 amendment.) 41 A.G. Op. 1 (1985).

7-4-4112. Filling of vacancy.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1987 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to all council position becoming vacant at one time.

1981 Amendment: In (1) substituted language relating to filling a vacancy of an elective office at the next general municipal election and appointing a successor within 30 days for "the council, by a majority vote of the members, may fill the same for the unexpired term and until the qualification of the successor"; and deleted "but if the council shall fail to fill such vacancy before the time for the next election, the qualified electors of such city or ward may nominate and elect a successor to such office" after "vacancy exists" in (2).

Case Notes

Filling Vacancy — Right to Vote: Having been rightfully chosen by the City Council to fill a vacancy in its own body and after taking and subscribing the constitutional oath, an alderman had the right to have his vote on the question of filling another vacancy, caused by death, recorded, even though a certificate of election had not been issued to him and irrespective of the mayor's refusal to recognize him or of the fact that an action to determine his official status was then pending. State ex rel. Wilson v. Willis, 47 M 548, 133 P 962 (1913).

Majority Vote: The provision of this section, requiring “a majority vote of the members” of the City Council, that is, a majority of those constituting the actual membership of the body at the time, to fill a vacancy in an elective city office, and not 7-5-4121, making “a majority of the whole number of the members elected” requisite for such purpose, is applicable in case a vacancy in its own body caused by resignation or death is to be filled. State ex rel. Wilson v. Willis, 47 M 548, 133 P 962 (1913), distinguished in State ex rel. O’Hern v. Loud, 92 M 307, 14 P2d 432 (1932).

Attorney General’s Opinions

Term of Appointment of Vacancy in Office of City Judge — Commission-Manager Form of Government: Under the specific provisions of 7-3-4462, a person who is appointed to fill a vacancy in the office of City Judge under a commission-manager form of city government shall serve the remainder of the existing term. 52 A.G. Op. 2 (2007).

7-4-4113. Removal of appointed officer.

Case Notes

Misconduct — Intent Involved: To justify removal of an officer for misconduct, it is not necessary that the actions made the basis of the charge against him must have been willful; the official doing of an act may constitute misconduct, although there was no corrupt or malicious motive. Bailey v. Examining and Trial Bd., 45 M 197, 122 P 572 (1912); State ex rel. Ryan v. Bd. of Aldermen, 45 M 188, 122 P 569 (1912); State ex rel. Rowe v. District Court, 44 M 318, 119 P 1103 (1911); State ex rel. Wynne v. Examining and Trial Bd., 43 M 389, 117 P 77 (1911); Leggatt v. Prideaux, 16 M 205, 40 P 377 (1895).

Misconduct of Alderman: An alderman was properly found guilty of misconduct in office and removed, on the grounds that in his capacity as an attorney at law he defended one charged with conducting business without paying a license tax and accepted a retainer to prosecute a suit against the town for damages and an injunction in regard to a sewer. (Decided prior to 1974 amendment inserting “nonelected” before “officer”—annotator.) State ex rel. Ryan v. Bd. of Aldermen, 45 M 188, 122 P 569 (1912).

City Judge:

The office of Police Judge (now City Judge) is a creature not of the constitution but of the statute, and the incumbent thereof is not liable to impeachment. He is, however, a city officer and may therefore, in a proper case, be removed by the City Council. State ex rel. Working v. Mayor, 43 M 61, 114 P 777 (1911).

Prohibition does not lie at the suit of a Police Judge (now City Judge) of a city to prohibit the City Council from proceeding to remove him from office, where written charges have not been filed against him as required by this section. State ex rel. Working v. Mayor, 43 M 61, 114 P 777 (1911).

Construction of Section: This section is in consonance with Art. V, sec. 18, 1889 Mont. Const. (similar to Art. V, sec. 13(1), 1972 Mont. Const.), subjecting officers not liable to impeachment to removal in the manner provided by law, and is a proper exercise of the legislative authority therein granted. State ex rel. Working v. Mayor, 43 M 61, 114 P 777 (1911).

Written Charges Required for Removal: Until written charges have been filed with a City Council, in conformity with the provision of this section, no proceeding looking to the removal of a city officer has been instituted. State ex rel. Working v. Mayor, 43 M 61, 114 P 777 (1911).

Part 42

Compensation of Municipal Officers and Employees

7-4-4201. Salary of officers.

Attorney General’s Opinions

Increase of Officer’s Salary During His Term: This section does not prohibit a City Council from increasing the salary of a municipal officer during the officer’s term of office. It is clear from the title and substance of Ch. 221, L. 1979, that the Legislature intended to make a change in this section by deleting the prohibition against increasing or diminishing a municipal officer’s salary during his term of office. 38 A.G. Op. 45 (1979).

Prohibition Against Salary Changes Not Revived by Contemporaneous Amendments: The enactment of Ch. 428 and Ch. 443, L. 1979, which amended former subsection (2) of 7-4-4201, did not revive the prohibition against changing the salary of a municipal officer during his term. The Legislature’s express deletion of that prohibition in Ch. 221, L. 1979, was in effect a direct repeal of former subsection (2). Neither Ch. 428 nor Ch. 443, L. 1979, expressly or impliedly repeals Ch. 221, L. 1979, and it is not possible for the Legislature to put life into a dead statute by amendment of it. 38 A.G. Op. 45 (1979).

Case Notes

Nomination and Appointment of Nonelective Officers:

The nominee of a Mayor for a city office (City Engineer) who was not confirmed by a majority of the City Council as required by statute and ordinance does not assume the status of an officer. State ex rel. Sandquist v. Rogers, 93 M 355, 18 P2d 617 (1933).

The Town Clerk is an appointive officer, and the Mayor of a city or town has power "to nominate, and, with the consent of the council, to appoint all nonelective officers of the city or town, provided for by the council". The power to nominate to fill a nonelective office also includes like authority when a vacancy arises therein, but in either event the appointment is not effective until concurred in by a majority of the City or Town Council. State ex rel. Peterson v. Peck, 91 M 5, 4 P2d 1086 (1931).

Status of Mayor Generally: While the Mayor of a city is not, strictly speaking, a member of the Council in the sense that an Alderman is, yet he is such to the extent of the powers committed to him under this section and 7-5-4102(2). State ex rel. O'Hern v. Loud, 92 M 307, 14 P2d 432 (1932).

Police Officers — Appointment and Suspension: Insofar as the method of appointment and suspension of members of the police force is concerned, this section is repealed by the Metropolitan Police Law (Ch. 136, L. 1907; codified in Title 7, ch. 32). State ex rel. Wynne v. Quinn, 40 M 472, 107 P 506 (1910).

Attorney General's Opinions

Removal of Library Trustee: After a town passed a resolution creating a free public library, a question arose as to the proper procedure for removal of library trustees. The procedure for removing a trustee is a matter for the board of trustees to consider as part of its duty and ability to adopt bylaws and rules for the government of the library. A Mayor's power under 7-4-4303 to remove nonelective officers does not include the power to remove public library board trustees because they are not officers necessary to carry out the provisions of Title 7. 57 A.G. Op. 3 (2018).

Administrative Assistant — Mayoral Appointment: Although the City Council's contract and budget approval powers may affect the mayor's practical ability to provide a particular compensation amount to an administrative assistant or establish other employment conditions, they do not obviate his authority to fill that position without Council approval. Under 7-3-212, a mayor may appoint an administrative assistant without the approval of the City Council. 41 A.G. Op. 45 (1986).

Part 44Office of City Council Member*Part Case Notes

Arbitrary Denial of Building Permit by City Council — City, City Council, and Individual Council Members Liable: In an action under 43 U.S.C. 1983, the court of appeals upheld the District Court's holding that the Billings City Council's refusal to issue a building permit after the applicant had satisfied all the requirements for issuing the permit was an arbitrary and capricious action that deprived the applicant of his substantive due process rights. The city, City Council, and individual members of the City Council have no immunity from such action and are all liable for damages. Bateson v. Geisse, 857 F.2d 1300 (9th Cir. 1988).

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Constitutionality of Freeholder Requirement — Enactment Void: The freeholder requirement of this section (prior to 1979 amendment) was unconstitutional since it bore no relation to a person's qualifications and ability to serve as City Councilman, resulting in an invidious discrimination violative of equal protection. Thus, appellant's false swearing as to freeholder status in his filed declaration of nomination did not constitute a violation of the election laws. Sadler v. Connolly, 175 M 484, 575 P.2d 51 (1978), distinguished in Johnson v. Killingsworth, 271 M 1, 894 P.2d 272, 52 St. Rep. 274 (1995).

Residence: The provision of this section (prior to 1967 amendment) requiring that any person, to be eligible to the office of Alderman, must have been a resident of the ward where elected "for at least one year preceding the election", meant 1 year next preceding the election. Dowty v. Pittwood, 23 M 113, 57 P 727 (1899).

Reapportionment — Holdover Aldermen: There is no provision in the Montana Constitution or statutes that authorizes the shortening of an alderman's term of office. The fact that ward boundaries may change as a result of reapportionment and that some voters may be represented for 2 years by an alderman for whom they had no opportunity to vote has not justified a deviation from state law, the shortening of terms, in other jurisdictions. Where state law provides for the length of term of an elected official and for the staggering of terms to insure continuity and stability, those requirements are paramount to the temporary disenfranchisement that necessarily follows a reapportionment. Montana state law regarding 4-year staggered terms for aldermen and the absence of any applicable statute authorizing the removal of incumbents from office after reapportionment determine that an alderman elected to a 4-year term in 1982 need not run for reelection in 1983 as a result of reapportionment and redistricting. 40 A.G. Reception of Reports: Where accountants are employed to audit the books of a city and their contract calls for a report to the city, but before it is made two copies thereof are handed to the Mayor, at his request, one of which he presents to the City Council and the other he receives as his own, the Mayor's duty is fully discharged. After seeing that the copy presented to the Council finds its way into the hands of the City Clerk and is by him filed among the records of his office, the Mayor has a right to retain the other copy among his private papers. Butte v. Nevin, 46 M 380, 128 P 600 (1912).

Compensation of President: The Council may or may not elect a president. When elected, he must be held to know whether provision has been made for his compensation; if none has been made in the mode prescribed by law, then he is entitled to none and has no legal claim against the city therefor. McGillic v. Corby, 37 M 249, 95 P 1063 (1908).

City Attorney’s Authority to Try City Prosecution of Statutory DUI Violation Upheld: McCarvel was charged in Billings City Court with a violation of the state DUI statute. He was convicted by a jury and appealed to District Court in which, after the District Court refused to dismiss, he pleaded guilty. The Supreme Court held that the city attorney could lawfully prosecute a violation of a state statute in City Court because the City Court had concurrent jurisdiction with the Justice’s Court and because it was the city attorney’s duty to prosecute on behalf of the city offenses heard in that court. *Billings v. Ordinance Not Invalid for Apparent Failure to Post Required Notice: An ordinance that was submitted in writing, contained one comprehensive subject, was read and passed at two readings, and was signed by the chairperson of the governing body is valid under this section. Because of numerous resolutions, ordinances, notices, and public hearings on this matter, an apparent failure to post notice of first adoption would not warrant a finding that the entire refuse disposal district project be invalidated. Clopton v. Madison County Comm’n, 216 M 335, 701 P2d 347, 42 St. Rep. 851 (1985).

State Authority to Regulate Liquor — No Delegation to Municipalities: The authority granted to the state by the 21st amendment to the U.S. Constitution to regulate the sale of liquor has

Five Days and $350 Fine for Disturbing the Peace: City's general penalty ordinance under which appellant was sentenced to 5 days in jail and a $350 fine for violating the disturbing the peace ordinance is within the limits of this section. *Whitefish v. Escalating Fines for Parking Violations — Unconstitutional: An escalating fine schedule for parking violations where the amount to be paid depends on the length in the delay in paying after being cited is in violation of the basic principle of law that punishment must be for the violation and proportional to the gravity of the offense and hence is violative of Art. II, sec. 28, Mont. Const., which provides that laws for punishment of crime must be founded on principles of prevention and reformation. *Missoula v. Case Notes Repeal of City Resolution Via Referendum Invalid: Plaintiffs challenged a referendum approved by voters in the city of Whitefish, which repealed a city resolution that authorized the city to enter into an interlocal agreement with the county concerning planning and zoning authority over a 2-mile area around the city, arguing that the resolution was not subject to the right of voter initiative and referendum. The District Court determined that the resolution was an administrative act by the city and was therefore not subject to repeal by referendum. On appeal, the Supreme Court applied the guidelines adopted in Whitehall v. Preece, 1998 MT 53, 288 Mont. 55, 956 P.2d 743, to determine whether the action by the city was administrative or legislative in nature and affirmed, concluding that the city's action had significant administrative characteristics, which made it not subject to repeal by referendum. Phillips v. Whitefish, 2014 MT 186, 375 Mont. 456, 330 P.3d 442.

Guidelines for Distinguishing Between Legislative and Administrative Acts of Local Government — Initiative and Referendum Power Reserved for Legislative Acts Only: Beginning with Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966), the Supreme Court recognized a distinction between legislative acts, which are subject to the powers of initiative and referendum, and administrative or quasi-judicial acts, which are not. Because local governments are empowered by Art. XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const., to exercise legislative, administrative, and other powers, the question arose as to whether this section unconstitutionally limits local government referendum power to resolutions and ordinances within the legislative jurisdiction. In order to clarify the distinction between legislative and administrative acts of a local government, the Supreme Court adopted the following guidelines in Wichita v. Kans. Taxpayers Network, 874 P2d 667 (Kans. 1994): (1) An ordinance that makes new law is legislative, while an ordinance that executes an existing law is administrative. Permanency and generality are key features of a legislative ordinance. (2) Acts that declare public purpose and provide ways and means to accomplish that purpose generally may be classified as legislative. Acts that deal with a small segment of an overall policy question generally are administrative. (3) Decisions that require specialized training and experience in municipal government and intimate knowledge of the fiscal and other affairs of a city in order to make a rational choice may properly be characterized as administrative, even though they may also be said to involve the establishment of a policy. (4) No act of a governing body is likely to be solely administrative or legislative, and the operation of the initiative and referendum statute is restricted to measures that are quite clearly and fully legislative and not principally executive or administrative. In the present case, an ordinance that implemented the use of water meters as part of a town's water system improvement plan was an administrative act that was not subject to referendum. The District Court properly declared a referendum challenging the ordinance invalid. The Supreme Court affirmed the constitutionality of this section. Whitehall v. Preece, 1998 MT 53, 288 M 55, 956 P2d 743, 55 St. Rep. 219 (1998), followed in Phillips v. Whitefish, 2014 MT 186, 375 Mont. 456, 330 P.3d 442, and overruling Chouteau County v. Grossman, 172 M 373, 563 P2d 1125 (1977), and Dieruf v. Bozeman, 173 M 447, 568 P2d 127 (1977), to the extent that those decisions stand for the rule that a local government's act is administrative based solely on a statutory grant of authority.

Statute of Limitations Applicable to Suit to Determine Validity of Initiative or Referendum: A suit to determine the validity and constitutionality of a petition for initiative or referendum must be initiated within 14 days of the date on which the petition is approved as to form by the local government attorney, as set out in 7-5-135. Whitehall v. Preece, 1998 MT 53, 288 M 55, 956 P2d 743, 55 St. Rep. 219 (1998).

Rezoning Ordinance Subject to Referendum — No Distinction Between Zoning and Rezoning for Referendum Purposes: A community group filed a petition seeking a referendum to repeal a rezoning ordinance. Plaintiff, the owner of historic land that it wanted to develop, filed a declaratory judgment action against the city, seeking to have the referendum process refused. The community group was allowed to intervene. The motion for summary judgment was denied; the referendum was held; and the voters supported repeal of the ordinance. The Supreme Court held that the District Court correctly interpreted this section to mean that referendum by the people is appropriate for both zoning ordinances and rezoning ordinances. The Supreme Court overruled specific language in prior cases that distinguished between zoning and rezoning ordinances. The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

Resolution Creating Special Improvement District — Not Subject to Referendum: A resolution creating a municipal special improvement district that encompasses less area than the municipal limits is not subject to referendum because the resolution affects only the people within the improvement district rather than the people of the municipality as a whole. The Supreme Court further held that the resolution creating a special improvement district is part of an administrative procedure, not a legislative action subject to referendum. Shelby v. Sandholm, 208 M 77, 676 P2d 178, 41 St. Rep. 186 (1984), distinguished in The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

Attorney General's Opinions

What Electors Considered Qualified Voters for County Zoning Initiatives: A zoning regulation is subject to citizen initiative, and nothing in county zoning law limits qualified electors to only voters living in the area affected by the zoning regulations. Thus, in the case of county zoning regulation initiatives effective in all unincorporated areas of a county, all county residents are considered qualified voters, including those residing within incorporated areas of the county. 52 A.G. Op. 6 (2008).

Merger of Fire Services Between City and County With General Government Powers Not Allowed: A proposed city initiative would have merged a city fire department and a rural county fire district into a new fire protection district with an urban and a rural division. However, both the city and county were local government units with general government powers and had not been consolidated as allowed by law. Under the provisions of the initiative, neither fire department would maintain its own identity; therefore, the proposed merger would abrogate the city fire department as a separate entity and would be an invalid exercise of general government powers. This opinion does not preclude the provision of fire protection services in a cooperative fashion through an interlocal agreement that city voters may, by initiative, require the city governing body to pursue. 43 A.G. Op. 56 (1990).

Citizen Initiative to Expand Zoning District — No Violation of 7-5-132 — Initiative Did Not Legislate Beyond Authority of Board of County Commissioners — Affirmed on Appeal. Egan Slough Community v. Flathead County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 2022 MT 57, 408 Mont. 81, 506 P.3d 996.

Equitable Tolling and Estoppel Inapplicable to Stay Statutory Deadlines for Collecting Petition Signatures: The Flathead County Board of County Commissioners adopted a resolution approving a developer's amendment to the county master plan that would allow the building of a regional shopping mall. Plaintiff organization was then formed to put the resolution to a vote of the qualified county electors through the initiative and referendum process, but plaintiff failed to gather enough valid signatures within the statutory deadlines. During the signature-gathering period, the Flathead County Attorney determined that only qualified electors in the area covered by the master plan, rather than all qualified county electors, could sign the petition and vote on any resulting referendum. Plaintiff filed suit, seeking a writ of mandamus requiring the County Commissioners to proceed with the process or an alternative writ seeking relief through a declaratory judgment. The alternative writ was issued and then quashed and dismissed. Plaintiff contended that equitable tolling should have tolled the statute of limitations on gathering signatures because the County Commissioners were urged to file suit to determine which voters were eligible to sign the petition and vote on the resulting referendum. However, the County Commissioners declined to file suit, so the period to collect signatures was not tolled, and plaintiff's equitable tolling argument failed. Plaintiff also argued that the County Commissioners should be equitably estopped from using the statutory deadlines to defeat the qualified electors' exercise of their petition rights. The estoppel argument also failed because plaintiff failed to prove the first element of estoppel—that the County Commissioners misrepresented a material fact. The elements of neither equitable tolling nor estoppel having been proved, the District Court's quashing of plaintiff's writ of mandamus was affirmed. Let the People Vote v. Flathead County Bd. of County Comm'rs, 2005 MT 225, 328 M 361, 120 P3d 385 (2005).

District Court Authority to Determine Constitutionality of Proposed County Ordinance: In 1994, Ravalli County voters passed three ordinances, seeking to control obscenity and the display and distribution of obscene material to minors. The ordinances were subsequently held unconstitutional, but in 2002, defendant again filed two proposed ordinances with the Ravalli County Clerk and Recorder, seeking to proscribe the same conduct. The county asked the District Court to rule on the constitutionality of the proposed ordinances pursuant to this section, but the court declined on grounds that: (1) the proposed ordinances were legislative rather than administrative and therefore valid under the Montana Constitution; (2) this section did not vest a District Court with jurisdiction to determine the constitutionality of an ordinance prior to adoption; (3) a suit is not a method by which a party may have a District Court prematurely consider the constitutionality of the subject matter of a proposed initiative or referendum prior to placement of the measure on the ballot; (4) ruling on a proposed ordinance would force the court to issue an advisory opinion on constitutionality in the absence of any defined basis for a constitutional attack; and (5) under Hardy v. Progressive Specialty Ins. Co., 2003 MT 85, 315 M 107, 67 P3d 892 (2003), a preliminary ruling would allow the county to avoid the burden of showing the unconstitutionality of a legislative enactment beyond a reasonable doubt. The county appealed, and the Supreme Court reversed. The burden of proof requirement articulated in Hardy applies to constitutional challenges to existing statutes, not to proposed initiatives and referenda. Although the constitutionality of an enacted legislative statute is prima facie presumed, there is no presumption of validity of a proposed statute. Under the plain meaning of this section, a District Court must, after conducting any appropriate briefing and factfinding, determine whether a proposed ordinance would be constitutional and valid if passed. The case was remanded for substantive District Court review of the proposed ordinances. Ravalli County v. Erickson, 2004 MT 35, 320 M 31, 85 P3d 772 (2004).

Guidelines for Distinguishing Between Legislative and Administrative Acts of Local Government — Initiative and Referendum Power Reserved for Legislative Acts Only: Beginning with Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966), the Supreme Court recognized a distinction between legislative acts, which are subject to the powers of initiative and referendum, and administrative or quasi-judicial acts, which are not. Because local governments are empowered by Art. XI, sec.

4, Mont. Const., to exercise legislative, administrative, and other powers, the question arose as to whether 7-5-131 unconstitutionally limits local government referendum power to resolutions and ordinances within the legislative jurisdiction. In order to clarify the distinction between legislative and administrative acts of a local government, the Supreme Court adopted the following guidelines in Wichita v. Kans. Taxpayers Network, 874 P2d 667 (Kans. 1994): (1) An ordinance that makes new law is legislative, while an ordinance that executes an existing law is administrative. Permanency and generality are key features of a legislative ordinance. (2) Acts that declare public purpose and provide ways and means to accomplish that purpose generally may be classified as legislative. Acts that deal with a small segment of an overall policy question generally are administrative. (3) Decisions that require specialized training and experience in municipal government and intimate knowledge of the fiscal and other affairs of a city in order to make a rational choice may properly be characterized as administrative, even though they may also be said to involve the establishment of a policy. (4) No act of a governing body is likely to be solely administrative or legislative, and the operation of the initiative and referendum statute is restricted to measures that are quite clearly and fully legislative and not principally executive or administrative. In the present case, an ordinance that implemented the use of water meters as part of a town's water system improvement plan was an administrative act that was not subject to referendum. The District Court properly declared a referendum challenging the ordinance invalid. The Supreme Court affirmed the constitutionality of 7-5-131. Whitehall v. Preece, 1998 MT 53, 288 M 55, 956 P2d 743, 55 St. Rep. 219 (1998), followed in Phillips v. Whitefish, 2014 MT 186, 375 Mont. 456, 330 P.3d 442, and overruling Chouteau County v. Grossman, 172 M 373, 563 P2d 1125 (1977), and Dieruf v. Bozeman, 173 M 447, 568 P2d 127 (1977), to the extent that those decisions stand for the rule that a local government's act is administrative based solely on a statutory grant of authority.

Statute of Limitations Applicable to Suit to Determine Validity of Initiative or Referendum: A suit to determine the validity and constitutionality of a petition for initiative or referendum must be initiated within 14 days of the date on which the petition is approved as to form by the local government attorney, as set out in this section. Whitehall v. Preece, 1998 MT 53, 288 M 55, 956 P2d 743, 55 St. Rep. 219 (1998).

Attorney General's Opinions

Self-Government Powers: Under a form of government with local self-government powers, the replacement of former county officers with department supervisors is a legitimate exercise of such local self-government powers. Section 7-4-2503 does not apply to self-government units since it may be superseded by ordinance or resolution of the Commission and is not prohibited by 7-1-114(g). 37 A.G. Op. 68 (1977).

Conduct of County Government

7-5-2101. General authority of county commissioners.

Case Notes

Failure to Follow Proper Procedure After Denial of Road Abandonment by County Commissioners — Dismissal Proper: Landowners submitted a request to the Board of County Commissioners to abandon a portion of a county road, which the Board denied. The landowners then filed a complaint for declaration action and injunctive relief in District Court. The District Court dismissed the case. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that because the plaintiffs had first submitted their claims to the Board, they should have instead filed a writ of review of the commissioners' denial. Because the plaintiffs did not follow the proper procedure, the dismissal of their complaint was proper. Bugli v. Ravalli County, 2018 MT 177, 392 Mont. 131, 422 P.3d 131.

Attorney General's Opinions

County May Offer Employee Payments in Lieu of Participation in Group Health Plan: In contrast to state employees, a Board of County Commissioners may, in exercising its general authority to manage county business and set employee compensation, offer payment to a county employee in lieu of the employee's participation in a group health plan. 51 A.G. Op. 11 (2005).

Termination of Payments in Lieu of Participation in Group Health Plan for Nonunion County Employee: The Board of County Commissioners may terminate payments in lieu of participation in a group health plan for a nonunion county employee only if termination is consistent with the county's employment agreement with the employee. 51 A.G. Op. 11 (2005).

When Collective Bargaining Agreement That Includes Payments in Lieu of Group Health Plan Participation May Be Altered: When a collective bargaining agreement includes a provision for payments to county employees in lieu of participation in a group health plan, that provision may not be altered by the Board of County Commissioners without the written agreement of the collective bargaining unit. 51 A.G. Op. 11 (2005). See also 43 A.G. Op. 79 (1990).

No Authority of Board of County Commissioners to Reduce County Auditor Office to Part-Time Position: Montana statutes contemplate a full-time County Auditor with a full-time salary in every county with a population of greater than 15,000. Although County Commissions do have the authority to consolidate certain county offices, including the County Auditor's office, no existing statute contemplates a reduction of the office of County Auditor to a part-time position. Had the Legislature intended to expressly authorize County Commissions to reduce the office, it would have adopted legislation similar to that for County Attorneys and County Superintendents. The authority in 7-6-2412 extends to the imposition of additional County Auditor duties, not to the reduction of hours worked. There is no express or implied authority for counties with general powers to reduce the office of County Auditor to a half-time position. 47 A.G. Op. 18 (1998).

County Commissioner and County Coordinator of Disaster and Emergency Services Incompatible — Positions Not to Be Held Simultaneously: The Board of County Commissioners has the power of supervision, revision, and removal over the position of county coordinator of disaster and emergency services. Therefore, under the common-law doctrine of incompatible public offices, the office of County Commissioner and the position of county coordinator of disaster and emergency services are incompatible and one person may not hold both jobs simultaneously. 46 A.G. Op. 26 (1996).

Provision of Office Space and Equipment by County for Part-Time County Attorney: A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide office space for a part-time County Attorney by providing space in a county building or, if no suitable space is available, by renting office space. Use of the space for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the space for private business purposes. Alternatively, the governing body may allow a claim by the County Attorney for the rental of office space needed to conduct the county's business if suitable office space is not available in county buildings. A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide necessary equipment for a part-time County Attorney by providing the use of the equipment owned by the county or, if no suitable equipment is available, by renting equipment. Use of the equipment for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the equipment for private business purposes. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995), followed in 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996).

Authority of County to Issue General Obligation Bonds for Demolition of Abandoned County Building: Under its general duty to care for and maintain its property, a county, through its Board of County Commissioners, may issue general obligation bonds to fund demolition of a county-owned building that has been abandoned and poses a threat to the public safety and welfare. 44 A.G. Op. 31 (1992).

Lack of County Authority to Implement Employee Safety Incentive Bonus Program: A county with general government powers has no inherent authority within its statutory system to implement an employee incentive award program whereby county employees are paid bonuses for maintaining accident-free periods in their departments. 42 A.G. Op. 111 (1988).

Act Allowing Private Parties to Contract for Jails Not in Conflict With Local Government Regulatory Statutes: The act allowing counties to contract with private parties for the building, maintenance, and operation of jails, enacted as Chapter 447, L. 1985, does not directly conflict with other Montana statutes regulating the indebtedness, contracts, jail facilities, or interlocal agreements of local governments. However, Chapter 447 is subject to the various applicable limitations contained in those statutes. 42 A.G. Op. 81 (1988).

County Buildings — Use of Rent for Costs: If no sale of the building is being attempted, a Board of County Commissioners may use money obtained from tenants of a county building to defray the operational and maintenance costs of the building. 40 A.G. Op. 33 (1984).

County Regulatory Power — District Courts: Montana's District Courts are clothed with inherent and statutory power to do all that is necessary to render their jurisdiction effective, including the power to hire necessary court personnel and control them; but it appears that requiring District Court personnel to also abide by county policies and regulations is not an undue interference with the judicial branch. The scope of the judicial authority in this matter in relation to county authority is not an appropriate matter for an Attorney General opinion and would be more appropriately disposed of by either an understanding between the court and the county or a judgment in a court of proper jurisdiction. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

County Regulatory Power — Personnel Policies: Personnel policies established by a Board of County Commissioners, including a requirement that employees submit timesheets, are within the statutory and implied powers of the Board as necessary for the administration of county business, and one receiving a county paycheck must abide by the personnel policies of the Board. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

Method of Exercising County Powers When None Specified: Where powers are conferred by statute on a Board of County Commissioners but the mode in which the authority is to be exercised is not indicated, the Board, in its discretion, may select any appropriate mode or course of procedure. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

7-5-2103. Division of county into districts.

Attorney General's Opinions

Board of County Commissioners — No Power to Consolidate High School Districts: The sole and mandatory procedure for consolidating two high school districts in a county is in 20-6-315 (now repealed). The Board of County Commissioners has no authority to consolidate districts. 41 A.G. Op. 5 (1985).

7-5-2104. Direction of lawsuits.

Case Notes

When Commissioners May Waive Privilege of Pleading Statute of Limitations: The Commissioners, under this section, may decline to plead the Statute of Limitations in an action on a claim against the county, whenever in their opinion the facts showing that bar of the statute could not be established. Therefore, they may stipulate in an agreed statement that the claim is not barred. The Statute of Limitations grants a personal privilege that may be waived; it must be pleaded to be available as a defense. Weir v. Silver Bow County, 113 M 237, 124 P2d 1003 (1942).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of County Commissioners to Employ Private Attorney: A County Attorney may not unreasonably withhold his consent to the employment of another attorney by the Board of County Commissioners to perform legal services in connection with the civil business of the county. The decision of a County Attorney to withhold his consent is subject to the supervisory authority of the Attorney General. 41 A.G. Op. 34 (1985).

7-5-2106. Control of conflict of interest.Attorney General's Opinions

Definitions — Incorporation: Since the Legislature is presumed not to perform useless acts, the definitions of "be interested in" and "contract" contained in 2-2-201 are incorporated into and are applicable to 7-5-2106 and 7-5-4109, which relate to the same subject matter, conflicts of interest for local government officials. 40 A.G. Op. 28 (1983).

Disclosure — Abstention From Voting — When Contract Voidable: Where a local government official has a conflict of interest, such as a substantial interest in a business bidding on a local government contract, the official must comply with the disclosure and abstention from voting provisions of 2-2-125, now repealed and 2-2-131, even though the interest may be permissible under the exceptions contained in 2-2-201. If the interest is not permissible under the exceptions listed in 2-2-201, the contract is voidable and abstention from voting will not exonerate the official. (See 1995 amendments to 2-2-125, now repealed and 2-2-131.) 40 A.G. Op. 28 (1983).

County Commissioners — Fiduciary Duty: A County Commissioner who is a voting member of the board of an organization that actually receives county contract funds does not have a prohibited conflict of interest under 7-5-2106 unless the Commissioner receives a personal pecuniary or proprietary benefit from the contract. He does, however, breach his fiduciary duty under 2-2-125(2)(b) (now repealed) by acting officially to award county contracts to the organization unless he complies with the voluntary disclosure requirements of 2-2-125(3) (now repealed). (See 1995 amendments to 2-2-125, now repealed and 2-2-131.) 38 A.G. Op. 55 (1979).

County Commissioners — Prohibited Interests: A County Commissioner who is a voting member of a board that channels county contract funds to other organizations but does not itself derive any economic benefit from the contract does not have a prohibited interest in the contract under 7-5-2106 and does not breach his fiduciary duty under 2-2-125(2)(b) (now repealed) by acting officially to allocate funds to that board for subsequent disbursement. (See 1995 amendments to 2-2-125, (now repealed) and 2-2-131.) 38 A.G. Op. 55 (1979).

7-5-2107. Employment of personnel by county commissioners.Case Notes

Contract Providing Monthly Payments Not Establishment of Employment Relationship: A county contract for provision of certain legal services expressly provided independent contractor status because: (1) the county had no right to control the firm that was awarded the contract; (2) the firm was customarily engaged in independent practice; and (3) the contract was unnecessary for the firm to continue its business. Because an independent contract was indicated by these facts, the veterans' preference did not apply to hiring of the contractor, despite the contention that a contract provision for monthly payments established an employment relationship. Hamner v. Butte-Silver Bow County, 233 M 271, 760 P2d 76, 45 St. Rep. 1481 (1988).

Attorney General's Opinions

County May Offer Employee Payments in Lieu of Participation in Group Health Plan: In contrast to state employees, a Board of County Commissioners may, in exercising its general authority to manage county business and set employee compensation, offer payment to a county employee in lieu of the employee's participation in a group health plan. 51 A.G. Op. 11 (2005).

Termination of Payments in Lieu of Participation in Group Health Plan for Nonunion County Employee: The Board of County Commissioners may terminate payments in lieu of participation in a group health plan for a nonunion county employee only if termination is consistent with the county's employment agreement with the employee. 51 A.G. Op. 11 (2005).

When Collective Bargaining Agreement That Includes Payments in Lieu of Group Health Plan Participation May Be Altered: When a collective bargaining agreement includes a provision for payments to county employees in lieu of participation in a group health plan, that provision may not be altered by the Board of County Commissioners without the written agreement of the collective bargaining unit. 51 A.G. Op. 11 (2005). See also 43 A.G. Op. 79 (1990).

County Commissioner and County Coordinator of Disaster and Emergency Services Incompatible — Positions Not to Be Held Simultaneously: The Board of County Commissioners has the power of supervision, revision, and removal over the position of county coordinator of disaster and emergency services. Therefore, under the common-law doctrine of incompatible public offices, the office of County Commissioner and the position of county coordinator of disaster and emergency services are incompatible and one person may not hold both jobs simultaneously. 46 A.G. Op. 26 (1996).

Record of Board Proceedings: The County Clerk and Recorder is not required to attend the meetings of the Board of County Commissioners and take the original notes of the proceedings, unless the Board so requests. The Clerk and Recorder's responsibilities, as they relate to the proceedings of the Board, are to record the minutes of the proceedings into the minute book and to make the book available for public examination upon request. The Board is responsible for the preparation, content, and publication of the minutes. The Board may employ its own personnel to take the original notes during the meetings pursuant to this section. 41 A.G. Op. 19 (1985).

District Court Employees as County Employees: District Court employees are paid by the county in which the court is located, receive the same county benefits as all other county employees, and are therefore county employees. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

Persons Considered County Employees: An employee who under state statutes receives a county payroll check and county fringe benefits, such as health insurance, unemployment insurance, workers' compensation, and state retirement benefits, is considered a county employee. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

Soil Conservation District Employees as County Employees: Although soil conservation districts are distinct governmental entities covering more than one county and the statutes governing the districts do not expressly designate district personnel as county employees to be included on the county payroll, if a county does include district personnel on its payroll, giving them the same benefits received by other county employees, to that extent district personnel must be considered county employees. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

No Salary Limitation as to Assistants to County Commissioners: The salaries of administrative assistants employed by a Board of County Commissioners are not limited by 7-4-2505, since County Commissioners are not included in the definitive list of county officers to which that section applies. Salaries of the administrative assistants may be set pursuant to 7-5-2107 which contains no limitation as to amount. 38 A.G. Op. 43 (1979).

7-5-2108. County work week.

Case Notes

Full-Time District Court Reporters Subject to Statutory Workweek Requirement — Recordkeeping Required — Designation of Court Reporter's "Workstation": A District Court reporter who is treated as a full-time salaried county employee is subject to the statutory 40-hour workweek requirement in this section, and recordkeeping to document a court reporter's working hours, including overtime, annual leave, and sick leave, must be as determined by the District Court Judge who employs the court reporter. However, any method used to fulfill these requirements must comport with the District Court Judge's authority to control court assistants because allowing a Board of County Commissioners to enforce county personnel policies on court reporters would infringe on that authority. Any mandatory location of work for a court reporter that is set by anyone but the District Court Judge would interfere with the necessary flexibility of the judge. Thus, a court reporter's "workstation" is wherever that reporter is required to be to perform the duties for the judge for whom that court reporter works. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. District Court, 2000 MT 258, 301 M 496, 10 P3d 805, 57 St. Rep. 1061 (2000).

Attorney General's Opinions

Secretarial Services for Private Practice of County Attorney: A secretary employed by the county to assist a County Attorney may work on the County Attorney's private business during time when the secretary's services are not needed on county business. The County Attorney must account for the time that the secretary spends on private business and reimburse the county for any county-compensated time spent on the County Attorney's private business. A claim by a County Attorney for secretarial services reasonably required for the conduct of the County Attorney's official duties is a legitimate claim against the county. The reasonableness of the claim is a question of fact vested in the sound discretion of the county governing body. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995). See also 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996), in which the Attorney General held that a County Attorney may not compel the County Commissioners to authorize the hiring as a county employee of a legal secretary for the County Attorney absent a showing that any other arrangement would prevent the County Attorney from performing the minimum statutory duties.

District Court Employees' Workweek: District Court employees are paid by the county in which the court is situated and are considered county employees; therefore, they are salaried county employees under this section and must work a 40-hour week if required. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

Salary Computation for Portion of Month: The salary of a county employee employed on a 40-hour workweek is determined for a portion of a month by multiplying the monthly salary by 12 and dividing the annual salary thus determined by 52 weeks to determine the weekly rate of pay or by 2,080 hours to determine the hourly rate of pay. 34 A.G. Op. 37 (1972).

Civil, Private, and Attractive Nuisance and Trespass Claims Against Shooting Range — Opportunity to Further Develop Certain Claims Allowed on Remand: After an individual defendant transferred property to defendant ranch company and helped the ranch develop a shooting range on the property, plaintiff neighbors brought multiple claims alleging that operation of the shooting range in close proximity to a subdivision and elementary school constituted a public nuisance, private nuisance, attractive nuisance, trespass, and a violation of various constitutional provisions. The District Court dismissed all claims and plaintiffs appealed. Citing Barnes v. Thompson Falls, 1999 MT 77, 294 Mont. 76, 979 P.2d 1275, the Supreme Court noted that the Legislature explicitly exempted shooting ranges from civil nuisance liability, so plaintiffs' public nuisance claims were properly dismissed. Regarding the private nuisance claims, the District Court should have focused on injury to specific plaintiffs rather than dismissing the claims as related to all plaintiffs. The trespass claims concerned noise from the shooting range invading plaintiffs' property and thus took the form of intangible trespass. The District Court prematurely dismissed the trespass claims by failing to recognize that an intangible invasion supported by actual damages may support a trespass action, and plaintiffs should have been allowed to develop evidence and facts demonstrating actual damages. Plaintiffs should also have been allowed to develop facts of an actual threat of irreparable injury in support of the attractive nuisance claims. Lastly, plaintiffs failed to show how common law or statutory remedies would not adequately address any potential damages or to demonstrate how the constitutional provisions in question directly addressed the conduct of private parties, so the constitutional claims were properly dismissed. The case was remanded to allow plaintiffs the opportunity to develop their trespass and public, private, and attractive nuisance claims. *Tally Bissell Neighbors, Inc. v. 7-5-2122. Meetings of board of county commissioners.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 97 substituted current text regarding meetings for former text that read: "(1) The governing body of the county shall establish by resolution a regular meeting date and notify the public of that date.

(2) The governing body of the county, except as may be otherwise required of them, may meet at the county seat of their respective counties at any time for the purpose of attending to county business. Commissioners may, by resolution and prior 2 days' posted public notice, designate another meeting time and place." Amendment effective March 27, 2017.

Case Notes

Notice of Public Meeting Held Insufficient: Where two of three County Commissioners held a telephone meeting to discuss approval of a preliminary subdivision plat and were required to give notice of the meeting, the Board failed to comply in that county newspaper article did not supply sufficient facts concerning the time and place of the meeting to permit further public comment, nor was 2 days' posted public notice ever given. Bd. of Trustees v. County Comm'rs, 186 M 148, 606 P2d 1069, 37 St. Rep. 175 (1980).

Telephone Conversation as Constituting a "Meeting" — Notice Required to Be Given: Where two of three County Commissioners discussed by telephone the approval of a preliminary plat of a subdivision, a "meeting" as defined in 2-3-202 took place, and the Commissioners were subject to the requirement that notice of the meeting be given in accordance with statute. Bd. of Trustees v. County Comm'rs, 186 M 148, 606 P2d 1069, 37 St. Rep. 175 (1980).

Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of Open Meeting and Public Participation Laws to County Commission Meetings — Notice Required in Matters of Significant Public Interest: The gathering of a quorum of County Commissioners to discuss, either among themselves or with members of the public, issues over which the County Commission has authority is a meeting subject to open meeting laws. Meetings involving the consideration of matters of significant public interest, meaning decisions involving more than a ministerial act requiring no exercise of judgment, are subject to public participation mandates, including notice requirements and the opportunity for public participation in the decisionmaking process. Thus, a County Commission that established the hours of 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, as its regular meeting time for public notice purposes, did not comply with Montana's constitutional and statutory public participation provisions. 47 A.G. Op. 13 (1998). See also 42 A.G. Op. 51 (1988).

County Commission Meeting as "Meeting" Under Open Meetings Law: A regularly scheduled meeting between a Board of County Commissioners and its staff is a "meeting" within the terms of the open meetings law, Title 2, ch. 3, part 2. 41 A.G. Op. 38 (1985).

7-5-2123. Publication of board proceedings and annual financial statement.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 299 in (1)(b), at beginning of first sentence, deleted "annually" and inserted second sentence requiring notice of availability if financial statement is not published annually; in (2), in second sentence after first "statement", inserted "or notice of the availability of the financial statement"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1989 Amendment: At end of (1)(b) inserted "in full and complete detail or in summary form".

1985 Amendment: In (1)(a) inserted "in full and complete detail or in summary form or by reference, with the full and complete text made available on request"; and at beginning of (2) inserted "in full, in summary, or by reference".

Attorney General's Opinions

Annual Statement of Financial Condition to Be Published in Full: The Board of County Commissioners is obligated to publish the County Clerk's annual statement of financial condition "annually in a newspaper in full" (see 1995 amendment). The statement may not be published in summary form. 42 A.G. Op. 54 (1988). See 1989 amendment that allows statement to be published in summary form.

Publication Mandatory: This section requires a Board of County Commissioners, at the adjournment of each session of the Board, to publish in a newspaper a complete list of all claims ordered paid (prior to 1985 amendment—Annotator) and a fair summary of its proceedings. (See 1995 amendment.) 39 A.G. Op. 77 (1982).

7-5-2125. Open meetings.Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of Open Meeting and Public Participation Laws to County Commission Meetings — Notice Required in Matters of Significant Public Interest: The gathering of a quorum of County Commissioners to discuss, either among themselves or with members of the public, issues over which the County Commission has authority is a meeting subject to open meeting laws. Meetings involving the consideration of matters of significant public interest, meaning decisions involving more than a ministerial act requiring no exercise of judgment, are subject to public participation mandates, including notice requirements and the opportunity for public participation in the decisionmaking process. Thus, a County Commission that established the hours of 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, as its regular meeting time for public notice purposes, did not comply with Montana's constitutional and statutory public participation provisions. 47 A.G. Op. 13 (1998). See also 42 A.G. Op. 51 (1988).

7-5-2127. Subpoena power of county commissioners.Compiler's Comments

Code Commissioner Correction: In (2) substituted "Rule 45(d)" for "Rule 45(c)" to reflect revisions adopted by Supreme Court Order No. AF 07-0157 dated April 26, 2011.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-5-2129. Minute book to be kept by board.Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 deleted former (2) through (4) that read: "(2) a 'Road Book' containing all proceedings and adjudications relating to the establishment, maintenance, change, and discontinuance of roads and road districts or relating to road supervisors and their reports and accounts;

(3) a 'Franchise Book' containing all franchises granted by them, for what purpose, the length of time and to whom granted, and the amount of bond and license tax required;

(4) a 'Warrant Book' in which must be entered, in the order of drawing, all warrants drawn on the treasury, with their number and reference to the order on the minute book and with the date, amount, on what account, and name of payee"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

Case Notes

Method of Acceptance of Bid by County Commissioners — Vote Recorded in Minutes Held Sufficient: Where the Commissioners of the defendant county voted to accept the plaintiff's bid for a rock crusher but did not issue a written notice of bid award, as was usually done, informing the successful bidder of the acceptance of his bid, the Supreme Court held that the acceptance motion approved by the Commission and recorded in the Commission minutes constituted an acceptance of the bid and that there was no statutory provision for the procedure argued by the county. Modern Mach. v. Flathead County, 202 M 140, 656 P2d 206, 39 St. Rep. 2383 (1982).

Evidentiary Effect of Minute Book: This section providing that a Board of County Commissioners must cause a minute book to be kept in which must be recorded all its orders, decisions, and proceedings does not make such record the only evidence admissible to prove the action of the Board or prohibit oral testimony as to what was actually done. Proof of action has the same effect as though shown by a minute entry. State ex rel. Rankin v. Madison St. Bank, 77 M 498, 251 P 548 (1926).

2013 Amendment: Chapter 110 in (1) increased contract amount from $50,000 to $80,000. Amendment effective March 28, 2013.

County Power to Grant Franchises — Interlocal Agreements Not Precluded: Article XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const.; 7-3-144; 7-4-2611; and 7-5-2129, as well as applicable case law, imply that a county vested with general government powers may exercise the power to grant franchises. Under 7-11-104, a city-county interlocal franchise agreement is possible. 42 A.G. Op. 87 (1988).

7-5-2130. Records to be signed.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Clause Not Codified: A part of section 16-907, R.C.M. 1947, stating that the County Clerk is the Clerk for the Board of Commissioners, was not codified because it is redundant with 7-4-2611(1). This clause was not repealed and is still valid law. It may be referred to as sec. 4217, Pol. C. 1895. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

7-5-2131. Records to be available to public.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 348 substituted "2-6-1202" for "2-6-403". Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

Severability: Section 72, Ch. 348, L. 2015, was a severability clause.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 420 near beginning, before "approval", inserted "written", after "approval of the" substituted reference to local government records destruction subcommittee for "department of commerce", after "may destroy" deleted "old worthless reports, papers, or records in his office that have served their purpose and that are substantiated by permanent", and at end inserted reference to records meeting the local government records retention schedules that are no longer needed; and deleted (2) authorizing County Commissioners to adopt retention schedules and destroy documents (see 1993 Session Law for text). Amendment effective April 20, 1993.

1985 Amendment: In (2) substituted (a) and (b) relating to retention schedules for "Any claim, warrant, voucher, bond, or treasurer's general receipt may be destroyed by any county officer after a period of 25 years."

1983 Amendment: Substituted reference to department of commerce for reference to department of administration.

1981 Amendment: Substituted "department of administration" for "department of community affairs" in (1).

Transfer of Function: The function of the Department of Commerce in this section was transferred from the Department of Administration by sec. 1, Ch. 287, L. 1983. Those functions were transferred to the Department of Administration from the Department of Community Affairs by sec. 7, Ch. 274, L. 1981.

Part 23

County Contracts

Part Case Notes

Method of Acceptance of Bid by County Commissioners — Vote Recorded in Minutes Held Sufficient: Where the Commissioners of the defendant county voted to accept the plaintiff's bid for a rock crusher but did not issue a written notice of bid award, as was usually done, informing the successful bidder of the acceptance of his bid, the Supreme Court held that the acceptance motion approved by the Commission and recorded in the Commission minutes constituted an acceptance of the bid and that there was no statutory provision for the procedure argued by the county. Modern Mach. v. Flathead County, 202 M 140, 656 P2d 206, 39 St. Rep. 2383 (1982).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Restrictions on Purchasing Contracts: County purchasing contracts were affected by several amendments of existing statutes during the 1981 legislative session. The effect is that after October 1, 1981:

- (1) purchases for amounts of $10,000 or less (threshold amount increased by 1991 amendment) may be accomplished without competitive bidding;
- (2) purchases for amounts between $10,000 and $25,000 (threshold amount increased by 1991 amendment) may, at the discretion of the county governing body, be accomplished through competitive advertised bidding, competitive nonadvertised bidding, or public auction;
- (3) purchases for amounts exceeding $25,000 (threshold amount increased by 1991 amendment) must be accomplished through competitive advertised bidding only. 39 A.G. Op. 27 (1981).

7-5-2301. Competitive, advertised bidding required for certain large purchases or construction contracts.Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 110 in (1) increased contract amount from $50,000 to $80,000. Amendment effective March 28, 2013.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 574 in (1) in exception clause and (3) near beginning inserted reference to Title 18, chapter 2, part 5. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 523 in (1) after “contract” deleted “must be entered into by a county” and after “maintenance” deleted “of any building, road, or bridge”; in (3) after “lowest” deleted “and best”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 25, 2003.

Effective Date: Section 2, Ch. 523, L. 2003, provided: “[This act] is effective on passage and approval.” Approved April 25, 2003, the date that the house and senate overrode the governor’s veto.

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 239 in (1) after “contract” inserted “must be entered into by a county”, near middle after “supplies” deleted “in excess of $20,000”, and after “$50,000” inserted “and”. Amendment effective April 5, 1999.

Chapter 252 at beginning of (3) inserted “Subject to 7-5-2309”. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 203 in (1), after “construction”, inserted “repair or maintenance” and substituted “$50,000” for “$25,000 or for the repair or maintenance of any building or road in excess of $45,000”; and made minor changes in style.

1991 Amendment: In (1) increased contract limit for purchase of materials or supplies to $20,000 from $10,000, increased contract limit for construction or repair of any building, road, or bridge to $25,000 from $10,000, and increased contract limit for repair or maintenance of building, road, or bridge to $45,000 from $25,000; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: In (2) substituted “as provided in 7-1-2121” for “in the official newspaper of the county at least once a week for 3 consecutive weeks before the date fixed therein for receiving bids”.

1981 Amendment: Inserted “or for the repair or maintenance of any building, road, or bridge for which must be paid a sum in excess of $25,000” before “shall be entered into by a county governing body” near the end of (1).

Case Notes

Official Misconduct by Individual Commissioner: An individual Commissioner may be criminally liable for official misconduct for entering into a contract for purchase of equipment in excess of $10,000 [threshold amount was increased by 1981, 1991, and 1997 amendments—annotator] without publishing notice calling for bids. St. v. Cole, 174 M 380, 571 P2d 87, 34 St. Rep. 1169 (1977).

County Commissioners Convicted: There was sufficient substantial evidence to sustain guilty verdicts and judgment against three County Commissioners for official misconduct committed by failing to perform a mandatory duty of advertising a county road contract of over $10,000 [threshold amount was increased by 1981, 1991, and 1997 amendments—annotator] for bid and by knowingly performing the forbidden act of dividing a single road contract into parts to circumvent bidding requirements. St. v. DeGeorge, 173 M 35, 566 P2d 59 (1977).

Special Purpose Construction: Industrial development projects law (Title 90, ch. 5, part 1) is designed for special purpose and is thereby not limited by provision in this section that a county not contract for construction except on public bidding. Fickes v. Missoula County, 155 M 258, 470 P2d 287 (1970).

Attorney General’s Opinions

County Lease or Lease With Purchase Option — Bidding Requirements: A county lease contract with no purchase option is not subject to the bidding requirements of 7-5-2301. A lease contract with a purchase option is subject to such requirements if the total amount of the lease payments, together with the purchase option price, exceeds $10,000 (threshold amount was increased by 1981, 1991, and 1997 amendments, and see 1999 amendment). 38 A.G. Op. 101 (1980).

Waiver of Competitive Bidding Requirements — Emergency Situations: Counties may contract for the repair of bridges and roads damaged by disasters and calamities without competitive bidding under 7-5-2304, provided there is an express determination that the repairs are urgently and immediately needed. 37 A.G. Op. 162 (1978).

7-5-2303. Use of public auction to make purchase.

Compiler’s Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 136 in (1) substituted “$150,000” for “$60,000”. Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

1991 Amendment: In (1), after “any vehicle”, inserted “road machinery or other”, after “appliances” deleted “building” and inserted “equipment”, before “supplies for” substituted “or” for “and”, and increased purchase limit from $25,000 to $60,000; and made minor changes in style.

1981 Amendment: Increased auction limit in (1) from $10,000 to $25,000.

7-5-2304. Exemptions from competitive bidding requirements.

Severability: Section 33, Ch. 770, L. 1991, was a severability clause.

Attorney General's Opinions

Act Allowing Private Parties to Contract for Jails Not in Conflict With Local Government Regulatory Statutes: The act allowing counties to contract with private parties for the building, maintenance, and operation of jails, enacted as Chapter 447, L. 1985, does not directly conflict with other Montana statutes regulating the indebtedness, contracts, jail facilities, or interlocal agreements of local governments. However, Chapter 447 is subject to the various applicable limitations contained in those statutes. 42 A.G. Op. 81 (1988).

Capacity to Purchase Equipment Without Election: Under the provisions of 7-7-2101(2) prior to amendment by Ch. 134, L. 1981, the Attorney General held that a county may contract for machinery and equipment for a single purpose without a vote of the county residents when the entire expenditure will exceed $40,000, but the remaining indebtedness after applying cash on hand and revenue-sharing funds budgeted for that purpose must not exceed $40,000. An exception is not allowed for installment contracts in which each annual installment is less than $40,000 if the remaining indebtedness exceeds $40,000. 37 A.G. Op. 152 (1978).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) at end substituted "The citation must be published as provided in 7-1-2121" for "The citation shall be published in a newspaper of regular circulation in the county or, if no such newspaper is in said county, then in such a newspaper located in an adjoining county of the state. The citation shall be published once a week for 2 successive weeks before the date of said hearing"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Part 41 Conduct of Municipal Government

7-5-4101. General powers of municipal council.

Case Notes

"GENERAL WELFARE" CLAUSE

Roominghouses — Regulation: The business of conducting a roominghouse, though a legitimate one, is so far concerned with the health, morals, and welfare of the public that it is within the police power of a city to regulate it under the authority conferred by this section, denominated the "general welfare clause". State ex rel. Altop v. Billings, 79 M 25, 255 P 11 (1927).

Delegation of Authority — Scope of Discretion — Licenses: A city ordinance which vests in its officials a discretion to grant or refuse to grant a license to carry on a lawful business, to be valid, need not, where the ordinance relates to the administration of a police regulation necessary to protect the general welfare, morals, and safety of the public, prescribe all the conditions upon which such license shall be granted or refused. The fact that in instances it may be exercised arbitrarily, in the absence of specific directions, is not an argument against its validity, since in such a case the person discriminated against may apply to the courts for relief. State ex rel. Altop v. Billings, 79 M 25, 255 P 11 (1927), distinguished in Bennett v. Stow, 144 M 599, 399 P2d 221 (1965).

GENERAL POWERS

Municipality's Authority to Adopt Ordinance Limiting University Students' Rights to Park on City Streets: A university student association challenged the legality of a city ordinance limiting parking in residential areas near the university to residents of those areas. The Supreme Court held that municipalities have the power to regulate parking and that regulating parking to relieve congestion in certain residential neighborhoods was a reasonable exercise of governmental authority. Assoc. Students v. Missoula, 261 M 231, 862 P2d 380, 50 St. Rep. 1301 (1993).

Parking Ordinance — Vicarious Criminal Responsibility: A city may, in the exercise of its police power, enact a parking ordinance that provides that the registered owner of a motor vehicle is vicariously criminally responsible for illegal parking by another unless it is shown that the vehicle was being used without the owner's consent. Such an ordinance does not violate due process restrictions (overruling a contrary holding in St. v. Jetty, 176 M 519, 579 P2d 1228 (1978)), but the ordinance must conform to the absolute liability requirements of 45-2-104. Missoula v. Shea, 202 M 286, 661 P2d 410, 40 St. Rep. 91 (1983).

Unconstitutional Parking Ordinance — Presumption That Owner Parked Vehicle — Escalating Fines for Parking Violations:

In striking down a parking ordinance, the Supreme Court held that to make the owner of a vehicle prima facie liable upon proof that his vehicle has been parked illegally is equivalent to a presumption that the owner parked the vehicle. The effect of the presumption is to violate constitutional due process requirements by shifting the burden of persuasion to defendant and contradicting the presumption of innocence. Missoula v. Shea, 202 M 286, 661 P2d 410, 40 St. Rep. 91 (1983).

An escalating fine schedule for parking violations where the amount to be paid depends on the length in the delay in paying after being cited is in violation of the basic principle of law that punishment must be for the violation and proportional to the gravity of the offense and hence is violative of Art. II, sec. 28, Mont. Const., which provides that laws for punishment of crime shall be founded on principles of prevention and reformation. Missoula v. Shea, 202 M 286, 661 P2d 410, 40 St. Rep. 91 (1983).

Estoppel to Repudiate Acts of Officers: Although a municipal corporation is not bound by acts or statements of its officers made in excess of their authority, where an innocent party has been induced into a course of action by the conduct of municipal officers and because of such reliance would suffer a substantial loss, the municipality will not be permitted to deny the validity of its officers' actions. State ex rel. Barker v. Stevensville, 164 M 378, 523 P2d 1388 (1974).

Flat Rate Fees — City Employees' Services: Under its power to provide for the general welfare of its inhabitants, a city may provide for a flat rate charge to property owners for services of its employees in tapping into the water main. Leischner v. Knight, 135 M 109, 337 P2d 359 (1959).

Regulation of Alcoholic Beverages: Notwithstanding repeal of the state prohibition laws a city has the power to prohibit, by ordinance, traffic in intoxicating liquors under its general powers granted it by this section and the specific provision of 7-32-4302, under which it may pass ordinances to prevent acts or conduct calculated to disturb the public peace or which are offensive to public morals. State ex rel. Moreland v. Police Court, 87 M 17, 285 P 178 (1930).

Taxation: A city has no inherent power to levy taxes on property within its corporate limits, its power in that respect being limited to that conferred by statute, which must be strictly construed. First Nat'l Bank of Glendive v. Sorenson, 65 M 1, 210 P 900 (1922).

Proprietary Capacity — Municipal Power Plant: When a city is engaged in operating a municipal power plant, under an authority granted by general law, it acts in a proprietary or business capacity and stands upon the same footing as a private individual or business corporation similarly situated. Milligan v. Miles City, 51 M 374, 153 P 276 (1915).

Reduction in Force — Police:

Under its general legislative power the Council of a city or town may provide for the appointment of as many policemen, including a Chief of Police in case of a city and a Marshal in case of a town, as may be necessary to preserve the peace and enforce the ordinances. Grush v. Bishop, 46 M 97, 126 P 619 (1912).

As a City Council has, under this section and 7-6-4302, the sole power to determine the amount that shall be expended in carrying on the city government, it and not the Mayor has the power to reduce the police force for economical reasons or when it becomes unnecessarily large. State ex

INTERPRETATION OF POWERS

Arbitrary Denial of Building Permit by City Council — City, City Council, and Individual Council Members Liable: In an action under 43 U.S.C. 1983, the court of appeals upheld the District Court's holding that the Billings City Council's refusal to issue a building permit after the applicant had satisfied all the requirements for issuing the permit was an arbitrary and capricious action that deprived the applicant of his substantive due process rights. The city, City Council, and individual members of the City Council have no immunity from such action and are all liable for damages. Bateson v. Geisse, 857 F2d 1300 (9th Cir. 1988).

Rules of Construction: Within the scope of its powers delegated to it by the Legislature, a City Council has the same right to enact binding ordinances as has the Legislature to enact statutes, and practically the same rules of construction apply when the validity of an ordinance or a statute is under consideration by the courts. Missoula v. Swanberg, 116 M 232, 149 P2d 248 (1944).

Arbitrary Class — Equal Protection: A city ordinance that prohibits the installation of plumbing called "Durham work", made of certain material, in one- or two-story buildings and permits its installation in all others over two stories high is arbitrary and unreasonable class legislation and therefore invalid as in conflict with this section in the absence of evidence showing that the prohibited kind of material is detrimental to the health and safety of the people of the municipality. Missoula v. Swanberg, 116 M 232, 149 P2d 248 (1944).

Subject to State and Federal Constitutions: Laws enacted in the exercise of the police power, whether by municipal corporations acting in pursuance of the laws of the state or by the state itself, must be reasonable and are always subject to the provisions of both the federal and state constitutions and judicial scrutiny. Betty v. Sidney, 79 M 314, 257 P 1007 (1927).

Reasonableness of Ordinance: The question of the reasonableness of an ordinance is, in the first instance, for the determination of a City or Town Council, and in the absence of a clear showing to the contrary its reasonableness will be presumed. Betty v. Sidney, 79 M 314, 257 P 1007 (1927).

Authorized Act Resulting in Nuisance — Liability: In grants of authority to municipal corporations, authority to commit a nuisance will not be implied but must be expressed, since in the use of their private property cities are subject to the same rules as private individuals. When the use and enjoyment of a legislative grant does not necessarily and naturally create a nuisance but the nuisance results from the method of the use and enjoyment, the grant constitutes no defense. Lennon v. Butte, 67 M 101, 214 P 1101 (1923).

Express or Implied Authority: The statute creating a municipality or under which it exists is the charter of its powers, and it has only such authority as is conferred expressly and such as is necessarily implied or is indispensable in order properly to accomplish the purpose of its organization. State ex rel. Butte v. Police Court, 65 M 94, 210 P 1059 (1922).

Attorney General's Opinions

Doctrine of Incompatible Positions Precluding Public Works Director From Holding Office on City Council: An individual serving in the dual roles of public works director and City Council member would be in the position as City Council member of controlling actions and decisions of that individual's supervisor, the public works director, which could directly affect that individual's job duties and compensation. Therefore, under the common-law doctrine of incompatible public offices, the office of City Council member and the office or position of public works director are incompatible and one person may not hold both jobs simultaneously. 47 A.G. Op. 19 (1998). See also 41 A.G. Op. 81 (1986), and 46 A.G. Op. 26 (1996).

Firefighters — Receipt of Compensatory Time Off: A firefighter may receive compensatory time off for bonus hours worked in excess of 40 in 1 week, and under 7-5-4101 the governing body of a city has the authority to manage the affairs of the city, including entering into a contract providing compensatory time off for firefighters. 39 A.G. Op. 35 (1981), followed in 45 A.G. Op. 21 (1994).

Local Governments — Borrowing From Financial Institutions Permitted: A county, city, or town with general government or self-government powers can incur indebtedness by borrowing money directly from a financial institution. This authority to borrow does not change the debt limitations on the local government. 38 A.G. Op. 14 (1979).

Police Dispatch Services: A county may contract with a city or town to provide the municipal police department with police dispatch services operated through the County Sheriff's office. 37 A.G. Op. 10 (1977).

Case Notes*Tie Vote — Mayor to Cast Deciding Vote:*

In quo warranto proceedings, under this section providing that the Mayor of a city shall be the presiding officer of the Council and decide by his vote all ties, it was held that where the Council was evenly divided on the question of confirmation of the Mayor's appointee to the office of City Attorney, he had the right to cast the decisive vote. State ex rel. O'Hern v. Loud, 92 M 307, 14 P2d 432 (1932), explained in State ex rel. Easbey v. Highway Patrol Bd., 140 M 383, 372 P2d 930 (1962).

Under the law as it existed in 1895, the Mayor was deemed to be a constituent part of the Council, and where there was a tie vote of the Aldermen on the confirmation of an officer, he had the right to vote for confirmation. State ex rel. Young v. Yates, 19 M 239, 47 P 1004 (1897).

Attorney General's Opinions

Administrative Assistant — Mayoral Appointment: Although the City Council's contract and budget approval powers may affect the mayor's practical ability to provide a particular compensation amount to an administrative assistant or establish other employment conditions, they do not obviate his authority to fill that position without Council approval. Under 7-3-212, a mayor may appoint an administrative assistant without the approval of the City Council. 41 A.G. Op. 45 (1986).

1993 Amendment: Chapter 406 inserted (2) that read: "(2) The city or town council may not prohibit the placing of a "notice of violation" card on a motor vehicle illegally parked in a disability parking space."

Case Notes

Imposition of Fine: Under the rule of statutory construction that a specific provision is paramount to a general one, held, in a prosecution for maintaining a nuisance, that the specific provision of this section, empowering a city to impose a fine upon persons maintaining a nuisance, is controlling, as against the power conferred by 7-5-4207 to impose fines and jail penalties for the violation of city ordinances generally. Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

Case Notes

City Ordinance Not Conclusive Presumption of Necessity — Standard of Proof: A city ordinance adopted pursuant to this section did not establish a conclusive presumption that the taking of private property for a water system was necessary. The controlling statutes are in Title 7, chapter 13, part 44, and absent an agreement to purchase, 7-13-4404 requires that the standard of proof outlined in 70-30-111 be met before private property may be taken for a public use. Since the District Court has the power to determine whether a condemnation is necessary, the votes of the people and the city council cannot be considered as dispositive of the issue of necessity; however, the public interest as expressed in these votes must be considered and weighed with the other factors in determining whether acquisition is necessary. Missoula v. Mtn. Water Co., 228 M 404, 743 P2d 590, 44 St. Rep. 1633 (1987).

Areawide Condemnation: City's only authority to condemn on an "area" basis is 7-15-4259. Passage of city ordinance declaring condemnation for urban renewal of blighted areas did not create conclusive presumption of public use and necessity. Helena v. DeWolf, 162 M 57, 508 P2d 122 (1973).

Control of Floodwaters: Under this section a city may condemn lands for constructing a sewer, waterway, or drain ditch outside the corporate limits of the municipality "or for any other municipal and public use". Thus the city has the power of eminent domain for a project to divert floodwaters into a channel away from the city in order to protect it from overflows. Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

Right to Condemn Property:

Authority to condemn property for a public use must be clearly expressed in the law before such right will be allowed. State ex rel. McLeod v. District Court, 67 M 164, 215 P 240 (1923).

In the absence of legislative authority empowering it so to do, a city has no right to condemn land outside of its corporate limits for a public highway leading to a park owned by it. State ex rel. McLeod v. District Court, 67 M 164, 215 P 240 (1923).

Vesting of Fee to Land: Under section 11-606, R.C.M. 1947 (since repealed), the fee to the land covered by a street once established is vested in the public. The form of dedication required of the owner, when the plat of a city or town or an addition thereto is recorded, is equivalent to a deed, but as the respective rights of the abutting owners and of the public are dependent upon the fact of dedication, it is not important to inquire where the fee is vested. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 M 509, 110 P 237 (1910).

Water Supply — Prior Attempt at Consent Required: In condemnation proceedings to acquire title to property for a water supply, it is not necessary to allege or prove that the city had endeavored to obtain the consent of the owners of the property to the taking thereof. Helena v. Rogan, 27 M 135, 69 P 709 (1902).

1993 Amendment: Chapter 322 inserted (2) establishing a process whereby a local government governing body can waive the conflict of interest provision for certain officers and employees or their relatives; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Where Franchised Utility in No Position to Complain: A utility operating under a nonexclusive city franchise sought to enjoin a city from selling bonds for the purpose of securing its own gas distributing system, on ground of unlawful competition. The utility could not question the legality of any other contract entered into by the city in connection with the enterprise and hence was in no position to complain that the city's contract with a contracting firm relating to a supply of natural gas was illegal because a city employee, not served with summons, was interested in the contract contrary to this section. Montana-Dakota Util. Co. v. Havre, 109 M 164, 94 P2d 660 (1939).

Subsequent Interest: This section is not applicable to a Mayor who was not interested in a contract made with the city but who agreed, after the contract was accepted and filed with the proper official, to take stock in a corporation succeeding to the rights of the original contractor. State ex rel. Great Falls Water Works v. Great Falls, 19 M 518, 49 P 15 (1897).

Attorney General's Opinions

City Employee as Councilman — No Conflict of Interest: There is no inherent conflict of interest when a city employee is also an elected city councilman in a council-mayor form of municipal government. The opportunity to commit the breach of a fiduciary duty does not constitute a conflict of interest. 41 A.G. Op. 81 (1986).

Definitions — Incorporation: Since the Legislature is presumed not to perform useless acts, the definitions of "be interested in" and "contract" contained in 2-2-201 are incorporated into and are applicable to 7-5-2106 and 7-5-4109, which relate to the same subject matter, conflicts of interest for local government officials. 40 A.G. Op. 28 (1983).

Disclosure — Abstinence From Voting — When Contract Voidable: Where a local government official has a conflict of interest, such as a substantial interest in a business bidding on a local government contract, the official must comply with the disclosure and abstinence from voting provisions of 2-2-125 (now repealed) and 2-2-131, even though the interest may be permissible under the exceptions contained in 2-2-201. If the interest is not permissible under the exceptions listed in 2-2-201, the contract is voidable and abstinence from voting will not exonerate the official. 40 A.G. Op. 28 (1983).

Control of Conflict of Interest — Elected City Official Prohibited From Selling Supplies to City: A business operated by an elected city official or owned by a corporation in which the official is a major stockholder may not sell supplies to the city. The crucial factor in determining whether a conflict of interest lies and applying conflict of interest statutes is the presence of a pecuniary or proprietary interest. A formal contract is not required to find a conflict of interest. 38 A.G. Op. 79 (1980).

Case Notes

City Authority to Plant Trees: Plaintiff filed suit against the city to prevent the planting of trees in the boulevard area of the sidewalk in front on his property. The District Court dismissed plaintiff's complaint for failure to state a cause of action because the City Council has broad discretion under 7-14-4101 to alter and maintain city streets and avenues, including the planting of trees. A statement by the City Council Public Works Committee that no trees would be planted if plaintiff objected did not create a contract binding on the city. The elements of a contract are missing here, and there was no action by the City Council as required by this section to create a contract. Duncan v. Missoula, 239 M 201, 779 P2d 519, 46 St. Rep. 1619 (1989).

Failure to Record: Town could not deny the validity of a sewage project contract due to an alleged technical defect in failing to record in minutes of Town Council the aye and no vote on the approval of the contract as required by this section where the town in all of its affirmative acts recognized the contract. St. Eng'r. Serv., Inc. v. Kevin, 148 M 312, 420 P2d 433 (1966).

Filling Vacancy: Subsection (2) of this section does not apply to an election by a City Council to fill a vacancy in its own body, caused by resignation or death. The provisions governing such election are found in 7-4-4112. State ex rel. Wilson v. Willis, 47 M 548, 133 P 962 (1913), distinguished in State ex rel. O'Hern v. Loud, 92 M 307, 14 P2d 432 (1932).

Attorney General's Opinions

Number of Town Council Members Necessary to Constitute Quorum When Mayor Resigns: Regarding the question of what constitutes a quorum of municipal council members when the mayor resigns and the mayoral duties are assumed by one of the municipal council members, at common law, the general rule is that the total number of all of the duly elected and qualified members of the municipal council is taken as the basis. Although the mayor or chief executive may be included in the count under some statutes, the mayor is not made a member of the council and is not included in the number on which a quorum is reckoned. However, even though the mayor is not counted in the determination of a quorum, a member of the municipal council who acts as mayor or presiding officer pro tempore in absence of the mayor is counted in determining whether a quorum is present and retains the right to vote as a member of the council. Thus, the president of the council, when serving as acting mayor in the absence of the mayor, may vote on a measure with the other members of the council and then, as acting mayor, cast the deciding vote in case of a tie. 47 A.G. Op. 20 (1998).

Town With Weak-Mayor Government Not Authorized to Adopt Statutory Quorum Provisions: A town with a weak-mayor form of municipal government does not have authority to adopt by ordinance the quorum provisions of 7-3-4221. Those provisions would conflict with this section, which states that a majority of the members of the town council constitute a quorum and does not include the mayor as a member of the town council for the determination. 47 A.G. Op. 20 (1998).

Lack of Notice — Burden of Proving Special Meeting: In an injunction suit to restrain the payment of municipal funds for work done in repairing sidewalks, in which one ground of the complaint was that though the meeting of the Council at which the walk was ordered replaced was a special one, it was held without notice, proclamation, or message of the Mayor, as required by this section, the plaintiff had the burden of proving that the meeting was a special one. *O'Brien v. Amendment effective April 20, 1993.

1985 Amendment: In (3) substituted (a) and (b) relating to retention schedules for "Any claim, warrant, voucher, bond, or treasurer's general receipt may be destroyed by any city or town officer after a period of 5 years."

1983 Amendment: Substituted references to department of commerce for references to department of administration.

Case Notes

Interpretation of Uniform Building Code Ordinance Matter of Law — Violation May Constitute Negligence Per Se: Chambers was injured after falling into a pit at the Helena garbage transfer station. A Uniform Building Code (UBC) ordinance required guardrails on most landings and ramps, except on the loading side of loading docks. The District Court held that the pit did not fit the loading dock exception and that the city's failure to install guardrails was negligence per se. The city argued that interpretation of the UBC ordinance was a finding of fact that the trial court improperly removed from the province of the jury because the court made credibility determinations and weighed the evidence. Chambers maintained that, like statutes, interpretation of a UBC ordinance is a question of law. The Supreme Court agreed with Chambers. Violation of a UBC ordinance is a matter of law, violation of which may constitute negligence per se, and in this case, it was undisputed that the city was subject to the ordinance and that there were no guardrails installed along the transfer station pit. Chambers was a member of the class of persons that the ordinance was designed to protect and met the elements of negligence per se. Further, pursuant to Montana pattern jury instructions, it is up to the jury to decide whether a statute has been violated. Once the trial court determined that the city was negligent per se, the jury instruction should not have been given because there were no more undisputed issues regarding violation of the statute. The only remaining determination was whether the loading dock exception applied to the pit, and that was a statutory interpretation for the court to decide. The plain language of the UBC ordinance and its exception did not include a pit design such as that used at the transfer station, so the trial court correctly interpreted the ordinance and held the city negligent per se. Chambers v. Helena, 2002 MT 142, 310 M 241, 49 P3d 587 (2002).

One Subject — Wholesale Adoption of State Misdemeanors: A town ordinance that, in effect, adopted all state laws defining misdemeanors and made them town ordinances was invalid as violating the prohibition against passage of an ordinance containing more than one subject. White Sulphur Springs v. Voise, 136 M 1, 334 P2d 855 (1959).

One Subject — Establishing Police Department: An ordinance establishing a police department, repealing a series of ordinances dealing therewith and those relating to the location and conduct of the city jail, held not open to the objection that it was void as in contravention of the provisions of this section. State ex rel. Dwyer v. Mayor, 69 M 232, 221 P 524 (1923).

One Subject — Liberal Construction: The restriction placed by this section upon the City Council in enacting ordinances to the effect that none shall be passed containing more than one subject which shall be clearly expressed in its title, like that imposed upon the Legislature in enacting a statute, must be liberally construed. The ordinance will be sustained unless it appears beyond a reasonable doubt that it does not meet the requirement. State ex rel. Dwyer v. Mayor, 69 M 232, 221 P 524 (1923).

Resolution of Intention — Approval by Mayor: A resolution of intention is not valid unless approved by the Mayor. All proceedings taken under an unapproved resolution of intention are void. Hinzeman v. Deer Lodge, 58 M 369, 193 P 395 (1920).

One Subject — Special Election on Bonds: An ordinance calling for a special election for the authorization or rejection of an increase of the city's indebtedness by the issuance of water and sewer bonds was not obnoxious to the prohibition contained in this section that no ordinance shall be passed containing more than one subject. The general subject of the ordinance was the incurring of the indebtedness, and the different purposes named in it as making the indebtedness necessary were matters of detail for the information of the voters. Carlson v. Helena, 39 M 82, 102 P 39 (1909).

One Subject — General Rule: The observance of the limitation imposed by this section relative to ordinances containing more than one subject, which must be clearly expressed in its title, is mandatory and renders void any ordinance which violates it. But whatever is germane, incidental, or necessary to the main or general subject of an ordinance may be included in it and is not a separate subject. Carlson v. Helena, 39 M 82, 102 P 39 (1909). Case NotesResolution Creating Special Improvement District — Not Subject to Referendum:

A resolution creating a municipal special improvement district that encompasses less area than the municipal limits is not subject to referendum because the resolution affects only the people within the improvement district rather than the people of the municipality as a whole. The Supreme Court further held that the resolution creating a special improvement district is part of an administrative procedure, not a legislative action subject to referendum. Shelby v. Sandholm, 208 M 77, 676 P2d 178, 41 St. Rep. 186 (1984), distinguished in The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

Sections 7-5-4203(1) and 7-5-4204 are not applicable to special improvement districts but only to matters of general legislation on which all electors may vote. Schumacher v. Bozeman, 174 M 519, 571 P2d 1135 (1977).

Interpretation of City Ordinance: If the language of an ordinance is plain and unambiguous, it is not subject to interpretation or open to construction but must be accepted and enforced as written. Schanz v. Billings, 182 M 328, 597 P2d 67, 36 St. Rep. 1163 (1979), following Sheridan County Elec. Co-op, Inc., v. Montana-Dakota Util. Co., 128 M 84, 270 P2d 742 (1954), and followed in The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

Emergency Measure Excepted From Referendum: It was contended that to compel a city to pass an ordinance or resolution for the rezoning of the city and vacation of streets by mandamus at the instance of the city housing authority would destroy the exercise of right of referendum by the city inhabitants because the ordinance or resolution would be effective immediately. The Supreme Court held that the housing authorities being an emergency measure, this section as originally enacted specifically provides that an emergency measure is excepted from the provisions of the Referendum Act (Ch. 167, L. 1907). State ex rel. Great Falls Housing Authority v. Great Falls, 110 M 318, 100 P2d 915 (1940).

Bond Issues: This statute, being a general statute, held not controlling where a city seeks to sell bonds for the acquisition of a self-supporting gas distribution system under authority of Ch. 141, L. 1935. Section 15 specifically provides that if any of the provisions of the chapter are inconsistent with any other statute, the provisions of the chapter are controlling. Montana-Dakota Util. Co. v. Havre, 109 M 164, 94 P2d 660 (1939).

Increase in Salary — Date: The provision of section 11-732, R.C.M. 1947 (since completely rewritten), that the salary of a city officer shall not be increased or diminished during his term of office, means the terms the officer is then serving. Where the salary of a Mayor was increased by ordinance near the close of his first term, the increase could not, under this section, become effective until after his second term had commenced. The increase was made during his prior term and not during the term he was then serving. Broadwater v. Kendig, 80 M 515, 261 P 264 (1927).

Bond Ordinance Approved by Voters: This section has no application to an ordinance providing for the issuance of water and sewer bonds after sanction of the taxpayers affected thereby has been obtained. The law has to do with matters of general legislation on which all electors, whether taxpayers or not, may vote, while the question whether bonds shall be issued can be submitted to taxpayers only. Carlson v. Helena, 39 M 82, 102 P 39 (1909).

Applicability: Sections 7-5-4203(1) and 7-5-4204 are not applicable to special improvement districts but only to matters of general legislation on which all electors may vote. Schumacher v. Bozeman, 174 M 519, 571 P2d 1135 (1977).

2013 Amendment: Chapter 415 in (1) in exception clause inserted reference to 7-5-4209; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 597 at beginning of (1) inserted exception clause; inserted (2) allowing a local government to fix certain penalties for violation of municipal ordinances; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Invalid Ordinance: A town ordinance which in effect adopted all state laws defining misdemeanors and made them town ordinances, with penalties limited as provided by this section, was invalid as containing more than one subject in violation of the prohibition set forth in 7-5-4201. White Sulphur Springs v. Voise, 136 M 1, 343 P2d 855 (1959).

Nuisance — Section Not Applicable: Under the rule of statutory construction that a specific provision is paramount to a general one, held, in a prosecution for maintaining a nuisance, that the specific provision of 7-5-4104, empowering a city to impose a fine upon persons maintaining a nuisance, is controlling, as against the power conferred by this section to impose fines and jail penalties for the violation of a city ordinance generally. Bozeman v. Merrell, 81 M 19, 261 P 876 (1927). See also Billings v. Trenka, 155 M 27, 465 P2d 838 (1970).

Commission-Manager Cities: The powers of a city operating under the commission-manager plan granted by 7-3-4313, with respect to punishments of violations of its ordinances, are the same as and no greater than those granted by this section to cities generally. Bozeman v. Merrell, 81 M 19, 261 P 876 (1927).

Attorney General's Opinions

Mandatory Seatbelt Ordinance: Under Montana law and the Montana Constitution, a municipality with self-governing powers may enact a mandatory seatbelt ordinance that provides for a fine or jail sentence for violation of the ordinance as long as the fine or penalty does not exceed $500 and the imprisonment does not exceed 6 months for any one offense, and as long as such an ordinance is not prohibited by the city charter. 41 A.G. Op. 47 (1986).

Validity of Ordinance Allowing Escalating Penalty for Failure to Obtain Business License: A Lewistown city ordinance that allows an escalating monthly penalty for failure to obtain a local business license is valid despite Missoula v. Shea, 202 M 286, 661 P2d 410, 40 St. Rep. 91 (1983). The Shea case determined that escalating penalties for parking violations were criminal penalties and violative of Art. II, sec. 28, Mont. Const. In analyzing the Lewistown ordinance, the Attorney General observed that the crucial issue is whether the penalty imposed is civil or criminal in nature. Applying the five factors outlined in Brown v. Multnomah County District Court, 570 P2d 52 (Ore. 1977), he concluded that the instant ordinance imposed civil penalties and that the ordinance was valid. 40 A.G. Op. 75 (1984).

Motor Vehicle Parking Offenses — Civil Penalty: A city with general government powers may not establish a civil penalty and collection system for motor vehicle parking offenses. 40 A.G. Op. 31 (1984).

2003 Amendment: Chapter 526 in (1) near end substituted “chapter” for “code”; in (2)(b)(i) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (2)(b)(ii) allowing a city or town to extend, renew, or amend an agreement for the supervision or operation of a physical plant that provides water, sewer, or power services to the municipality without proceeding under public bidding procedures in certain instances; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

1987 Amendment: Inserted (2)(b) relating to supervision over water, sewer, or power services.

1983 Amendment: In (2), inserted last sentence relating to professional, technical, engineering, and legal services.

Case Notes

Green Waste Compost Program Contract Exempt From Bidding Process — Not Reviewable in Absence of Bad Faith, Fraud, or Corruption: Heritage argued that the city of Helena awarded a contract without soliciting bids. The Supreme Court held that the contract was for construction, repair, or maintenance in an amount less than $25,000 and involved technical skills and therefore was exempt from the bidding process. The Supreme Court also stated that in following Baker v. St., 218 M 235, 707 P2d 20 (1985), an agency's decision in awarding a contract is not reviewable in the absence of a showing of bad faith, fraud, or corruption. Heritage Commercial Contractors, Inc. v. Helena, 272 M 90, 899 P2d 1076, 52 St. Rep. 676 (1995).

Professional Services: Senate Bill 288 (Ch. 371, L. 1971), which amended this section, the title of which was “An act amending section 11-1202, R.C.M. 1947, to increase the monetary limitation on purchasers”, and eliminated last paragraph of this section excepting from bid requirements contracts for professional, technical, engineering, and legal services, without reference thereto in title of bill, was in violation of Art. V, sec. 23, 1889 Mont. Const. (similar to Art. V, sec. 11(3), 1972 Mont. Const.). Morrison-Maierle, Inc. v. Forsyth, 160 M 69, 500 P2d 395 (1972).

Public Utility Rates: Under 7-13-4101 and this section, a city may contract for rates with a public utility, subject, however, to the paramount authority of the state to exercise its power in the premises whenever it chooses to do so. *State ex rel. Award to Lowest Responsible Bidder: The mode of exercising the power granted by this section is subject to the limitation prescribed in that section of the code in reference to the awarding by municipalities of contracts exceeding a certain amount to the lowest responsible bidder. This limitation is, furthermore, exclusive and applies to all municipal bodies. Missoula Street Ry. v. Missoula, 47 M 85, 130 P 771 (1913).

Provision of Fire Protection Services Outside City Limits: A city may contract with entities to provide fire protection services outside the city limits. 42 A.G. Op. 80 (1988).

Contract for Employment of Construction Manager: A contract for the employment of a construction manager that calls only for the application of the contractor's technical expertise and experience in a supervisory capacity and does not involve the procurement of supplies or actual construction is exempt from the bidding requirements of 7-5-4302, as a contract for professional and technical services. 37 A.G. Op. 175 (1978).

Purchase by City of Real Property With Existing Buildings: Under applicable Montana statutes, a municipality is not required to submit a proposed purchase of real estate and existing buildings to voters for approval and may purchase them to house its fire department using current appropriations and without incurring indebtedness or issuing bonds to finance such purchase. 37 A.G. Op. 31 (1977).

Police Dispatch Services: A county may contract with a city or town to provide the municipal police department with police dispatch services operated through the County Sheriff's office. 37 A.G. Op. 10 (1977).

2013 Amendment: Chapter 110 in (1) increased contract amount from $50,000 to $80,000. Amendment effective March 28, 2013.

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 192 in (1) near end after “supplies” deleted “of any kind in excess of $20,000” and after “excess of” substituted “$50,000” for “$25,000”. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

Chapter 574 in (1) near beginning in exception clause inserted reference to Title 18, chapter 2, part 5; in (3)(a) substituted “awarding a” for “action on any”; in (3)(b) inserted “or all”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (2) at beginning substituted “The advertisement must be published as provided in 7-1-4127” for “The advertisement must be made in the official newspaper of the city or town if there is an official newspaper, and if not, it must be made in a daily newspaper of general circulation published in the city or town if there is a newspaper. If there is no newspaper, the advertisement must be made by posting in three of the most public places in the city or town. The advertisement, if by publication in a newspaper, must be made once each week for 2 consecutive weeks”. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 459 in (1), after “equipment”, substituted “or” for “for any”; and made minor changes in style.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 475 in (1), after “supplies of any kind”, inserted “in excess of $20,000” and after “maintenance” substituted “in excess of $25,000” for “for which must be paid a sum exceeding $10,000”; and made minor changes in style.

1987 Amendment: In (1), near beginning, inserted reference to 7-5-4310.

1981 Amendment: Extended the coverage of the types of contracts to include repair and maintenance; increased the minimum contract amount requiring bids from $4,000 to $10,000 in (1).

Case Notes

When Claim for Relief Accrues for Failure of Construction Contract to Be Awarded to Lowest Bidder — No Negligence by Engineering Firm in Handling of Bidding Process on Public Works Contract. The city of Glasgow hired an engineering firm to prepare plans, specifications, and bid documents for a municipal sewer improvement project, including review of bid results and bid award recommendations. Debcon, Inc. (Debcon), submitted the lowest bid, but the engineering firm's review showed significant mathematical errors in Debcon's bid and some question as to the ability of Debcon to perform. The engineering firm recommended that the contract be awarded to a different bidder, and Debcon sued both the city and the engineering firm, alleging negligence in the award of the construction contract. The District Court concluded that Debcon lacked standing to assert a duty of care owed to it by the city and that the negligence claim against the engineering firm must also fail as a matter of law because the firm owed no duty of care to Debcon, an essential element for asserting negligence as a claim for relief. Debcon did not appeal the judgment in favor of the city, but did appeal the judgment in favor of the firm. The Supreme Court cited a long line of cases back to 1910 for the proposition that, absent a duty, no breach of duty can be established and no negligence action can be maintained. An unsuccessful bidder has no standing in mandamus or otherwise to control the discretion in the award of a contract to the lowest responsible bidder, which may not be the lowest pecuniary bidder. A claim for relief from the award of a public contract accrues under the following conditions: (1) plaintiff must timely assert its claim as an aggrieved taxpayer; (2) the claim must seek a remedy, such as an injunction, writ of mandamus, or declaratory judgment, that will protect the rights of the aggrieved taxpayer from the potential harm that will occur; and (3) plaintiff must then show that the process by which the public works contract was awarded resulted from an abuse of discretion, i.e., that discretion was tainted by an act of bad faith, fraud, corruption, or arbitrariness. The Supreme Court in this case declined to follow Debcon's contention that a new duty of care should be constructed from whole cloth that would allow Debcon, as the aggrieved low bidder, to recover lost profits or other expectancy damages under a negligence theory. The District Court properly concluded that the engineering firm, serving as project engineer for the city of Glasgow, did not owe Debcon, as a failed bidder, a duty of care in its handling of the public works contract bidding process under a negligence theory. Debcon's claim for relief was a claim for which relief could not be granted as a matter of law. Further, Debcon did not enjoy contractual privity with the engineering firm, so absent a statutory provision that would sustain a bad faith claim, a claim of bad faith did not lie. Summary judgment in favor of the engineering firm was proper. Debcon, Inc. v. Glasgow, 2001 MT 124, 305 M 391, 28 P3d 478 (2001), following O'Brien v. Drinkenberg, 41 M 538, 111 P 137 (1910), and its progeny, Koich v. Cvar, 111 M 463, 110 P2d 964 (1941), and State ex rel. Sletten Constr. Co. v. Great Falls, 163 M 307, 516 P2d 1149 (1973), and followed, with regard to standing to challenge the letting of a contract to provide public school transportation, in Hickey v. Baker School District No. 12, 2002 MT 322, 313 M 162, 60 P3d 966 (2002).

Green Waste Compost Program Contract Exempt From Bidding Process — Not Reviewable in Absence of Bad Faith, Fraud, or Corruption: Heritage argued that the city of Helena awarded a contract without soliciting bids. The Supreme Court held that the contract was for construction, repair, or maintenance in an amount less than $25,000 and involved technical skills and therefore was exempt from the bidding process. The Supreme Court also stated that in following Baker v. St., 218 M 235, 707 P2d 20 (1985), an agency's decision in awarding a contract is not reviewable in the absence of a showing of bad faith, fraud, or corruption. Heritage Commercial Contractors, Inc. v. Helena, 272 M 90, 899 P2d 1076, 52 St. Rep. 676 (1995).

No Recovery Under Void Public Contracts: Contracts not let on competitive bidding when required under this section are not only void but in actions to recover the reasonable value of property where restoration cannot be made excepting at cost exceeding the price (buried water pipe in the instant case), the courts will refuse to enforce the claim, leaving the parties where they placed themselves unlawfully. Quasi or constructive contracts based on unjust enrichment and enforced by action ex contractu rest on equitable principles. This section was enacted for economy and protection of the public. Builders Supply Co. v. Helena, 116 M 368, 154 P2d 270 (1944), reversing the dictum in Missoula Street Ry. v. Missoula, 47 M 85, 130 P 771 (1913).

Letting Contract to Higher Bidder Held Warranted: A City Council received two bids for firefighting equipment, one for $3,155.55 and the other for $3,500, both bidders substantially meeting the specifications stated in the advertisement for bids. After conducting a fair investigation into the relative merits of both and witnessing a demonstration of the equipment offered by the successful bidder, who also offered continuous servicing not offered by the unsuccessful one, there were substantial and plausible reasons justifying the letting of the contract to the higher bidder. Koich v. Cvar, 111 M 463, 110 P2d 964 (1941).

Lowest Responsible Bidder:

The "lowest responsible bidder", within the meaning of this statute, does not mean merely the one whose pecuniary ability to perform the contract is deemed the best; it also means the one who is most likely in regard of skill, ability, and integrity to do faithful and conscientious work and promptly to fulfill the contract according to its letter and spirit. The City Council has a broad discretion in determining what bid answers that requirement, the members thereof not being purely ministerial officers but in that connection exercising quasi-judicial functions. Koich v. Cvar, 111 M 463, 110 P2d 964 (1941).

Under the exclusive rather than directory nature of the limitation upon the power of cities to let contracts prescribed by this section, a contract entered into by a city with a street railway company, according to the terms of which the latter was to be paid the cost of removing and replacing its tracks on certain streets to enable the former to lay sewers, was void, it not having been let to the lowest responsible bidder as required by the statute. Commonwealth Pub. Serv. Co. v. Deer Lodge, 96 M 48, 29 P2d 667 (1934); Missoula Street Ry. v. Missoula, 47 M 85, 130 P 771 (1913), reversed in part in Builders Supply Co. v. Helena, 116 M 368, 154 P2d 270 (1944).

To successfully attack the letting of a contract for a municipal improvement, it must be shown that the contract was not let to the lowest responsible bidder, that there was not any opportunity afforded for competitive bidding, or that there was collusion or bad faith on the part of the Council or such gross mistake as to preclude the exercise of sound judgment. O'Brien v. Drinkenberg, 41 M 538, 111 P 137 (1910).

Waterworks Construction Contract: A contract with a city for the construction of a system of waterworks is governed by the provisions of this section, 7-5-4308, and 7-5-4309 (now repealed). Forsyth v. Crellin, 210 F 835 (9th Cir. 1914).

Specific Processes — Use in Construction: Where a City Council incorporated in a resolution ordering the paving of a street, as well as in the call for bids, the requirement that in the construction of the pavement certain patented processes and compounds should be used, and the company controlling the patent agreed that the cost of such material, which constituted only a part of the gross cost of the improvement, should be the same to all bidders, while in other respects, such as the cost of labor, other materials, etc., the principle of competition was retained, the proceedings were not void as being violative of this section. Ford v. Great Falls, 46 M 292, 127 P 1004 (1912).

Purpose of Section — Public Protection: This section is designed to prevent favoritism and to secure to the public the best possible return for the expenditure of the funds which the property owners are required to furnish through the payment of taxes and assessments. Ford v. Great Falls, 46 M 292, 127 P 1004 (1912).

Construction of Section — Source of Funds: The requirement of this section extends to and includes expenditures made from the general revenues of the municipality, as well as from funds derived from special assessments. Ford v. Great Falls, 46 M 292, 127 P 1004 (1912).

Case Notes

Development and Use Agreement Not Precluding City From Entering Agreement for Construction Project on Public Property — Franchise Agreement Outside Scope of Citizen Group's Agreement With City: A citizen's group entered a franchise agreement with a professional baseball organization to bring a team to Missoula. After two potential sites were rejected, the city of Missoula accepted a gift of property upon which to construct a baseball facility and granted the citizen group the right to finance and construct the stadium on the property and to convey the completed facility to the city. The citizen group moved to enjoin the city from development of the proposed civic baseball stadium because of the city's failure to comply with statutory requirements for planning, funding, and managing the facility. All claims were dismissed on summary judgment, and the citizen group appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. The development and use agreements in this case did not preclude the city from executing an agreement with another entity for the construction of a similar facility on public property or from leasing a city-owned facility for baseball games or any other purpose. Any franchise agreement between the baseball organization and the citizen group was outside the scope of the group's agreement with the city, so the voter-approval provisions of this section did not apply. The citizen group's argument that the city was required to comply with urban renewal laws also failed. The decision whether to proceed with development under the urban renewal statutes was up to the city, and the fact that the city designated the capital improvements associated with the stadium construction as an urban renewal project did not require that the citizen group's building project come under the same purview. Rather, under 7-16-4106, the city is permitted to obtain an athletic field and civic stadium through purchase, donation, or condemnation and to regulate its use, but nothing in the statute prohibits the city from designating a stadium project as an urban renewal project or mandates that the project be designated as an urban renewal project. The District Court properly found that the city appropriately exercised its administrative authority in accepting the gift property and then leasing the site to the citizen group for purposes of constructing a stadium using private financial resources. The citizen group failed to raise a genuine issue of material fact that would preclude summary judgment. Fair Play Missoula, Inc. v. Missoula, 2002 MT 179, 311 M 22, 52 P3d 926 (2002).

Construction of Section: The word "franchise" in this section is used in the same sense as it is in Art. XII, sec. 16 and 17, 1889 Mont. Const. [no comparable provision in 1972 Mont. Const.], where it is classed as property and subject to taxation as such. Glodt v. Missoula, 121 M 178, 190 P2d 545 (1948).

Parking Meters — Conditional Sale Paid With Percentage of Revenue: The purchase of parking meters under a conditional sales contract whereby the city determines the location, controls the use and operation, and collects the revenues, the vendor to be paid from a percentage of the revenues, and after the total price is paid the meters to become the property of the city, did not constitute the granting of a franchise. Glodt v. Missoula, 121 M 178, 190 P2d 545 (1948).

Approval by Qualified Electors: A city is prohibited from granting a franchise to a gas company to lay its mains in city streets until the application for it has first been submitted to and approved by the qualified electors. State ex rel. Billings v. Billings Gas Co., 55 M 102, 173 P 799 (1918).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Permissible Alternatives for Deposit — County General Fund: The permissible alternatives for deposit or investment of county general fund money are governed by 7-6-202 through 7-6-213. 42 A.G. Op. 25 (1987).

Use by County Treasurer of Investment or Brokerage Firms — Limitations: There is no express or implied limitation on a County Treasurer's ability to use the services of an investment or brokerage firm to purchase approved securities; however, an investment company may not be used in making demand or time deposits because that form of transaction is restricted to banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions. 42 A.G. Op. 25 (1987).

7-6-201. Deposit of public funds in financial institutions.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 in (1) near middle after "control" inserted "only" and after "credit unions" deleted "located in the county, city, or town of which such treasurer is an officer"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of (1) deleted reference to subsection (3) of 7-6-206.

1985 Amendment: Throughout section inserted "or credit union(s)" in list of financial institutions; near beginning of (1) after "7-6-206(3)", inserted "or"; and made minor changes in phraseology.

1981 Amendment: Added "or in a repurchase agreement as authorized in 7-6-213" at the end of (2).

Case Notes

Deposit of "Public Funds" — Other Entities:

A county is liable to an irrigation district for the loss of funds deposited by the latter with the Treasurer of the former as required by this section and redeposited by the Treasurer in county depositories which failed. State ex rel. Cartersville Irrigation District v. McGraw, 74 M 164, 240 P 817 (1925).

Under Ch. 137, L. 1925, amendatory of this section, title to money deposited by a school district with the County Treasurer passes to the county. The money becomes county funds. The county becomes the debtor of the school district, and upon redeposit thereof in county depositories, the county is liable to the district for their loss occasioned by such depositories becoming insolvent, such loss being the loss of county and not school district funds. State ex rel. School District v. McGraw, 74 M 152, 240 P 812 (1925).

Attorney General's Opinions

Distribution of Interest on Protested Tax Payments: Interest accrued on amounts held in a protest fund established under 15-1-402 is not "public money" under 7-6-201 through 7-6-206 and therefore must be distributed to the affected taxing units in the same proportion as the tax amounts in the fund are paid to those units. 41 A.G. Op. 60 (1986).

2023 Amendment: See 2023 Session Law for amendment made by sec. 1, Ch. 182, L. 2023. Amendment effective October 1, 2023.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 306 in (4) inserted reference to (6); inserted (6) relating to an extended maturity date for U.S. zero-coupon bonds; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 29, 2011.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 131 at beginning of (4) inserted exception clause; inserted (5) limiting maturity dates to 10 years, with an average of 6 years; and made minor changes in style.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 406 substituted current text concerning eligible federal investments for former text that read: "(1) A local governing body may invest public money not necessary for immediate use by the county, city, or town in:

- (a) direct obligations of the United States government;
- (b) securities issued by agencies of the United States;
- (c) securities guaranteed by the United States or by an agency of the United States but not issued by agencies of the United States; or
- (d) mutual funds that invest only in:
 - (i) government obligations;
 - (ii) securities issued by agencies of the United States; or
 - (iii) securities guaranteed by the United States or by an agency of the United States but not issued by agencies of the United States.

(2) The local governing body may invest in these obligations either directly or in the form of securities of or other interests in an open-end or closed-end management type investment company or investment trust registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (15 U.S.C. 80a-1 through 80a-64), as amended, if:

(a) the portfolio of the investment company or investment trust is limited to United States government obligations and repurchase agreements fully collateralized by United States government obligations; and

(b) the investment company or investment trust takes delivery of the collateral for any repurchase agreement, either directly or through an authorized custodian." Amendment effective April 13, 1995."

Saving Clause: Section 4, Ch. 406, L. 1995, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 406, L. 1995, provided: "This act does not apply to and does not require the sale of securities that were legal investments before [the effective date of this act] [effective April 13, 1995]. Upon the liquidation of an investment authorized prior to [the effective date of this act] [effective April 13, 1995], the proceeds must be invested pursuant to [this act]."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 271 inserted (1)(c) relating to securities guaranteed but not issued by the United States; and inserted (1)(d) relating to mutual funds that invest only in government obligations and in securities issued or guaranteed by the United States.

1989 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to investments in a qualifying investment company or investment trust; and made minor changes in phraseology and style.

1985 Amendment: At end deleted "payable within not to exceed 180 days from the time of such investment" and inserted "and securities issued by agencies of the United States".

Attorney General's Opinions

Local Government Investment in Securities Not Issued by Agencies of the United States Prohibited: Consistent with the prior holding in 42 A.G. Op. 25 (1987) and with subsequent amendment to this section, a local government may invest public money in a mutual fund that invests, or obtains through repurchase agreements fully collateralized by the United States government, direct obligations of the United States and securities issued by agencies of the United States. However, a local government may not invest public money in a mutual fund that invests in government obligations or securities that are guaranteed but not issued by agencies of the United States. (See 1993 and 1995 amendments.) 44 A.G. Op. 22 (1991).

Allowable Securities Investments: The following are considered "agencies of the United States" and are permissible entities for securities investments under this section: (1) Government National Mortgage Association; (2) Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation; (3) Federal Home Loan Bank Board; (4) Federal National Mortgage Association; and (5) Farm Credit System banks. Also, treasury investment growth receipts represent investments in direct obligations of the U.S. government permissible under this section. However, mortgage-backed certificates issued by a private entity but guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association are not permissible investments. 42 A.G. Op. 25 (1987). See 1989 amendment that allows the local government body to invest in certain investment companies.

Limitation of Investment in Mutual Funds: A County Treasurer may not invest in private mutual funds even though the funds may be limited to investments in which the Treasurer could directly invest under this section because the actual security being purchased is an interest in an investment company. 42 A.G. Op. 25 (1987). See 1989 amendment that allows the local government body to invest in certain investment companies.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 229 substituted "may" for "shall"; deleted (2) that required a local government to distribute demand deposits ratably among all banks within the boundary of the local government (see 1997 Session Law for text); and made minor changes in style.

7-6-206. Time deposits — repurchase agreement.Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 52 in (3)(b) substituted "in an account" for "in certificates of deposit for the account"; in (3)(c) and (3)(d) before "deposit" deleted references to "certificate of"; deleted former (3)(e) that read: "(e) at the same time that the county, city, or town money is deposited and the certificates of deposit are issued, the selected in-state financial institution receives an amount of deposits from customers of other federally insured financial institutions, regardless of location, equal to or greater than the amount of money initially invested by the county, city, or town through the selected in-state financial institution"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective February 27, 2013.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 240 inserted (3) outlining conditions under which counties, cities, and towns may invest public money in certificates of deposit in in-state federally insured financial institutions. Amendment effective April 15, 2005.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 406 in first sentence of (1), after "that is not invested", deleted "in direct obligations of the United States government or in mutual funds"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Saving Clause: Section 4, Ch. 406, L. 1995, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 406, L. 1995, provided: "This act does not apply to and does not require the sale of securities that were legal investments before [the effective date of this act] [effective April 13, 1995]. Upon the liquidation of an investment authorized prior to [the effective date of this act] [effective April 13, 1995], the proceeds must be invested pursuant to [this act]."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 271 in (1), after "United States government", inserted "or in mutual funds"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendment: Near end of first sentence of (1) substituted “state” for “county, city, or town” and at end of second sentence deleted reference to subsection (3); deleted former (2) that read: “(2) When more than one bank, savings and loan association, or credit union is available in any county for the time or savings deposit of such county funds or in any city or town for the time or savings deposit of such banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions qualifying therefor and substantially in proportion to the total property taxes paid during the preceding year in such county or the county in which such city or town is located and the corporation license taxes paid by each bank, savings and loan association, or credit union willing to receive such time or savings deposits under the terms of this part”; substituted language in (2) relating to bids for time or savings deposits for former (3) that read: “(3) In lieu of a ratable distribution among banks, savings and loan associations, and credit unions within the county, city, or town, the local governing body may solicit bids without advertising from any bank, savings and loan association, or credit union in a county having at least two such financial institutions. Such institutions may request in writing that they be listed for solicitation on bids for public money not necessary for immediate use by the unit of local government. In counties having less than two such institutions, the local governing body may solicit bids from and deposit public money in such institutions in neighboring counties unless the local financial institution agrees to pay the same rate of interest bid by the neighboring financial institutions. The governing body may solicit bids by notice sent by mail to the investment institutions whose names are listed as provided herein. The provisions of this subsection shall be considered as meeting the requirements of subsection (2)”; and made minor changes in phraseology.

1985 Amendment: Throughout section inserted references to credit union(s) and made minor changes in phraseology.

1981 Amendment: Added “or placed in repurchase agreements as authorized in 7-6-213, and money placed in repurchase agreements is subject to subsections (2) and (3)” at the end of (1); inserted “time or savings” before “deposit of such county funds” and before “deposit of such city or town funds” in (2).

Part 15 Resort Tax

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Organization of Municipality Within Resort Area Allowed — Expenditure of Resort Tax Revenue: A municipality may be organized within the boundaries of a resort area or resort area district. The incorporation of a municipality within the boundaries of a resort area does not alter the boundaries of the area, exclude property that is within the municipality from the resort tax, or preclude expenditure of the area resort tax revenue for expenses or projects within the municipality. 53 A.G. Op. 1 (2009).

Municipal Tiered Resort Tax Allowed: Resort tax statutes neither prohibit nor explicitly permit a differential tax schedule. However, a differential tax structure is not inconsistent with concerns revealed in the legislative history and may arguably further the express statutory purposes by taxing at a higher rate those businesses drawing more of their customers from tourists than those businesses serving a greater proportion of local residents. Therefore, a municipality with self-governing powers may establish a tiered resort tax schedule providing different tax rates for similar goods or services according to the character of the business in which the goods or services are offered, as long as none of the tax rates exceed 3%. 48 A.G. Op. 25 (2000).

Applicability: Section 3, Ch. 346, L. 2023, provided: "[This act] applies to resort community or resort area petitions and resolutions adopted after [the effective date of this act]." Effective May 2, 2023.

2019 Amendment: Chapter 261 inserted definition of infrastructure; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 2, 2019.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 at beginning substituted "this part" for "7-6-1501 through 7-6-1509" and inserted definitions of board of directors, qualified elector, and resort area district; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Code Commissioner Correction: Pursuant to sec. 40, Ch. 55, L. 2015, the code commissioner in (7) substituted "7-6-1532 through 7-6-1536, 7-6-1539 through 7-6-1544, 7-6-1546 through 7-6-1548, and 7-6-1550" for "7-6-1531 through 7-6-1550" to reflect the repeal of 7-6-1531, 7-6-1537, 7-6-1538, 7-6-1545, and 7-6-1549 by Ch. 49, L. 2015.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 381 in definition of resort area in (b) and in definition of resort community in (b) at end after “census” deleted “or federal estimate”. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 554 in (5)(b) substituted “5,500” for “2,500”; and in (5)(c) substituted “primary” for “major” and inserted “related to current employment”. Amendment effective April 26, 1995.

1991 Amendment: In introductory clause extended reference to 7-6-4469 (renumbered 7-6-1509); in definition of luxuries, in second sentence, inserted “appliances, hardware supplies and tools”; and inserted definition of resort area. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Preamble: The preamble to Ch. 729, L. 1985, which enacted 7-6-4461 through 7-6-4467 (renumbered 7-6-1501 through 7-6-1507), provided: “WHEREAS, many municipalities in the State of Montana rely upon tourism for the bulk of their livelihood; and

WHEREAS, the tourist industry tends to be seasonally cyclical; and

WHEREAS, such cycles are reflected in demands for services and capital expenditures that do not occur for a community with a steady economy; and

WHEREAS, tourist income, tending to be spent for services and consumables originating in communities other than the resort community, is not translated into taxable real property; and

WHEREAS, the resort community must provide services not only for tourists but for its own residents, and those services are not commensurate with the taxable value of the resort community as compared with steady income municipalities of similar populations.

THEREFORE, it is the intent of this act to rectify this inequity by providing for a resort tax that may be locally enacted which would tax tourists to reimburse the resort community for the services provided to tourists.”

Part 21

Office of County Treasurer

Part Case Notes

Property Tax Refund — County Treasurer Not Agent of Department of Revenue: The District Court properly refused a taxpayer's motion to compel a County Treasurer to sign and comply with the terms of a settlement agreement between the Department of Revenue and the taxpayer in a suit over property taxes. A tax refund was at stake, but the taxpayer had failed to comply with the provisions of 15-1-401 (now repealed). The Supreme Court held that rather than being a mere agent of the Department of Revenue, the Treasurer represents a significant part of the tax refund process and cannot be compelled to sign an agreement entitling a taxpayer to a refund without his compliance with 15-1-401 (now repealed). Eagle Communications, Inc. v. County Treasurer, 211 M 195, 685 P2d 912, 41 St. Rep. 1303 (1984).

Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Applicability: Section 64, Ch. 278, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] applies to special purpose districts beginning July 1, 2002."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 430 inserted (2) providing exception for county that has adopted alternative accounting method provided in Title 7, chapter 6, part 6; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Case Notes

Bond Payment by Warrant: It was contended that holders of county bonds cannot be required to accept county warrants in payment of principal and interest due on the bonds. The Supreme Court held that such is the manner in which under this section counties discharge their obligations. If there are no funds to pay the warrants but no showing that the bondholders cannot cash them without a discount, it cannot be said that the obligation of the county to such holders is in any manner impaired. Great N. Ry. v. Phillips County, 112 M 542, 118 P2d 754 (1941).

Ministerial Officer: The County Treasurer is a ministerial officer, without authority other than that conferred on him by statute, and he is not required to perform any duties not imposed on him by law. Rosebud County v. Smith, 92 M 75, 9 P2d 1071 (1932).

Warrants:

Where the petition for Writ of Mandate to compel a County Treasurer to register warrants shows on its face that the warrants were not properly made out, signed, or executed, it does not state facts sufficient to justify the granting of the Writ, since such a warrant is no warrant at all, and upon its presentation the officer may entirely disregard it. State ex rel. Lockwood v. Tyler, 64 M 124, 208 P 1081 (1922).

The owner of a warrant which the Treasurer refuses to pay cannot obtain a money judgment against the county in an action on the warrant. Greeley v. Cascade County, 22 M 580, 57 P 274 (1899).

Accounting for Funds: The duty of a County Treasurer to account for and pay over the money paid directly to him by members of the public, as revenue due the county, or directed by a court or by statute to be deposited with him for safekeeping, is clearly statutory, and his liability for dereliction in this respect is a liability created by statute. Gallatin County v. USF&G Co., 50 M 55, 144 P 1085 (1914), distinguished in School District v. Pondera County, 89 M 342, 297 P 498 (1931).

Payment of Juror's Certificates: The phrase, "or as otherwise provided by law", in subsection (5) includes juror's certificates, and the restrictions as to the power of payment by the Treasurer applies as well to them as to other claims against the county. Silver Bow County v. Davies, 40 M 418, 107 P 81 (1910); In re Farrell, 36 M 254, 92 P 785 (1907).

Disbursement of County Funds: The provisions of this section are mandatory. The use of the word "only" in subsection (5) limits the power of the Treasurer to pay out the money of the county, both as to the amount and the precedent conditions of payment. Silver Bow County v. Davies, 40 M 418, 107 P 81 (1910); In re Farrell, 36 M 254, 92 P 785 (1907).

Attorney General's Opinions

Depositing Concealed Weapon Permit Fees: A County Attorney requested an Attorney General opinion on the proper deposit of concealed weapon permit fees. Section 45-8-322 requires Sheriffs to collect fees for issuing and renewing the permits, allows Sheriffs to collect fees for fingerprinting, and allows the Sheriff to retain the fees to implement certain concealed weapon permit statutes. An audit in the County Attorney's county identified that the County Sheriff was depositing the fees into an account not controlled by the county. The Attorney General noted that 7-4-2511 requires salaried county officers to pay into the county treasury all fees allowed by law, and that 7-6-2111(3) requires County Treasurers to keep separate and distinct accounts for separate funds or specific appropriations. The Attorney General opined that concealed weapon permit fees must be deposited in the county treasury: in the general fund if the Sheriff does not intend to use the funds to implement concealed weapon permit statutes, and in a separate and distinct account if the Sheriff does intend to use the funds to implement the statutes. 57 A.G. Op. 5 (2020).

Duty of County Treasurer to Break Out Amount Received as Payment for City Special Improvement District Assessments: A County Treasurer, when remitting taxes to a city, must break out the amount received from taxpayers as payment for the city's special improvement district assessments. 43 A.G. Op. 48 (1989).

Timeliness of Mailed Property Tax Payments — Postmark: Property tax payments deposited in the United States mail on or before payment deadlines enumerated in 15-16-102, as shown by the postmark on the envelope received by the Treasurer's office, are considered timely paid irrespective of the date upon which such payment is actually received by the County Treasurer. 40 A.G. 2001 Amendment: Chapter 483 in (1) in first sentence after "department of" substituted "administration" for "commerce". Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Preamble: The preamble to Ch. 369, L. 1987, provided: "WHEREAS, by law counties are required to collect certain revenues on behalf of the state; and

WHEREAS, counties receive limited and conflicting instructions from the various departments of state government concerning the collection of revenue by the state; and

WHEREAS, a recent audit identified many of these problems and recommended that a single state agency be designated to coordinate the collection of state revenue by the counties."

Part 22General Provisions Related to Counties*Part Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of Local Government to Levy Additional Mills to Make Up Difference Between Light Vehicle Tax Reimbursement and Amount Assessed for Fiscal Year 2001: In enacting 15-1-121, the Legislature provided for a reimbursement of an average of 88% of the amount lost by counties in light vehicle fee collections compared to the amount that the counties actually received in combined fees and property taxes in fiscal year 2001. The legislative intent was to simplify the collection and disbursement of county revenue while maintaining rough revenue neutrality for the counties. Under 15-10-420, the Legislature also provided an inflation adjustment to the mill levy cap and allowed for an increase in mill levy capacity for a decrease in reimbursements, in effect enabling local governments to maintain for fiscal year 2002 the amount of revenue collected in fiscal year 2001. Thus, a local government was authorized to levy additional mills sufficient to make up the difference between the amount reimbursed by the state for light vehicle fees and taxes under 15-1-121 and the amount of fees and taxes assessed by the local government for fiscal year 2001. 49 A.G. Op. 4 (2001).

Mill Levy Increase — Proration to Parts of Fiscal Year to Accommodate October Effective Date: Section 7-14-2501 was amended in 1981 to authorize the Board of County Commissioners to levy 15 mills rather than 12 mills for the county road fund. The increase, under the 1981 amendments to 1-2-201, becomes effective October 1, 1981. However the county budget year begins July 1, 1981. The reasonable way to give effect to both amendments is to construe them to allow the Board to apply a rate of 12 mills for the 3 months of the current county fiscal year which fall before October 1, 1981, and a rate of 15 mills for the 9 months of the current county fiscal year which fall after October 1, 1981. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Attorney General's Opinions

Expenditure of Hard-Rock Mining Reserve Trust Account Funds: When funds are expended from the hard-rock mining reserve trust account due to closure of a hard-rock mine or a layoff of more than 50% of a hard-rock mine's average workforce under 7-6-2225, the county governing body must allocate at least one-third of the funds to elementary and high school districts in the county that it determines have been affected by the mine closure or reduction in force, in the proportion that it determines in its discretion to be proper in response to the impacts of the closure or reduction in force. The county governing body then has the discretion to either give the affected districts additional money or to disburse the remaining funds not allocated to the school districts for the purposes provided in 7-6-2225(3). 53 A.G. Part 24

County Auditor and Claims Against County

Part Case Notes

Failure of Commissioners to Provide Suitable Office Room: The acts of the County Commissioners in furnishing the Auditor, as an office, an 8- x 22-foot partitioned space, with no windows, insufficient ventilation, and artificial lighting, was an abuse of discretion and an arbitrary act. State ex rel. Taylor v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 128 M 102, 270 P2d 994 (1954).

Woman May Be Auditor: Since the adoption of the suffrage amendment to the 1889 Montana Constitution, a woman, otherwise qualified, is entitled to hold the office of County Auditor. Rose v. Sullivan, 56 M 480, 185 P 562 (1919).

Amendment effective October 1, 2019.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 128 in (1) after "counties" substituted "having" for "of the first, second, third, or fourth class that have". Amendment effective July 1, 2011.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 145 in (1) at beginning deleted "Except as provided in subsection (2)" and at end after "fourth class" inserted "that have a population in excess of 15,000"; in (2) substituted text relating to the creation of a county auditor's position in combination with another position for former text that read: "(2) The provisions of 7-6-2401 through 7-6-2413 do not apply to counties having a population of less than 15,000 persons according to the most recent federal census"; inserted (3) providing that the provisions of 7-6-2403 through 7-6-2412 do not apply to counties without a county auditor; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Part of Section Not Codified: A "grandfather clause" at the end of section 16-3201, R.C.M. 1947, relating to the continued holding of office of current officeholders in fifth-class counties was not codified because it was temporary. That clause was not repealed and is valid law. It may be referred to as sec. 1, Ch. 52, L. 1961.

Case Notes

County of Sixth Class — Accountant Hired to Audit Books — Void: Under this section a county of the sixth class is not entitled to an auditor, and when such county entered into a contract with a public accountant for an audit of its books at a monthly compensation of $150 for a period of several years, the contract was void for the reason that it nullified this section. Judith Basin County ex rel. Vralsted v. Livingston, 89 M 438, 298 P 356 (1931).

Attorney General's Opinions

No Authority of Board of County Commissioners to Reduce County Auditor Office to Part-Time Position: Montana statutes contemplate a full-time County Auditor with a full-time salary in every county with a population of greater than 15,000. Although County Commissions do have the authority to consolidate certain county offices, including the County Auditor's office, no existing statute contemplates a reduction of the office of County Auditor to a part-time position. Had the Legislature intended to expressly authorize County Commissions to reduce the office, it would have adopted legislation similar to that for County Attorneys and County Superintendents. The authority in 7-6-2412 extends to the imposition of additional County Auditor duties, not to the reduction of hours worked. There is no express or implied authority for counties with general powers to reduce the office of County Auditor to a half-time position. 47 A.G. Op. 18 (1998).

2003 Amendment: Chapter 371 at end of (1) substituted "who shall investigate and examine all claims presented" for "whose duty it shall be to audit the same. The county auditor shall also investigate and examine all claims presented to him and report the same with his finding to the board of county commissioners at their regular session after such investigation shall have been completed, with his approval or disapproval endorsed thereon, and he shall keep a complete record of all such claims and of his investigations and examinations of the same in a book kept for that purpose"; inserted (2) and (3) regarding duties of county auditor after receipt of claim; in (4)(b) at end of first sentence deleted "provided, however, that the judge of the district court of the county where any claim has been disapproved by the county auditor may order the payment of the same"; inserted (4)(b)(i) through (4)(b)(iii) outlining requirements for county auditor upon disapproval of claim payment; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 16, 2003.

Case Notes

Disallowance of Claims: The Board may exercise its judgment in ordering paid those claims which have the approval of the Auditor, but the only power which the Board has in reference to claims disapproved by him is to disallow them. State ex rel. Dolin v. Major, 58 M 140, 192 P 618 (1920).

District Court Approval of Disallowed Claims: It would seem that the proviso empowering District Judges to order the payment of claims against the county after the approval by the Auditor is repugnant to Art. IV, sec. 1, 1889 Mont. Const. (similar to Art. III, sec. 1, 1972 Mont. Const.), for the reason that it undertakes to cast upon District Judges a power which pertains exclusively to the executive branch of the government. State ex rel. Dolin v. Major, 58 M 140, 192 P 618 (1920).

Scope of "Audit": The word "audit" is not used in its narrow and restricted sense and does not limit the Auditor to merely ascertaining whether the claims are in proper form and mathematically correct. State ex rel. Dolin v. Major, 58 M 140, 192 P 618 (1920).

Scope of County Auditor's Duties — Adequate Budget: A County Auditor brought an action seeking a Writ of Mandamus to compel the respondent Board of County Commissioners to include sufficient funds in the Auditor's budget to allow the Auditor to conduct audits to determine county compliance with applicable statutes. The Supreme Court overruled the issuance of the Writ by stating that while the Board has a legally enforceable duty to fund the Auditor's office at a level that allows her to perform her duties at the minimum level imposed by law, the language of the applicable statute and a comparison of the Auditor's duty under 7-6-2409 with the duties of the Legislative Auditor and the duties of the Department of Community Affairs (now Department of Administration) indicates that the County Auditor's functions under 7-6-2409 are limited to bookkeeping and account balancing. This conclusion is also indicated by the fact that the Legislature has required no professional qualifications of the County Auditors but has established minimum levels of education and experience for the Legislative Auditor. Reep v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 191 M 162, 622 P2d 685, 38 St. Rep. 108 (1981).

7-6-2413. Limitation on number of deputy county auditors.

Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 128 substituted language on number of deputies a county auditor may have for: "The whole number of deputies allowed to county auditors must not exceed one in counties of the first, second, and third classes". Amendment effective July 1, 2011.

Case Notes

No Legal Duty to Fund Deputy Position: The Lewis and Clark County Auditor petitioned for a Writ of Mandamus to compel the Board of County Commissioners to fund a Deputy Auditor position eliminated by the Commissioners because of budget cuts. The District Court dismissed the petition on the ground that there was no legal duty of the Commissioners to fund the position. On appeal, the Supreme Court had to reconcile three statutes: 7-4-2401(1), under which county officers may appoint as many deputies or assistants as necessary to discharge the duties of the office; 7-4-2402, which provides the County Commissioners with authority to fix and determine the number of county deputy officers; and 7-6-2413, which provides that the number of Deputy Auditors in first-, second-, and third-class counties must not exceed one. The court held that the specific statute, 7-6-2413, must control over the general statute, 7-4-2401(1). The specific statute does not mandate a Deputy Auditor but merely permits one deputy. Based on 7-4-2402, the court held that the authority to determine whether to appoint a deputy resides with the Commissioners and not the Auditor. Based on this statutory scheme, the court held that the Commissioners had no clear legal duty to fund the position of Deputy Auditor. Spotorno v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 212 M 253, 687 P2d 720, 41 St. Rep. 1722 (1984).

The county treasurer may deduct the fees and expenses of the coroner and the county prior to transferring the money"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Applicability: Section 49, Ch. 257, L. 2001, provided: "[This act] applies to remittances of state money made to the department of revenue for fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2001."

Reference to R.C.M. Section: Section 16-2616, R.C.M. 1947, was repealed by Ch. 443, L. 1979. That section provided for the deposit of money found on a dead body.

GENERAL

Mandamus Proceeding Authorized: This section was not violated by Justice of the Peace seeking Writ of Mandamus to compel County Commissioners to pay for clerical services of a secretary because he was considered to be litigating his own right to incur actual and necessary expenses in the performance of his official duties. State ex rel. Browman v. Wood, 168 M 341, 543 P2d 184, 32 St. Rep. 1136 (1975).

Limitation — No Bar: Where, without first ascertaining the legal ownership thereof, a county appropriated a landowner's gravel, the landowner's action was not barred by the limitation of this section. Neil v. Lewis & Clark County, 133 M 323, 323 P2d 270 (1958).

Limitation — Not Applicable to Amended Claim: Where a Sheriff's claims during two terms in office had been approved by the Commissioners for mileage at the rate of 7 cents and 8 ½ cents per mile, and after retiring from office he presented additional claims for the difference between those rates and 10 cents per mile under 7-32-2144, he was not required to present the latter claims within 1 year after the last claim accrued, under this section, they having amounted to amendments of the original claims, the merits of which had been passed upon by the Board before approval. Weir v. Silver Bow County, 113 M 237, 124 P2d 1003 (1942), distinguished in Neil v. Lewis & Clark County, 133 M 323, 323 P2d 270 (1958).

Claim by Officer — Use of Own Equipment:

Mere benefits received will not ordinarily create an implied promise to pay, but if a county (or other municipal corporation) is required by law to furnish one of its officers with the necessary equipment for the performance of his duties, and it does not do so but knowingly permits him to use his own equipment, receiving benefits therefrom, it is liable for the reasonable value of its use as upon an implied contract. Hicks v. Stillwater County, 84 M 38, 274 P 296 (1929).

This section, providing that a county officer must not present any claim against the county, except for his own services, or aid another in procuring allowance of a demand against the county, does not bar an officer from presenting a valid claim against the county for use of his own equipment, the provision being merely intended to bar the officer from championing the claims of third persons. Hicks v. Stillwater County, 84 M 38, 274 P 296 (1929).

Pleading — Presentation of Claim — Condition Precedent: The presentation of a claim to the Board of County Commissioners is a condition precedent to the commencement of an action against the county for its recovery. Powder River Cattle Co. v. Comm'rs of Custer County, 9 M 145, 22 P 383 (1889); Greeley v. Cascade County, 22 M 580, 57 P 274 (1899). See also First Nat'l Bank of Billings v. Custer County, 7 M 464, 17 P 551 (1888).

Pleading — Allegations Required: A complaint in an action against a county to recover witness fees, which failed to allege that the claim had been presented under oath (deleted, Ch. 225, L. 1979) to the county, in separate items, with the nature of each item stated, was defective. First Nat'l Bank of Billings v. Custer County, 7 M 464, 17 P 551 (1888), distinguished in Neil v. Lewis & Clark County, 133 M 323, 323 P2d 270 (1958).

CLAIMS

School Money — Question of Law — No Discretion: A claim against the county within the meaning of this section, the presentation of which to the Board of County Commissioners is a condition precedent of an action for its recovery, does not comprehend a claim by a school district for its proportion of interest and penalties retained by the county on redemption of property from tax sale. This presents a question of the law dependent upon the meaning of statutes, thus leaving no room for the exercise of discretion lodged in the Board in passing upon the average claim presented for allowance. School District v. Pondera County, 89 M 342, 297 P 498 (1931).

Failed Consideration — Road Purchase: The subject matter of an action against a county by which it was sought to obtain compensation for land taken for road purposes under an agreement, the consideration for which failed, is not a "claim" against the county, within the meaning of this section, an action on which is barred if not brought within 1 year after its accrual. Flynn v. Beaverhead County, 54 M 309, 170 P 13 (1917), explained in Neil v. Lewis & Clark County, 133 M 323, 323 P2d 270 (1958).

Member of Sheriff's Posse: A person who serves as a member of a Sheriff's posse in obedience to a law requiring him to do so cannot recover from the county for expenses or services rendered, in the absence of an express or implied provision of law authorizing payment therefor. Sears v. Gallatin County, 20 M 462, 52 P 204 (1898). See State ex rel. McGrade v. District Court, 52 M 371, 157 P 1157 (1916).

7-6-2423. Procedure for claims by county commissioners.

Case Notes

Does Not Authorize Claims: This section does not create any authority to compensate Commissioners. They may charge for services otherwise legal. This section is designed in connection with 7-6-2421 to enable the Board of County Commissioners to determine in the first instance whether it will even consider a claim. St. v. Story, 53 M 573, 165 P 748 (1917).

Case Notes

Section Plain, Speedy, and Adequate Relief — Mandate as Remedy:

Where Justice of Peace incurred unbudgeted expenses and County Commissioners refused to pay, Writ of Mandate under 27-26-102, rather than appeal under this section or declaratory judgment, was proper remedy. State ex rel. Browman v. Wood, 168 M 341, 543 P2d 184 (1975).

District Court properly quashed Writ of Mandate to compel County Commissioners to allow claim of hospital for medical care of a floating shepherd since there existed a plain, speedy, and adequate remedy at law by an appeal to the District Court from disallowance of claim by County Commissioners. State ex rel. Mont. Hosp. Ass'n, Inc. v. Pitch, 140 M 349, 372 P2d 90 (1962).

Appeals — How Tried:

Appeals from orders of the Board of County Commissioners disallowing claims against a county must, under this section, be tried and determined as appeals from Justices' Courts; i.e., they must be tried de novo (25-33-301 and 25-33-302). Yancey v. Park County, 111 M 73, 106 P2d 349 (1940).

The language of subsection (3) can mean no more than that the court may try de novo the question whether the action of the Board in its allowance or disallowance was correct. The Board is not a court, and its action is not tantamount to a judgment. Its refusal to allow a claim is not conclusive, even though the claimant does not appeal. Albers v. Barnett, 53 M 71, 161 P 521 (1916); Greeley v. Cascade County, 22 M 580, 57 P 274 (1899).

Appeals from actions of Boards of County Commissioners are prosecuted and tried like appeals from a Justice of the Peace. State ex rel. Seres v. District Court, 19 M 501, 48 P 1104 (1897).

Effect of Failure to Appeal Allowance of Claim — Suit by County Attorney: Failure of a taxpayer to appeal to the District Court from an order of the Board of County Commissioners allowing a claim against the county under the authority given him by this section does not limit the right of the County Attorney to sue in the name of the county to recover money illegally paid under 7-4-2714. Carbon County v. Draper, 84 M 413, 276 P 667 (1929).

Record on Appeal: An appeal from an order of the Board of County Commissioners disallowing a claim against the county was submitted to the District Court without a hearing, resulting in a reversal of the order. The County Attorney made an appeal from the court's order declining to set aside its decision on the ground of inadvertence and mistake based on the assertion that the Clerk of the Board had failed to lodge with the court a copy of the Board's record in the case. The Supreme Court held that it was apparent that to arrive at its decision the court must have impliedly found that the proper record was before it. Huntington v. Yellowstone County, 80 M 20, 257 P 1041 (1927).

Board to Allow or Disallow Claims Against County: When the Auditor has disapproved a claim, the Board of County Commissioners must disallow it so that the claimant may proceed to enforce it against the county by appeal to the District Court. State ex rel. Dolin v. Major, 58 M 140, 192 P 618 (1920).

Jurisdiction on Appeal: The jurisdiction of the District Court on appeal from an order made by County Commissioners allowing or disallowing a claim against the county is limited to the determination of the question whether the action of the Board of County Commissioners was correct and to a declaration affirming or reversing it, with a judgment for costs. Albers v. Barnett, 53 M 71, 161 P 521 (1916).

Parties:

On appeal from an order of the Board of County Commissioners allowing or disallowing a claim under this section, the parties are the county and the claimant, or in a taxpayer's suit, the county and the objecting taxpayer. Albers v. Barnett, 53 M 71, 161 P 521 (1916).

In the case of claims against counties, the claimant, or the objecting taxpayer, and the county are the real parties in interest, and therefore adversary parties. State ex rel. Hackshaw v. District Court, 48 M 477, 138 P 1100 (1913).

Independent Action on Claim: A claimant against the county has the right to maintain an independent action on a claim rejected by the Board of Commissioners in view of 27-2-209. Greeley v. Cascade County, 22 M 580, 57 P 274 (1899).

Appeal of Portion of Allowance: An appeal may be taken by a taxpayer from one or more items of a claim against the county allowed by the Commissioners, without appealing from the whole of the allowance. Twohy v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 17 M 461, 43 P 494 (1896).

Sufficiency of Notice — Waiver by Clerk: An appeal was taken by a taxpayer from the allowance by the Commissioners of a bill against the county. A notice of appeal was served upon the County Clerk, and the Clerk thereupon complied with applicable law on appeal. The Clerk thereby waived any irregularity or insufficiency of the service of the notice. Twohy v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 17 M 461, 43 P 494 (1896).

Appeal Allowance of Claims — Default Against County: A taxpayer took an appeal to the District Court from an allowance by a Board of County Commissioners of a claim against a county under sections 764 and 765, 5th Div. Comp. Stat. 1887. A judgment by default was rendered by the court upon the failure of the Board to appear, adjudging the claim illegal and setting aside the allowance of the same without a trial or inquiry of any character respecting its merits. The judgment was unauthorized and constituted no defense to an application for a Writ of Mandamus to compel the payment by the County Treasurer of a warrant issued in payment of such claim. State ex rel. Cope v. Minar, 13 M 1, 31 P 723 (1892), explained in Albers v. Barnett, 53 M 71, 161 P 521 (1916).

Case Notes

County Properly Ordered to Pay County Attorney's Salary Increase: Although the Board of County Commissioners had been notified that the state would be unable to pay an increased contribution to the County Attorney's salary, the Board awarded the County Attorney a salary in excess of twice the amount appropriated by the state. When the state's one-half share of the salary failed to cover the salary increase, the County Attorney sued the county for the shortfall. The District Court ordered the county to pay the salary increase, and the county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that counties are responsible for any increases in County Attorneys' salaries that are not taken into account and included in the state appropriation for paying County Attorneys' salaries. Oster v. Valley County, 2006 MT 180, 333 M 76, 140 P3d 1079 (2006).

Criminal Case — Sheriff's Out-of-State Expenses Denied: A Sheriff predicated his demand for reimbursement for expenses incurred by him for services performed beyond the state line upon his legal rights incident to his position as Sheriff and not upon a contract of employment by the County Attorney, at who's direction he acted, nor did he show that he first obtained the consent of the Board of County Commissioners to absent himself from the state under 7-4-2208; thus he was not entitled to recover on the theory that the claim was allowable under authority of subsection (2), making the county chargeable with expenses necessarily incurred by the County Attorney in criminal cases arising within the county. Brannin v. Sweet Grass County, 88 M 412, 293 P 970 (1930).

Contingent Expenses: A County Attorney of a county of the third class had power to bind the county for services of a stenographer employed by the day if such services were necessary to the proper discharge of the duties of his office. In the absence of a showing that they were unnecessary, the District Court properly directed the Board of County Commissioners to pay the claim, under this section, providing that contingent expenses necessarily incurred for the use and benefit of the county are county charges. In re Claims of Hyde, 73 M 363, 236 P 248 (1925).

Expenses Not Imposed by Law:

That which the law does not impose as an expense upon a county is not properly chargeable to it. In re Claims of Hyde, 73 M 363, 236 P 248 (1925).

Expenses not imposed by law are not a charge against a county. Wade v. Lewis & Clark County, 24 M 335, 61 P 879 (1900).

Criminal Case — County Attorney: Under subsection (2), all expenses necessarily incurred by a County Attorney in prosecutions for public offenses arising in the county are a county charge. Independent Publishing Co. v. Lewis & Clark County, 30 M 83, 75 P 860 (1904).

Restriction of Liability: This section restricts the liability of the county to such expenses as may be incurred under statutory authority directly conferred or necessarily implied from the powers granted to the county. Sears v. Gallatin County, 20 M 462, 52 P 204 (1898).

7-6-2430. Accounts to be examined, settled, and allowed.

Case Notes

Failure to Examine — Waiver of Right to Complain: Since under this section, the Board of County Commissioners is authorized to examine, settle, and allow all claims against the county, its failure to ascertain whether charges made under a county printing contract were in accordance therewith deprives the county of the right to charge that claims filed for work done under the contract were fraudulent. Carbon County v. Draper, 84 M 413, 276 P 667 (1929).

"Accounts": The word "accounts" used in this section must be understood in a broad, generic sense, and as including any right to or claim for money which is due and payable from the county treasury. State ex rel. Dolin v. Major, 58 M 140, 192 P 618 (1920).

Part Case Notes

Increased Valuations: State Board of Equalization (now Montana Tax Appeal Board) issued a directive to Board of County Commissioners and County Assessor in November 1963, requiring use of certain valuations on grade of farmland for 1964 and years thereafter, that the officials of the county refused to do. The State Board was entitled to mandamus to compel the county officials to comply with the directive. Alleged impossibility of compliance on July 22, 1964, was no defense. The officials had from November until the second Monday in August to accomplish the task but chose to do nothing except contest the matter. State ex rel. Bd. of Equalization v. Koch, 145 M 474, 401 P2d 765 (1965).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 near middle after "expenses" deleted "not exceeding 27 mills on each dollar of the taxable valuation for any 1 year for counties of the fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh classes and 25 mills on each dollar of the taxable valuation for any 1 year for counties of the first, second, and third classes"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 at beginning inserted reference to 15-10-420 and after "expenses" deleted "including the salaries otherwise unprovided for"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

Attorney General's Opinions

Library Board Alone Has Authority to Spend Its Reserve Funds — Library's Proposed Budget Subject to Approval by Local Governing Body — Local Governing Body Has Sole Discretion to Levy Mills in Support of Library: Prior to 2001, a library board had complete control over its budget. While a library board still has the sole discretion to determine how to use the library's unspent funds under 22-1-309, its budget must be approved by the local governing body. Moreover, the local governing body, not the library board, determines the number of mills to levy in support of the library. Finally, the local governing body has no obligation to continue to levy any certain number of mills for the library in perpetuity. 54 A.G. Op. 7 (2012).

Power of County Commissioners to Regulate Library Funded by County General Fund — Limitations as if Funded by Five-Mill Levy: The fact that Big Horn County funds its library through the county general fund does not allow the County Commissioners to usurp the library trustees' statutory authority for setting the library's budget and compensation for the library staff. If the County Commissioners fund the library's budget through the county general fund, the power to decide the library staff compensation still rests with the library trustees. The Commissioners may limit the overall funding of the library budget to 5 mills, as if the library were being funded pursuant to the 5-mill tax levy authorized by 22-1-304. (See 2001 amendment to 22-1-304.) To hold otherwise would allow the library trustees to adopt a budget that could assume the entire county general fund levy. 48 A.G. Op. 3 (1999). See also 54 A.G. Op. 7 (2012).

Mill Levy Limitations Not Impliedly Repealed by Property Tax Freeze: Initiative No. 105 and Senate Bill No. 71 (Ch. 654, L. 1987) do not amend or repeal by implication statutes limiting the total amount of mill levies. 42 A.G. Op. 21 (1987).

Special Tax Protest Refund Levy Not Subject to Voter Approval — Sale of Bonds Subject to Approval: A special tax protest refund levy authorized by 15-1-402 is not subject to the limitation on property taxes established in this section; therefore, the voter approval requirements of 7-6-2531

(now repealed) do not apply to such levy. However, voter approval is required before bonds may be issued and sold for the purpose of making tax protest refunds. (See 1999 amendment.) 42 A.G. Op. 18 (1987).

Separate Tax Levy for Air Pollution Program Not Permitted: The County Commissioners may not impose a separate tax levy to fund local air pollution programs. 41 A.G. Op. 28 (1985).

Park Board Partly Funded by County General Fund: The funding for the county park board's obligations is derived from the county general fund as well as from other specific sources as enumerated by 7-16-2324, 7-16-2328, and 76-3-606 (now repealed). Since a specific separate tax levy is not authorized for the park fund, additional money must be appropriated from the county general fund authorized by 7-6-2501 if the revenue from sources other than taxation is insufficient to meet the necessary expenditures. 40 A.G. Op. 49 (1984).

Levy of Property Taxes for Special Purposes: The mill levy limitation provided in 7-6-2501 does not apply to special levies authorized for particular purposes. Therefore, the mill levy authorized by 2-9-316, which is a special levy, is not subject to the limit provided in 7-6-2501. 39 A.G. Op. 34 (1981).

Expenses of Valid Interlocal Agreement Includable in Annual Mill Levy: A county may include the expenses of participation in a valid interlocal agreement in its annual county mill levy. 38 A.G. Op. 51 (1979).

Not Exclusive Vehicle for Funding District Court Operations: Section 7-6-2511 is not the exclusive vehicle for funding District Court operations. District Court funding may be supplemented by other revenue sources, such as the all-purpose levy provided by 7-6-2501. 38 A.G. Op. 31 (1979).

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 574 in temporary version in first sentence and in version effective July 1, 2002, in (1) before "district court costs" inserted "county" and deleted former second sentence that read: "The tax may not exceed 6 mills in the first- and second-class counties, 5 mills in third- and fourth-class counties, and 4 mills in fifth-, sixth-, and seventh-class counties." Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

(Version effective July 1, 2002) Chapter 585 in (1) at end of first sentence substituted "certain district court costs, as provided in subsection (2)" for "all district court costs, except those listed in 3-5-211, 3-5-213, and 3-5-215"; inserted (2) delineating district court costs for which a tax may be levied; in (3) substituted "Costs of the office of the clerk of district court include but are not limited to salary and benefits for clerks of district court, deputy clerks of district court, and other employees of the office of the clerk of district court and expenses of the office" for "District court costs include but are not limited to salary and benefits for court clerks, court reporters, youth probation officers, and other employees of the district court"; inserted (4) allowing use of excess funds to pay expenses of office of county attorney; inserted (5) referring to ability of county and district court to apply for, receive, and administer state, federal, and private grants; and made minor changes in style.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 at beginning inserted reference to 15-10-420; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

1983 Amendment: Made section permanent. (Section was to terminate June 30, 1983—sec. 3, Ch. 692, L. 1979.)

Interim Committee Bill: Senate Bill No. 19 (Ch. 254, L. 1983) was introduced by request of the Joint Subcommittee on Judiciary. See committee report entitled The District Courts, Indigent Defense, and Prosecutorial Services in Montana, Montana Legislative Council, December 1982.

Case Notes

County Employment of Independent Contractor to Provide Legal Services: There is no express prohibition under Montana law precluding or preventing a county from entering into an independent contractor relationship for the provision of legal services. Hamner v. Butte-Silver Bow County, 233 M 271, 760 P2d 76, 45 St. Rep. 1481 (1988).

Attorney General's Opinions

No Statutory Authority to Levy Taxes in Order to Fund Judicial Budget or Budget Deficit: Section 2-9-316 does not grant counties the authority to levy taxes in response to a District Court order that a judicial budget or budget deficit be funded. 43 A.G. Op. 37 (1989).

State Grants to District Courts — Maximum Mill Levy Not Required: Because of the requirements for establishing county mill levies under Title 7, ch. 6, part 23, and because of the unforeseeable nature of District Court expenses, the Department of Administration may not require a county to impose a maximum mill levy for District Court expenses in order to be considered eligible for a state grant to District Courts under 7-6-2352 (now repealed). 39 A.G. Op. 71 (1982).

District Court Employees as County Employees: District Court employees are paid by the county in which the court is located, receive the same county benefits as all other county employees, and are therefore county employees. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

Disposition of District Court Fees: Fees collected by Clerks of the District Courts do not accrue as a revenue item to the District Court fund in those counties adopting a 6-mill District Court levy (see 2001 amendment). The Board of County Commissioners, however, may supplement the 6-mill levy with general fund revenues in financing the District Court fund. 38 A.G. Op. 52 (1979). (See 38 A.G. Op. 31.)

Costs Resulting From Existence of the District Court as District Court Cost: Costs and charges assessed against a county by virtue of the existence of the District Court and the conduct of District Court proceedings fall within the term "district court cost". These can include family court services, public defender programs, personal staff and support personnel for district judges, and jury and witness fees. 38 A.G. Op. 31 (1979).

Not Exclusive Vehicle for Funding District Court Operations: Section 7-6-2511 is not the exclusive vehicle for funding District Court operations. District Court funding may be supplemented by other revenue sources, such as the all-purpose levy provided by 7-6-2501. 38 A.G. Op. 31 (1979).

Registration of Unpaid Hospital District Warrants as County Warrants and Subsequent Purchase by County Not Allowable: County Commissioners concerned with financing the indebtedness of a local hospital district sought to register the district's unpaid warrants in accordance with 7-6-2603 and this section and then invest surplus county funds in the unpaid warrants pursuant to 7-6-2701. However, the Legislature has authorized counties to invest only in county, municipal, or school district registered warrants, not hospital district warrants. Case Notes*Failure to Present for Payment Within Limit:*

Failure to present a warrant for payment after it had been called is a complete defense to mandamus action to compel payment, but holder of the warrant need not anticipate and negative such defense. State ex rel. Blenkner v. Stillwater County, 104 M 387, 66 P2d 788 (1937).

The only penalty a holder of a registered warrant incurs, under this section, for failure to re-present it for payment within 60 days after issuance of the call is loss of interest thereon. State ex rel. Case v. Bolles, 74 M 54, 238 P 586 (1925).

Mandamus to Compel Payment of Warrant: Relator held a registered warrant and the fund out of which it was payable had sufficient money to cover the face value of all registered warrants but insufficient to pay them with accrued interest. It did not appear whether the Treasurer had called the warrants for payment or whether the 60 days specified in this section had elapsed. Writ of Mandate ordering the Treasurer to pay relator's warrant with interest was improper in the absence of a showing that there were sufficient funds to pay prior warrants and interest thereon entitled to payment and to pay relator's also. State ex rel. DeKalb v. Ferrell, 105 M 218, 70 P2d 290 (1937).

Mandatory Repayment — Payment Limit: The word "may" appearing in subsection (4)(b) that provides that the Board of County Commissioners may, on application of the holder of a warrant who failed to re-present a warrant within 60 days after issuance of the call for its payment, order the County Treasurer to pay it, means "must" or "shall". Registration of Unpaid Hospital District Warrants as County Warrants and Subsequent Purchase by County Not Allowable: County Commissioners concerned with financing the indebtedness of a local hospital district sought to register the district's unpaid warrants in accordance with 7-6-2601 and 7-6-2603 and then invest surplus county funds in the unpaid warrants pursuant to this section. However, the Legislature has authorized counties to invest only in county, municipal, or school district registered warrants, not hospital district warrants. Therefore, unpaid warrants of a hospital district may not be registered as county warrants and purchased by the county in which the district is located. 43 A.G. Op. 71 (1990).

Part 28 Management of School Money

Part Case Notes

Spending Disparities Not Allowed: Article X, sec. 8, Mont. Const., does not require that spending disparities between the school districts of the state be allowed to exist because the disparities cannot be described as the result of local control. School District v. St., 236 M 44, 769 P2d 684, 46 St. Rep. 169 (1989).

7-6-2801. Management of school funds.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 262 deleted former (4) that read: "(4) make annually, during the month of September, a financial report for the preceding year ending August 31 to the county superintendent, in a form required by the superintendent"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Money From Sale of School Building — Resulting Trust: Complaint for Writ of Mandate by a county high school against the County Treasurer to compel payment of money realized from the sale of a building purchased with high school funds and sold by County Commissioners as trustee when no longer needed for school purposes stated a cause of action on the theory of a resulting trust. Although the pleading did not ask that a trust be declared, it was sufficient to authorize issuance of the Writ directing defendant to deposit the sale price to the credit of plaintiff. State ex rel. Gallatin County High School v. Brandenburg, 107 M 199, 82 P2d 593 (1938).

DECISIONS UNDER CURRENT LAW

County Financial Mismanagement — Insufficient Taxpayer Standing: The plaintiff taxpayers argued that the failure of the defendant, Glacier County, to cure its alleged financial mismanagement would foreseeably result in property tax increases, but Glacier County had adequate financial resources to meet its liabilities and it had planned corrective actions in response to audit deficiencies. Even if Glacier County had inadequately budgeted for certain funds, the plaintiffs' alleged foreseeable economic injury was insufficient to establish the constitutional "case-or controversy" requirement for standing to sue the county. Mitchell v. Glacier County, 2017 MT 258, 389 Mont. 122, 406 P.3d 427.

Declaratory Judgments — Private Attorney General Doctrine — Justiciable Controversy Required: The private attorney general doctrine is not a cause of action requirement, and the requirement of a justiciable controversy applies to declaratory judgment actions. Without a concrete, threatened injury, the taxpayer plaintiffs were unable to establish standing to sue the county or the state for mismanagement of county finances under the Single Audit Act or the Local Government Budget Accounting Act. Mitchell v. Glacier County, 2017 MT 258, 389 Mont. 122, 406 P.3d 427, following Marbut v. Secretary of St., 231 Mont. 131, 752 P.2d 148 (1988).

DECISIONS UNDER FORMER LAW

Agreement by County Commission to Pay Justice Court Expenses — Failure to Object — Appeal Precluded: A Justice of the Peace requested approval of funds from the County Commission for employment of a temporary clerical assistant. The County Commission initially refused to approve the funds. The claim was then submitted for certification pursuant to Browman v. Wood, 168 M 341, 543 P2d 184 (1975), and was subsequently certified as an actual and necessary expense incurred in the performance of actual duties of the Justice Court. When the bill was still not paid, the Justice of the Peace filed a petition for a contempt order against the County Commissioners for failure to pay the certified claim. The order was amended to include attorney fees. The County Commission then agreed to pay the claim and did not oppose the motion to amend, nor did it file a responsive brief. However, it later alleged error. The Supreme Court held that the County Commission waived the right to appeal by agreeing to pay the claim and then failing to object to the District Court order to pay the claim and taking no further action to challenge the claim. In re Certain Justice Court Expenses, 264 M 510, 872 P2d 795, 51 St. Rep. 372 (1994).

County Employment of Independent Contractor to Provide Legal Services: There is no express prohibition under Montana law precluding or preventing a county from entering into an independent contractor relationship for the provision of legal services. Hamner v. Butte-Silver Bow County, 233 M 271, 760 P2d 76, 45 St. Rep. 1481 (1988).

Commissioners Not Personally Liable for Transfer of Funds: Big Horn County sued County Commissioners and County Clerk and Recorder personally to recover alleged excess funds transferred to pay the salary for a Justice of the Peace. In upholding the District Court's grant of summary judgment for the Commissioners, the Supreme Court held that the Commissioners and Clerk and Recorder acted within their statutory duty and were not personally liable where the transfer of funds was made to cover a deficit when judicial costs exceeded the estimated budget. The hourly cost in the budget was not increased. Big Horn County v. Gregory, 225 M 162, 730 P2d 1181, 44 St. Rep. 120 (1987).

Local Government Revision of Salary Schedules: A local government with self-government powers may revise a salary schedule that has been set forth in the final budget if such revision is done in accordance with the applicable law. Butte-Silver Bow, as a local government with self-government powers, adopted lawful procedures for such revision, but the facts of this case are such that the attempted revision was not in accord with the law. The court found that the salary revision was more than merely a revision of the salary schedule contained in the final budget. When Butte-Silver Bow adopted the proposed salary increase by motion, set the specific amount, and set specific effective dates, and then included the increase in the final budget, such salary became fixed for that period and could not subsequently be revised. Bukvich v. Butte-Silver Bow, 215 M 202, 696 P2d 444, 42 St. Rep. 293 (1985).

District Court's Power to Order Payment of Expenditures Beyond Budget: District Court's fiscal year budget was overrun, and this stopped or threatened to stop the efficient and orderly administration of justice and court business, creating an emergency. As a court of competent jurisdiction, the District Court may issue orders for the payment of out-of-budget expenditures that are reasonable and necessary. Compliance with the orders by the members of the Board of County Commissioners or by any other officer in the exercise of his official duties is within the exception to personal liability of the officers provided in 7-6-2323 (now repealed). The officers may pass on the propriety of the claims but may not deny them on the basis that they are outside the budget if the court has duly ordered them paid. State ex rel. District Court v. Whitaker, 210 M 363, 681 P2d 1097, 41 St. Rep. 1104 (1984).

Justices' Courts: Section 3-10-103, a specific statute mandating Commissioners to pay actual and necessary expenses of Justices' Courts, controlled where Justice of Peace incurred unforeseen workload and hired part-time, temporary clerk; thus County Commissioners had duty to pay this expense, even though it was not budgeted. State ex rel. Browman v. Wood, 168 M 341, 543 P2d 184 (1975).

Limitation on Expenditures — Exception: When the financial needs of Justices of the Peace were provided for by statute, those provisions prevailed over the provisions of 7-6-2324 (now repealed) as to limitations on expenditures. State ex rel. Browman v. Wood, 168 M 341, 543 P2d 184, 32 St. Rep. 1136 (1975).

Debt Limit: Board of County Commissioners which overtaxed taxpayers in 1 year in order to provide a fund out of which expenses for capital improvements and remodeling of airport that exceeded $21,000 clearly violated Art. XIII, sec. 5, 1889 Mont. Const. (replaced by Art. VIII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.), by incurring a liability for over $10,000 without the approval of a majority of the electors of the county. The county was not able to argue that "no indebtedness or liability" had been created because the money was already on hand. Extraordinarily high levy created a "reserve fund" to be used for capital improvements, which is not allowable due to restriction in 67-10-402 of reserve funds to improvement of surfaces of runways or ramps. Burlington N., Inc. v. Flathead County, 162 M 371, 512 P2d 710 (1973).

"Cash Balance": "Cash balance", referred to in 7-6-2319 (now repealed), and "all surplus moneys", referred to in section 16-2048, R.C.M. 1947 (since repealed), relate to the same subject and have the same object, which is the disposition of unexpended funds on hand in the counties at the end of each fiscal year. Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pac. R.R. v. Bennett, 145 M 191, 399 P2d 986 (1965).

Transfer of Cash Balance — Determination of Tax Rate: Increased tax on railroads for use of county road fund was held to be invalid, where Board of County Commissioners had transferred money from the road fund into the general fund before determining tax rate for road fund in that fiscal year. (See 1999 amendment.) Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pac. R.R. v. Bennett, 145 M 191, 399 P2d 986 (1965).

Lease-Purchase Payments: Under resolution providing that city would convey title to properties to party who would cause to be built on one property a city-approved building which the city would rent for an annual rental for a period of 3 years with option in the city to purchase property together with the building thereon, lease payments were forms of indebtedness within Art. XIII, sec. 6, 1889 Mont. Const. (replaced by Art. VIII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.), limiting indebtedness that may be incurred by city. State ex rel. Simmons v. Missoula, 144 M 210, 395 P2d 249 (1964).

"Mandatory Expenditures Required by Law": The general words "mandatory expenditures required by law", as used in 7-6-2341 (now repealed), are not limited by the doctrine of ejusdem generis to the specific types of calamities enumerated earlier in the subsection since the general words are not associated in any way with the specific words, but rather they embrace an entirely different subject matter from those characterized by the specific words. Burke v. Sullivan, 127 M 374, 265 P2d 203 (1954).

Excess Funds — Reversion to General Fund: Where County Commissioners fix salary of officer at less than that provided in budget, it is not necessary that there be a resolution for a transfer of a part of the funds, since excess funds will revert to the general fund at the end of the fiscal year. State ex rel. Thompson v. Gallatin County, 120 M 263, 184 P2d 998 (1947).

Salary Schedule — Effect: When a salary schedule is adopted in the county budget, the Board of County Commissioners is not bound to pay each county employee the salary so fixed without diminution. State ex rel. Thompson v. Gallatin County, 120 M 263, 184 P2d 998 (1947).

Constitutionality: Section 7-6-2318 (now repealed), prohibiting consideration of anticipated loss of revenue for nonpayment of taxes, does not offend against Art. III, sec. 11, 1889 Mont. Const. (Art. II, sec. 31, 1972 Mont. Const.), as impairing obligations of contracts, since Title 7, ch. 6, part 23 (now repealed), contemplates issuances of interest-bearing registered warrants up to budget appropriation, if there is no money in a particular fund that must be taken into consideration in fixing the budget for the succeeding year. Great N. Ry. v. Phillips County, 112 M 542, 118 P2d 754 (1941).

Emergency Budget for General Relief — Not Liability for "Single Purpose": County Commissioners establishing an emergency budget under 7-6-2342 (now repealed) for general relief purposes in the amount of $15,000, without the approval of the electors, did not create an indebtedness or liability for a "single purpose" in excess of $10,000 without such approval within the inhibition of Art. XIII, sec. 5, 1889 Mont. Const. (replaced by Art. VIII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.). The entire debt for all relief purposes cannot be regarded a single purpose because the emergency arose by virtue of many separate and distinct purposes founded on a duty expressly imposed in the normal functioning of a county. State ex rel. Nelson v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 111 M 395, 109 P2d 1106 (1941).

Where Later Statute Controlling: It is not necessary that the City Council should pass upon a resolution authorizing expenditures to meet an emergency by unanimous vote as provided by 7-6-4252 (now repealed) in the matter of authorizing the creation of a city housing authority under Title 7, ch. 15, part 44, but 7-15-4417, a part of the housing authorities law, later in point of time and not requiring a unanimous vote, is controlling. State ex rel. Helena Housing Authority v. City Council, 108 M 347, 90 P2d 514 (1939).

Remedies for Illegal Levy — Estoppel: Payment of a tax deemed illegal, under protest, and then bringing an action to recover it back is not the exclusive remedy of the taxpayer where the levy is illegal. In the instant case, where there was no need to tax to raise funds for bond and sinking fund, plaintiff taxpayer was not estopped from maintaining action to enjoin collection by his failure to appear before the board at the time the preliminary budget (now proposed budget) was noticed for hearing under 7-6-2316 (now repealed). Rogge v. Petroleum County, 107 M 36, 80 P2d 380 (1938).

Taxing in Excess of Need — Illegal: It is against the policy of the law to raise taxes faster than the money is likely to be needed. In the absence of statutory authority a tax cannot be levied for the sole purpose of accumulating funds in the public treasury, such as for remote or future contingencies which may never arise, nor can it be levied in excess of the amount required for the purpose for which it is levied, with the intention of using the excess for another purpose. Rogge v. Petroleum County, 107 M 36, 80 P2d 380 (1938).

Misapplication of Fund by Treasurer: The office of City Treasurer is a continuing one regardless of the person occupying the office at any particular time. The Treasurer is the servant of the city and not the agent of warrant holders; thus if he misapplies trust funds such as for special improvement purposes, the municipality is liable to the warrant holders. Blackford v. Libby, 103 M 272, 62 P2d 216 (1936).

Negotiability of Warrant: A city warrant is not a negotiable instrument in the sense of the law merchant, and while it may be transferred by delivery or assignment, the transferee takes it subject to all legal and equitable defenses which exist to it in the hands of the payee. Lillis v. Big Timber, 103 M 206, 62 P2d 219 (1936).

Conflict With Police Minimum Wages: If Title 7, ch. 6, part 42 (now repealed), contained any provisions in direct conflict with 7-32-4116 prescribing a minimum wage for policemen in cities of the first class, then 7-32-4116 controls as to such conflicts. State ex rel. Gebhardt v. City Council, 102 M 27, 55 P2d 671 (1936).

Judgment Debts Excluded From Budget Law: By Writ of Mandate, city was directed to pay policemen's salaries prescribed by 7-32-4116. City's objection that obedience to the Writ would compel it to violate the budget act held no defense, for under 7-6-4234 (now repealed), a court judgment giving rise to a municipal obligation is specifically excepted from the provisions of the budget law. State ex rel. Gebhardt v. City Council, 102 M 27, 55 P2d 671 (1936).

Emergency Warrants Proper for Unbudgeted Drain Assessments: Drain district assessments against a county that had been approved by the court and had the force of judgments were unpaid for lack of funds, and no budget appropriation had been made therefor. The Clerk and Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners should have issued emergency warrants for the assessments. A Writ of Mandate to the Board itself, directing it to pay the assessments, was improperly issued. State ex rel. Valley Center Drain District v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 100 M 581, 51 P2d 635 (1935), explained in Burke v. Sullivan, 127 M 374, 265 P2d 203 (1954).

Statute of Limitation — Not on Right to Enforce: Section 7-6-4122 (now repealed) places a limitation upon the discretionary period and is not a Statute of Limitation with respect to the right to enforce the judgment. The bar of the Statute of Limitations is imposed because of the failure of the possessor of a right to enforce it. "Such a statute may be used as a shield, but not as a sword." State ex rel. N. Am. Life Ins. Co. v. District Court, 100 M 476, 49 P2d 1119 (1935).

Methods of Payment: Section 7-6-4122 (now repealed), makes it the duty of a City or Town Council to levy sufficient tax to pay a judgment against the municipality within 3 years where there is not sufficient money in the general fund to pay it and authorizes the council to fund the debt if the judgment exceeds $10,000. The Board of Councilmen is vested with discretionary power to proceed in any of the several methods of procedure prescribed and thus may not be compelled by the judgment creditor, through Writ of Mandate, to make a specific levy for any one year to satisfy the judgment. State ex rel. N. Am. Life Ins. Co. v. District Court, 97 M 523, 37 P2d 329 (1934).

Reason for Section: By enacting 7-6-4121 (now repealed), authorizing cities to operate on a cash basis where they have reached the limit of indebtedness (Art. XIII, sec. 6, 1889 Mont. Const., replaced by Art. VIII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.), the Legislature did not attempt what it has no power to do: permit them to create indebtedness in excess of such limit, but provided a device by which, without creating an additional indebtedness, they may function on a cash basis. Commonwealth Pub. Serv. Co. v. Deer Lodge, 96 M 15, 28 P2d 472 (1934); Palmer v. Helena, 40 M 498, 107 P 512 (1910).

Reduction in Force — Failure to Use Section: A city which, having reached the constitutional limit of indebtedness, finds itself in financial straits, will not be heard to say, in defense of its violation of a civil service statute in removing a firefighter contrary to its provisions, that it did so to reduce expenses, where it has failed to take advantage of 7-6-4121 (now repealed) authorizing cities in such condition to pay their running expenses from current revenues upon a cash basis. State ex rel. Drifill v. Anaconda, 41 M 577, 111 P 345 (1910).

What Are Current Expenses:

Under 7-6-4121 (now repealed), a city which is indebted in excess of the limit prescribed by Art. XIII, sec. 6, 1889 Mont. Const. (replaced by Art. VIII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.), is permitted to conduct its affairs upon a cash basis and pay "reasonable and necessary current expenses from its current revenues", but the authority of such a city extends no further than to make expenditures both reasonable and necessary for the corporate existence of the city; in other words, the right to expend public money is limited to those items of expense which may properly be designated as "living expenses". Palmer v. Helena, 40 M 498, 107 P 512 (1910).

The determination of what is a current expense is for the courts; but the determination of the City Council as to whether a particular current expense is reasonable and necessary is not subject to review by the courts in the absence of fraud or abuse of discretion. Helena Water Works Co. v. Helena, 31 M 243, 78 P 220 (1904). See also State ex rel. Rowling v. Butte, 43 M 331, 117 P 604 (1911).

The term "current" was doubtless employed by the Legislature to distinguish the common, recurring, running expenses of a city from such expenses as partake of the nature of an investment or such as are to be incurred in a substantial or permanent improvement. Helena Water Works Co. v. Helena, 31 M 243, 78 P 220 (1904).

Reports of Money Received and Disbursed: In an action by a city against the sureties on the official bond of the Treasurer, the reports of the Treasurer to the City Council of money received and disbursed during the month, made under 7-6-4105 (now repealed), may be given in evidence against such sureties and are prima facie true, and when not contradicted by the sureties, are binding on them. Philipsburg v. Degenhart, 30 M 299, 76 P 694 (1904).

City Exceeding Debt Limit — Appropriation of Funds: Where a city had exceeded its debt limit, it could not incur an indebtedness not payable from a specially authorized tax but payable from funds previously appropriated, under an agreement that the claimants should accept warrants in payment of their claims, and if the warrant should not be paid, the city should not be liable thereon. The payment of such claims on the theory that the appropriation by ordinance was an assignment of the funds so appropriated for the payment of the claims was unauthorized. Helena Water Works Co. v. Helena, 27 M 205, 70 P 513 (1902).

No Liability for Void Contract: Although the City Council appropriated a sum to pay for water furnished under a contract, such action does not make the city liable therefor, since the contract out of which the liability arose was void and no lawful authority to pay it exists. State ex rel. Helena Water Works Co. v. Helena, 24 M 521, 63 P 99 (1900).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

DECISIONS UNDER FORMER LAW

Power of County Commissioners to Regulate Library Funded by County General Fund — Limitations as if Funded by Five-Mill Levy: The fact that Big Horn County funds its library through the county general fund does not allow the County Commissioners to usurp the library trustees' statutory authority for setting the library's budget and compensation for the library staff. If the County Commissioners fund the library's budget through the county general fund, the power to decide the library staff compensation still rests with the library trustees. The Commissioners may limit the overall funding of the library budget to 5 mills, as if the library were being funded pursuant to the 5-mill tax levy authorized by 22-1-304. To hold otherwise would allow the library trustees to adopt a budget that could assume the entire county general fund levy. 48 A.G. Op. 3 (1999). See also 54 A.G. Op. 7 (2012).

Setting of Compensation for Mosquito Control Board Employees — Approval Required: A mosquito control board may not set the level of compensation of board employees without the approval of the Board of County Commissioners. 47 A.G. Op. 11 (1998). See also 38 A.G. Op. 35 (1979).

Setting of Compensation for Weed Control Board Employees — Approval Required: A weed control board may not set the level of compensation of board employees without the approval of the Board of County Commissioners. 47 A.G. Op. 11 (1998). See also 38 A.G. Op. 35 (1979).

Excess Cash Balance to Be Added to Annual Budget Calculations — Establishment of Trust Fund With Excess Prohibited: A city with general government powers that has a cash balance from previously unbudgeted nontax revenue in excess of outstanding unpaid warrants at the close of the preceding fiscal year in any fund must add the cash balance into the all-purpose general fund to be used in calculating the city's annual operating budget and to set future tax levies. The cash may not be placed in a trust fund, such as a 10-year irrevocable trust fund operated by a third-party trustee. 46 A.G. Op. 15 (1996).

"Cash Balance" Defined: The term "cash balance", as used in 7-6-2319(1) (now repealed), means the cash in a fund on June 30 less any current liabilities. 44 A.G. Op. 18 (1991).

Prior Fiscal Year Reserve Not to Be Included in Current Year's Reserve: Because a prior fiscal year's reserve is not considered part of the amount "appropriated and authorized to be spent during the current fiscal year", as that phrase is used in 7-6-2319(2) (now repealed), it may not be used to calculate the current fiscal year's reserve. (See 1999 amendment.) 44 A.G. Op. 18 (1991).

Equipment Reserve Account as Capital Improvement Fund: An equipment reserve fund within the central garage internal service fund, established by a city with self-governing powers to provide for future equipment replacement, is a capital improvement fund within the meaning of 7-6-4134 (now repealed). 44 A.G. Op. 5 (1991).

Percentage Limitation Mandatory — Retroactive Transfer of Greater Percentage Impermissible: By its clear terms, 7-6-4134 (now repealed) regulates budget procedures of a city with self-governing powers. The 5% (see 1997 amendment) limitation in 7-6-4134 (now repealed) is a mandatory provision with which a city must comply in establishing its budget. Therefore, the retroactive transfer of more than 5% of all-purpose levy revenue is prohibited. 44 A.G. Op. 5 (1991).

Separate Accounting Required for Equipment Reserve Account in Enterprise Fund: Enterprise funds, such as funds generated from the provision of income-producing municipal services like water and sewer systems, may not be consolidated with revenue from other sources. A city may not reclassify equipment reserves maintained in the enterprise funds. Therefore, equipment reserve accounts in enterprise funds must be maintained separately from other equipment reserve accounts in a capital improvement fund. 44 A.G. Op. 5 (1991).

Transfer of Funds to Equipment Reserve Account From Sources Other Than All-Purpose Levy Fund Not Prohibited: Section 7-6-4134 (now repealed) does not prohibit the transfer of funds to an equipment reserve account from sources other than the all-purpose levy fund. 44 A.G. Op. 5 (1991).

Authorization by County Commission of Increase in Salary of County Officer: Even if the county budget allows for an increase in the salary of a county officer, only the Board of County Commissioners may authorize an increase through the budgetary process. Therefore, a Clerk of Court is not authorized to promote a deputy clerk to a chief deputy position at a higher pay scale without authorization in the county budget and approval of the Board. 43 A.G. Op. 77 (1990).

Use of Separately Appropriated Funds to Satisfy Negotiated Salary Increases: Section 7-6-4236 (now repealed) does not prohibit a municipality from using funds separately appropriated for the purpose of satisfying salary increases that may arise from collective bargaining negotiations ongoing at the time of a final budget's adoption to pay such increases. Use of such funds constitutes neither a "transfer" within the statutory meaning nor an increase in affected employees' salaries over amounts appropriated for those salaries. 42 A.G. Op. 65 (1988).

Authority of County Officer to Retain Defense Counsel: An elected county officer is not required to obtain the consent of the County Attorney or the County Commissioners in order to retain counsel in defense of a suit brought by the County Attorney pursuant to 7-6-2323 (now repealed). The county must reimburse the officer for legal fees incurred in the defense of the action unless an exclusion, as provided in 2-9-305, applies. 41 A.G. Op. 34 (1985).

Distribution of Corporate License Fees: Corporate license fees received between July 1, 1983, and June 30, 1984, under 15-31-702 (now repealed), are properly distributed pursuant to tax levies adopted by the Board of County Commissioners for fiscal year 1984, including any levy promulgated pursuant to 53-2-813 (now repealed). 41 A.G. Op. 26 (1985).

Change in County Classification — Time for Setting County Officials' Salaries: When a county's classification changes pursuant to 7-1-2111 (now repealed), the salaries of the county officials listed in 7-4-2503(1) must also change. The salaries must change as of July 1 of the following year, with the onset of a new fiscal year for the county. 40 A.G. Op. 81 (1984).

Grants Available Only After Completion of Fiscal Year: Under 7-6-2352 (now repealed), county governments may be eligible to receive state grants to District Courts only after the completion of the fiscal year in which the need for assistance arose. 40 A.G. Op. 39 (1984).

Restrictions on Segregation of Cash and Transfer of Poor Fund: Title 53, ch. 2, part 3, does not authorize a county to set aside money in the poor fund that will not be available for supporting public assistance activities in the county, as provided in 53-2-322 (now repealed). All money in the poor fund must be used for public assistance activities. However, 7-6-2326 (now repealed) permits the transfer of a poor fund cash balance to another fund at the end of a fiscal year. This may be done only when there is an ending balance in excess of the amount budgeted for the poor fund for the next fiscal year, and only the excess may be transferred. 40 A.G. Op. 29 (1983).

Source of Depletion Allowance Reserve Fund — Not Subject to Budgeting: Section 7-34-2402 permits poor fund money to be used to fund a depletion allowance reserve fund only to the extent that the money represents actual money received in excess of expenses incurred from or for the care of indigent patients in the county facility. Because depletion allowance reserve fund money is not derived from tax revenues and the sources and uses of the fund are limited statutorily, the transfer of money to a depletion allowance reserve fund is not subject to the requirements of 7-6-2326 (now repealed). 40 A.G. Op. 29 (1983).

Clerk and Recorder's Report — Basis for Determining Levy: The Department of Social and Rehabilitation Services (now Department of Public Health and Human Services) should rely upon the tax levies presented in the County Clerk and Recorder's report that is provided pursuant to 7-6-2322 (now repealed) for determining the amount levied by the county for purposes of its county poor fund during fiscal year 1982. (See 1999 amendment.) 40 A.G. Op. 18 (1983).

Maximum Mill Levy Not Required: Because of the requirements for establishing county mill levies under Title 7, ch. 6, part 23 (now repealed), and because of the unforeseeable nature of District Court expenses, the Department of Administration (now Supreme Court Administrator) may not require a county to impose the maximum levy established in 7-6-2511, for District Court expenses, in order to be considered eligible for a state grant to District Courts under 7-6-2352 (now repealed). 39 A.G. Op. 71 (1982).

Money Freed by Termination of Tax Protest Litigation — Use and Effect: Once tax money tied up in tax protest litigation is received by a municipality upon completion of litigation, it must be deposited to the credit of the fund or funds to which it would have been credited had it been timely received without protest, and it is then available for use. If money remains in a fund at the end of a fiscal year in which it was received, it is a part of the cash balance and is to be included in the calculations to determine the tax levy for the next year. 39 A.G. Op. 55 (1982).

District Court Employees as County Employees: District Court employees are paid by the county in which the court is located, receive the same county benefits as all other county employees, and are therefore county employees. 39 A.G. Op. 38 (1981).

Restrictions in Appropriation Bill Subservient to Statutory Power to Provide Assistance to Counties: Section 7-6-2352 (now repealed) reflects legislative intent to make financial assistance grants for the purpose of offsetting virtually all excess costs associated with the operation of a District Court except those for building, capital, and library maintenance, replacement, and acquisition. Restrictive language in the general appropriation bill of the 1981 legislative session limited the appropriation to emergency funding and only when extraordinary expenses are incurred, expressly conflicting with 7-6-2352 (now repealed). The Attorney General noted that the courts have considered such restrictions with disfavor, that the appropriation bill title did not refer to restrictions on the appropriation, and that the language of Art. V, sec. 11, Mont. Const., limits a general appropriation bill to appropriations. Rejecting the repeal by implication of 7-6-2352 (now repealed) by the restrictions in the appropriation bill, it was concluded that the Department of Administration (now Supreme Court Administrator) should follow the provisions of 7-6-2352 (now repealed) in providing financial assistance to counties for District Court expenses. 39 A.G. Op. 25 (1981).

Emergency Grant Made Only if Funds Appropriated for That Purpose: No funds were appropriated by the 1979 Legislature to fund emergency grants authorized by 7-6-2352 (now repealed). The statute provided that the Department of Administration (now Supreme Court Administrator) may make grants only from funds specifically appropriated for that purpose. If no such funds are provided, the Department is under no obligation to make grants and would by negative implication be precluded from doing so. 38 A.G. Op. 31 (1979).

Emergency Expenditures: A county may make emergency expenditures not reflected in its budget to cover the employer's share of PERS when the responsibility to pay that share arose after adoption of the budget for that fiscal year. 38 A.G. Op. 19 (1979).

Disaster Relief Eligibility: A county road reserve established pursuant to 7-6-2318 (now repealed) to pay costs of county road operations during the first 4 months of the next fiscal year is not a financial resource available to meet emergencies and disasters. 37 A.G. Op. 118 (1978).

Police Dispatch Services: A county may contract with a city or town to provide the municipal police department with police dispatch services operated through the County Sheriff's office. 37 A.G. Op. 10 (1977).

All-Purpose Levy Encompassing Multiple Levies: Required multiple levies must be included within the all-purpose levy. 36 A.G. Op. 94 (1976).

Disposition of Unexpended County Funds: Unexpended money remaining in a county's classification and appraisal fund as of July 1 may be transferred to other county funds, and the Department of Revenue may not utilize such unexpended money for classification and appraisal of taxable lands and improvements. 35 A.G. Op. 37 (1973).

Receivership Pendente Lite Appointment Not Appropriate in Dispute Over County's Alleged Deficit Spending: The District Court erred in appointing a receiver to determine personal liability of county officers in a case involving allegations that the officials had mismanaged the county's finances. Under 27-20-102, the limited purpose of a receivership pendente lite is to prevent imminent or irreparable harm to the property subject to litigation. Here, the court's stated purpose in appointing the receiver was to determine and report on the extent of the officials' personal liability, which is outside the limited circumstances prescribed by 27-20-102. *Gottlob v. Library Board Alone Has Authority to Spend Its Reserve Funds — Library's Proposed Budget Subject to Approval by Local Governing Body — Local Governing Body Has Sole Discretion to Levy Mills in Support of Library: Prior to 2001, a library board had complete control over its budget. While a library board still has the sole discretion to determine how to use the library's unspent funds under 22-1-309, its budget must be approved by the local governing body. Moreover, the local governing body, not the library board, determines the number of mills to levy in support of the library. Power of General Powers Town to Arbitrate Contract Held Included in Power to Contract: Holm-Sutherland contracted with the town of Shelby to construct sewer and water improvements within the town. The contract included a provision requiring that all disputes involving the interpretation of the contract documents or breach of the contract were to be settled by arbitration. When a dispute arose, Holm-Sutherland sought arbitration. Litigation ensued, and the town argued that as a noncharter government, it had only those powers granted by the Legislature and that a municipality's council had a duty pursuant to 7-6-4302 and this section to determine the validity of claims and that duty could not be delegated to an arbitrator. The Supreme Court agreed with the District Court that a general powers municipality has broad powers to enter into contracts pursuant to 7-1-4124(4) and (23), that Title 27, ch. 5, evidences a general state policy favoring arbitration, and that the powers granted a municipality establish its ability to be bound to the terms of a contract that contains a binding arbitration clause. Holm-Sutherland Co., Inc. v. Shelby, 1999 MT 150, 295 M 65, 982 P2d 1053, 56 St. Rep. 595 (1999).

Purpose of Section: This section was evidently intended to cover claims against the city arising in the ordinary course of carrying on the city government, in providing for the city's welfare in sundry directions, and in transacting the business and economic affairs of the city, but not on such contracts as are specifically provided for, which it must be presumed are designed to contain their own specific provisions, and among other material and essential conditions, stipulations respecting the time and manner of the payment of the consideration on the part of the city. Forsyth v. Crellin, 210 F 835 (9th Cir. 1914).

Claim Not Required for Salary: The provision of this section, requiring claims against a city to be verified and filed with the municipality, has no application to a claim for salary fixed by ordinance; hence a police officer was under no obligation to so present his claim to entitle him to recover his salary for the time he was unlawfully deprived of his office. Wynne v. Butte, 45 M 417, 123 P 531 (1912).

Licensing Fee for Adult Movie Video Booths as Regulatory Measure — Free Speech Not Violated: The Supreme Court affirmed a city ordinance imposing a $300 annual fee for adult movie video booths, finding the city met its burden of proving the fee was both reasonable and designed as a regulatory measure to provide funds for administrative costs, policing of the booths, and health enforcement costs and expenses. The court held that estimates of future expenses may be included for purposes of setting a fee and that, being regulatory in nature, the fee did not violate the right to free speech guaranteed by the first amendment to the U.S. Constitution and Art. Valuation by County Assessor: Under the provisions of this section and other statutes applicable and in force from time to time, the basis of taxation for a city or town has been the valuation made by the County Assessor for state and county purposes. The City or Town Council has had no authority to amend or change the items listed in the roll furnished by him, its office being merely to ascertain the rate of taxation necessary to produce the amount required to meet the expenses of the city or town government and to certify it to the County Treasurer. Case Notes

Assessments as Tax: Assessments for special city improvements, which under 7-12-4181 the County Treasurer is required to collect, fall within the meaning of the words "tax" and "taxes" as employed in this section, making it the duty of the County Treasurer to collect city taxes where a city has not imposed that duty upon its own Treasurer. State ex rel. Wolf Point v. McFarlan, 78 M 156, 252 P 805 (1927).

Remittance to City Without Delay: Where a city has failed to provide by ordinance for the collection of its taxes by its own Treasurer, the Treasurer of the county in which such city is situated must, under this section, collect and pay them to the City Treasurer without delay. State ex rel. Wolf Point v. McFarlan, 78 M 156, 252 P 805 (1927), explained in School District v. Pondera County, 89 M 342, 297 P 498 (1931).

Remittance to Municipal Treasurer: Although, under this section, the County Treasurer must collect taxes for a city or town which has not by ordinance placed the duty of collection upon its own Treasurer, no provision is made as to when the money so collected must be turned over to the City or Town Treasurer. The County Treasurer must, within a reasonable time after collection, compute the amount due the city or town and pay it over to the proper custodian. The lapse of 1 month after collection of the bulk of the city or town taxes is not a reasonable time within which to perform that duty. State ex rel. Cut Bank v. McNamer, 62 M 490, 205 P 951 (1922).

Attorney General's Opinions

Delinquency Interest, Penalties, and Costs to Follow Tax: The Montana Supreme Court held in School District v. Pondera County, 89 M 342, 297 P 498 (1931), that unless a statute provides otherwise, interest, penalties, and costs collected on delinquent taxes follow the tax; therefore, school districts, cities, and other government entities authorized to levy taxes are entitled to a pro rata share of the penalties collected on delinquent property taxes by the County Treasurer. 41 A.G. Op. 25 (1985).

Collection of Special Assessment for Demolition of Dangerous Building: Special assessments imposed by a city or town for the demolition by it of dangerous buildings constitute city or town taxes under this section, and the County Treasurer must collect a properly certified special assessment for demolition of a dangerous building unless the city or town has provided for the City Treasurer to collect taxes under this section. 39 A.G. Op. 39 (1981).

Liability for Tortious Collection: A County Treasurer acts as an agent of the city when collecting city taxes, and although he must follow proper collection procedures and must exercise due care to collect only properly certified assessments, if there is any problem with the validity of an assessment it is the city, not the County Treasurer, that may be liable. 39 A.G. Op. 39 (1981).

Purpose: The purposes of this section are clearly to avoid needless duplication of the effort and cost of billing property owners and collecting the money and to provide taxpayers the convenience of a single bill, purposes best served by a broad interpretation of the term "taxes" as used in this section. 39 A.G. Op. 39 (1981).

1995 Amendment: Chapter 105 at beginning of (1)(a), after "town", deleted "whose city treasurer or town clerk", after "held" substituted "by the city or town unless the" for "therefor by such city treasurer or town clerk but such", and before "days" inserted "working"; at end of (1)(b)(iv), after "added", substituted "if any" for "and the total amount of such delinquent tax or assessment with penalty added"; and near end of (1)(c), before "be included", substituted "that total must" for "the whole of the assessment remaining unpaid shall"; and made minor changes in style.

1987 Amendment: Near end of (1)(c) changed "7-12-4181" to "7-12-4182".

Case Notes

Assessments for Special Improvements: A County Treasurer could not be compelled, under this section, to spread upon the delinquent tax roll of the county certain assessments for special city improvements which became delinquent on a city lot after the county had bought it in at a tax sale, since special assessments are not taxes within the meaning of 15-18-403 (since repealed) and the liens of such assessments were extinguished upon issuance of the tax deed. State ex rel. Great Falls v. Jeffries, 83 M 111, 270 P 638 (1928), explained in Cascade County v. Weaver, 108 M 1, 90 P2d 164 (1939).

Library Board Alone Has Authority to Spend Its Reserve Funds — Library's Proposed Budget Subject to Approval by Local Governing Body — Local Governing Body Has Sole Discretion to Levy Mills in Support of Library: Prior to 2001, a library board had complete control over its budget. While a library board still has the sole discretion to determine how to use the library's unspent funds under 22-1-309, its budget must be approved by the local governing body. Moreover, the local governing body, not the library board, determines the number of mills to levy in support of the library. Finally, the local governing body has no obligation to continue to levy any certain number of mills for the library in perpetuity. 54 A.G. Op. 7 (2012).

Voter Approval of Mill Levy in Excess of Legal Maximum: This section allows the municipality's voters to approve a mill levy in excess of the maximum set by 7-6-4452 (now repealed). 39 A.G. Op. 55 (1982).

7-6-4438. Tax levy and expenditures for municipal and administrative purposes when limits on municipal indebtedness exceeded.Compiler's Comments

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 at beginning of (1) and (2) inserted reference to 15-10-420; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) However, the aggregate of all taxes authorized for general municipal and administrative purposes may not exceed 1.5% annually of the taxable value of all property subject to taxation in the city or town"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

Attorney General's Opinions

Calculation and Expenditure of "Carryforward" Mills Under 2001 Revision to Local Government Property Tax Levy and Budget Provisions: The 2001 revisions to local government property tax levy and budget laws instituted a general approach of deleting numeric limits on the number of mills that a local government could levy for any specific purpose and placed a cap on the number of mills that a local government is allowed to levy through property taxation. The combined effect was to free a local government to dedicate as much of its annual mill levy as it chooses for any lawful governmental purpose, as long as the total millage covered by the cap does not exceed the cap measured by the prior year's property tax assessments. Likewise, the "carryforward" provision in 15-10-420 does not depend on how many mills, if any, that a city chooses to devote to a particular purpose in any year. Instead, the provision allows a city, if it finds itself able to fund its operations without levying the full number of mills allowed, to hold in reserve for future years the authority to levy the difference between the number of mills allowed and the number actually levied. That authority is not calculated on the basis of the amount budgeted or the number of mills needed to fund a particular government function, but rather is calculated with reference to the whole amount raised by property taxes, subject to the statutory exceptions, without reference to how the money might have been spent in the prior year. However, the "carryforward" authority is prospective only and may not be applied to calculations for the 2001 budget year because the authority did not exist prior to July 1, 2001. Thus, "carryforward" mills may be levied in any future year after budget year 2001 and expended by a local government for any lawful purposes that the local government chooses. 49 A.G. Op. 5 (2001).

Unauthorized Levies Not to Be Used as Basis for Temporary Increase: The special levies authorized by 7-32-4117, 7-33-4130, and 19-10-301 (renumbered 19-19-301) must be included in the 65-mill levy authorized by 7-6-4451 and 7-6-4452 (now repealed). Any such special levies improperly levied in addition to the 65-mill all-purpose levy may not be used in computing the basis for a 5% increase under 15-7-122 (now repealed). 38 A.G. Op. 44 (1979).

All-Purpose Levy Encompassing Multiple Levies: Required multiple levies must be included within the 65-mill all-purpose levy authorized by 7-6-4451 and 7-6-4452 (now repealed). 36 A.G. Op. 94 (1976).

7-6-4453. Certain special mill levies also available.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 in (1) in third sentence and in (2) deleted reference to 7-6-4452; deleted former (3) that read: "(3) In a third-class city or town, the all-purpose mill levy may not include the special tax levy for the firefighters' disability and pension fund provided for in 19-18-503. This special tax levy must be made in addition to the all-purpose mill levy"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 at beginning of second sentence in (1) inserted reference to 15-10-420; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 29 in (1) near middle after "exceeds" substituted "2.5% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111, within the consolidated" for former language that read: "(a) (i) 39% of the taxable value of the property of the local", after "government" deleted "subject to taxation", and after "taxes" deleted "plus

(ii) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%; plus

(b) for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2001, an additional 25% of the taxable value of class six property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%;

(c) for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2002, an additional 50% of the taxable value of class six property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%;

(d) for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2003, an additional 75% of the taxable value of class six property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%;

(e) for bonds to be issued during fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 2%, an additional 100% of the taxable value of class six property within the local government for tax year 1999, in each case of class six property, multiplied by 39%, and an additional 77% of the taxable value of class eight property within the local government for tax year 1999, multiplied by 39%;

(f) for bonds to be issued during fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 1%, an additional 94% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the local government for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 39%; and

(g) for bonds to be issued during the fiscal year and succeeding fiscal years in which 15-6-138 is repealed, an additional 100% of the taxable value of class eight property within the local government for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 39%"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: (Version effective July 1, 2000) Chapter 285 in (1)(a)(i) at end after "taxes" inserted "plus"; inserted (1)(b) relating to bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2001; inserted (1)(c) relating to bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2002; inserted (1)(d) relating to bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2003; inserted (1)(e) relating to bonds to be issued during fiscal years when class eight property tax rate is 2%; inserted (1)(f) relating to bonds to be issued during fiscal years when class eight property tax rate is 1%; inserted (1)(g) relating to bonds to be issued after repeal of 15-6-138; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2000.

Chapter 426 at end of (1) in temporary version and in (1)(a)(ii) in July 1, 2000, version inserted provision relating to telecommunications property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 556 at end of (1) in temporary version and in (1)(a)(ii) in July 1, 2000, version inserted clause including in bonding limitation formula 50% of taxable value attributable to electrical generation property multiplied by 39%; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Saving Clause: Section 29, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Section 36, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 30, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Section 37, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Applicability: Section 43, Ch. 426, L. 1999, provided: "[This act] applies to tax years beginning after December 31, 1999."

Section 39(2), Ch. 556, L. 1999, provided that this section applies to fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2000.

1981 Amendment: Increased the bond indebtedness limitation from 27% to 39% of the taxable value in (1).

Effect of 1981 Amendment: The primary purpose of Ch. 614, L. 1981, was to replace the system of taxation of automobiles and light trucks with a fee system. With the adoption of the fee system, automobiles and light trucks are no longer taxable property. The resulting loss of taxable valuation has a direct effect on the amount of indebtedness a political subdivision can incur. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 29 in (2) near end substituted "10% over and above" for "10% of", after "limitation" deleted "as adjusted", and after "7-7-107" deleted "of the taxable value of the property of the consolidated government subject to taxation as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes". Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendment: Chapter 285 near end of (2) substituted "exceed 10% of the debt limitation, as adjusted" for "exceed 10% over and above the 39%"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2000.

Saving Clause: Section 29, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 30, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

1981 Amendment: Increased the bond indebtedness limitation from 27% to 39% of the taxable value in (2).

Effect of 1981 Amendment: The primary purpose of Ch. 614, L. 1981, was to replace the system of taxation of automobiles and light trucks with a fee system. With the adoption of the fee system, automobiles and light trucks are no longer taxable property. The resulting loss of taxable valuation has a direct effect on the amount of indebtedness a political subdivision can incur. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendment: Chapter 451 in (2)(a) near beginning after “authorized by law” substituted “or” for “and”, after “state or federal funds” deleted “or has received a commitment from a person or entity to purchase bonds to aid in payment of costs incurred or to be incurred for the authorized purpose”, after “issue and sell” deleted “notes”, and near end substituted “or the total amount of the loan or grant that is committed, notes” for “and”; in (2)(b) in second sentence after “amount that” inserted “in the aggregate”; in (4)(a) substituted text regarding payment of notes and interest for former text that read: “Any amount of the notes that cannot be paid at maturity from the proceeds of the grant, loan, or bond sale or from any other funds appropriated by the governing body for the purpose”; in (4)(b) at beginning inserted language regarding notes that cannot be paid at maturity; in (4)(c) near middle after “the bonds maturing” deleted “as amortization bonds”; in (4)(d) near beginning after “law” inserted “in anticipation of the issuance of bonds”; inserted (4)(e) regarding issuance of bonds for payment of notes; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 28, 2005.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 in (2), in first sentence after “applied for”, inserted “and received a commitment for”, after “federal funds” inserted “or has received a commitment from a person or entity to purchase bonds”, and after “loan” inserted “or bonds”, inserted second sentence concerning outstanding term of notes, and inserted third sentence concerning written commitment prior to issuance; in (3), after “loan”, inserted “or bonds”; in (4), in first sentence after “loan”, inserted “or bond sale”, after “maturity” substituted “the holders of the notes have the right to” for “those bondholders may, in exchange”, before “bonds” deleted “long-term”, and at end inserted “in exchange for the notes with the bonds maturing as amortization bonds, bearing interest at a rate, and secured over a term as provided in the resolution authorizing the issuance of the notes”, inserted second sentence concerning issuing bonds in an amount equal to outstanding notes, and deleted former second, third, and fourth sentences that read: “The bonds so issued are secured and subject to the terms and conditions provided by the law authorizing their issuance. Notes and bonds may be issued as provided in this section regardless of the amount authorized if the amount which may legally be issued is less than the commitment for which the grant or loan is made. Before the notes or bonds are issued, the political subdivision must receive a written commitment for a grant or loan in an amount equal to the remaining estimated costs and must by resolution provide for the fulfillment of the conditions of the commitment”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: “[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act].” Effective April 13, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In definition of political subdivision inserted “rural special improvement district” and “county water or sewer district”; at end of first sentence of (4), substituted “may, in exchange, require the issuance of long-term bonds” for “may require the issuance, in exchange, of bonds bearing interest at the maximum rate permitted by law”.

1985 Amendment — Remedial: Section 19, Ch. 512, L. 1985, provided: “Section 1 of this act [amending 7-7-109] is remedial in character, and nothing therein may be considered to imply that authority for the taking of any action therein expressly authorized did not previously exist.”

1995 Amendment: Chapter 179 in (1), at end, deleted "All those investments must first be approved by the department of commerce"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1983 Amendment: Substituted reference to department of commerce for reference to department of administration.

1981 Amendment: Substituted "department of administration" for "department of community affairs" in (1)(a).

Transfer of Function: The function of the Department of Commerce in this section was transferred from the Department of Administration by sec. 1, Ch. 287, L. 1983. Those functions were transferred to the Department of Administration from the Department of Community Affairs by sec. 7, Ch. 274, L. 1981.

Attorney General's Opinions

When Investment of Bond Proceeds in Government Securities Authorized: Money in a sinking fund is not available for investment if any of the bonds for which the sinking fund was established are not yet due but are then redeemable under optional provisions. While investment in government securities is authorized under this section, it is authorized only to the extent that the sinking fund is not needed for payment of the bonds or interest. Therefore, excess bond proceeds may not be retained in a separate fund and invested without first using the proceeds to calculate the amount of annual tax levy for a sinking fund. Any remainder of the proceeds may then be invested in accordance with this section. 44 A.G. Op. 18 (1991).

Part 21

General Provisions Related to Counties

7-7-2101. Limitation on amount of county indebtedness.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 262 deleted former (2) that read: “(2) Except as provided in 7-7-2402, a county may not incur indebtedness or liability for any single purpose to an amount exceeding $500,000 without the approval of a majority of the electors of the county voting at an election as provided by law”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2015.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 286 in (2) near beginning after “7-7-2402” deleted “and 7-21-3413”. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

Saving Clause: Section 42, Ch. 286, L. 2009, was a saving clause.

Transition — Repealed: Section 43, Ch. 286, L. 2009, provided: “(1) Subject to subsection (2), a special district in existence on [the effective date of this act] [effective July 1, 2009] must comply with the provisions of [sections 1 through 20] [Title 7, ch. 11, part 10] upon alteration of its boundaries or a change in its amount or method of assessment. If dissolution is proposed for a special district in existence on [the effective date of this act] [effective July 1, 2009], the proposal is subject to the provisions of [section 20] [7-11-1029].

(2) A special district in existence on [the effective date of this act] [effective July 1, 2009] is required to comply with the provisions of [section 10] [7-11-1014] only upon alteration of its boundaries.” This transition section was repealed by sec. 2, Ch. 97, L. 2019. See the code commissioner explanation under 7-11-1004.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 187 in (1) near middle after “exceeds” substituted “2.5%” for “1.4%”. Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 35 in (2) after “7-21-3413” deleted “and 7-21-3414”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 7 in (1)(a)(i) substituted “15-36-324(14)” for “15-36-324(13)”. Amendment effective October 1, 2001. The amendment by Ch. 29 rendered the amendment by Ch. 7 void.

Chapter 29 in (1) near beginning after “may not” substituted “issue bonds or incur other indebtedness” for “become indebted in any manner or”, after “aggregate” substituted “exceeds 1.4%” for “exceeding 23%”, after “total” substituted “assessed” for “of the taxable”, after “value of” inserted “taxable”, after “property” inserted “determined as provided in 15-8-111”, and after “county” substituted “as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes” for “subject to taxation plus:

(a) (i) the value provided by the department of revenue in 15-36-324(13), as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of the indebtedness;

(ii) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%;

(b) for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal years 1999 through 2008, an additional 33% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, multiplied by 23%;

(c) for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 2001, an additional 25% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%;

(d) for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 2002, an additional 50% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%;

(e) for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 2003, an additional 75% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%;

(f) for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 2%, an additional 100% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of class six property, multiplied by 23%, and an additional 77% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 23%;

(g) for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 1%, an additional 94% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 23%; and

(h) for indebtedness to be incurred during the fiscal year and succeeding fiscal years in which 15-6-138 is repealed, an additional 100% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 23%”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: “(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued.”

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: (Version effective July 1, 2000) Chapter 285 at beginning of (1)(b) deleted “for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and”; inserted (1)(c) relating to indebtedness incurred during fiscal year 2001; inserted (1)(d) relating to indebtedness incurred during fiscal year 2002; inserted (1)(e) relating to indebtedness incurred during fiscal year 2003; inserted (1)(f) relating to indebtedness incurred during fiscal years when class eight property tax rate is 2%; inserted (1)(g) relating to indebtedness incurred during fiscal years when class eight property tax rate is 1%; inserted (1)(h) relating to indebtedness incurred after repeal of 15-6-138; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2000.

Chapter 426 in (1)(b) at beginning deleted “for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and”; inserted (1)(c) in temporary version and (1)(a)(ii) in July 1, 2000, version relating to taxable value of telecommunications property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 556 in (1)(b) at beginning deleted “for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, for indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and” and near end after “tax year 1995” deleted “in each case of class eight property”; inserted (1)(c) in temporary version and (1)(a)(ii) in July 1, 2000, version relating to taxable value attributable to electrical generation property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Section 36, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 30, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Section 37, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Section 39(2), Ch. 556, L. 1999, provided that this section applies to fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2000.

1997 Amendments: Chapter 227 in (2), near end, inserted “7-7-2402”; and made minor changes in style.

Chapter 466 in (1), near middle, substituted “15-36-324(13)” for “15-36-324(10)”. Amendment effective April 30, 1997.

1995 Amendments: Chapter 451 in (1), after “plus the”, substituted “value provided by the department of revenue in 15-36-324(10)” for previous formula (see 1995 Session Law for text). Amendment effective January 1, 1996.

Chapter 570 in middle of (1), after “indebtedness”, inserted language revising county government indebtedness limitations (see 1995 Session Law for text).

Applicability: Section 55, Ch. 451, L. 1995, provided: “(1) [This act] applies to oil and natural gas produced and sold on or after January 1, 1996.

(2) (a) [Sections 21 through 26] [7-1-2111, 7-7-2101, 7-7-2203, 7-14-2524, 7-14-2525, and 7-16-2327] apply to county fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(b) [Sections 38 through 46] [20-9-104, 20-9-141, 20-9-161, 20-9-331, 20-9-333, 20-9-501, 20-9-507, 20-10-144, and 20-10-146] apply to school fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(3) (a) An operator is subject to provisions of Title 15, chapter 23, parts 1 and 6 [part 6 now repealed]; Title 15, chapter 36; Title 15, chapter 38; and Title 82, chapter 11, part 1, as those laws read on December 31, 1995, for all oil and natural gas produced and sold by the operator before January 1, 1996. [On December 31, 1995, Title 15, ch. 36, contained only part 1, now repealed. Part 3 of that chapter became effective January 1, 1996.]

(b) Except as provided in subsection (3)(c), the payment, collection, and distribution of taxes on oil and natural gas production occurring before January 1, 1996, must be made according to the provisions of the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) governing the tax in effect on the last day of the tax period in which the activity, enterprise, or product being taxed was engaged in, took place, or was produced and sold.

(c) [Section 19] [15-36-325, now repealed] applies to the payment, collection, and distribution of the local government severance tax for oil and natural gas produced and sold after December 31, 1994, and before January 1, 1996.

(d) All taxes collected pursuant to audit or collected after the date the tax is payable under the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) must be distributed according to the statute governing allocation of the tax in effect on the date when the tax liability was incurred.”

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 9 near middle of (1), after “amount of”, substituted “taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production” for “interim production and new production taxes levied”, inserted reference to subsection (2)(c), and after “new production” inserted “and production from horizontally completed wells”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective December 17, 1993.

Report Required: Section 21, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: “The board of oil and gas conservation shall report at least once a year to the revenue oversight committee regarding the implementation of [this act]. The reports must include but are not limited to information regarding:

(1) the methods used to determine production decline rates;

(2) rules adopted to implement [this act];

(3) the number of enhanced recovery projects completed or anticipated to be completed in a year; and

(4) the number of horizontal wells completed or anticipated to be completed in a year and the method of recovery from the horizontal wells.”

Severability: Section 23, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, was a severability clause.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 24, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: “[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved December 17, 1993] and applies to oil production from new or expanded enhanced recovery projects and to tax years that begin after December 31, 1993.”

1989 Special Session Amendment: In (1), after “15-23-612” (now repealed), inserted “multiplied by 60%, plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%”; and made minor change in phraseology. Amendment effective August 11, 1989, and applies retroactively to net proceeds taxes, severance taxes, and local government taxes on oil and gas, other than interim production and new production, produced after December 31, 1988.

1987 Amendment: In (1), before “new production taxes”, inserted “interim production and” and after “multiplied by 60%” inserted “plus the amount of value represented by new production exempted from tax as provided in 15-23-612”.

Effective Date — Applicability — 1987 Enactment: Section 28, Ch. 655, L. 1987, provided: “This act is effective on passage and approval [approved April 13, 1987] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable quarters beginning on or after April 1, 1987. The tax rate and filing method applicable to a well that qualifies as interim production under section 10 but which did not qualify as new production under 15-23-601 [now repealed] prior to the applicability date of this act does not change for tax periods prior to the applicability date.”

1985 Amendments: Chapter 584 in (2) increased the limitation on indebtedness from $150,000 to $500,000; and inserted (3) relating to acquisition of conservation easements.

Chapter 695 in (1) near middle, before “taxable value”, inserted “total of the” and after “subject to taxation”, inserted “plus the amount of new production taxes levied divided by the appropriate tax rates described in 15-23-607(2)(a) or (2)(b) [now repealed] and multiplied by 60%”.

1981 Amendments: Chapter 134 increased indebtedness amount in (2) from $40,000 to $150,000.

Chapter 614 increased the indebtedness limitation from 18% to 23% of the taxable value in (1).

Effect of 1981 Amendment: The primary purpose of Ch. 614, L. 1981, was to replace the system of taxation of automobiles and light trucks with a fee system. With the adoption of the fee system, automobiles and light trucks are no longer taxable property. The resulting loss of taxable valuation has a direct effect on the amount of indebtedness a political subdivision can incur. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

Case Notes

Federal Revenue Sharing Funds: The expenditure of federal revenue sharing funds is not an indebtedness or liability of the county within the meaning of the statutory restriction. Yovetich v. McClintock, 165 M 80, 526 P2d 999 (1974).

Airport Commission:

Board of County Commissioners which overtaxed taxpayers in one year in order to provide a fund out of which expenses for capital improvements and remodeling of airport were to be paid, which expenses exceeded $21,000, clearly violated Art. XIII, sec. 5, 1889 Mont. Const., by incurring a liability for over $10,000 without the approval of a majority of the electors of the county; county was not able to argue that “no indebtedness or liability” had been created because the money was already on hand. Extraordinarily high levy created a “reserve fund” to be used for capital improvements, which is not allowable due to restriction in 67-10-402 of reserve funds to improvement of surfaces of runways or ramps. Burlington N., Inc. v. Flathead County, 162 M 371, 512 P2d 710 (1973), distinguished in Yovetich v. McClintock, 165 M 80, 526 P2d 999 (1974).

City-county airport commission which borrowed $200,000 from the Aeronautics Commission (now Board of Aeronautics) without consent of electorate and which was obligated to repay a total sum of $238,500 over a 10-year period had incurred a debt upon which an amount over $10,000 was due each year and had violated Art. XII, 1889 Mont. Const. Resolution by airport commission which approved the loan and which obligated the county to repay the Aeronautics Commission (now Board of Aeronautics) only $10,000 did not bring the debt within the Constitution since the commission was itself obligated and was an agent of the county. Burlington N., Inc. v. Richland County, 162 M 364, 152 P2d 707 (1973), distinguished in Yovetich v. McClintock, 165 M 80, 526 P2d 999 (1974).

Redemption Bonds: The issuance by a county of coupon bonds for the purpose of redeeming outstanding county warrants is merely a change in the form of a subsisting liability and not the creation of a new indebtedness or liability and is, therefore, not within the inhibition of the laws of the state which provide in effect that counties shall not incur an indebtedness or liability for any single purpose in excess of a stated amount without the approval of a majority of the electors of the county. Hotchkiss v. Marion, 12 M 218, 29 P 821 (1892). See Edwards v. Lewis & Clark County, 53 M 359, 165 P 297 (1917).

Attorney General's Opinions

Lease-Purchase Agreement With Nonappropriation Clause Allowing Termination Without Penalty Not Considered Indebtedness or Liability—Voter Approval Not Required: A lease-purchase agreement that includes a nonappropriation clause and that allows for termination without penalty to a county does not constitute indebtedness or liability for purposes of this section and thus does not require voter approval. 52 A.G. Op. 3 (2007), overruling 38 A.G. Op. 56 (1979).

County Authorized to Incur Debt or Borrow Without Election: A county is authorized under this section to incur a liability or indebtedness up to $500,000 or, pursuant to 7-7-2402, to borrow up to $10,000 (see 1997 amendment) without an election. An installment purchase contract is not a "borrowing of money" within the meaning of 7-7-2402. A municipality is not required to hold an election to borrow money by a method other than issuing bonds, but it is limited by 7-7-4201 to a 28% debt ceiling. 42 A.G. Op. 13 (1987).

Authority to Contract for Lease Without Election: A contract providing for a total liability in excess of $40,000, prior to 1981 amendment, must be approved by the voters under this section even though it provides for annual payments of less than $40,000, an option to purchase at the end of the contract term for an additional payment less than $40,000, and an option to cancel at any time. 38 A.G. Op. 56 (1979), overruled in 52 A.G. Op. 3 (2007).

7-7-2103. Restriction on use of county credit by private persons.

Attorney General's Opinions

County Authorized to Appropriate Money for Museum — City Authorized to Appropriate Money for Public Purpose — Constitutionality Analyzed: Pursuant to 7-16-2202 (now repealed), a county, but not a city, is authorized to create a program to provide grants to private, nonprofit museums. However, pursuant to 7-1-4124, a city is allowed to grant money to public or private entities as long as the grant is for a public purpose, such as a museum that would enhance the education and enjoyment of the general public, but that would not be merely for the gain of a private entity. The Attorney General declined to opine regarding the constitutionality of 7-1-4124 or 7-16-2202 (now repealed), in light of the prohibition in Art. V, sec. 11(5), Mont. Const., against the appropriation of public funds for any private individual, private association, or private corporation not under control of the state, but did analyze that constitutional provision as it related to the question of county or city expenditures for grants to private museum programs, concluding that the constitutional prohibition applies only to the appropriation of public funds by the Legislature, not by local governmental entities. 48 A.G. Op. 12 (2000), overruling prior opinions to the contrary in 37 A.G. Op. 25 (1977), 37 A.G. Op. 105 (1978), and 39 A.G. Op. 25 (1981).

Federal Revenue Sharing Funds — Allocation by Board of County Commissioners: The Board of County Commissioners for a county that has not adopted a self-government form of local government may not make a grant of federal revenue sharing funds to individual county residents for the purpose of creating a water district under Title 7, ch. 13, parts 22 and 23, because there is no express or necessarily implied authority under which such a grant could be made and because the statutes provide a different mechanism for the creation and funding of a water district. 39 A.G. Op. 6 (1981).

Gift to Private Nonprofit Corporation: Under 20-8-111, the Board of Public Education, in its discretion, may give money that has been donated for the use and benefit of the Montana School for the Deaf and Blind to a private nonprofit corporation created and controlled by the Board and operated for the benefit of that school. However, the Board remains accountable for the money until it is used directly for the general support, maintenance, or improvement of the Montana School for the Deaf and Blind. 38 A.G. Op. 111 (1980).

7-7-2104. Replacement of lost bond, warrant, or coupon.

Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: In (3)(c), after "association", inserted "credit union".

7-7-2106. Procedure if original bond, warrant, or coupon is presented.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Part 22County General Obligation Bonds*7-7-2201. Purposes for which general obligation bonds of county may be issued.*Compiler's Comments 2001 Amendment: Chapter 571 in (6) near end deleted "or poor fund"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1985 Amendment: At end of (1) and (3) inserted exception relating to multicounty jail facilities.

Subsection Not Codified: Subsection (f) of section 16-2008, R.C.M. 1947, a provision authorizing the Board of County Commissioners to retire outstanding seed grain warrants and special relief warrants, was not codified in the MCA. This subsection has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 1(g), Ch. 188, L. 1931.

Attorney General's Opinions

Act Allowing Private Parties to Contract for Jails Not in Conflict With Local Government Regulatory Statutes: The act allowing counties to contract with private parties for the building, maintenance, and operation of jails, enacted as Chapter 447, L. 1985, does not directly conflict with other Montana statutes regulating the indebtedness, contracts, jail facilities, or interlocal agreements of local governments. However, Chapter 447 is subject to the various applicable limitations contained in those statutes. 42 A.G. Op. 81 (1988).

7-7-2202. Authority to issue general obligation bonds to satisfy judgments.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 deleted former (1)(b) that read: "(b) sufficient money cannot be raised to satisfy such judgment by an annual tax levy of 10 mills levied on all the taxable property within the county through a period of 3 years"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1989 Amendment: At end of (1), after "jurisdiction", inserted "including the repayment of tax protests lost by the county". Amendment effective March 21, 1989.

Effective Date — Retroactive Applicability: Section 14, Ch. 213, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved March 21, 1989] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to any tax appeal or tax paid under protest after December 31, 1983."

7-7-2203. Limitation on amount of bonded indebtedness.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 7 in (1)(a)(i) substituted "15-36-324(14)" for "15-36-324(13)". Amendment effective October 1, 2001. The amendment by Ch. 29 rendered the amendment by Ch. 7 void.

Chapter 29 in (1) near beginning after "provided in" substituted "subsection (2)" for "subsections (2) and (3)" and after "emergency bonds" substituted "exceeds the debt limitation referred to in 7-7-2101" for "will exceed 11.25% of the total of the taxable value of the property in the county plus:

(a) (i) the value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(13), to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes prior to the proposed issuance of bonds;

(ii) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal years 1999 through 2008, an additional 33% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, multiplied by 11.25%; and

(iii) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(b) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2001, an additional 25% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(c) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2002, an additional 50% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(d) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 2003, an additional 75% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(e) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 2%, an additional 100% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of class six property, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 77% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(f) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 1%, an additional 94% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 11.25%; and

(g) for general obligation bonds to be issued during the fiscal year and succeeding fiscal years in which 15-6-138 is repealed, an additional 100% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 11.25%.

(2) In addition to the bonds allowed by subsection (1), a county may issue bonds for the construction or improvement of a detention center that will not exceed 12.5% of the taxable value of the property in the county subject to taxation, plus the adjustments permitted by subsection (1); and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 51 deleted former (2) that read: "(2) In addition to the bonds allowed by subsection (1), a county may issue bonds that, with all outstanding bonds and warrants, will not exceed 27.75% of the total of the taxable value of the property in the county subject to taxation, plus the value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(13), when necessary to do so, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes, plus, for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2000.

Chapter 426 in (1)(b) in temporary version and (1)(a)(ii) in July 1, 2000, version at beginning deleted "for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and"; inserted (1)(c) in temporary version and (1)(a)(iii) in July 1, 2000, version relating to taxable value of telecommunications property; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) In addition to the bonds allowed by subsection (1), a county may issue bonds that, with all outstanding bonds and warrants, will not exceed 27.75% of the total of the taxable value of the property in the county subject to taxation, plus the value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(13), when necessary to do so, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes, plus, for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995"; in (2) substituted "detention center" for "jail" and at end substituted "subsection (1)" for "7-7-2101"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 556 in (1)(b) in temporary version and (1)(a)(ii) in July 1, 2000, version at beginning deleted "for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and" and near end after "tax year 1995" deleted "in each case of class eight property"; inserted (1)(c) in temporary version and (1)(a)(iii) in July 1, 2000, version relating to taxable value attributable to electrical generation property; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) In addition to the bonds allowed by subsection (1), a county may issue bonds that, with all outstanding bonds and warrants, will not exceed 27.75% of the total of the taxable value of the property in the county subject to taxation, plus the value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(13), when necessary to do so, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes, plus, for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, and for bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995"; in (2) substituted "detention center" for "jail" and at end substituted "subsection (1)" for "7-7-2101"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Section 36, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 30, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Section 37, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Section 39(2), Ch. 556, L. 1999, provided that this section applies to fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2000.

1997 Amendments: Chapter 219 in (1), near beginning after "bonds and warrants except", deleted "county high school bonds and"; in (2), at end after "tax year 1995", deleted "and for bonds to be issued during fiscal years 1999 through 2008, an additional 33% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995, in each case of class eight property, multiplied by 27.75%, for the purpose of acquiring land for a site for county high school buildings and for erecting or acquiring buildings on the site and furnishing and equipping the buildings for county high school purposes"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Chapter 466 in (1), near middle, and (2), near beginning, substituted "15-36-324(13)" for "15-36-324(10)". Amendment effective April 30, 1997.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 23, Ch. 219, L. 1997, provided: "[This act] is effective July 1, 1997, and applies to bonds issued on or after [the effective date of this act]."

1995 Amendments: Chapter 451 in (1) and (2), after "plus the", substituted "value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(10)" for previous formula (see 1995 Session Law for text); and in (2), after "necessary to do so", deleted "plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%". Amendment effective January 1, 1996.

Chapter 570 at end of (1), after "issuance of bonds", inserted language revising county government indebtedness limitations (see 1995 Session Law for text); in middle of (2), after "multiplied by 60%", inserted language limiting bonded indebtedness for class eight property (see 1995 Session Law for text); and at end of (3) inserted "plus the adjustments permitted by 7-7-2101".

Applicability: Section 55, Ch. 451, L. 1995, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to oil and natural gas produced and sold on or after January 1, 1996."

(2) (a) [Sections 21 through 26] [7-1-2111, 7-7-2101, 7-7-2203, 7-14-2524, 7-14-2525, and 7-16-2327] apply to county fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(b) [Sections 38 through 46] [20-9-104, 20-9-141, 20-9-161, 20-9-331, 20-9-333, 20-9-501, 20-9-507, 20-10-144, and 20-10-146] apply to school fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(3) (a) An operator is subject to provisions of Title 15, chapter 23, parts 1 and 6 [part 6 now repealed]; Title 15, chapter 36; Title 15, chapter 38; and Title 82, chapter 11, part 1, as those laws read on December 31, 1995, for all oil and natural gas produced and sold by the operator before January 1, 1996. [On December 31, 1995, Title 15, ch. 36, contained only part 1, now repealed. Part 3 of that chapter became effective January 1, 1996.]

(b) Except as provided in subsection (3)(c), the payment, collection, and distribution of taxes on oil and natural gas production occurring before January 1, 1996, must be made according to the provisions of the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) governing the tax in effect on the last day of the tax period in which the activity, enterprise, or product being taxed was engaged in, took place, or was produced and sold.

(c) [Section 19] [15-36-325, now repealed] applies to the payment, collection, and distribution of the local government severance tax for oil and natural gas produced and sold after December 31, 1994, and before January 1, 1996.

(d) All taxes collected pursuant to audit or collected after the date the tax is payable under the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) must be distributed according to the statute governing allocation of the tax in effect on the date when the tax liability was incurred."

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 9 near middle of (1) and (2), after "amount of", substituted "taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production" for "interim production and new production taxes levied", inserted reference to subsection (2)(c), and after "new production" inserted "and production from horizontally completed wells"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective December 17, 1993.

Report Required: Section 21, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "The board of oil and gas conservation shall report at least once a year to the revenue oversight committee regarding the implementation of [this act]. The reports must include but are not limited to information regarding:

- (1) the methods used to determine production decline rates;
- (2) rules adopted to implement [this act];
- (3) the number of enhanced recovery projects completed or anticipated to be completed in a year; and
- (4) the number of horizontal wells completed or anticipated to be completed in a year and the method of recovery from the horizontal wells."

Severability: Section 23, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, was a severability clause.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 24, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved December 17, 1993] and applies to oil production from new or expanded enhanced recovery projects and to tax years that begin after December 31, 1993."

1989 Special Session Amendment: In (1), after "15-23-612" [now repealed], inserted "multiplied by 60%, plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%"; and in (2), after "15-23-612" [now repealed], inserted "multiplied by 60%" and after "do so" inserted "plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%". Amendment effective August 11, 1989, and applies retroactively to net proceeds taxes, severance taxes, and local government taxes on oil and gas, other than interim production and new production, produced after December 31, 1988.

1989 Amendment: At end of (4) inserted "or to bonds issued for the repayment of tax protests lost by the county"; and made minor change in grammar. Amendment effective March 21, 1989.

Effective Date — Retroactive Applicability: Section 14, Ch. 213, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved March 21, 1989] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to any tax appeal or tax paid under protest after December 31, 1983."

1987 Amendment: In (1) and (2), before "new production taxes", inserted "interim production and" and after "multiplied by 60%" inserted "plus the amount of value represented by new production exempted from tax as provided in 15-23-612".

Effective Date — Applicability — 1987 Enactment: Section 28, Ch. 655, L. 1987, provided: "This act is effective on passage and approval [approved April 13, 1987] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable quarters beginning on or after April 1, 1987. The tax rate and filing method applicable to a well that qualifies as interim production under section 10 but which did not qualify as new production under 15-23-601 [now repealed] prior to the applicability date of this act does not change for tax periods prior to the applicability date.”

1985 Amendments: Chapter 447 in (1) near beginning, after “(2)”, substituted “through (4)” for “and (3)”; in (2) at beginning, inserted “In addition to the bonds allowed by subsection (1)”, in middle, after “warrants”, deleted “will exceed 11.25% but”, reduced “37%” to “25.75%”, and after “value of” substituted “the property in the county subject to taxation” for “such property”; inserted (3) relating to bonds issued for jail improvement or construction; in (4) substituted “limitation in subsection (1)” for “foregoing limitation”.

Chapter 695 in (1) and (2) near middle, before “taxable value”, inserted “total of the”; and in (1) and (2) inserted “plus the amount of new production taxes levied divided by the appropriate tax rates described in 15-23-607(2)(a) or (2)(b) [now repealed] and multiplied by 60%”.

1981 Amendment: Increased 9% to 11.25% wherever it appears; and increased 29% to 37% in (2).

Effect of 1981 Amendment: The primary purpose of Ch. 614, L. 1981, was to replace the system of taxation of automobiles and light trucks with a fee system. With the adoption of the fee system, automobiles and light trucks are no longer taxable property. The resulting loss of taxable valuation has a direct effect on the amount of indebtedness a political subdivision can incur. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 234 in introductory clause, near middle after "general election", inserted "at an election that is conducted by mail ballot, as provided in Title 13, chapter 19"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1) inserted "held in conjunction with a regular or primary election"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendment: Near beginning, after "special election", inserted "the determination of the approval or rejection of the bond proposition is made in the following manner"; substituted (1) through (6) relating to method of determining election results (see 1989 Session Law for text) for remainder of former section that read: "not less than 40% of the registered electors entitled to vote on the question must vote thereon; otherwise, the proposition shall be considered to have been rejected.

(2) If 40% or more of the registered electors do vote on the question at the election and a majority of the votes shall be cast in favor of the proposition, then the proposition shall be considered to have been approved and adopted"; and made minor change in form.

Source: The process for determining approval or rejection of a bond proposition parallels the process described in 20-9-428 that is used in school bond elections. The 1989 amendment adopted the school bond process for county bond elections.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 253 in (1) near middle inserted "and if the board of county commissioners conducts a public sale". Amendment effective April 22, 2011.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 253, L. 2011, provided: "[This act] applies to local government actions commencing on or after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 22, 2011.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 at end of (1) substituted "adopt a resolution calling for the sale" for "at a regular or special meeting held within 30 days after the election, pass and adopt a resolution providing for the issuance"; in (2), after "resolution", inserted "calling for the sale of the bonds" and at end substituted "state" for "recite"; deleted former (2)(c) that read: "(c) the maximum rate of interest the bonds may bear"; inserted (2)(c) concerning minimum purchase price; in (2)(f), after "optional", inserted "redemption"; inserted (2)(g) concerning form of notice; in (3) deleted former first sentence that read: "The resolution must provide for the manner of the execution of the bonds" and in first sentence, after "citizen bonds", deleted "preference must be given to amortization bonds, but it must"; substituted (4) concerning minimum price for the bonds for former text that read: "The resolution must adopt a form of notice of the sale of the bonds"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 13, 1995.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 559 in second sentence of (3), before "preference", inserted "except in a bond issue of citizen bonds"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 28, 1993.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of (1), after "If", substituted "a sufficient percentage" for "it is found that at the bonding election 40% or more", near middle substituted "sufficient percentage" for "majority", and after "such bonds" inserted "as provided in 7-7-2237"; and made minor change in phraseology.

Case Notes

Resolution for Bond Issue — Compliance With Statute: In view of the purpose of Ch. 24, L. Ex. Session 1933-34 (omitted), i.e., to permit counties to secure the benefits of the National Industrial Recovery Act by borrowing money from the federal government for emergency relief, and the fact that it was apparent at the time the act was passed that the conditions and requirements of the government would conflict with the general laws of the state with relation to issuance and sale of bonds, failure of a Board of County Commissioners strictly to comply with the provisions of this section and 7-7-2251 as to the form of resolution to be passed by it providing for the issuance of bonds voted to obtain a federal loan was not fatal to their validity; having followed those provisions as closely as it was possible for it to do and at the same time conform to the requirements of the federal government, the Board's action was sufficient; so far as not in harmony with the federal requirements, this section and 7-7-2251 must be held inapplicable. Shekelton v. Toole County, 97 M 213, 33 P2d 531 (1934).

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 253, L. 2011, provided: "[This act] applies to local government actions commencing on or after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 22, 2011.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 in form of notice, in first paragraph near end, substituted "general obligation bonds" for "either amortization or serial bonds"; deleted former second and third paragraphs that read: "Amortization bonds will be the first choice and serial bonds will be the second choice of the board."

If amortization bonds are sold and issued, the entire issue may be put into one single bond or divided into several bonds, as the board may determine at the time of sale, both principal and interest to be payable in semiannual installments during a period of ... years from the date of issue"; in second paragraph, before "amount", inserted "aggregate principal" and at end inserted parenthetical concerning amortization bonds; in third paragraph, near beginning after "bonds", deleted "whether amortization or serial bonds", after "bear" inserted "an original issue", and after "interest" deleted "at a rate not exceeding ...% per annum"; in fourth paragraph, after "less than", deleted "their par value", after "interest" inserted "on the principal amount of the bonds", after "bonds at" substituted "the purchase price specified for the bonds" for "par", and inserted parenthetical concerning interest rate; in fifth paragraph, after "bids", deleted "other than by or on behalf of the board of investments of the state of Montana" and substituted parenthetical concerning bid security for "a certified check"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 13, 1995.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 559 inserted (2) allowing the form of notice to be modified to accommodate citizen bonds; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 28, 1993.

1983 Amendments — Composite: Chapter 11 made permanent 1981 amendment that allowed political subdivisions to set the interest rates on bonds. (Amendment was to terminate July 1, 1983—sec. 21, Ch. 500, L. 1981.) The 1981 amendment was made permanent on February 4, 1983.

Chapter 631, in first paragraph of "Notice of Sale" form before "amount" substituted "principal" for "total"; in fourth paragraph of notice substituted provision for amount of serial bonds and inclusion of maturity schedule for "If serial bonds are issued and sold, they will be in the amount of dollars ($....) each, except the last bond which will be in the amount of dollars ($....); the sum of dollars ($....) of the said serial bonds will become payable on the day of, 19.., and a like amount on the same day each year thereafter until all of such bonds are paid, except that the last installment will be in the amount of dollars ($....)."; and in fifth paragraph of notice after "...% per annum" inserted "commencing on the ... day of ... (month), 19 .., and" and after "year" inserted "thereafter".

Chapter 631 amended the version of the section that set the interest rate at 6% per annum. The Code Commissioner has made the amendments contained in Ch. 631 to the version of the section made permanent by Ch. 11. Chapter 631 is effective October 1, 1983.

1981 Amendment: Changed "6%" to "....%" in the sixth paragraph.

When Investment of Bond Proceeds in Government Securities Authorized: Money in a sinking fund is not available for investment if any of the bonds for which the sinking fund was established are not yet due but are then redeemable under optional provisions. While investment in government securities is authorized under 7-7-123, it is authorized only to the extent that the sinking fund is not needed for payment of the bonds or interest. Therefore, excess bond proceeds may not be retained in a separate fund and invested without first using the proceeds to calculate the amount of annual tax levy for a sinking fund. Case Notes

Bonds for Health Care Facility Not Subject to Voter Approval: When Toole County proposed to borrow $1.7 million to construct a county hospital and nursing home, plaintiff sued, alleging that the county could not borrow money without first submitting the bond proposal to the voters for approval. Affirming the District Court decision, the Supreme Court ruled that the indebtedness for the repayment of bonds for the proposed health care facility is not indebtedness of the county for which an election is required under this section. State ex rel. Lovins v. Toole County, 278 M 253, 924 P2d 693, 53 St. Rep. 887 (1996).

Emergency Budget for General Relief Not for "Single Purpose" Requiring Electors' Approval: County Commissioners establishment of an emergency budget under 7-6-2341 through 7-6-2345 (7-6-2341, 7-6-2342, 7-6-2343, and 7-6-2345 now repealed) for general relief purposes in the amount of $15,000, without approval of the electors, is not creating an indebtedness or liability for a "single purpose" in excess of $10,000 (see 1991, 1997, and 2007 amendments) without such approval within the inhibition of this section since the entire debt for all relief purposes cannot be regarded as a single purpose but arises by virtue of many separate and distinct purposes, founded on a duty expressly imposed in normal functioning of county. State ex rel. Nelson v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 111 M 395, 109 P2d 1106 (1941).

Approval of Electors:

The Board of County Commissioners cannot borrow money to refund outstanding indebtedness exceeding $10,000 (see 1991, 1997, and 2007 amendments), by the issuance of bonds or otherwise, without having first obtained the approval of the electors of the county. Edwards v. Lewis & Clark County, 53 M 359, 165 P 297 (1917).

"The approval of a majority of the electors" and "a majority of the votes cast" are the same. The approval of a majority of the electors voting at an election to determine whether a proposed indebtedness shall be incurred was sufficient to legalize a bond issue. Morse v. Granite County, 44 M 78, 119 P 286 (1911).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Authorized to Incur Debt or Borrow Without Election: A county is authorized under 7-7-2101 to incur a liability or indebtedness up to $500,000 or, pursuant to this section, to borrow up to $10,000 (see 1991 and 1997 amendments) without an election. An installment purchase contract is not a "borrowing of money" within the meaning of this section. A municipality is not required to hold an election to borrow money by a method other than issuing bonds, but it is limited by 7-7-4201 to a 28% debt ceiling. 42 A.G. Op. 13 (1987).

7-7-2403. Determination of amount of loan.

Case Notes

Necessity of Loan: Upon submitting the question of a bond issue to the voters, the determination by the Board of the amount of the issue is a necessary prerequisite to the validity of subsequent proceedings, and in so doing the Board may proceed upon its own initiative and determine the necessity of the loan, without waiting for the filing of a petition. Morse v. Granite County, 44 M 78, 119 P 286 (1911).

Question Submitted to Electors: Where the Board of County Commissioners has determined the amount necessary for the general purpose of a proposed bond issue, such as the erection of a courthouse, it is not required, before submitting the question to a vote, to ascertain the cost of a suitable site for the building or that of the necessary furnishings. Morse v. Granite County, 44 M 78, 119 P 286 (1911).

7-7-2404. Notice of election.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted "in accordance with 13-1-108" for "in all respects in the manner prescribed by law in regard to the submission of questions to the electors of a locality under the general election law"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Case Notes

Sufficiency of Notice: The provision of this section that the notice of election shall clearly state the object of the loan means the general object of the loan. It is not necessary to specify all of the details. So long as a reasonably comprehensive notice is given, the courts have no power to declare it insufficient. Reid v. Lincoln County, 46 M 31, 125 P 429 (1912). See Mansur v. Polson, 45 M 585, 125 P 1002 (1912).

7-7-2405. Form of ballots.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted current language regarding language on election ballot for "There must be written or printed on the ballots the words "For the loan" and "Against the loan”, and in voting, the elector shall vote for the proposition that the elector prefers by making an X opposite the proposition.” Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Nature and Purpose of Loan: In an election held for the incurring of indebtedness by the issue of bonds for the erection and furnishing of a county courthouse, ballots on which were printed the words “for the loan” and “against the loan”, without specifying the nature and purpose of the proposed loan, were held sufficient. Reid v. Lincoln County, 46 M 31, 125 P 429 (1912); Tinkel v. Griffin, 26 M 426, 68 P 859 (1902).

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted current language referencing Title 13, chapter 1, part 4, for “The election must be held and conducted and the returns must be made in all respects in the manner prescribed by law in regard to the submission of questions to the electors of a locality under the general election law.” Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Case Notes

Authority of Electors: A constitutional restriction that a Board of County Commissioners shall not incur any indebtedness or liability above a designated amount is a limitation upon the authority of the Board; it has no reference to the power of the people. Reid v. Lincoln County, 46 M 31, 125 P 429 (1912).

Application of Section: This section has no reference to the printed form of the ballot but merely requires that the provisions of the general election law touching the qualifications of the voters, the appointment of judges and clerks, the secrecy of the ballot, and the method of voting should be observed. Tinkel v. Griffin, 26 M 426, 68 P 859 (1902).

1989 Amendment: Inserted (9) authorizing city or town council to contract to borrow money or issue bonds to repay lost tax protests. Amendment effective March 21, 1989.

Effective Date — Retroactive Applicability: Section 14, Ch. 213, L. 1989, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved March 21, 1989] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to any tax appeal or tax paid under protest after December 31, 1983."

Case Notes

Street Improvements: This section does not authorize the city or town to incur indebtedness or issue bonds to carry out the power granted by 7-14-4101 or 7-16-4101. Dietrich v. Deer Lodge, 124 M 8, 218 P2d 708 (1950).

Application of Section: This section refers only to the contracting of an indebtedness in addition to the "then outstanding indebtedness of the city". Parker v. Butte, 58 M 531, 193 P 748 (1920).

Attorney General's Opinions

Long-Term Lease With Contractual Nonappropriation Clause Not Considered Accumulation of Municipal Debt — Vote Not Required: A question arose regarding the applicability of laws regulating municipal government debt based on a proposal by the city of Great Falls to enter a contract for the development and operation of a water park. Under the arrangement, the city would enter a long-term lease to a private party of real property adjacent to the municipal swimming pool and concurrently lease from that party certain personal property to be used for the water park. The personalty lease would include an option for the city to purchase the personal property at the close of the lease terms and a nonappropriation clause under which the personalty lease would terminate without penalty to the city if the city chose not to appropriate funds for the lease payment in any fiscal year, in which case possession of the personal property would revert to the lessor, who would retain possession under a separate realty lease until that lease expired. The Attorney General concluded that such an arrangement did not create a debt and thus would not violate provisions of state law limiting the accumulation of debt by municipal governments. Further, the city's proposal would not pledge the taxing power of the city to make the full term of lease payments and therefore would not qualify as an obligation for which the general credit of the city is pledged that would require a vote of the people under 7-7-4221. 49 A.G. Op. 3 (2001), distinguishing 38 A.G. Op. 56 (1979). 38 A.G. Op. 56 was overruled in 52 A.G. Op. 3 (2007).

County Authorized to Incur Debt or Borrow Without Election: A county is authorized under 7-7-2101 to incur a liability or indebtedness up to $500,000 or, pursuant to 7-7-2402, to borrow up to $10,000 (see 1991 and 1997 amendments) without an election. An installment purchase contract is not a "borrowing of money" within the meaning of 7-7-2402. A municipality is not required to hold an election to borrow money by a method other than issuing bonds, but it is limited by 7-7-4201 to a 28% debt ceiling. 42 A.G. Op. 13 (1987).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Municipal Construction of Storm Sewers With Gas Tax Revenues — Sinking Fund for General Obligation Bonds Allowed: Where a city was authorized to use its gasoline tax allocation for construction of storm sewers and drains for draining city streets, it could also place the money allocated in a sinking fund used to pay general obligation bonds sold to finance construction of those sewers, as the only statutory restriction on the use of the funds is that the funds must be used exclusively for city streets. Nor do the statutes governing municipal financing prohibit the use of such money in a sinking fund for general obligation bonds. 40 A.G. Op. 19 (1983).

Paying a Consultant Prohibited: Section 7-7-4254(3) prohibits a municipality from paying a consultant for assistance or advice in any of the matters set forth in Title 7, ch. 7, part 42, relating to the issuance and sale of specific general obligation bonds, but it does not prohibit paying a consultant for assistance in matters involving the overall financial operation of the municipality, so long as the consultation is not limited to a simple bond issuance and sale and does not involve participation in specific bond proceedings. The prohibition is not limited to payment from the actual bond proceeds but includes all funds of the municipality. 38 A.G. Op. 34 (1979).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 29 in (1) near beginning after "provided" inserted "in 7-7-4202", near middle after "unpaid indebtedness" substituted "exceeds 1.51% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "will exceed 28% of the taxable value of the property", and at end after "taxes" deleted "plus";

(a) for bonds to be issued or other indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal years 1999 through 2008, an additional 33% of the taxable value of class eight property within the city or town for tax year 1995, multiplied by 28%; and

(b) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the city or town for tax year 1999, multiplied by 28%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the city or town for tax year 1999, multiplied by 28%"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 426 in (1)(a) at beginning deleted "for bonds to be issued or other indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1997, an additional 11% of the taxable value of class eight property within the city or town for tax year 1995, for bonds to be issued or other indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the city or town for tax year 1995, and"; inserted (1)(b) relating to taxable value of telecommunications property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 556 in (1)(a) at beginning deleted "for bonds to be issued or other indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the city or town for tax year 1995, and for bonds to be issued or other indebtedness to be incurred during fiscal years 1999 through 2008, an additional 33% of the taxable value of class eight property within the city or town for tax year 1995, and" and near end after "for tax year 1995" deleted "in each case of class eight property"; inserted (1)(b) regarding taxable valuation attributable to electrical generation property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Section 39(2), Ch. 556, L. 1999, provided that this section applies to fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2000.

Severability: Section 37, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 570 in middle of (1), after “county taxes”, inserted language limiting bonded indebtedness for class eight property for city or town (see 1995 Session Law for text); and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendment: Inserted (3) providing that limitation of indebtedness does not apply to bonds issued to repay lost tax protests. Amendment effective March 21, 1989.

Effective Date — Retroactive Applicability: Section 14, Ch. 213, L. 1989, provided: “[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved March 21, 1989] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to any tax appeal or tax paid under protest after December 31, 1983.”

1981 Amendment: Increased 18% to 28% in (1).

Effect of 1981 Amendment: The primary purpose of Ch. 614, L. 1981, was to replace the system of taxation of automobiles and light trucks with a fee system. With the adoption of the fee system, automobiles and light trucks are no longer taxable property. The resulting loss of taxable valuation has a direct effect on the amount of indebtedness a political subdivision can incur. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

Case Notes

Purpose of Limitation: The purpose of the limitation in matters of indebtedness contained in this section is to prevent extravagance, and such provisions should be so construed as to accomplish the desired end so far as possible. Butler v. Andrus, 35 M 575, 90 P 785 (1907).

Municipal Grant of Public Funds to Authority Created by Interlocal Agreement Between Self-Governing Municipalities Lawful — Debt Obligations: A self-governing municipality may grant funds for the public purpose of operating the electric and natural gas utility. Debt incurred through corporate bonds issued by a public benefit nonprofit corporation incorporated by an authority created by interlocal agreement between self-governing municipalities is not subject to laws governing municipal debts or obligations if the municipalities are not legally obligated to appropriate money to pay the debt and the debt is without recourse to the spending power of the municipalities. 51 A.G. Thus it was necessary in Ch. 614 to increase the percentage of taxable valuation used as a limitation on indebtedness to offset the loss of taxable valuation attributable to automobiles and light trucks.

Case Notes

Retirement of Bonded Indebtedness: The contention by defendant town that since it was levying the maximum amount of taxes allowable under 7-6-4405 (now repealed), it could not levy a tax each year to pay interest on water bonds and create a sinking fund, was without merit. The levy under 7-6-4405 (now repealed) is for general, municipal, or administrative purposes, while under this section, a special tax may be levied in addition to that provided for herein to retire bonded indebtedness and interest on such bonds. State ex rel. Mueller v. Todd, 114 M 35, 132 P2d 154 (1942).

When City Estopped to Claim Funded Debt Invalid: A city, after extending the limit of its indebtedness to acquire a water supply and system beyond the 3% constitutional limit under Art. XIII, sec. 6, 1889 Mont. Const. (replaced by Art. VIII, sec. 10, 1972 Mont. Const.), to the extent of $25,000, issued registered warrants aggregating $75,000 without authorization by its voters, then funded the indebtedness by selling bonds to retire the warrants. The bonds recited that all proper steps had been taken to make them legal obligations of the city. The Supreme Court held that the city was estopped from questioning the bonds' validity and refusing further payment after 18 years by claiming the bonds were invalid on constitutional grounds. Clerihew v. Baker, 109 M 317, 96 P2d 269 (1939), distinguished in State ex rel. Truax v. Lima, 121 M 152, 193 P2d 1008 (1948).

Water System — Contract for Installation: Town could not lawfully contract for installation of water system in excess of the debt limitation without approval of taxpayers. Lumbermen's Trust Co. v. Ryegate, 50 F2d 219 (9th Cir. 1931).

Additional Indebtedness: Authority of a city to incur indebtedness beyond the 3% limit for the purpose of rendering or maintaining its water supply wholesome and fit for the purpose intended is clearly implied, if not expressly conferred. McClintock v. Great Falls, 53 M 221, 163 P 99 (1917).

Water System — Subject to P.S.C. Control: A city which has acquired a water supply by resorting to the extended limit of indebtedness is not thereby exempted from control and regulation by the state through the agency of the Public Service Commission. P.S.C. v. Helena, 52 M 527, 159 P 24 (1916).

Water System: In the ownership and control of its water system, a city acts in its proprietary character, as distinguished from its governmental capacity. P.S.C. v. Helena, 52 M 527, 159 P 24 (1916); Helena Consol. Water Co. v. Steele, 20 M 1, 49 P 382 (1897).

Attorney General's Opinions

Municipal Grant of Public Funds to Authority Created by Interlocal Agreement Between Self-Governing Municipalities Lawful — Debt Obligations: A self-governing municipality may grant funds for the public purpose of operating the electric and natural gas utility. Debt incurred through corporate bonds issued by a public benefit nonprofit corporation incorporated by an authority created by interlocal agreement between self-governing municipalities is not subject to laws governing municipal debts or obligations if the municipalities are not legally obligated to appropriate money to pay the debt and the debt is without recourse to the spending power of the municipalities. 51 A.G. Op. 5 (2005). See also 48 A.G. Op. 12 (2000), and 49 A.G. Op. 3 (2001).

Long-Term Lease With Contractual Nonappropriation Clause Not Considered Accumulation of Municipal Debt — Vote Not Required: A question arose regarding the applicability of laws regulating municipal government debt based on a proposal by the city of Great Falls to enter a contract for the development and operation of a water park. Under the arrangement, the city would enter a long-term lease to a private party of real property adjacent to the municipal swimming pool and concurrently lease from that party certain personal property to be used for the water park. The personalty lease would include an option for the city to purchase the personal property at the close of the lease terms and a nonappropriation clause under which the personalty lease would terminate without penalty to the city if the city chose not to appropriate funds for the lease payment in any fiscal year, in which case possession of the personal property would revert to the lessor, who would retain possession under a separate realty lease until that lease expired. The Attorney General concluded that such an arrangement did not create a debt and thus would not violate provisions of state law limiting the accumulation of debt by municipal governments. Further, the city's proposal would not pledge the taxing power of the city to make the full term of lease payments and therefore would not qualify as an obligation for which the general credit of the city is pledged that would require a vote of the people under this section. 49 A.G. Op. 3 (2001), distinguishing 38 A.G. Op. 56 (1979). 38 A.G. Op. 56 was overruled in 52 A.G. Op. 3 (2007).

Election Required to Issue Bonds to Furnish Swimming Pool: An election is required pursuant to 7-7-4221 to issue general obligation bonds for the purpose of furnishing a municipal swimming pool; however, there is no statutory requirement for an election to borrow money for that purpose by means other than issuing general obligation bonds. 41 A.G. Op. 73 (1986).

7-7-4222. Election required for bond issue relating to water and sewer systems.

Compiler's Comments

1993 Amendment: Chapter 73 at beginning substituted "Bonds backed by the full faith and credit of the city or town and" for "No money must be borrowed on bonds" and after "system" inserted "may not be issued".

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 after “city or town” deleted “at a general election, at an election that is conducted by mail ballot, as provided in Title 13, chapter 19, or at a special election that is held in conjunction with a regular or primary election”. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 190 at end of section substituted “by a majority of the votes cast on the issue” for former language regarding procedure for determination on bond approval or rejection that read: “(1) determine the total number of electors who were qualified to vote in the bond election;

(2) determine the total number of qualified electors who voted in the bond election from the tally sheet or sheets for the election;

(3) calculate the percentage of qualified electors voting at the bond election by dividing the number determined in subsection (2) by the number determined in subsection (1); and

(4) when the calculated percentage in subsection (3) is 40% or more, the bond proposition is considered approved and adopted if a majority of the votes cast were in favor of the proposition, otherwise it is considered rejected; or

(5) when the calculated percentage in subsection (3) is more than 30% but less than 40%, the bond proposition is considered approved and adopted if 60% or more of the votes cast were in favor of the proposition, otherwise it is considered rejected; or

(6) when the calculated percentage in subsection (3) is 30% or less, the bond proposition is considered rejected”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 26, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 234 in introductory clause, near middle after “general election”, inserted “at an election that is conducted by mail ballot, as provided in Title 13, chapter 19”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1) inserted “held in conjunction with a regular or primary election”; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendment: Near beginning, after “special election”, inserted “the determination of the approval or rejection of the bond proposition is made in the following manner”; and substituted (1) through (6) relating to method of determining election results (see 1989 Session Law for text) for remainder of former section that read: “not less than 40% of the registered electors entitled to vote on the proposition or question must vote thereon; otherwise, the proposition shall be considered to have been rejected.”

(2) If 40% or more of the registered electors do vote on the proposition or question at the election and a majority of the votes are cast in favor of the question or proposition, then the proposition or question shall be considered to have been adopted and approved.”

Source: The process for determining the approval or rejection of a bond proposition parallels the process described in 20-9-428 that is used in school bond elections. The 1989 amendment adopted the school bond process for county bond elections.

Case Notes

Private Sale of Bonds: Under this section, authorizing the City Council to reject all bids for municipal bonds and to sell them at private sale when it considers it best for the interests of the city, a city may contract to exchange such bonds at their face value for work incident to the construction of a water system at an agreed valuation, the price of the work being determined by a bid which is accepted, such an arrangement being tantamount to a "sale" of the bonds. Commonwealth Pub. Serv. Co. v. Deer Lodge, 96 M 48, 29 P2d 667 (1934).

Attorney General's Opinions

Paying a Consultant Prohibited: Prior to 1983 amendment, 7-7-4254(3) prohibited a municipality from paying a consultant for assistance or advice in any of the matters set forth in Title 7, ch. 7, part 42, relating to the issuance and sale of specific general obligation bonds, but it did not prohibit paying a consultant for assistance in matters involving the overall financial operation of the municipality, so long as the consultation was not limited to a simple bond issuance and sale and did not involve participation in specific bond proceedings. The prohibition was not limited to payment from the actual bond proceeds but included all funds of the municipality. 38 A.G. Op. 34 (1979).

1993 Amendment: Chapter 453 near beginning substituted "bonds to be" for "bonds paid and", after "7-7-4268" substituted "may" for "must", before "redeemed" deleted "paid and", and at end substituted "order the city treasurer or city clerk selects, consistent with the provisions of the resolution authorizing the issuance of the bonds" for "numerical order in which the same were issued".

Case Notes

No Mandamus to Compel Payment Out of Order: When a town ordinance directed that water bonds be issued and be absolutely due and payable in series set forth in a schedule showing on what day each should be payable, and the holder of bond No. 13 sought by Writ of Mandate to compel payment thereof when bonds numbered 1 to 12 also were due and unpaid, the Supreme Court held that purchasers of municipal bonds are charged with notice of the contents of ordinances under which they were issued, as well as by those of the bonds themselves and that all such bonds were required to be paid in the order of their serial numbers, and such holder was not entitled to prevail. (See 1993 amendment.) State ex rel. Mueller v. Todd, 114 M 35, 132 P2d 154 (1942).

1983 Amendment: Made 1981 amendment permanent. (Amendment was to terminate July 1, 1983—sec. 21, Ch. 500, L. 1981.)

1981 Amendment: Substituted "pursuant to 17-5-102" for "but the interest shall not exceed 6% per annum" at the end of the first sentence in (2).

Part 43

Municipal Refunding General Obligation Bonds

7-7-4301. Authorization to issue refunding general obligation bonds.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 at end inserted "when there are not sufficient funds available to pay the outstanding warrants or maturing bonds or when there is a reduction in debt service as a result of refunding pursuant to 7-7-4304"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 13, 1995.

Case Notes

Recital by City — All Conditions Precedent Fulfilled: As against innocent purchasers of city bonds, the authority on the part of its officers having power to issue them will be implied to extend to the making of recitals therein essential to their validity, i.e., that all conditions precedent to their issuance have been fulfilled; and where they recite that the City Council has caused the corporate seal to be affixed to them and the signatures of the Mayor and the Clerk attached, the city is estopped to contend that they were signed by those officers without authority. Edmunds v. Glasgow, 89 M 596, 300 P 203 (1931).

7-7-4302. Applicability of certain other bond provisions.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 in (1) deleted reference to 7-7-4267; and inserted (2) concerning unrefunded portion of outstanding bond issue. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 13, 1995.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 6 near end deleted reference to 7-7-4253.

1987 Amendment: At beginning of section deleted references to 7-7-4207 and 7-7-4271.

1983 Amendment: After "7-7-4210 and" changed "7-7-4251" to "7-7-4255"; and at end of section inserted "however" clause allowing city or town council to sell bonds at its option.

7-7-4304. Interest rate on refunding general obligation bonds.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendment: Chapter 451 in (2) inserted second sentence regarding variable rate refunding bonds. Amendment effective April 28, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 277 in (1) at end inserted second sentence concerning savings requirement; inserted (1)(a) and (1)(b) concerning the determination of whether refunding bonds satisfy the savings requirement of this section; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 inserted (3) concerning amount of refunding bonds. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 13, 1995.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of (1) inserted exception clause; inserted (2) allowing issuance of refunding bonds at an interest rate in excess of the rate on refunded bonds if issuance results in a reduction of total debt service cost; and made minor changes in style and phraseology. Amendment effective March 8, 1989.

7-7-4311. Procedure to issue refunding general obligation bonds.

Compiler's Comments

1983 Amendment: At end of section after "thereof" substituted "including whether the bonds will be sold at a private negotiated sale or public sale" for "giving notice of sale thereof in the same manner that notice is required to be given of sale of bonds authorized at an election and then following the procedure in part 42 for the sale and issuance of such bonds".

7-7-4316. Advance refunding bonds.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 277 in (2) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (3) allowing funds to be invested if they are sufficient when initially deposited in escrow; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

Part 44 Municipal Revenue Bonds

7-7-4402. Definitions.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 248 in definition of undertaking inserted (e) to include streets and roads; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 16, 2009.

Chapter 265 in definition of undertaking inserted (g) concerning public transportation systems; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

1991 Amendment: In definition of undertaking, in (e), inserted "solid waste management systems". Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Saving Clause: Section 32, Ch. 770, L. 1991, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 33, Ch. 770, L. 1991, was a severability clause.

7-7-4404. Authority to acquire, construct, maintain, and operate various undertakings.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 125 near beginning of (1) after "construct" deleted "acquire by gift, purchase, or the exercise of the right of eminent domain" and after "eminent domain" inserted reference to Title 70, chapter 30; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

Case Notes

System Development Fees Allowable Form of Financing Future Expansion of City Water and Sewer System: When liberally construed, it is within the power of a self-governing municipality, as well as a reasonable extension of a city's express statutory authority, to implement the collection and accumulation of system development fees to fund a portion of the cost of future expansion of municipal water and sewer systems. The fees are proper as long as they are based on reasonably anticipated future costs of the city and the revenue generated from the fees is used solely to fund facility expansion or to pay for bonds sold for that purpose. Lechner v. Billings, 244 M 195, 797 P2d 191, 47 St. Rep. 1512 (1990).

Public Service Commission Jurisdiction Over Municipally Owned Utility: The ratesetting authority of a municipality under the Municipal Revenue Bond Act of 1939 does not preclude Public Service Commission (P.S.C.) jurisdiction over municipally owned utilities. Municipalities do establish rates for their services as required by 7-7-4404 and 7-7-4424 when they comply with the P.S.C. reporting requirements set forth in 69-3-301 and 69-3-302. The regulatory authority of the P.S.C. does not diminish a municipality's ability to establish an initial rate schedule, and nothing in the Municipal Revenue Bond Act precludes a review of such rate determinations. The Legislature intended such a review process by the very creation of such a regulatory and supervisory body. Helena v. Dept. of Public Service Regulation, 194 M 173, 634 P2d 192, 38 St. Rep. 1560 (1981).

Jurisdiction of City and Public Service Commission Overlapping: Although under the Municipal Revenue Bond Act the petitioner (city of Billings) has the power to prescribe fees for the services, facilities, and commodities furnished by a project financed pursuant to the Act, this authority is not exclusive. The rates which the city sets are subject to modification by the Public Service Commission when such rates are unjust or unreasonable. Billings v. P.S.C., 193 M 358, 631 P2d 1295, 38 St. Rep. 1162 (1981).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 489 inserted (2) concerning tax credit bonds, recovery zone economic development bonds, or qualified energy conservation bonds; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 14, 2009.

Authority General's Opinions

Street Construction Projects Prohibited: Although gasoline tax revenue is earmarked for construction and maintenance of city streets, a street project does not qualify under this section because streets are not "revenue-producing facilities". The connection between street paving and gasoline tax revenue is not direct enough to render the "other revenue-producing facilities" exception applicable. Cities and towns are prohibited from issuing revenue bonds, which are to be retired by gasoline tax revenue, to finance street construction projects. 42 A.G. Op. 120 (1988).

Authority General's Opinions

Reimbursement of Financial Consultant for Bond Issuance: A financial consultant may not receive a commission based on the value of bonds purchased by it for services performed in connection with a municipal revenue bond offering and sale to the extent the commission, when subtracted from the purchase price of the bonds, reduces the bonds' effective selling price below par value. (See 1995 amendment.) 41 A.G. Op. 4 (1985).

7-7-4424. Undertakings to be self-supporting.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 248 in (1)(a) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (1)(c) providing that revenue from assessments and fees enacted by local ordinance constitutes revenue of the undertaking and may not result in an undertaking being considered not self-supporting; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 16, 2009.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 423 in (1) inserted second sentence concerning taxes constituting revenue of the undertaking; in (2), after "prescribed", inserted "along with any appropriated property or resort tax collections"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 13, 1995.

Applicability: Section 53, Ch. 423, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued under the provisions of [this act] after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 13, 1995.

Municipal Refunding Revenue Bonds

Option 2

7-7-4602. Definitions.

Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 42 deleted former definition of federal agency that read: "'Federal agency" means the United States, the president of the United States, the federal emergency administrator of public works, or any agency, instrumentality, or corporation of the United States designated or created by or pursuant to any act or joint resolution of the congress of the United States or directly or indirectly owned or controlled by the United States"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

Section Not Codified: Section 79-1902, R.C.M. 1947, providing that the singular shall include the plural and vice versa and words importing persons include firms and corporations, was not codified in the MCA because it is redundant with 1-2-105. This subsection has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 2, Ch. 121, L. 1937. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

7-8-101. Authorization to transfer property between certain governmental entities.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (2) in first sentence substituted "as provided in 7-1-4127" for "once a week for 3 weeks in a newspaper published in such city or town or county in which located"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1985 Amendment: In (1) substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "once a week for 3 weeks in a newspaper published in such city, town, or county in which located".

7-8-103. Authorization for governmental and public entities to take property by gift or devise — restriction.

Compiler's Comments

2023 Amendment: See 2023 Session Law for amendment made by sec. 2, Ch. 325, L. 2023. Amendment effective October 1, 2023.

Severability: Section 5, Ch. 325, L. 2023, was a severability clause.

Case Notes

Lease to Private Club: Where property was conveyed to city in trust for use for park, recreational ground, and golf course purposes, a part of it could not be leased to private club so as to interfere with the public's use of the property. Hames v. Polson, 123 M 469, 215 P2d 950 (1950).

Grantor — Removal of Restrictions by Waiver: Lands deeded to a city for park purposes by deeds providing for reversion to the grantors if used for any other purpose may be used for some other purpose upon obtaining waiver, quitclaim deed, or unconditional deed from the owner of the reversionary interest, removing the restriction, whereupon the city will own the fee and use the property as it sees fit. Lloyd v. Great Falls, 107 M 442, 86 P2d 395 (1938).

Acceptance of Trust: Where at the time of the death of a testator who bequeathed property to a town for library purposes the law did not provide a method by which the municipality could accept the donation but later, after the estate had been distributed and the decree of distribution had become final by failure of appeal therefrom and the trust created thereby became effective, the Legislature enacted a statute under which a town could accept, the trust was not subject to attack on the ground of the town's former incapacity to accept. Cascade v. Cascade County, 75 M 304, 243 P 806 (1926).

Construction of Section: This section conferring the right upon cities to accept, by gift, deed, or devise, land for a public park does not by implication clothe it with power to condemn land for a public road leading thereto. State ex rel. McLeod v. District Court, 67 M 164, 215 P 240 (1923).

7-8-105. Authorization to dispose of certain property in possession of local law enforcement.

Part 21County Buildings and Equipment

7-8-2101. Provision of rooms for county purposes.

Case Notes

Failure to Provide Suitable Rooms: The office of County Auditor is an important one with many duties, and its proper fulfillment requires proper housing, help, and equipment. The act of the County Commissioners in furnishing the County Auditor as an office an 8- by 22-foot partitioned space, with no windows, insufficient ventilation, and only artificial lighting, was an abuse of discretion and an arbitrary act. State ex rel. Taylor v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 128 M 102, 270 P2d 994 (1954). (Dissenting opinion, 128 M 102, 270 P2d 994 (1954).)

Provision of Suitable Rooms for County Purposes:

The matter of leasing privately owned property under power granted the Board of County Commissioners by this section is one addressed to the sound judgment and discretion of the Board. Bennett v. Petroleum County, 87 M 436, 288 P 1018 (1930).

The provision of this section, granting power to the Board of County Commissioners to provide suitable rooms "when there are no necessary county buildings", refers to a present proprietorship of such buildings by a county and not to property temporarily held and used under lease for county purposes. Bennett v. Petroleum County, 87 M 436, 288 P 1018 (1930).

Attorney General's Opinions

Provision of Office Space and Equipment by County for Part-Time County Attorney: A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide office space for a part-time County Attorney by providing space in a county building or, if no suitable space is available, by renting office space. Use of the space for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the space for private business purposes. Alternatively, the governing body may allow a claim by the County Attorney for the rental of office space needed to conduct the county's business if suitable office space is not available in county buildings. A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide necessary equipment for a part-time County Attorney by providing the use of the equipment owned by the county or, if no suitable equipment is available, by renting equipment. Use of the equipment for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the equipment for private business purposes. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995), followed in 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996).

7-8-2102. Erection and maintenance of county buildings.Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment: Chapter 520 near middle substituted "health care facility" for "hospital"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 25, 1995.

Case Notes

Contract Beyond Term of Office: The Board of County Commissioners has authority under this statute to build a recreation center and pursuant to this authority may enter into a construction contract that extends beyond the terms of office of the individual members of the Board. Yovetich v. McClintock, 165 M 80, 526 P2d 999 (1974).

Attorney General's Opinions

No County Authority to Provide Housing to Low-Income Elderly: A county with general government powers does not have the authority under Art. XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const., or this section to construct or maintain an apartment complex for elderly low-income citizens that does not otherwise constitute a boarding or nursing home under 7-34-2301 and that does not constitute a public building under this section. Instead, a county or municipal housing authority should be created under Title 7, ch. 15, parts 21 or 44, to provide such housing. 42 A.G. Op. 20 (1987).

7-8-2103. Authorization to create county building commission.Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 520 in (1), in first sentence, substituted "health care facilities" for "hospitals"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 25, 1995. The amendment by Ch. 543 rendered the amendment in (1) void.

Chapter 543 near beginning, after "create a", inserted "building" and after "commission" substituted "subject to the provisions of 7-1-201 through 7-1-203" for remainder of section that read: "for the management of such civic center, youth center, park buildings, museums, county parks, recreation centers, hospitals, or any combination of two or more thereof. Such commission shall be composed of the chairman of the board of county commissioners and five lay members to be appointed by the board. In cases where a commission has been appointed, the commission, together with the board, shall have the power to employ a manager.

(2) The terms of office for the first lay members of the commission shall be, respectively, one for 1 year, two for 2 years, and two for 3 years. On the expiration of such terms of figures 1, 2, and 3 years, their successors shall hold for 3 years each.

(3) All of the above persons shall serve without compensation"; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Park Board Not Legislative Body or Agent for Legislative Body: The trial court dismissed the plaintiffs' wrongful termination case on the basis that the park board was a legislative body immune from suit. The Supreme Court reversed the decision, stating that the board performed statutory executive functions and therefore was not a legislative body. The Supreme Court also ruled that the board was not an agent of the County Commissioners with respect to the employment of the plaintiffs and was not immune from suit on that basis. Koch v. Yellowstone County, 243 M 447, 795 P2d 454, 47 St. Rep. 1312 (1990).

7-8-2111. Inventory of county tools and equipment.Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 128 at beginning substituted "The board of county commissioners shall biennially prepare" for "It shall be the duty of the board of county commissioners to prepare" and before "inventory" deleted "annual".

7-8-2112. Written agreements for loan or lease of county tools and equipment.Attorney General's Opinions

Provision of Office Space and Equipment by County for Part-Time County Attorney: A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide office space for a part-time County Attorney by providing space in a county building or, if no suitable space is available, by renting office space. Use of the space for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the space for private business purposes. Alternatively, the governing body may allow a claim by the County Attorney for the rental of office space needed to conduct the county's business if suitable office space is not available in county buildings. A county governing body may satisfy its obligation to provide necessary equipment for a part-time County Attorney by providing the use of the equipment owned by the county or, if no suitable equipment is available, by renting equipment. Use of the equipment for the County Attorney's private practice is allowed only through a written agreement between the county and the County Attorney leasing the use of the equipment for private business purposes. 46 A.G. Op. 10 (1995), followed in 46 A.G. Op. 20 (1996).

Acquisition, Transfer, and Management of County Property

Part Case Notes

Sale of County Property: The contention that this part, providing the method to be pursued in selling county property, applies only to a sale of property obtained for purely public purposes but no longer needed for such purposes, and that therefore a ranch held by it in its proprietary capacity and not acquired for a public purpose does not fall within its purview, cannot be sustained. Franzke v. Fergus County, 76 M 150, 245 P 962 (1926).

7-8-2201. Authorization for county to obtain personal property.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 255 substituted "may, subject to the provisions of this part" for "has jurisdiction and power, under such limitations and restrictions as are prescribed by law, to", before "personal property" deleted "real or", and at end deleted "and to preserve, take care of, manage, and control the same"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

Case Notes

Application of Section:

This section refers to an outright purchase of property for county purposes, but it has no application to the acquisition of a right-of-way under the general highway law. Flynn v. Beaverhead County, 54 M 309, 170 P 13 (1917).

This section, relative to the manner of purchasing real estate, applies to a bridge. State ex rel. Donlan v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 49 M 517, 143 P 984 (1914).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority of County to Issue General Obligation Bonds for Demolition of Abandoned County Building: Under its general duty to care for and maintain its property, a county, through its Board of County Commissioners, may issue general obligation bonds to fund demolition of a county-owned building that has been abandoned and poses a threat to the public safety and welfare. 44 A.G. Op. 31 (1992).

County Buildings — Use of Rent for Costs: If no sale of the building is being attempted, a Board of County Commissioners may use money obtained from tenants of a county building to defray the operational and maintenance costs of the building. 40 A.G. Op. 33 (1984).

7-8-2211. Authorization to sell and exchange county property.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 255 in (1) after "this state" substituted "may, subject to the provisions of this part" for "have the power to"; in (1) and (3) before "personal property" deleted "real or"; in (3) deleted former last sentence that read: "In an exchange of real property, the properties must be appraised, and an exchange of county property may not be made unless property received in exchange for the county property is of an equivalent value. If the properties are not of equivalent values, the exchange may be completed if a cash payment is made in addition to the delivery of title for property having the lesser value"; deleted former (4) and (5) that read: "(4) If a county owns property containing a historically significant building or monument, the county may sell or give the property to nonprofit organizations or groups that agree to restore or preserve the property. The contract for the transfer of the property must contain a provision that:

(a) requires the property to be preserved in its present or restored state upon any subsequent transfer; and

(b) provides for the reversion of the property to the county for noncompliance with conditions attached to the transfer.

(5) A county may authorize the transfer of ownership of rural improvement district improvements as provided in 7-12-2128"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 314 inserted (5) authorizing transfer of ownership of rural improvement district improvements. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

1999 Amendments — Composite Sections: Chapter 202 inserted (4) authorizing county to sell or give certain property to nonprofit organizations or groups and specifying terms of transfer contract; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 29, 1999.

Chapter 239 in (2) substituted “7-5-2301 and 7-5-2303 through 7-5-2308” for “7-5-2301 through 7-5-2308”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 5, 1999.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

1983 Amendment: In (1), after “sell” inserted “trade, or exchange” and made minor changes in phraseology; and inserted (3) relating to appraisals and values upon exchange.

Case Notes

Tax Sales: Board of County Commissioners has the power and the authority to dispose of and convey real estate acquired through tax deeds. Flom v. Unknown Heirs of Conrad, 132 M 574, 319 P2d 499 (1957).

Power to Sell Property: A county is merely a subdivision of the state for governmental purposes and as such is subject to legislative regulation and control. The Legislature may, within the limitations prescribed by the Constitution, circumscribe or extend the powers to be exercised by a county, and legislative authority to regulate or control the disposition of county property not having been limited by the Constitution, it could properly declare, as it did by this section, that such property may be sold only under the restrictions and in the manner therein indicated. Franzke v. Fergus County, 76 M 150, 245 P 962 (1926).

7-8-2212. Notice of sale and public auction required for certain sales.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 255 near beginning before “personal property” deleted “real or”; deleted former last sentence that read: “Property described in 7-8-2211(4) is not subject to the requirements of this section”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 202 inserted last sentence providing that property described in 7-8-2211(4) is not subject to application of section. Amendment effective March 29, 1999.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 74 after “public auction at” substituted “a site determined by the board of county commissioners” for “the courthouse door”; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: Substituted “as provided in 7-1-2121” for “in a newspaper published in said county. The notice shall be published once a week for 4 successive weeks and posted in five public places in the county”.

1983 Amendment: Substituted “value in excess of $2,500” for “value in excess of $100 for real property or $2,500 for personal property”.

7-8-2213. Terms of sale.

Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 255 in (1) at beginning of first sentence deleted “Except as provided in 7-8-2211(4)” and in second sentence before “property” inserted “personal”; in (2) and (3) at beginning deleted “Subject to 7-8-2211(4)”; in (3) after “the provisions of” substituted “this part” for “7-8-2211 through 7-8-2220”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 202 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause; in (2) and (3) at beginning inserted “Subject to 7-8-2211(4)”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 29, 1999.

Case Notes

When Payment on Installments on Purchase Price of Land Not Completed During Five-Year Period: The court held that this section, providing that deferred payments on contracts of county-owned lands may not extend over a period of more than 5 years, does not mean that at the end of the 5-year period the property rights of the vendee shall be lost if the purchase price has not all been paid, but that if there still remains a part of the purchase price unpaid and the vendee offers payment, the county may accept it without violating the provisions of this section. Yellowstone County v. Wight, 115 M 411, 145 P2d 516 (1943).

7-8-2214. Appraisal required for certain sales.

Compiler's Comments

1983 Amendment: In (1), substituted “value in excess of $2,500” for “value in excess of $100 for real property and $2,500 for personal property”.

7-8-2215. Procedure to challenge appraised value.Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 291 in (1) after "appraised value" inserted "under 7-8-2214"; in (3)(a) in first sentence inserted "or a disinterested certified real estate appraiser"; in second sentence after "allowed" deleted "$5 per day for each day necessarily employed in making such appraisal and their", and at end inserted "as determined by the judge"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

7-8-2216. Sale of county property to school district.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 21 in (2) at end of introductory clause inserted "and 7-32-2201(5)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 16, 2007.

Case Notes

Leasing of Fairground Property Controlled by Specific Versus General Statute: The Supreme Court held that an obvious conflict existed between general statutes concerning the leasing of county property and the specific statute dealing with the leasing of fairground property. The court stated that in interpreting conflicting statutes, the specific controls over the general to the extent of any inconsistency. Gallatin Saddle & Harness Club v. White, 246 M 273, 805 P2d 1299, 47 St. Rep. 2012 (1990).

Special Purpose Leases: The Industrial Development Projects Act (Title 90, ch. 5, part 1) is designed for special purpose and is not limited by the provision in this section that a county not make a lease longer than 10 years. Fickes v. Missoula County, 155 M 258, 470 P2d 287 (1970).

7-8-2232. Distribution of lease revenue.

Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 78 in (1), after "paid", substituted "to the county treasurer and may be deposited in the county general fund" for "into the county treasury" and deleted second sentence that read: "Upon receipt of funds, the county treasurers shall distribute the revenue as collected to the several county and trust and agency funds on the basis of the tax levy for the current year"; and inserted (2) authorizing lease revenue to be used for any county purpose. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 78, L. 1997, provided: "WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners has jurisdiction and power to purchase or receive by donation any real property for the use of the county; and

WHEREAS, the Board of County Commissioners has jurisdiction and power to lease and demise county property, however acquired, that is not necessary to the conduct of the county's business or the preservation of county property; and

WHEREAS, counties must preserve, take care of, manage, and control these properties."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 15 at beginning of second sentence substituted "Upon receipt of funds" for "On January 10 and July 10 in each year", after "revenue" inserted "as collected", and at end substituted reference to current year for reference to preceding calendar year; and made minor changes in style.

Attorney General's Opinions

County Buildings — Use of Rent for Costs: If no sale of the building is being attempted, a Board of County Commissioners may use money obtained from tenants of a county building to defray the operational and maintenance costs of the building. (See 1997 amendment.) 40 A.G. Op. 33 (1984).

Part 23

Sale of Tax-Deed Land

7-8-2301. Disposal of county tax-deed land.

Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 186 in (3)(a) substituted "subsections (2), (4), and (5)" for "subsections (2) and (4)"; inserted (5)(b) regarding acceptance of a purchase price less than appraised value; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 170 throughout section in five places before "corporation" deleted "nonprofit"; in (1)(c) and (3)(c) after "land" inserted "or sell the land at a reduced price"; in (3)(c)(i) at end inserted "for low-income housing"; and inserted (7) providing that land transferred pursuant to subsection (3)(c) must be used for low-income housing and may be subject to reversionary clause. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 248 inserted (3)(c)(iii) allowing county commissioners to donate land county acquired by tax deed to nonprofit corporation to enable construction or repair improvements for lease, rent, or other use to further purposes of corporation; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 280 in (1)(a), at end, deleted "at the front door of the courthouse"; inserted (1)(d) regarding retention of the land for the county; in (2), at beginning of first sentence, inserted "When tax-deed land is to be sold" and near middle substituted "sales price" for "fair market value of the land" and substituted second sentence regarding establishment of sales price for former language that read: "In determining fair market value, the board shall subtract the amount of outstanding assessments that are a lien on the land from the unencumbered value of the land, but the minimum sale price for a parcel of land may not be less than $10"; inserted (3) setting out Board options upon expiration of a repurchase period; in (4), in two places, substituted "sales price" for "fair market value"; in (6), near beginning, substituted "sales price" for "fair market value" and at end substituted "the taxes, assessments, penalties, and interest due on the land at the time of taking the tax deed plus interest on the full amount at the rate provided for in 15-16-102 from the date of the tax deed to the date of the repurchase as well as the costs of the county in taking the tax deed and additional taxes or assessments due, if any, at the time of repurchase" for "all county costs of conducting the sale, delinquent taxes, assessments, and all interest and penalties"; deleted (6) that read: "(6) A board of county commissioners may, upon expiration of the redemption period provided for in 15-18-111, donate the land to a municipality with the consent of the municipality"; deleted (7) that read: "(7) A board of county commissioners may, upon expiration of the redemption period provided for in 15-18-111, donate the land to a nonprofit corporation for the purpose of constructing:

- (a) a multifamily housing development operated by the corporation; or
- (b) single-family houses. Upon completion of a house, the nonprofit corporation shall sell the property to a low-income person who meets the eligibility requirements of the corporation. Once the sale is completed, the property becomes subject to taxation"; adjusted subsection references; and made minor changes in style.

1993 Amendments: Chapter 316 inserted (1)(b) authorizing a Board of County Commissioners to donate land to a municipality; inserted (6) allowing donation of the land to a municipality upon expiration of the redemption period; and made minor changes in style.

Chapter 369 inserted (1)(c) creating option for County Commissioners to donate land acquired by tax deed to a nonprofit corporation; inserted (7) allowing County Commissioners to donate tax deed land to nonprofit corporation for purpose of constructing multifamily or single-family housing and requiring property to be subject to taxation upon sale of property to qualified buyer; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 16, 1993.

1991 Amendments: Chapter 185 in (3) inserted second sentence allowing sale of land by negotiated sale at not less than the fair market value fixed for the original auction. Amendment effective March 26, 1991.

Chapter 496 inserted (5) requiring that purchase price not be less than amount needed to pay costs, taxes, assessments, interest, and penalties when successful bidder is delinquent taxpayer or his successor, agent, or immediate family member. Amendment effective April 20, 1991.

1989 Amendment: Inserted (4) relating to disposal of land not bid on; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective May 22, 1989.

1987 Amendment: In (2) inserted second sentence concerning determination of fair market value; and inserted (3) relating to lack of bids on tax-deed sale.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 617, L. 1987, provided: "This act applies to the enforcement of all outstanding and future tax and assessment liens except those installments of outstanding special assessments that are delinquent and have been the subject of a sale for delinquent taxes or assessments before the effective date of this act." Effective April 27, 1987.

Severability: Section 15, Ch. 617, L. 1987, was a severability section.

Subsections Not Codified: Subsections (a) and (b) of section 84-4190, R.C.M. 1947, were not codified in the MCA because they were temporary. They have not been repealed and are still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 1, Ch. 171, L. 1941, as amended by sec. 1, Ch. 144, L. 1945.

Case Notes

Reservation of Interest by County: A county may reserve such interests in tax deed land as it may have acquired by purchase or as may have been reserved by a private seller, including the right to take roadbuilding material from the land for authorized public use. Helena Gun Club v. Lewis & Clark County, 141 M 490, 379 P2d 436 (1963).

1993 Amendment: Chapter 97 in first sentence, after “7-8-2301”, deleted “notice of which has been given as provided in 7-8-2302” and after “representative” substituted “repurchase the property from the county” for “whose property shall hereafter be deeded to the county may purchase such property”, at beginning of second sentence inserted “The property may be repurchased”, near middle substituted reference to 7-8-2305 for “hereinafter provided”, and at end inserted “plus interest on the full amount at the rate provided for in 15-16-102 from the date of the tax deed to the date of repurchase”, and at end of third sentence substituted reference to 7-8-2304 for “hereinafter provided”; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Preferential Right of Purchase: The preferential right to purchase from the county for only the amount of the taxes, penalties, and interest is purely statutory and, if claimed, must be exercised in the manner and within the time provided by statute or the right becomes lost. Beckman Bros., Inc. v. Weir, 120 M 305, 184 P2d 347 (1947).

Purchase From County Not Redemption: The purchase of tax-acquired property from the county by the former owner is not a redemption. Beckman Bros., Inc. v. Weir, 120 M 305, 184 P2d 347 (1947).

Owner's Right to Redeem: In mandamus proceedings where defendant county acquired land of plaintiff delinquent taxpayer by tax deed and the latter offered to pay the delinquent taxes, penalty, and interest the second time the land was offered for sale, but the Commissioners refused the taxes and sold the land to another on the ground that the owner lost his preferential right for failure to exercise it on the first sale, District Court did not err in finding for plaintiff. The general policy of the law is to preserve the owner's right to redeem regardless of prior failure and without any proviso that it be deemed lost for prior failure to exercise it. State ex rel. Johnson v. Garfield County, 116 M 300, 151 P2d 481 (1944), distinguished in Beckman Bros., Inc. v. Weir, 120 M 305, 184 P2d 347 (1947).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 108 in (2)(a) in last sentence near end after “above the prime rate” substituted “published by the federal reserve system in its statistical release H.15 Selected Interest Rates for bank prime loans dated” for “of major New York banks, as published in the Wall Street Journal”. Amendment effective April 1, 2011.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 4, Ch. 108, L. 2011, provided: “[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved April 1, 2011] and applies to all interest rate agreements governed by 7-8-2304, 31-1-107, or 33-3-431 made on or after [the effective date of this act].” Effective April 1, 2011.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1991 Amendment: In (2)(a), in second sentence after “bear interest at”, substituted a rate to be established by County Commissioners not exceeding by more than 4 percentage points the prime rate of major New York banks as published in the Wall Street Journal within 7 days prior to date of sale for a rate of 8% per annum. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

1989 Amendment: In (2)(b), before “contract”, deleted “uniform” and substituted “approved” for “prescribed”; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective May 22, 1989.

7-8-2305. Deed of conveyance — reservation of mineral royalty.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Sections Not Codified: Sections 16-1122 and 16-1122.1, R.C.M. 1947, were not codified in the MCA. They provided:

"16-1122. Validation of mineral reservations heretofore made by counties. All mineral reservations and all royalty reservations heretofore made by counties in this state in conveyances of real property whether the same are of a less or greater percentage or are different than was authorized or required by law at the time such reservations were made, and all agreements in connection with such reservations, heretofore made, are hereby ratified, confirmed and validated.

16-1122.1. Validation of mineral reservations made before 1965. All mineral reservations and all royalty reservations heretofore made by counties in this state in conveyances of real property whether the same are of a less or greater percentage or are different than was authorized or required by law at the time such reservations were made, and all agreements in connection with such reservations, heretofore made, are hereby ratified, confirmed and validated, provided no action is now pending to set aside any such reservation."

These sections have not been repealed and are still valid law. Citation to section 16-1122 may be made to sec. 4, Ch. 154, L. 1935, as amended by sec. 1, Ch. 179, L. 1951. Citation to section 16-1122.1 may be made to sec. 1, Ch. 179, L. 1951.

Case Notes

Tax Deed and Sale Proceedings Invalid for Lack of Jurisdiction — County's Reversionary Interest Relinquished by Settlement to Heirs of Pretax Deed Owner: Rosebud County applied for and received a tax deed pursuant to law (now repealed) and subsequently quitclaimed all but a royalty interest in the property. The Stanfords brought an action in District Court, alleging the invalidity of the tax deed and alleging that they were the owners of a royalty interest in the property. The county settled its interest in the action by relinquishing all its interests in the property. The District Court held that the tax deed was invalid but awarded the property to another party. The Supreme Court found that the tax deed was invalid under the former law because the proceedings on tax sales are in invitum. Citing King v. Rosebud County, 193 M 268, 631 P2d 711, 38 St. Rep. 1145 (1981), the court held that the failure to file an affidavit of notice of application for the tax deed, the fact that there was a recitation in the notice for application of a tax deed that the time for redemption had "long since expired" (contrary to the law), and the failure of the record to include an "affidavit of notice of tax sale" resulted in a lack of jurisdiction in the County Treasurer to issue the tax deed. The reservation of the royalty interest by the county survived the defective tax sale, and when the county relinquished all rights to its royalty interest as part of the settlement agreement, that interest reverted to the pretax sale owner. The heirs of that owner thus had a prima facie claim to the royalty interest. Stanford v. Rosebud County, 251 M 128, 822 P2d 1074, 48 St. Rep. 1124 (1991).

Deed Reserving Mineral Interest to County — No Mutual Mistake: A 1944 deed reserved a mineral interest to the county. The deed did not on its face indicate mutual mistake; the parties agreed in 1977 that the 1944 deed reserved a royalty, and not one of the interested parties claimed mutual mistake. Plaintiff did not overcome the presumption that the 1944 deed contained the final agreement of the parties. McSweyn v. Musselshell County, 193 M 525, 632 P2d 1095, 38 St. Rep. 1260 (1981).

Mineral Interest as Distinguished From Royalty Interest — No Unconstitutional Gift: Where a contract for deed contained a reservation of a mineral interest to the county but a later deed reserved only a royalty interest, the District Court held that this amounted to an unconstitutional gift to a private individual. The Supreme Court reversed, saying that the agreed statement of facts did not show the comparative values of royalty and mineral interests in this particular land. McSweyn v. Musselshell County, 193 M 525, 632 P2d 1095, 38 St. Rep. 1260 (1981).

Quiet Title Action Not Res Judicata Where Deed Executed After Action: A quiet title action as to mineral interests reserved by the county was not res judicata because the quiet title action occurred before the deed in question was executed, delivered, and accepted. McSweyn v. Musselshell County, 193 M 525, 632 P2d 1095, 38 St. Rep. 1260 (1981), distinguishing Smith v. Musselshell County, 155 M 376, 472 P2d 878 (1970).

Mineral Rights Reservation:

County has implied power under proviso of this section to make mineral reservation in deeds to tax-title lands sold by it. Smith v. Musselshell County, 155 M 376, 472 P2d 878 (1970).

In action to determine rights under deed, evidence that all parties to county's deed regarded reservation in deed as royalty interest and not mineral interest and language in deeds that "all minerals contained in and hereafter mined, produced, extracted, or otherwise taken" supported finding that such reservation was royalty interest. Superior Oil Co. v. Vanderhoof, 307 F. Supp. 84 (D.C. Mont. 1969).

Power to Reserve Mineral Rights: In the sale of land acquired by tax deed, the county has such powers as may be exercised by a private seller of land, and these powers include the waiver of forfeiture provisions in a contract after a forfeiture has been declared and the right to reserve the right to take roadbuilding material from the land for authorized public use. Helena Gun Club v. Lewis & Clark County, 141 M 490, 379 P2d 436 (1963).

1991 Amendment: In (1)(a), near beginning after "proceeds of each sale", deleted "up to the amount of $10"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

Attorney General's Opinions

Application of Sale Proceeds to Delinquent Special Improvement District Assessments: A County Treasurer may not require delinquent special improvement district assessments to be paid in addition to the sale price of tax deed land because when a tax deed is issued, special assessment liens that were due and payable at that time are extinguished. However, the County Treasurer must apply the sale proceeds of the land to delinquent assessments, as provided in this section. 45 A.G. Op. 24 (1994).

City Assessments to Be Included and Prorated as Part of Allocation Received From Tax Sale: There is no correlation between the method of distribution of tax sale proceeds outlined in this section and the effect of a tax deed in 15-18-214. When a city has not requested and received assignment of a county's right to tax sale property, the city assessments must be included and prorated as part of the allocation of money received from a sale of county tax deed land under this section. 45 A.G. Op. 2 (1993).

Classification and Alternative Management of County Lands

7-8-2501. Purposes of part.

2017 Amendment: Chapter 255 substituted "to acquire real property and to establish procedures for the disposal of real property so that the property is used or disposed of" for "to establish criteria for the classification of unsold tax-deed lands and other county-owned lands, however acquired, and to classify such lands for retention or disposal in accordance with such criteria so that county-owned lands shall be used"; deleted former (2) and (3) that read: "(2) to encourage the application of a multiple-use principle in the utilization and administration of such lands so that the administration of lands classified for retention can be coordinated with land use planning, zoning, grazing and agricultural land improvement, fish and wildlife habitat improvement and enhancement, recreation, access to other intermingled or adjacent multiple-use areas, and for any other appropriate uses which are in the best interests of the county or which will advance the public benefit and welfare; and

(3) to grant sufficient powers to the board to enable the board to achieve the foregoing purposes"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

7-8-2513. Appraisal of land required — exception — challenge — restrictions.Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 186 inserted (6) regarding inapplicability to land acquired by tax deed that failed to sell for appraised value. Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

2017 Amendment: Chapter 255 in (1) after "lease lands" substituted "with an estimated value of more than $20,000 under the provisions of this part, have the lands appraised by a disinterested certified general real estate appraiser" for "under the provisions of this part, cause the lands to be appraised by a qualified, independent person, who may be but is not required to be an employee of the department of revenue"; inserted (4) regarding filing a challenge of the appraised value of real property under this part; inserted (5) prohibiting board of county commissioners from selling, exchanging, or leasing lands for less than appraised value; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 27 in (1), near end, substituted "employee" for "agent"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1994.

Applicability: Section 171(2), Ch. 27, Sp. L. November 1993, provided that the amendments to this section apply to tax years after December 31, 1993.

1983 Amendment: Inserted (3) authorizing lease of mineral interests without appraisal.

Section 2, Ch. 391, L. 1983, provided that the amendment applies retroactively to July 1, 1975.

Case Notes

City Land Donated for Park — Election Required Prior to Lease for Rifle Club: In a 1901 conveyance of land to the city of Whitefish, the deed stated that the land was to be used for public park purposes and that if not so used, the land was to revert to grantor. The Supreme Court held that this section requires that the city receive voter approval in a special election prior to leasing the park to a rifle club. Prezeau v. Whitefish, 198 M 416, 646 P2d 1186, 39 St. Rep. 1090 (1982). Overruling Colwell v. Great Falls, 117 M 126, 157 P2d 1013 (1945), and Hames v. Polson, 123 M 469, 215 P2d 950 (1950), to the extent that they conflict with this opinion and this section.

No Exception to Election Requirement — Contrary Purpose Unnecessary: This section requires that an election be held to approve any sale or lease of municipal property that is held in trust for a specific purpose. The statute does not limit the requirement of a special election to only those instances in which the sale or lease would be for a purpose that is contrary to the specific trust purpose. Prezeau v. Whitefish, 198 M 416, 646 P2d 1186, 39 St. Rep. 1090 (1982). Overruling Colwell v. Great Falls, 117 M 126, 157 P2d 1013 (1945), and Hames v. Polson, 123 M 469, 215 P2d 950 (1950), to the extent that they conflict with this opinion and this section.

Lease to Private Club: Lease of a golf course and part of clubhouse to private club, which contained no provisions safeguarding the rights of the inhabitants of the city and which was not submitted to the voters for approval at a special election, is void. Hames v. Polson, 123 M 469, 215 P2d 950 (1950); overruled by Prezeau v. Whitefish, 198 M 416, 646 P2d 1186, 39 St. Rep. 1090 (1982), to the extent that it conflicts with the opinion in Prezeau and 7-8-4201(2)(b).

When Leasing Not Required to Be Submitted to Vote: Even if the municipal auditorium was held in trust for specific purposes, question of leasing of the auditorium to a private individual for the purpose of exhibiting moving pictures was not required to be submitted to the taxpayers at an election, where it did not appear that the lease would interfere with the use of property for the purposes for which it was being held in trust. Colwell v. Great Falls, 117 M 126, 157 P2d 1013 (1945), distinguished in Hames v. Polson, 123 M 469, 215 P2d 950 (1950); overruled by Prezeau v. Whitefish, 198 M 416, 646 P2d 1186, 39 St. Rep. 1090 (1982), to the extent that it conflicts with the opinion in Prezeau and 7-8-4201(2)(b).

Attorney General's Opinions

Sale of City Land by City With Self-Government Powers — Vote Required: Although subsection (2)(a) of this section requires a two-thirds vote of the city commission to sell city land, a city with self-governing powers may enact a superseding ordinance allowing the sale of city land by a simple majority vote. 43 A.G. Op. 41 (1989). After analyzing subsection (2)(b) of this section, the Attorney General applied the same analysis and conclusion to allow the governing body of a local government unit with self-governing powers to enact an ordinance providing for the disposition by majority vote of the council of property held in trust for a specific purpose. 43 A.G. Op. 55 (1990).

Dedication of Lands to Use of Public Forever — Trust for Specific Purpose: Park dedication language in a subdivision plat dedicating certain lands “to the use of the public forever” creates a trust for a specific purpose. Under the terms of this section, a municipal election must be held before the city can dispose of the property. 41 A.G. Op. 42 (1986).

No Duty of Insurer to Cover City's Conversion of Pension Funds: The city of Dillon failed to properly pay pension benefits, even though the city received the money from the state. When a beneficiary sued the city to recover unpaid benefits, the city tendered defense of its claim to its insurer, but the insurer declined to provide coverage or defend the claim based on a financial gain exclusion in the insurance policy. The beneficiary was granted summary judgment, so the city paid the judgment and filed an action to recover against the insurer. The District Court held that the insurer was liable and breached its duty to defend, so the insurer appealed. The Supreme Court held that the insurer had no duty to provide coverage to the city because the city's claim arose in whole or in part from the city's unlawful retention and conversion of the pension funds, so the city had no coverage for the claims for return of principal and interest. The District Court was reversed. Dillon v. Mont. Municipal Ins. Authority, 2009 MT 393, 353 M 370, 220 P3d 623 (2009).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Library Board Alone Has Authority to Spend Its Reserve Funds — Library's Proposed Budget Subject to Approval by Local Governing Body — Local Governing Body Has Sole Discretion to Levy Mills in Support of Library: Prior to 2001, a library board had complete control over its budget. While a library board still has the sole discretion to determine how to use the library's unspent funds under 22-1-309, its budget must be approved by the local governing body. Moreover, the local governing body, not the library board, determines the number of mills to levy in support of the library. Finally, the local governing body has no obligation to continue to levy any certain number of mills for the library in perpetuity. 54 A.G. Op. 7 (2012).

Authority for Creation of Public Benefit Nonprofit Corporation to Operate Electric and Natural Gas Utility Business: The Montana Nonprofit Corporation Act, Title 35, ch. 2, allows the creation of a public benefit nonprofit corporation and an interlocal agreement creating a corporation as the nonprofit corporation's sole member to operate an electric and natural gas utility. The authority created by interlocal agreement between self-governing municipalities may exercise only those powers that any of the municipalities might exercise. 51 A.G. Op. 5 (2005). See also 48 A.G. Op. 14 (2000).

County Commission Generally Obligated to Fund Library Budget — County Allowed to Bind Itself to Fund Library Budget Through Interlocal Agreement: The Board of County Commissioners is generally obligated to fund the county library budget, as submitted by the library board pursuant to 22-1-309, within the limits set in 15-10-420. The 2001 statutory changes did not delete a library board's authority to determine the amount of financial support required by the library, nor did the changes confer on the Board of County Commissioners the authority to modify a library budget submitted by the library board. Further, nothing in the 2001 tax and budget amendments prevents a county from voluntarily entering an interlocal agreement to provide that the county would accept a library board's budget proposal and levy the necessary mills to fund it. 49 A.G. Op. 16 (2002). See also 41 A.G. Op. 91 (1986), and 48 A.G. Op. 3 (1999). However, see 54 A.G. Op. 7 (2012), which concluded that the local governing body alone has the authority to determine the number of mills to levy in support of the library.

State Financial Responsibility for Sentenced Inmate Upon Oral Pronouncement of Sentence: A sentencing hearing represents the only common date by which the criminal justice system can definitely measure when legal and financial responsibility for an inmate shifts from a county to the state. Oral pronouncement of sentence from the bench in the presence of a defendant constitutes final judgment (see St. v. Lane, 1998 MT 76, 288 M 286, 957 P2d 9 (1998)). Once sentenced, an inmate is considered to be in the legal custody of the Department of Corrections, even though a local or regional detention center may serve as a place of temporary detention until the inmate can be placed by the Department. Therefore, upon oral pronouncement of sentence that transfers legal custody of an inmate to the Department, the financial responsibility for the inmate transfers to the Department as well. 49 A.G. Op. 13 (2001).

No County Obligation to Provide Waste Disposal and Landfill Services to Towns: Under 7-11-104 and 7-13-203 (now repealed), a county has no legal obligation to provide solid waste disposal and landfill services to towns that have used the county landfill on a charge-per-load basis if there is no refuse disposal district or interlocal agreement between the towns and county to provide those services. 43 A.G. Op. 1 (1989).

Interlocal Agreements for County Jail Use: State law does not preclude a county and a city or town from entering into an interlocal agreement wherein the county may charge a city or town for maintaining prisoners committed to the county jail at the request of municipal authorities for violating either state laws or municipal ordinances. 42 A.G. Op. 70 (1988).

General Government Power County — Interlocal Agreement With Municipal Housing Authority: If a city has created a municipal housing authority, the municipal housing authority and county may enter an interlocal agreement under which the county may administer the Community Development Block Grant project for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing within 10 miles of the city limits. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

Municipal Housing Authority — Public Agency: A municipal housing authority is a public agency or political subdivision that may enter into interlocal agreements. 39 A.G. Op. 37 (1981).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 318 near end of first sentence inserted clause referring to the hiring of a teacher or specialist, a superintendent, or other professional person. Amendment effective April 21, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 86 in first sentence after "undertaking" inserted "or to participate in the provision or maintenance of any public infrastructure facility, project, or service". Amendment effective March 16, 1999.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 397 in first sentence inserted "including the issuance of bonds for the joint construction of a facility under 20-9-404"; and made minor changes in style.

Applicability: Section 4, Ch. 397, L. 1997, provided: "[This act] applies to contracts entered into after [the effective date of this act]." Effective October 1, 1997.

Attorney General's Opinions

Merger of Fire Services Between City and County With General Government Powers Not Allowed: A proposed city initiative would have merged a city fire department and a rural county fire district into a new fire protection district with an urban and a rural division. However, both the city and county were local government units with general government powers and had not been consolidated as allowed by law. Under the provisions of the initiative, neither fire department would maintain its own identity; therefore, the proposed merger would abrogate the city fire department as a separate entity and would be an invalid exercise of general government powers. This opinion does not preclude the provision of fire protection services in a cooperative fashion through an interlocal agreement that city voters may, by initiative, require the city governing body to pursue. 43 A.G. Op. 56 (1990).

No County Obligation to Provide Waste Disposal and Landfill Services to Towns: Under 7-13-203 (now repealed) and this section, a county has no legal obligation to provide solid waste disposal and landfill services to towns that have used the county landfill on a charge-per-load basis if there is no refuse disposal district or interlocal agreement between the towns and county to provide those services. 43 A.G. Op. 1 (1989).

County Power to Grant Franchises — Interlocal Agreements Not Precluded: Article XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const.; 7-3-144; 7-4-2611; and 7-5-2129, as well as applicable case law, imply that a county vested with general government powers may exercise the power to grant franchises. Under this section, a city-county interlocal franchise agreement is possible. 42 A.G. Op. 87 (1988).

Act Allowing Private Parties to Contract for Jails Not in Conflict With Local Government Regulatory Statutes: The act allowing counties to contract with private parties for the building, maintenance, and operation of jails, enacted as Chapter 447, L. 1985, does not directly conflict with other Montana statutes regulating the indebtedness, contracts, jail facilities, or interlocal agreements of local governments. However, Chapter 447 is subject to the various applicable limitations contained in those statutes. 42 A.G. Op. 81 (1988).

General Government Power County — Interlocal Agreement With Municipal Housing Authority: If a city has created a municipal housing authority, the municipal housing authority and county may enter an interlocal agreement under which the county may administer the Community Development Block Grant project for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing within 10 miles of the city limits. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

General Government Power County — Not to Enter Agreement With City to Rehabilitate Rural Dwellings: A county with general government powers and a city generally may not enter into an interlocal agreement under which the county could administer the Community Development Block Grant project for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing because neither is statutorily authorized to rehabilitate dwellings outside the city limits. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

Municipal Housing Authority — Public Agency: A municipal housing authority is a public agency or political subdivision that may enter into interlocal agreements. 39 A.G. Op. 37 (1981).

Joint Self-Insurance Programs: Montana counties may procure insurance separately or jointly and may use a deductible or self-insurance plan. Therefore, it is permissible for counties to enter into a joint self-insurance program. 38 A.G. Op. 75 (1980).

Nonexclusive Means of Establishing Insurance Program: An interlocal agreement pursuant to 7-11-104 is not the exclusive means by which counties might establish a joint self-insurance program, provided that the method selected is not specifically prohibited by law. 38 A.G. Op. 75 (1980).

Part Case Notes

Delegation of Authority by Fair Commission: Where money has been appropriated to the county fair commission for advertising purposes, the fair commission must determine the method and nature of the advertising and cannot, under 7-21-3410 (now repealed), delegate that responsibility to a corporation or individual not responsible to the state or county, such as a chamber of commerce. Dickey v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 121 M 223, 191 P2d 315 (1948).

County Fair — Tax on Admission Tickets: Cascade County was not subject to a penalty for the alleged willful failure to collect the proper admission tax on the sale of admission tickets to the county fair since the county in establishing the county agricultural fair was engaged in a governmental function authorized by Montana statutes. Cascade County v. Penwell, 67 F. Supp. 253 (D.C. Mont. 1946).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Nonusers Within District as “Receiving a Service” — Liability for Assessment: A property owner is “receiving a service”, as that phrase is used in 7-13-231, for the purposes of fee assessment under the provisions of former Title 7, ch. 13, part 2, whether or not the property owner is actually using facilities. 40 A.G. Op. 22 (1983). This holding was applied specifically to solid waste management districts in 44 A.G. Op. 28 (1992).

Rulemaking Authority of Board to Clear Title to Burial Lots: It is within the statutory authority established in 7-35-2109 and 7-35-2110 (both now repealed) that a board of trustees of a cemetery district may establish rules for the purpose of clearing title to burial lots. 44 A.G. Op. 9 (1991).

Power of Cemetery District Trustees to Sell Headstones and Grave Markers: Consistent with the liberal construction of powers granted to local government units, the board of trustees of a cemetery district may, under 7-35-2109 (now repealed), sell headstones and grave markers at the cemetery for use in the cemetery as long as the profits are used in furtherance of the purposes of the cemetery district. 43 A.G. Attorney General's Opinions

County Authorized to Appropriate Money for Museum — City Authorized to Appropriate Money for Public Purpose — Constitutionality Analyzed: Pursuant to 7-16-2202 (now repealed), a county, but not a city, is authorized to create a program to provide grants to private, nonprofit museums. However, pursuant to 7-1-4124, a city is allowed to grant money to public or private entities as long as the grant is for a public purpose, such as a museum that would enhance the education and enjoyment of the general public, but that would not be merely for the gain of a private entity. The Attorney General declined to opine regarding the constitutionality of 7-1-4124 or 7-16-2202 (now repealed), in light of the prohibition in Art. V, sec. 11(5), Mont. Const., against the appropriation of public funds for any private individual, private association, or private corporation not under control of the state, but did analyze that constitutional provision as it related to the question of county or city expenditures for grants to private museum programs, concluding that the constitutional prohibition applies only to the appropriation of public funds by the Legislature, not by local governmental entities. 48 A.G. Op. 12 (2000), overruling prior opinions to the contrary in 37 A.G. Op. 25 (1977), 37 A.G. Op. 105 (1978), and 39 A.G. Op. 25 (1981).

Transition Section Repealed — Code Commissioner Explanation: Chapter 286, L. 2009, reorganized special district laws and provided a mandatory transition to the special district laws enacted in 2009 for existing special districts under certain circumstances. Section 2, Ch. 97, L. 2019, repealed the transition section, sec. 43, Ch. 286, L. 2009, and provided a limited saving clause concerning financial duties and financial penalties.

Preamble: The preamble attached to Ch. 97, L. 2019, provided: "WHEREAS, the 61st Legislature, in enacting Senate Bill No. 57, intended that a special district in existence on July 1, 2009, remain governed by the statutes under which it was created or established, as those statutes existed on June 30, 2009, until such time as it alters its boundaries, changes its amount or method of assessment, or is proposed for dissolution; and

WHEREAS, if such a triggering event were to occur, the district would then be governed by Title 7, chapter 11, part 10; and

WHEREAS, it has been discovered that in transitioning to governance under Title 7, chapter 11, part 10, the special district's legal status becomes unclear, thus jeopardizing the district's ability to secure bonds or otherwise conduct its business."

Saving Clause: Section 4, Ch. 97, L. 2019, provided: "[This act] does not affect financial duties that matured or financial penalties that were incurred before [the effective date of this act]." Effective March 21, 2019.

Part 11

Multijurisdictional Service Districts

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Formation of Multijurisdictional Library Service Districts — Statutory Requirements — Equalization of Tax Burden Among Users: A city and a county may form a multijurisdictional library service district if they meet the statutory requirements of Title 15, ch. 10, part 4, and this part and if any existing contract for providing library services involving residents of one or more of the participating jurisdictions has expired. A multijurisdictional service district may not be formed for the sole purpose of equalizing the tax burden among those currently using the service; however, one increased service of the district may be to equalize the tax burden among users as long as the district provides services in the manner required by 7-11-1101 (now repealed). 46 A.G. Op. 23 (1996), distinguishing 44 A.G. Op. 11 (1991).

Creation of Multijurisdictional Service District Within Existing Library District to Increase Allowable Mill Levy Improper: A multijurisdictional service district within an existing service district may not be created for the purpose of increasing the total mill levy within the existing district when the proposed service district would not increase the existing service area, serve people not currently receiving the service, or equalize the tax burden among those who would use the service. 44 A.G. Op. 11 (1991).

Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1991 Amendment: In (1), in two places after “district”, inserted language referring to expansion of a district.

Case Notes

Adequate Procedures and Notice — No Grounds for Setting Aside Creation of Business Improvement District: A group of property owners sought an injunction to void the creation of a business improvement district (BID) in the city of Kalispell and seeking a refund of assessments paid. The District Court found that nothing in statute invalidated the petitions for creating the BID and that the city followed the required statutory process for forming the BID. The property owners appealed, and the Supreme Court reviewed the BID creation process used by the city. The plaintiffs made no showing that any property owners, whether supporting or opposing the BID, were confused or misled by the process or that they failed to receive the required notice, nor did plaintiffs establish that the city failed to comply with any specific statutory requirement. Plaintiffs did show that the city's recordkeeping process was deficient, but that alone was not fatal to the BID process. Absent any grounds for setting aside creation of the BID, the District Court was affirmed. Bud-Kal v. Kalispell, 2009 MT 93, 350 M 25, 204 P3d 738 (2009).

Part 21

Rural Improvement Districts

Part Case Notes

Statutory Framework for Creation of Rural Improvement District Properly Followed: The Supreme Court approved the procedure followed by the Lewis and Clark Board of County Commissioners after examining whether each step in the nine-part process for creation of a rural improvement district was addressed. Buckley v. Wordal, 262 M 306, 865 P2d 240, 50 St. Rep. 1570 (1993).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Formation of New Improvement District Required for Substantial Expansion of Existing One: A sewer district constituting a rural special improvement district could be significantly expanded and the district's service area doubled in size only by the creation of a new special improvement district. The provisions of 7-12-2161(4) contemplate only maintenance of an existing system for which notice has previously been given and upon which a hearing has been previously held. A substantial addition to an existing district with notice or comment by the affected property owners would conflict with the notice procedures applicable to property owners not yet taxed for the improvement of their property. 40 A.G. Op. 44 (1984).

Rural Improvement Districts — County Attorney Not Legal Advisor: Except for legal work required by the Board of County Commissioners in connection with the creation of a rural improvement district, it is not the duty of a County Attorney to represent rural improvement districts formed under Title 7, ch. 12, part 21. 40 A.G. 2017 Amendment: Chapter 140 in (2)(a) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (2)(b) concerning the creation of a special improvement district solely for the purpose of road maintenance; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 93 in (3) at beginning of second sentence substituted "Properties" for "Property owners" and near middle after "district if" substituted "under the assessment methodology provided in the resolution of intention, the owners of lots, tracts, or parcels in the city representing not less than 40% of the total projected assessments against properties in the city" for "40% of those property owners"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 30, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 529 inserted (2) authorizing county commissioners to create a special improvement district upon receipt of a petition that includes consent of all owners of property in proposed district; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1985 Amendment: In (1), after "require" deleted "and upon the petition of 60% of the freeholders affected thereby", before "outside" deleted "in thickly populated localities", and after "purchase" substituted "one or more of the improvements of the kind described in 7-12-4102, in or for the benefit of the special improvement district" for "devices intended to protect the safety of the public from open ditches carrying irrigation or other water and maintaining sanitary and storm sewers, light systems, waterworks plants, water systems, sidewalks, and such other special improvements as may be petitioned for"; in (2), in first sentence, after "may", deleted "upon compliance with subsection (1)" and in second sentence substituted "may not be included in the rural special improvement district if 40% of those property owners protest the creation" for "may be included in the rural special improvement district only if 60% of those property owners approve".

1981 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to districts abutting or within a city.

Case Notes

Maintenance Distinguished From Reconstruction — Rural Improvement District: Yellowstone County replaced a 4-inch water main serving a rural special improvement district with a 12-inch main and assessed costs as “maintenance” costs against the property owners in the district. The court determined that the replacement costs were “reconstruction” costs as set forth in 7-12-4102, rather than “maintenance” costs under 7-12-2120 or 7-12-2162, and must be funded by creating a special improvement district under this section after notice and opportunity to object as provided in 7-12-2105 and 7-12-2109, respectively. Miller v. Yellowstone County, 234 M 193, 761 P2d 829, 45 St. Rep. 1836 (1988).

Action Challenging Sufficiency of Petition Moot: Under the former version of this section before its amendment in 1985 (and before the 2005 amendment adding subsection (2)), a petition of 60% of the freeholders affected was required for the establishment of a rural special improvement district (RSID). Appellants filed an application for a Writ of Prohibition under the former law to prohibit the County Commissioners from building a swimming pool pursuant to creation of an RSID, alleging that the petition to create the RSID was not in compliance with the law. The District Court denied their application. The Supreme Court affirmed the denial, ruling the question moot because of the 1985 amendment. Porch v. Powder River Bd. of County Comm’rs, 219 M 179, 710 P2d 1364, 42 St. Rep. 1936 (1985).

Attorney General’s Opinions

Establishment of Rural Improvement District for Weed Control — Preemption: A Board of County Commissioners may not use this section or 7-12-4102 to authorize a rural improvement district to provide weed control because those statutes are subordinate to and preempted by the specific statutory scheme of weed control in Title 7, ch. 22, part 21. 42 A.G. Op. 90 (1988).

Creation of Special Improvement District to Improve County Road: A Board of County Commissioners has authority to order the creation of a rural special improvement district to improve a county road established by the county road petition process. 41 A.G. Op. 61 (1986).

Swimming Pool: The creation of a rural improvement district for the purpose of constructing and maintaining a public swimming pool is proper if the facility will specially benefit the property subject to the assessments associated with the district. 41 A.G. Op. 15 (1985).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 342 deleted former (2)(f) that read: “(f) if applicable, provide any additional information required to be included in the notice under 7-12-2105(3)(a)”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 488 inserted (1)(f) relating to information required by 7-12-2105(3)(a); and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1985 Amendment: Inserted (2)(e) requiring specification of assessment method.

Subsection (3), allowing multiple improvements, was enacted as a separate section by sec. 6, Ch. 665, L. 1985, but is codified in this section for logic and convenience.

Case Notes

County Allowed Choice Whether to Issue Bonds Secured by Revolving Fund — County Not Relieved of Obligation to Make Loans to Deficient Rural Special Improvement Districts: The plain meaning of statutes regarding revolving funds, as well as the legislative history, supports the legislative intent to allow counties to choose whether to finance a rural special improvement district by issuing bonds secured by the revolving fund. Nothing in the statutes voids the commitment to loan from the revolving fund if the district becomes deficient. In this case, County Commissioners agreed to a revolving fund obligation and issued bonds secured by the revolving fund. The District Court reasoned that this was a violation of the constitutional prohibition against indebtedness beyond a certain percent, holding that the county was thus relieved of its obligation to make such loans. However, special improvement bond obligations are limited to the district funds and, if necessary, receive loans from the revolving fund. If both funds are insufficient to meet bond payments, there is no other source to pay the bonds. Under 7-12-2182, revolving fund levies are limited to an amount that would increase the balance in the fund to no more than 5% of the principal amount of the outstanding bonds. The District Court erred in its decision that the county was not obligated to make loans to the special improvement districts. Having exercised the discretion to institute a revolving fund and freely enter into an agreement with the bondholders and the underwriters, under both the terms of the agreement and applicable statutes, a county is obliged to carry out that contractual obligation. Loans from the revolving fund and subsequent tax levies are within the constitutional mandates of Art. VIII, sec. 1, Mont. Const., which requires that state funds be used for public purposes. Further, a county's obligation to make such loans and levy taxes to fund the revolving fund is mandatory, rather than discretionary, and is not an unconstitutional pledge of credit. Carbon County v. Dain Bosworth, Inc., 265 M 75, 874 P2d 718, 51 St. Rep. 436 (1994), distinguishing Stanley v. Jeffries, 86 M 114, 284 P 134 (1929), and Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

Inclusion of Same Amount of Each Lot in Assessment and District: In fixing the boundaries of a rural improvement district, a Board of County Commissioners may include less than the entire amount of a lot so as to equalize costs borne by each lot. 2017 Amendment: Chapter 140 in (4) substituted "7-12-2102(2)(a)" for "7-12-2102(2)". Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 293 in (3)(a) inserted last sentence relating to a recalculation of lot assessments if an increase occurs in the number of benefited lots. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Applicability: Section 9, Ch. 293, L. 2011, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued pursuant to Title 7, chapter 12, parts 21, 41, and 42, for which the resolution to create the district is adopted after December 31, 2011."

2009 Amendment: Chapter 342 in (3)(a) deleted former second sentence that read: "If one or more of the improvements proposed to be made or acquired by purchase are related to each other or are part of a larger project, the notice must describe the entire scope of the related or larger project, including the estimated costs of all related improvements, the method or methods by which these costs will be assessed, the impacts on property rights, and other actual or potential costs reasonably related to the proposed improvement"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 488 in (3)(a) inserted second sentence pertaining to factors involved in related or larger projects. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

Chapter 529 inserted (4) providing that this section does not apply to certain resolutions to create a district passed upon receipt of a petition. Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 in (2) deleted former first sentence that read: "The board shall also cause a copy of such notice to be posted in three public places within the boundaries of such special improvement district"; inserted (3)(b) concerning pledge of revolving fund and general fund loans or tax levy for revolving fund; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act]."
Effective March 24, 1995.

1985 Amendments: Chapter 349 in (1) substituted "publish notice" for "give notice" and inserted "as provided in 7-1-2121"; and in (2) deleted first sentence that read: "The notice must be published for 10 consecutive days in a daily newspaper or in two issues of a weekly newspaper published nearest to the place where such improvement district is to be created", inserted "as provided in 7-1-2122", and at end deleted "at his last known place of residence, upon the same day such notice is first published or posted".

Chapter 665 in first sentence of (3) inserted "describe generally the method or methods by which the costs of the improvements will be assessed".

Case Notes

Maintenance Distinguished From Reconstruction — Rural Improvement District: Yellowstone County replaced a 4-inch water main serving a rural special improvement district with a 12-inch main and assessed costs as "maintenance" costs against the property owners in the district. The court determined that the replacement costs were “reconstruction” costs as set forth in 7-12-4102, rather than “maintenance” costs under 7-12-2120 or 7-12-2162, and must be funded by creating a special improvement district under 7-12-2102 after notice and opportunity to object as provided in this section and 7-12-2109, respectively. Miller v. Yellowstone County, 234 M 193, 761 P2d 829, 45 St. Rep. 1836 (1988).

Failure to Give Notice: Failure to give the notice required by Ch. 156, L. 1917, as amended by Ch. 67, L. 1919, in the attempted creation of a rural improvement district deprived the county of jurisdiction to proceed, and a property owner, in his action to enjoin the collection of the tax against his property to pay for the improvement, was not estopped to deny the validity of the assessment by his omission to object to the creation of the district prior to its completion. Billings Bench Water Ass’n v. Yellowstone County, 70 M 401, 225 P 996 (1924), distinguished in Wood v. Kalispell, 131 M 390, 310 P2d 1058 (1957).

Hooking Up to Sewer System Characterized as Improvement Rather Than Maintenance or Repair: Seypar, Inc., argued that the sewer district should have assessed the cost of hookup fees on a districtwide basis rather than against the individual parcels of Seypar, Inc., as they were added to the system. No Presumption That Hookup Fees Reasonable: Seypar, Inc., argued that the sewer district's $500 hookup fee assessed against each of Seypar, Inc.'s, 70 lots was unreasonable. The Supreme Court held that the District Court was wrong in finding that the district was a local self-governing unit and that therefore there was no presumption that the district's fees were reasonable. However, the Supreme Court found that the district had introduced evidence that the fees were reasonable and Seypar, Inc., had presented no contrary evidence. Therefore, Seypar, Inc., it had not met its burden of proof to show that the fees were unreasonable. *Seypar, Inc. v. Assessed Valuation Option — Oil and Gas Net Proceeds: Oil and gas net proceeds and royalty interests should not be included within the assessed value of land benefited from a rural special improvement district for purposes of assessment of costs under this section. 42 A.G. Op. 5 (1987).

Assessment Area Smaller Than District — Partial Inclusion in District of Larger Lots: In a rural subdivision containing lots from 2 to 20 acres in size, a decision to include the entirety of each lot in a rural special improvement district but to assess only an equal portion of each lot was at odds with the assessment method mandated by this section, prior to 1985 amendment. To deal with the problem of equalizing burdens and benefits only part of the larger lots should be included within the district. 39 A.G. Op. 48 (1982).

Payment of Fire Hydrant Fee From Rural Improvement District Maintenance Fund: Counties have the power to create rural improvement districts outside of incorporated cities and towns for the purpose of acquiring and constructing certain improvements in the public interest, including the construction of water mains and hydrants. Maintenance, preservation, and repair of those improvements are paid for from the rural improvement district maintenance fund. Therefore, payment of a fire hydrant fee charged to a rural improvement district for provision of water to hydrants owned by the district may be made from the district's maintenance fund. 45 A.G. Op. 4 (1993).

Responsibility for Costs of Maintenance and Repair of County Road Established by Petition: If a rural special improvement district is created to improve a county road established by the county road petition process, the district is responsible for the costs of maintenance and repair of the road. 41 A.G. Op. 61 (1986).

Formation of New Improvement District Required for Substantial Expansion of Existing One: A sewer district constituting a rural special improvement district could be significantly expanded and the district's service area doubled in size only by the creation of a new special improvement district. The provisions of 7-12-2161(4) contemplate only maintenance of an existing system for which notice has previously been given and upon which a hearing has been previously held. A substantial addition to an existing district with notice or comment by the affected property owners would conflict with the notice procedures applicable to property owners not yet taxed for the improvement of their property. 40 A.G. Op. 44 (1984).

7-12-2162. Improvement district maintenance fund.

Case Notes

Maintenance Distinguished From Reconstruction — Rural Improvement District: Yellowstone County replaced a 4-inch water main serving a rural special improvement district with a 12-inch main and assessed costs as "maintenance" costs against the property owners in the district. The court determined that the replacement costs were "reconstruction" costs as set forth in 7-12-4102, rather than "maintenance" costs under 7-12-2120 or this section, and must be funded by creating a special improvement district under 7-12-2102 after notice and opportunity to object as provided in 7-12-2105 and 7-12-2109, respectively. Miller v. Yellowstone County, 234 M 193, 761 P2d 829, 45 St. Rep. 1836 (1988).

2019 Amendment: Chapter 107 in (1)(b) at end deleted "if the principal amount of the bonds is $500,000 or less and the board of county commissioners obtains separate written opinions from underwriters of Montana rural improvement district bonds stating the bonds are not marketable through a competitive bond sale. Bonds sold in principal amounts below $250,000 do not require a marketability opinion". Amendment effective April 1, 2019.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 489 inserted (3) concerning tax credit bonds, recovery zone economic development bonds, or qualified energy conservation bonds. Amendment effective May 14, 2009.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 277 deleted former (3) that read: "(3) As used in this part, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the following definitions apply:

(a) "Amortization bonds" means the form of bonds that bear interest at a fixed rate and on which:

- (i) a part of the principal must be paid each time that interest becomes payable;
- (ii) the part payment of principal increases at each installment in the same amount that the interest decreases;
- (iii) the combined interest and principal due on each due date remains the same until the bonds are paid;
- (iv) the final payment may vary from prior payments in the amount resulting from disregarding fractional costs in prior payments; and
- (v) the initial payment may be larger than subsequent payments if the increase represents interest accrued over an additional period not greater than 6 months.

(b) "Serial bonds" means a bond issue payable in semiannual or annual installments commencing not more than 2 years from the date of issue, any one installment consisting of one or more bonds, with the principal amount of bonds maturing in each installment not exceeding five times the principal amount of the bonds maturing in the immediately preceding installment"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 in (1)(a) inserted last two sentences providing that bonds or warrants sold at a private, negotiated sale may bear interest at a rate varying at times and on terms determined by the board of county commissioners and allowing the terms to include a maximum interest rate or convertibility to a fixed rate; inserted (1)(b) stating when variable rate bonds may be sold at a private, negotiated sale; in (1)(c) in second sentence substituted "may bear the corporate seal" for "must bear the corporate seal"; in (3) in definition of amortization bonds in introductory clause inserted "that bear interest at a fixed rate and" and in definition of serial bonds near beginning substituted "semiannual or annual" for "annual"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 459 deleted former (3) that read: "(3) All special improvement district bonds must be amortization bonds unless, in the judgment of the board, serial bonds will be more advantageous to the district and can be sold at a comparatively reasonable rate or rates of interest"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 256 in (2) inserted last sentence relating to when the term of a bond commences; in (4)(b) substituted definition of serial bonds for former language that read: "'Serial bonds" means the form of bonds that are payable in annual installments and on which the amount maturing each year may not be more than three times the principal amount of bonds maturing in any previous year"; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective March 23, 1989.

Chapter 449 in (4)(b) increased the annual maturity amount to five times from three times the principal amount from the previous year; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Case Notes

County Allowed Choice Whether to Issue Bonds Secured by Revolving Fund — County Not Relieved of Obligation to Make Loans to Deficient Rural Special Improvement Districts: The plain meaning of statutes regarding revolving funds, as well as the legislative history, supports the legislative intent to allow counties to choose whether to finance a rural special improvement district by issuing bonds secured by the revolving fund. Nothing in the statutes voids the commitment to loan from the revolving fund if the district becomes deficient. In this case, County Commissioners agreed to a revolving fund obligation and issued bonds secured by the revolving fund. The District Court reasoned that this was a violation of the constitutional prohibition against indebtedness beyond a certain percent, holding that the county was thus relieved of its obligation to make such loans. However, special improvement bond obligations are limited to the district funds and, if necessary, receive loans from the revolving fund. If both funds are insufficient to meet bond payments, there is no other source to pay the bonds. Under 7-12-2182, revolving fund levies are limited to an amount that would increase the balance in the fund to no more than 5% of the principal amount of the outstanding bonds. The District Court erred in its decision that the county was not obligated to make loans to the special improvement districts. Having exercised the discretion to institute a revolving fund and freely enter into an agreement with the bondholders and the underwriters, under both the terms of the agreement and applicable statutes, a county is obliged to carry out that contractual obligation. Loans from the revolving fund and subsequent tax levies are within the constitutional mandates of Art. VIII, sec. 1, Mont. Const., which requires that state funds be used for public purposes. Further, a county's obligation to make such loans and levy taxes to fund the revolving fund is mandatory, rather than discretionary, and is not an unconstitutional pledge of credit. Carbon County v. Dain Bosworth, Inc., 265 M 75, 874 P2d 718, 51 St. Rep. 436 (1994), distinguishing Stanley v. Jeffries, 86 M 114, 284 P 134 (1929), and Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 349 in (1)(a) near end substituted "amount of at least 5% and not more than 10%" for "amount equal to 5%"; in (1)(c) in second sentence after "revolving fund" substituted "will exceed 10% or, with the amount levied by the tax, will exceed 10%" for "exceeds 5%", after "rural" deleted "special", at end inserted "after all required transfers have been made to the district funds through fiscal yearend", and deleted former third sentence that read: "If a tax is levied, the tax may not be an amount that would increase the balance in the revolving fund above 5% of the then-outstanding rural special improvement district bonds and warrants secured by the revolving fund"; and in (2) in second sentence near middle after "rural" deleted "special". Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 inserted (1)(a) concerning revolving fund; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act]." Effective March 24, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In (2), near end of first sentence inserted "and the balance of such money or, if there is no outstanding loan, so much of such money as the board considers necessary may be transferred to the improvement district's maintenance fund", and at end of subsection inserted "or the improvement district's maintenance fund".

1983 Amendment: In (1)(b), inserted "secured thereby" at the end of second and third sentence; and in (2) inserted "secured by the revolving fund" in first and second sentence.

1981 Amendment: Substituted the last two sentences of (1)(b) relating to the 5% revolving fund limit for "such levy, together with such transfer, not to exceed in any one year 5% of the principal amount of the then-outstanding rural special improvement district bonds and warrants".

2005 Amendment: Chapter 451 in (4)(a)(i) at beginning inserted "the bonds to be refunded bear interest at a fixed rate or rates and"; inserted (4)(a)(ii) regarding variable rate refunding bonds; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 28, 2005.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 in (4)(a) at end inserted "or, if the bonds to be refunded bear interest at a variable rate, the board determines that the issuance of fixed rate refunding bonds is in the best interest of the owners of property in the district and the county or the board determines that the issuance of variable rate refunding bonds based on a different index or formula than that of the refunded bonds is reasonably expected to result over the remaining term of the bonds to be refunded in an interest rate at least 1/2 of 1% a year less than the rate of interest on the refunded bonds". Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of introductory clause of (4) deleted "Unless there is, or will be on the next payment date, a default in the payment of bond principal or interest"; inserted (4)(b) relating to an actual default or a default by next payment date; inserted (4)(c) relating to a greater than 50% delinquency rate; in (6)(a) inserted "the proceeds of the refunding bonds do not redeem the outstanding bonds until"; inserted (6)(c) relating to a delinquency rate greater than 50%; and made minor changes in form and phraseology. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Saving Clause: Section 17, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a saving clause.

1987 Amendment: In (4), at beginning of sentence, inserted introductory phrase concerning default.

Part 41

Special Improvement Districts

Part Case Notes

Failure to Prove Mistake or Fraud in City Determination of Boundary of Special Improvement District — Summary Judgment Proper: The city of Missoula included plaintiffs' property in a storm sewer drainage special improvement district, and plaintiffs filed a complaint, alleging that pursuant to 7-12-4162, they could not be included in the special improvement district absent some benefit to them from the proposed system. The District Court heard contradicting evidence on the question of benefit, but concluded that plaintiffs failed to produce evidence of mistake or fraud as required in Stevens v. Missoula, 205 M 274, 667 P2d 440 (1983), and summarily dismissed plaintiffs' complaint. The Supreme Court affirmed. Under Stevens, a city's determination of benefit and creation of special improvement district boundaries is conclusive absent proof of mistake or fraud that precludes the exercise of sound judgment. Plaintiffs did not satisfy the threshold requirement in Stevens and thus could not prevail even if the facts articulated in the complaint were true. Enger v. Missoula, 2001 MT 142, 306 M 28, 29 P3d 514 (2001).

Boundary of Special Improvement District — How Drawn: A special improvement district's boundary lines should be drawn in such a way that the improvement brings a benefit to the included properties and that the benefit is substantially more intense than that which is realized by the properties outside of the district boundaries. The fact that outside property derives some general benefit should not affect the special benefit afforded the district properties. Stevens v. Missoula, 205 M 274, 667 P2d 440, 40 St. Rep. 1267 (1983).

Sufficiency of Resolution of Intention to Create SID: Plaintiffs unsuccessfully challenged in the District Court the validity of the creation by the City Council of a special improvement district (SID) to expand off-street parking in downtown Missoula. The SID was proposed to the City Council by the Parking Commission. Two alternatives were presented. One involved addition of parking spaces on three surface lots. The other involved addition of parking spaces on two lots and construction of a parking garage on a third lot. Both proposals entailed acquisition of the same parcels of land. The City Council then adopted, pursuant to 7-12-4104, a resolution of intention to create an SID, including both alternative plans in the resolution. Written protests were filed, and opposition to creation of the SID was expressed at a public hearing. The City Council then adopted a resolution creating the SID. In the resolution, the general nature of the improvements was set forth in the alternative. On appeal, the Supreme Court ruled that the alternative structure of the resolution of intention did not deny property owners notice of the cost and nature of the proposed improvement. Nor does 7-12-4104 preclude use of the alternative form. Stevens v. Missoula, 205 M 274, 667 P2d 440, 40 St. Rep. 1267 (1983).

Notice to Be Published Rather Than Posted if Possible: The obvious intent of the Legislature as declared in 7-12-4107 (now repealed) was to permit posting of notice only when publication could not be made in the city, and whenever there is a newspaper published in the city, whether "daily", "semiweekly", or "weekly", publication therein should take precedence over notice by posting. Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

7-12-4102. Authorization for creation of special improvement districts — petition for creation.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 93 inserted (3) regarding order and creation of a special improvement district; in (4) at beginning of second sentence substituted "Properties" for "Property owners" and near middle after "district if" substituted "under the assessment methodology provided in the resolution of intention, the owners of lots, tracts, or parcels outside the city representing not less than 40% of the total projected assessments against properties outside the city" for "40% of those property owners"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 30, 2007.

Chapter 163 in (2)(d)(v) at beginning inserted "land, structures, and". Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 591 inserted (2)(j) concerning districts for alternative energy production facilities; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Severability: Section 28, Ch. 591, L. 2001, was a severability clause.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 250 inserted (2)(i) allowing creation of special improvement districts for conversion of overhead utilities to underground locations; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

1991 Amendment: Inserted (2)(h) allowing creation of special improvement district to acquire park land.

1989 Amendment: In (1) inserted "or, if refunding bonds are issued pursuant to 7-12-4194, for a period not exceeding 30 years"; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Saving Clause: Section 17, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a saving clause.

1987 Amendment: Inserted (2)(f) relating to extension of gas, electric, and telecommunications services.

1985 Amendment: At end of (1) inserted "or bonds"; in (2)(a) and (2)(b) inserted "acquiring by purchase" and made minor changes in phraseology; in (2)(d) inserted "acquisition"; and in second sentence of (3) substituted "may not be included in the special improvement district if 40% of those property owners protest the creation" for "may be included in the special improvement district only if 60% of those property owners approve".

1981 Amendment: Inserted (3) relating to districts abutting city limits or extending beyond city limits.

Case Notes

Failure to Prove Mistake or Fraud in City Determination of Boundary of Special Improvement District — Summary Judgment Proper: The city of Missoula included plaintiffs' property in a storm sewer drainage special improvement district, and plaintiffs filed a complaint, alleging that pursuant to 7-12-4162, they could not be included in the special improvement district absent some benefit to them from the proposed system. Plaintiffs did not satisfy the threshold requirement in Stevens and thus could not prevail even if the facts articulated in the complaint were true. Enger v. Missoula, 2001 MT 142, 306 M 28, 29 P3d 514 (2001).

Maintenance Distinguished From Reconstruction — Rural Improvement District: Yellowstone County replaced a 4-inch water main serving a rural special improvement district with a 12-inch main and assessed costs as "maintenance" costs against the property owners in the district. The court determined that the replacement costs were "reconstruction" costs as set forth in this section, rather than "maintenance" costs under 7-12-2120 or 7-12-2162, and must be funded by creating a special improvement district under 7-12-2102 after notice and opportunity to object as provided in 7-12-2105 and 7-12-2109, respectively. Miller v. Yellowstone County, 234 M 193, 761 P2d 829, 45 St. Rep. 1836 (1988).

City Ordinance Requiring Developer Surcharge — Valid Exercise of Self-Governing Power: A city ordinance imposing a 5% surcharge on developers of raw land prior to creation of a special improvement district was a valid exercise of the city's self-governing powers. Diefenderfer v. Billings, 223 M 487, 726 P2d 1362, 43 St. Rep. 1934 (1986).

Boundary of Special Improvement District — How Drawn: A special improvement district's boundary lines should be drawn in such a way that the improvement brings a benefit to the included properties and that the benefit is substantially more intense than that which is realized by the properties outside of the district boundaries. The fact that outside property derives some general benefit should not affect the special benefit afforded the district properties. Stevens v. Missoula, 205 M 274, 667 P2d 440, 40 St. Rep. 1267 (1983).

Bond Issues — Payment: Where a special improvement district was established under this section and bonds were issued "payable from the collection of the special tax or assessment which is a lien against the real estate within said improvement district", the bonds were not a general obligation of the town and the town could not be compelled to redeem the bonds from a water fund made up of water rentals from water users, even though the town may have had authority to make payments from such fund. State ex rel. Truax v. Lima, 121 M 152, 193 P2d 1008 (1948).

Assessment Not to Be Predicated on Future Action of Public Authority: A special improvement district was created for the construction of a main trunk line sewer which would not serve plaintiff's lot or a majority of the lots within the district until laterals could be constructed. This would require the creation of local districts within the main trunk line district. As an assessment cannot be predicated on future action of public authorities, plaintiff's land could not be assessed for the main trunk line sewer. Crutchfield v. Nash, 84 M 556, 276 P 938 (1929).

Powers of City Council Limited: The statutes of this state relating to the creation of special improvement districts not only qualify and limit the powers which the City Council may exercise but they define with particularity the mode in which the restricted authority may be used, and compliance with their provisions is the sine qua non to the creation of a special improvement district for making improvements the expense of which is to be a charge against the property included. Johnston v. Hardin, 55 M 574, 179 P 824 (1919); Cooper v. Bozeman, 54 M 277, 169 P 801 (1917); Shapard v. Missoula, 49 M 269, 141 P 544 (1914).

Right to Attack Validity of Creation of District: Where an owner joined in a petition for the creation of a special improvement district and thereafter, in creating it, a large part of the property described therein was excluded by the City Council, the petitioner was not estopped from subsequently attacking the validity of the creation by the fact that he joined in the petition. Lewistown v. Warren, 52 M 356, 157 P 954 (1916).

Construction of Section: The provisions of this section were not repealed by implication by Ch. 89, L. 1913, relating to special improvements in cities and towns. Shapard v. Missoula, 49 M 269, 141 P 544 (1914).

Federal Property: The constitutional provision that a state shall not impose any taxes upon property therein belonging to the United States includes special assessments for street improvements. Ford v. Great Falls, 46 M 292, 127 P 1004 (1912).

Theory of Act:

With respect to special improvements, the "superficial area" rule is the rule of this state; it amounts to a legislative declaration that all property in a proposed district is, presumptively, equally benefited by the improvement contemplated. Mansur v. Polson, 45 M 585, 125 P 1002 (1912).

The whole theory of local taxation or assessments is that the improvements for which they are levied afford a remuneration in the way of benefits. Power v. Helena, 43 M 336, 116 P 415 (1911).

School District Property: The property of a school district, devoted exclusively to public school purposes, is, in the absence of express constitutional or statutory exemption, liable for the payment of assessments made for special municipal improvements. Kalispell v. School District, 45 M 221, 122 P 742 (1912).

Constitutionality: Laws providing for the creation of special improvement districts and imposing a tax by way of assessment upon the property legislatively determined to be benefited are not open to the objection that they deprive the owner of his property without due process of law. McMillan v. Butte, 30 M 220, 76 P 203 (1904).

Attorney General's Opinions

Special Improvement Districts — Legal Services — City Controls: Because a special improvement district (SID) is a creature of statute, with the power to create it clearly vested in the city, a developer seeking creation of a special improvement district has no authority to designate a private attorney to perform legal services in connection with the SID or to fix the fee for such legal services. 38 A.G. Op. 29 (1979).

7-12-4103. Formation of district to defray cost of acquiring private property.Case Notes

Paying for Condemned Property Outside City Limits: In the absence of such a provision as contained in this section, the power of a municipality to create a special improvement district in a city for the construction of a project to protect city property from overflows would be implied on grounds of special necessity, and in such case, as well as where the power is expressly conferred, property in the special improvement district may properly be assessed for the purpose of paying for condemned property lying outside the city limits. Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

7-12-4104. Resolution of intention to create special improvement district.Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 293 inserted (2)(e) relating to a recalculation of lot assessments if an increase occurs in the number of benefited lots; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Applicability: Section 9, Ch. 293, L. 2011, provided: "[This act] applies to bonds issued pursuant to Title 7, chapter 12, parts 21, 41, and 42, for which the resolution to create the district is adopted after December 31, 2011."

1985 Amendment: In (2) inserted (d) requiring specification of assessment method; in (3) substituted "character of it in the resolution" for "character of the same"; and made minor changes in punctuation and phraseology.

Case Notes

Resolution Creating Special Improvement District — Not Subject to Referendum: A resolution creating a municipal special improvement district that encompasses less area than the municipal limits is not subject to referendum because the resolution affects only the people within the improvement district rather than the people of the municipality as a whole. The Supreme Court further held that the resolution creating a special improvement district is part of an administrative procedure, not a legislative action subject to referendum. Shelby v. Sandholm, 208 M 77, 676 P2d 178, 41 St. Rep. 186 (1984), distinguished in The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

Extended District: Besides those requirements enumerated in this section, the City Commission must take two additional steps under 7-12-4109 to have a valid resolution of intention for an "extended" district. Smith v. Bozeman, 144 M 528, 398 P2d 462 (1965).

Construction of Section: The words "approximate estimate" should not be construed liberally. Koich v. Helena, 132 M 194, 315 P2d 811 (1957).

Sufficiency of Resolution:

Plaintiffs unsuccessfully challenged in the District Court the validity of the creation by the City Council of a special improvement district (SID) to expand off-street parking in downtown Missoula. The SID was proposed to the City Council by the Parking Commission. Two alternatives were presented. One involved addition of parking spaces on three surface lots. The other involved addition of parking spaces on two lots and construction of a parking garage on a third lot. Both proposals entailed acquisition of the same parcels of land. The City Council then adopted, pursuant to this section, a resolution of intention to create an SID, including both alternative plans in the resolution. Written protests were filed, and opposition to creation of the SID was expressed at a public hearing. The City Council then adopted a resolution creating the SID. In the resolution, the general nature of the improvements was set forth in the alternative. On appeal, the Supreme Court ruled that the alternative structure of the resolution of intention did not deny property owners notice of the cost and nature of the proposed improvement. Nor does this section preclude use of the alternative form. Stevens v. Missoula, 205 M 274, 667 P2d 440, 40 St. Rep. 1267 (1983).

Where improvement was amply covered by general description contained in resolution of intention, that waterworks were to be constructed outside of special improvement district for purpose of furnishing water for pipes laid in district, held sufficient, so far as concerns description of work chargeable to district. Lumbermen's Trust Co. v. Ryegate, 61 F2d 14 (9th Cir. 1931).

A resolution of intention to create a special improvement district, the title of which stated that it was a "resolution of intention", etc., and the body of which substantially contained the recitals required by statute and advised the taxpayers of the time and place where their objections to its creation would be heard, was sufficient as against the objection that in it the City Council had not declared its intention to create it. Aiken v. Glendive, 60 M 1, 197 P 1003 (1921).

Boundary: Under this section, a city has the power to fix the boundary of a special improvement district at any distance from the front line of a street and is not required to include the whole platted area of each lot. Ricker v. Helena, 68 M 350, 218 P 1049 (1923).

Discretion of Council:

In an action to set aside the proceedings of a City Council had in the creation of a special street improvement district and to enjoin the carrying out of a paving contract entered into, on the grounds that the city had joined in one district property abutting on several streets, that the character of work to be done on one street was different from that to be done on others, and that property on several streets would not be benefited by the paving on another, proceedings reviewed and held, in view of the power lodged in the City Council by this section to include in one district and in one contract any number of streets, any kind of work, etc., that the Council did not abuse its discretion. Ricker v. Helena, 68 M 350, 218 P 1049 (1923).

The City Council as a special tribunal to conduct the hearing is clothed with limited powers only, and no presumption in favor of its jurisdiction will be indulged. The statute measures its authority, and compliance with the terms of the statute is a condition precedent to the right to act. Johnston v. Hardin, 55 M 574, 179 P 824 (1919).

Departure From Resolution: Under a resolution of intention to create a special improvement district for the purpose of paving streets, with the necessary excavations, cutting, filling, etc., and "incidental work", held that defendant city was properly enjoined from entering into a contract the provisions of which departed substantially from the purposes set forth in the resolution, in that they included reduction in the street widths and the construction of new parking, curbing, and storm sewers, each of which constitutes a distinct city improvement under this section, and none of which was therefore subject to inclusion under the term "incidental work". Evans v. Helena, 60 M 577, 199 P 445 (1921).

Substantial Compliance: A resolution passed by the Town Council reciting the creation of an improvement district and that the resolution should be deemed one of intention to create, and creating it, followed by a description of its boundaries and of the character of the proposed improvements, with an estimate of the cost, etc., and that objections to its creation and the final adoption of the resolution would be heard in a certain place at a given time, held to have been in substantial compliance with statutory provisions. Harvey v. Townsend, 57 M 407, 188 P 897 (1920).

Boundary Description Incorrect: Where a resolution of intention to create a special improvement district described the boundaries of an entirely different district from that referred to in the notice served upon the owner of property affected, the City Council did not acquire jurisdiction to proceed with the improvement. Johnston v. Hardin, 55 M 574, 179 P 824 (1919).

Necessary Steps to Create Districts: The successive steps necessary to be taken by a City Council in the creation of special improvement district are: (1) the adoption of a resolution of intention; (2) the service of the required notice; (3) a hearing and determination against protests; and (4) the passage of a resolution creating the district. The first three of these steps are jurisdictional, and a failure to take any one of them is fatal to the proceedings. Johnston v. Hardin, 55 M 574, 179 P 824 (1919); Shapard v. Missoula, 49 M 269, 141 P 544 (1914).

Creation of District Without Resolution of Intention: Before a special improvement district can be created, the City Council must pass a resolution of intention to do so, give notice of its passage, etc. Where the Council, in an endeavor to create such a district, passed a resolution which proclaimed the creation of the district and an intention to assess the property liable for the cost of the improvement, the proceedings were void in limine for want of a proper resolution of intention. Cooper v. Bozeman, 54 M 277, 169 P 801 (1917).

Description of Boundaries: By a resolution to create a special improvement district described as being bounded by certain lots, such lots were not incorporated in but excluded from the proposed district. Lewistown v. Warr, 52 M 353, 157 P 953 (1916).

Purpose of Boundary Description: Proceedings for the imposition of a special improvement tax are in invitum, and before property can be held subject to the burden, it must be described with sufficient certainty that the owner cannot be misled, it being the intention of the statute that the resolution of intention shall contain a description of the proposed district by a line which marks its exterior boundaries. Lewistown v. Warr, 52 M 353, 157 P 953 (1916).

Resolution of Intention — Primary Step: The resolution of intention is the primary step to be taken in every instance and is the basis of the whole proceeding, the omission of which is fatal and renders all the subsequent proceedings nugatory. Shapard v. Missoula, 49 M 269, 141 P 544 (1914).

7-12-4106. Notice of passage of resolution of intention — exception.Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 293 in (3)(a) inserted last sentence relating to a recalculation of lot assessments if an increase occurs in the number of benefited lots. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Applicability: Section 9, Ch. 293, L. 2011, provided: “[This act] applies to bonds issued pursuant to Title 7, chapter 12, parts 21, 41, and 42, for which the resolution to create the district is adopted after December 31, 2011.”

2007 Amendment: Chapter 93 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (4) providing that this section does not apply to certain districts; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 30, 2007.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 in (1) substituted “the resolution of intention pursuant to 7-12-4104” for “such resolution”; in (2), at end of first sentence, substituted “as provided in 7-1-2121” for “for 5 days in a daily newspaper or in some one issue of a weekly paper published in the city or town or, in case no newspaper be published in such city, then by posting for 5 days in three public places in the city or town”; inserted (3)(b) concerning revolving fund; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: “[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act].” Effective March 24, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In (3), inserted “describe generally the method or methods by which the costs of the improvements will be assessed”, before “protests” inserted “written”, after “making” inserted “or acquisition”, inserted last sentence requiring that notice state exact purchase price if proposal is for purchase of an existing improvement, and made minor changes in punctuation and phraseology.

Case Notes*Notice:*

Landowners who appear before the City Council to protest the establishment of an improvement district do not thereby waive their right to restrain its establishment on the ground of defective publication of notice. Guffey v. Helena, 140 M 211, 369 P2d 803 (1962).

Parties who have either received notice or waived it by appearing to protest may not take advantage of the failure of notice to other parties who have neither protested nor appeared as parties to the suit. Shaw v. Kalispell, 135 M 284, 340 P2d 523 (1959), explained in Guffey v. Helena, 140 M 211, 369 P2d 803 (1962).

This section does not require the City Clerk to mail copies of the required notice to persons who are neither record owners nor personally known owners of an interest in property in the district, since they have been careless in failing to record their ownership. Shaw v. Kalispell, 135 M 284, 340 P2d 523 (1959), explained in Guffey v. Helena, 140 M 211, 369 P2d 803 (1962).

Failure of the notice mentioned in this section to refer to the resolution for a description of boundaries is insufficient to vitiate the proceedings. (See 1995 amendment as to notice requirements.) Harvey v. Townsend, 57 M 407, 188 P 897 (1920).

The caption of a notice is not part of the notice itself and cannot be looked to to supply any deficiency in the notice. Johnston v. Hardin, 55 M 574, 179 P 824 (1919).

In the absence of the statutory notice of the City Council's intention to create a special improvement district, plaintiff property owner was not called upon to act, an inference deducible from his complaint that he had actual knowledge that his property was to be included in the proposed district being insufficient. Johnston v. Hardin, 55 M 574, 179 P 824 (1919).

Publication of a notice of intention to create a special improvement district, which contained the proper reference to time and place for hearing objections to its final adoption, was sufficient. Allen v. Butte, 55 M 205, 175 P 595 (1918).

Purpose of Resolution: The essential purpose of a resolution of intention is to: (1) apprise the taxpayers that the city intends to propose a special improvement district; (2) describe the area that will be encompassed in the district; (3) describe the type and character of improvements that will be included within the district; and (4) state the cost of the improvements to be made. Koich v. Helena, 132 M 194, 315 P2d 811 (1957).

Failure to Mail Notice: A special improvement district for the purpose of raising funds was void where one of the property owners affected was not mailed a notice. Wood v. Kalispell, 131 M 390, 310 P2d 1058 (1957).

Newspaper Publishing Five Days a Week Considered a Daily: The provision "must be published for five days in a daily newspaper" was met by publication for 5 consecutive days in a paper, which 5 days constituted all its publications for a week, it having been held that a newspaper published 5 days in the week is a "daily" in the popular sense. (See 1995 amendment.) Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

7-12-4108. Responsibility for posting and publication of notice.

Case Notes

Error in Publication of Notice: Under this section, any error in or departure from the mode of publication of any notice incident to the creation of a special improvement district is insufficient to invalidate the proceedings when it appears that the notice was actually published for the time required by the act. Aiken v. Glendive, 60 M 1, 197 P 1003 (1921).

7-12-4109. Extension of proposed district.

Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: In introduction after "improvement to" deleted "an extended district that may include other" and substituted "declares to be, together with the lots abutting the improvement, the property benefited" for "declares to be the district benefited".

Case Notes

Sufficiency of Resolution: Besides those requirements enumerated in 7-12-4104, the City Commission must take two additional steps under this section to have a valid resolution of intention for an "extended" district. Smith v. Bozeman, 144 M 528, 398 P2d 462 (1965).

Purpose of Assessment: Where a district was created for the purpose of paying for improvements at intersections as authorized by this section and another district was created under 7-12-4167 to defray the cost of the street where it abuts on privately owned property, there was in no sense double taxation. The assessments were for different purposes. One assessment was to raise money to defray the cost of the intersections and the other to defray the cost of the street where it abuts on privately owned property. Bidlingmeyer v. Deer Lodge, 128 M 292, 274 P2d 821 (1954).

Public Benefit: In an action to recover improvement taxes paid under protest, held that, this section not so providing, a resolution of intention to create an extended improvement district including lots not fronting on the improvement, for the purpose of installing water mains and fire protection apparatus, need not recite that the contemplated work was of more than local or ordinary public benefit, the adoption of the resolution being a sufficient finding that in the opinion of the City Council the proposed improvement was of that character. Almas v. Havre, 70 M 33, 223 P 896 (1924).

7-12-4110. Protest against proposed work or district.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 93 in (1)(a) near beginning added reference to subsection (2) to exception clause; inserted (2) providing that this section does not apply to certain districts; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 30, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 401 in (1)(a) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (1)(b) extending the protest period by 2 days if the 15-day period in subsection (1)(a) includes a holiday; in (2) at end of second sentence after "within the" substituted "protest period" for "15-day period"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 277 inserted (3) defining owner for purposes of this section; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

1985 Amendment: In (2) inserted "identify the property in the district owned by the protestor, and be signed by all the owners of the property. The protest must".

Case Notes

Construction of Section: The provision of this section that objections to a proposed special improvement shall be heard at the next regular meeting of the City Council after the expiration of the 15 days in which protest can be made is directory only. Harvey v. Townsend, 57 M 407, 188 P 897 (1920).

7-12-4112. Hearing on protest.Case Notes

Failure to Object at Hearing: A property owner failed to enter his objections to inclusion of his land in a special improvement district at a hearing held by the city for such purpose. For this reason he was estopped from maintaining an action to determine the question even though his property was so situated as to receive no benefit. Power v. Helena, 43 M 336, 116 P 415 (1911).

7-12-4113. Sufficient protest to bar proceedings — exceptions.Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: In introduction of (1) before "protest shall" deleted "sufficient" and after "commission when" deleted "the protest is against the proposed work and"; in (1)(a), at beginning deleted "the cost thereof is to be assessed against property fronting thereon and", inserted "property in the district to be assessed for", and substituted "cost of the proposed work, in accordance with the method or methods of assessment described in the resolution of intention" for "property fronting on the proposed work"; and in (3), inserted "property in the district to be assessed for", and substituted "cost of the district, in accordance with the methods of assessment described in the resolution of intention" for "property affected, as herein provided".

Case Notes

Determination of Area of Protest: The phrase, "the area of the property to be assessed", as used in this section to describe those persons entitled to protest creation of an improvement district, depends upon the method of assessment used by the city under 7-12-4161. Smith v. Bozeman, 144 M 528, 398 P2d 462 (1965).

Property Owned by City Also to Be Computed: In determining whether a given percentage of the owners of property affected by a proposed special improvement have filed protests against it, the City or Town Council is authorized by this section to take into consideration property owned by it and included in the district, such property being subject to assessment therefor the same as privately owned property. Ricker v. Helena, 68 M 350, 218 P 1049 (1923).

Withdrawal From Protest: A property owner in a city who has signed a protest against the creation of a special improvement district may, within the time allowed for presenting such protest, withdraw therefrom and thus defeat the protest. Hawley v. Butte, 53 M 411, 164 P 305 (1917).

Sufficiency of Protest: An alleged protest to street paving, filed by abutting owners, stating the reasons why they did not desire the paving done during a certain year and stating that they were willing to have the street paved 2 years later and that payment therefor should be required in three annual installments, was not an unqualified protest to the paving. McMillan v. Butte, 30 M 220, 76 P 203 (1904).

No Referendum on Special Improvement Districts: A resolution creating a special improvement district under 7-12-4102 is not subject to repeal by referendum. 39 A.G. Op. 73 (1982).

7-12-4114. Resolution creating special improvement district.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 93 inserted (1)(d) allowing the council to order proposed improvements after a resolution creating the district has been passed; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 30, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 401 in (1) at beginning substituted "The council may order proposed improvements after" for "When"; in (1)(a) near middle after "within" substituted "the time prescribed in 7-12-4110" for "15 days"; in (1)(b) near middle after "found" deleted "by said council"; in (1)(c) at end after "denied" deleted "immediately thereupon, the council shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction to order the proposed improvements"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Case Notes

Resolution Creating Special Improvement District — Not Subject to Referendum: A resolution creating a municipal special improvement district that encompasses less area than the municipal limits is not subject to referendum because the resolution affects only the people within the improvement district rather than the people of the municipality as a whole. The Supreme Court further held that the resolution creating a special improvement district is part of an administrative procedure, not a legislative action subject to referendum. Shelby v. Sandholm, 208 M 77, 676 P2d

178, 41 St. Rep. 186 (1984), distinguished in The Greens at Fort Missoula, LLC v. Missoula, 271 M 398, 897 P2d 1078, 52 St. Rep. 501 (1995).

Waiver of Claim for Damages: By failure of an objecting property owner to give notice of defects or irregularities in the proceedings to the Council within 60 days after the contract for the work is let, he waives all claim for damages under this section. Harvey v. Townsend, 57 M 407, 188 P 897 (1920).

Acquisition of Jurisdiction: It is only after the lapse of 15 days from the first publication of notice of intention to create an improvement district and after all protests have been disposed of adversely to objecting property owners that the City Council shall be deemed to have acquired jurisdiction to order the improvement (see 2005 and 2007 amendments). Shapard v. Missoula, 49 M 269, 141 P 544 (1914).

Attorney General's Opinions

Vacation of Street by Mayor-Council Government — Legal Effect on City's Interest in Street: Under this section, a municipality has the authority to close all or part of a street to through traffic without giving up its legal interest in the street or to vacate all or part of the street and revoke its legal interest in it. A municipality with a mayor-council form of government is bound by the procedures in this section rather than by 7-3-4448, which applies only to commission-manager forms of government, when it seeks to discontinue, close, or vacate a street. The choice between vacating a street and closing a street is a matter for the discretion of the municipal officers of a mayor-council form of government. 46 A.G. Op. 4 (1995), clarifying Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802 (1979).

This act does not apply to any special assessments for the repayment of bonded indebtedness incurred before the effective date of this act if the bonds were issued on representations that the property exempted from special assessments by this act would be liable for repayment of the bonded indebtedness."

7-12-4132. Power to require underground placement of utilities within district.

Compiler's Comments

1993 Amendment: Chapter 250 at beginning of (1) inserted "Unless the purpose of the special improvement district is the conversion of existing overhead utilities to an underground location"; at end of (2) substituted "costs incurred" for "sum of $1.50 per lineal foot plus the cost of the pipe"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1993.

7-12-4133. Power to require certain utility connections.

Case Notes

Sewer District Not Local Self-Governing Unit: The lower court granted a multicounty sewer district's motion for summary judgment, ruling that the district had the right to impose hookup inspection fees on the appellant, Seypar, Inc. Seypar, Inc., argued that the district did not have the authority to impose the fee against individual property owners and that the cost should have been assessed against the whole district. The Supreme Court ruled that although state law gave the district the same administrative powers as County Commissioners have over a single county sewer district, those powers are not the same as a local self-governing unit and therefore the district did not have the authority to exercise any power not prohibited by Montana law. The Supreme Court stated that since the district was not self-governing, it could not argue that the statutes relating to municipal districts applied to it by analogy. The Supreme Court held that the district did have the power to impose hookup fees under 7-12-2151. Seypar, Inc. v. Water & Sewer District No. 363, 1998 MT 149, 289 M 263, 960 P2d 311, 55 St. Rep. 578 (1998).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (2) at end substituted "as provided in 7-1-4127" for "at least twice in a daily, semiweekly, or weekly newspaper published and circulated in the city and designated by the council for that purpose, and in case there is no newspaper published in the city, then it must be posted in at least three public places". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 250 at beginning of (1) inserted exception clause; in first sentence of (3) changed time for opening bids from not less than 10 days to not less than 5 days or more than 12 days and inserted second sentence requiring elapse of 15 days if advertisement is made by posting; inserted (4) requiring that certain conversion work be done by the responsible public utility; and made minor changes in style. 2011 Amendment: Chapter 293 in (2) inserted last sentence relating to a recalculation of lot assessments if an increase occurs in the number of benefited lots. Amendment effective January 1, 2012.

Applicability: Section 9, Ch. 293, L. 2011, provided: “[This act] applies to bonds issued pursuant to Title 7, chapter 12, parts 21, 41, and 42, for which the resolution to create the district is adopted after December 31, 2011.”

1985 Amendment: In (1), substituted “of making or acquiring” for “of the making of”, inserted “including incidental expenses”, and “for each improvement to be made or acquired for the benefit of the district”; and in (2) substituted language allowing city council to use multiple methods of assessment and to have flexibility in assessing for more than one improvement for “The method of assessment provided for in 7-12-4163 shall not apply to assessments in improvement districts created under the provisions of 7-12-4109.”

Case Notes

Method of Assessment: Since there is a direct correlation between this section and 7-12-4112, as expressed in the phrase, “the area of the property to be assessed”, the method of assessment used by the city governs the basis for determining those persons entitled to protest creation of an improvement district. Smith v. Bozeman, 144 M 528, 398 P2d 462 (1965).

Double Taxation: Where a district was created for the purpose of paying for improvements at intersections as authorized by 7-12-4109 and another district was created to defray the cost of the street under this section, there was in no sense double taxation. The assessments were for different purposes. One assessment was to raise money to defray the cost of the intersections and the other to defray the cost of the street where it abuts on privately owned property. Bidlingmeyer v. Deer Lodge, 128 M 292, 274 P2d 821 (1954).

1993 Amendment: Chapter 269 inserted (3) allowing each lot or parcel of land to be assessed an equal amount of the cost of the improvement.

1987 Codification: Section 5, Ch. 631, L. 1987, concerning city council or city commission assessment of the cost of an improvement, was codified as subsection (2) of 7-12-4162.

1985 Amendment: In (1), in first sentence substituted “an improvement against benefited property in the district” for “such improvements against the entire district”, before “within such district” inserted “assessed”, inserted “assessable” in two places, inserted “all benefited lots or parcels in”, and inserted second and third sentences defining assessable area and providing size limitations of assessable area; in (2) before “property” inserted “benefited”; and in (3) in two places before “land”, inserted “benefited”.

Case Notes

Failure to Prove Mistake or Fraud in City Determination of Boundary of Special Improvement District — Summary Judgment Proper: The city of Missoula included plaintiffs' property in a storm sewer drainage special improvement district, and plaintiffs filed a complaint, alleging that pursuant to this section, they could not be included in the special improvement district absent some benefit to them from the proposed system. The District Court heard contradicting evidence on the question of benefit, but concluded that plaintiffs failed to produce evidence of mistake or fraud as required in Stevens v. Missoula, 205 M 274, 667 P2d 440 (1983), and summarily dismissed plaintiffs' complaint. The Supreme Court affirmed. Under Stevens, a city's determination of benefit and creation of special improvement district boundaries is conclusive absent proof of mistake or fraud that precludes the exercise of sound judgment. Plaintiffs did not satisfy the threshold requirement in Stevens and thus could not prevail even if the facts articulated in the complaint were true. Enger v. Missoula, 2001 MT 142, 306 M 28, 29 P3d 514 (2001).

Estoppel to Protest: The question of estoppel under 7-12-4176 does not preclude a property owner from protesting a figure used as the “assessable area” in a resolution of intention for purposes of determining the sufficiency of the protest under 7-12-4113, since it applies only to the actual assessment as stated in the resolution of assessment. Smith v. Bozeman, 144 M 528, 398 P2d 462 (1965).

1997 Amendment: Chapter 459 substituted (3)(e) concerning use of district reserve for former text that read: "Money remaining in the district reserve account after the principal and interest on all bonds and warrants drawn on the district have been paid or discharged must be transferred to the revolving fund."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 in (1), at beginning, substituted "Incidental expenses" for "The costs and expenses connected with and incidental to" and near end, after "cost", deleted "and expenses"; in (2), at beginning, inserted "If the bonds or warrants are secured by the revolving fund under 7-12-4225" and substituted "must include an amount equal to 5%" for "may at the option of the municipal governing body, include an amount not to exceed 5%"; inserted (3) concerning district reserve account; inserted (4) concerning additional security from real property owners; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act]." Effective March 24, 1995.

1985 Amendment: In (1) inserted "and the other incidental expenses described in 7-12-4101(7)".

1981 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to revolving fund deposit.

Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 27 in (1), near end, substituted “department of revenue” for “county assessor of the county in which such city or town is situated”; in (2) substituted “The department of revenue shall enter the special assessments and taxes upon the property tax record for the county" for "The county assessor shall thereupon enter same upon the assessment roll of the county"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1994.

Applicability: Section 171(2), Ch. 27, Sp. L. November 1993, provided that the amendments to this section apply to tax years after December 31, 1993.

Case Notes

Collection by City Treasurer: Assessments for special city improvements which under this section the County Treasurer is required to collect, held to fall within the meaning of the words "tax" and "taxes" as employed in 7-6-4413, making it the duty of the County Treasurer to collect city taxes where a city has not imposed that duty upon its own Treasurer. Severability: Section 15, Ch. 617, L. 1987, was a severability section.

Attorney General's Opinions

Application of Sale Proceeds to Delinquent Special Improvement District Assessments: A County Treasurer may not require delinquent special improvement district assessments to be paid in addition to the sale price of tax deed land because when a tax deed is issued, special assessment liens that were due and payable at that time are extinguished. However, the County Treasurer must apply the sale proceeds of the land to delinquent assessments, as provided in 7-8-2306. 45 A.G. Op. 24 (1994).

Acceleration of Future Installments of Special Assessments Upon Delinquency: A city whose taxes are collected by the county has statutory authority to accelerate future installments of special assessments when one installment becomes delinquent. 42 A.G. Op. 82 (1988).

Payment of Delinquent Taxes, Including Special Assessments, to Effect Assignment of Rights: Under 15-17-303 (since repealed), an assignee must pay the amount for which the property was bid at the tax sale, and no provision is included for an assignment following partial payment of the delinquent general taxes, excluding unpaid special assessments, which are treated the same as general taxes under 7-12-4183. Therefore, a city must pay all delinquent taxes, including special assessments, to a county to effect an assignment of the rights of the county in property struck off following a tax sale. 41 A.G. Op. 77 (1986).

Payment of Special Assessments Due Prior to Deed Issuance: Following the issuance of a tax deed to a county, the county is not responsible for payment of delinquent special assessments, accelerated under authority of 7-12-4183, due prior to issuance of the deed. 41 A.G. Op. 77 (1986).

Recovery of Tax Paid Under Protest: Plaintiff, in an action to recover a special improvement tax paid under protest, need not allege in the complaint that his claim had been presented to the City or Town Council for allowance before action was commenced, this section not contemplating presentation thereof as a condition precedent to his right to maintain the action. *Harvey v. Reassessments: This section does not authorize reassessments to make up for delinquent assessments. State ex rel. Truax v. Lima, 121 M 152, 193 P2d 1008 (1948).

Construction of Section: This section does not authorize the reassessment of any of the property in a special improvement district to make up for delinquent assessments against other property. Its provisions have to do with the correction of invalid or erroneous assessment by reassessment. A reassessment cannot be made unless authorized by statute, and then only in the manner provided. School District v. Helena, 87 M 300, 287 P 164 (1930).

1985 Amendment: In (1) after "payable" substituted requirements for installments payable by 5 p.m. November 30 and May 31 for "on or before 5 p.m. on November 30 of each year except as provided in subsection (2).

(2) The governing body of a municipality may provide by resolution that one-half of the payment on special assessments or installments of special assessments may be deferred to no later than 5 p.m. on May 31 of the following year"; and in (2) changed "date" to "dates".

1981 Amendment: In (1) changed the time of payment from "6" to "5" p.m.; at end of (3) substituted "delinquent property taxes under 15-16-102" for "are or may hereafter be provided by the laws of Montana for other delinquent taxes".

7-12-4189. Simple interest on assessments.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause; in (1)(b) at end inserted "at the time the assessment is levied each fiscal year"; inserted (3) providing that while any bonds or warrants secured by assessments bear interest at a variable rate, the installments of assessments remaining unpaid must bear simple interest at an annual rate equal to the sum of 1% a year, plus the interest rate payable on the outstanding bonds or warrants of the rural special improvement district at the time the assessment is levied each fiscal year, plus, to the extent that the interest rate on the bonds or warrants is then less than the maximum rate prescribed for them or if there is no prescribed maximum rate, up to an additional 1% a year, as may be prescribed by the board of county commissioners in the resolution authorizing the issuance or sale of the bonds or warrants; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 in (1) substituted "equal to" for "not exceeding"; inserted (1)(c) concerning additional 1/2 of 1%; inserted (2) concerning reduction or elimination of additional interest rate; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act]." Effective March 24, 1995.

1985 Amendment: Near end of (1), after "charged", inserted remainder of subsection providing a vote not exceeding 1/2 of 1% over that payable on the district's bonds or warrants.

7-12-4190. Payment of assessments in installments.

Compiler's Comments

1987 Amendment: In (2), at beginning, substituted "The assessments are payable" for "If the bonds of the special improvement district are issued as serial bonds, the assessments must be payable", in two places, before "installments", substituted "semiannual" for "annual", and after first "installments" substituted reference to principal with interest on unpaid installments and resolution of city council or commission authorizing issuance of special improvement district bonds for "If the bonds are issued as amortization bonds, the assessments must be payable".

1985 Amendment: In (1), after "cost of" inserted "acquiring or" and after "years" deleted "payments to be made in equal annual installments"; inserted (2) relating to payment in installments; and inserted (3) relating to prepayment of assessments.

Case Notes

Assessments to Include Interest to Maturity: Special improvement district bonds are not general obligations of the city, and their payment is strictly limited to the fund provided by statute and ordinance; the lien of the assessments extends to each lot or parcel of land separately and not jointly, and payment thereof on one lot or issue of tax deed thereon discharges the lien thereon; assessments upon property in the district must, under this section, include the interest on the bonds to maturity, as part of the cost of such improvements. State ex rel. Griffith v. Shelby, 107 M 571, 87 P2d 183 (1939).

7-12-4191. Assessments and certain other charges as liens.

Case Notes

Tax Deed of Special Improvement Assessments Payable Before Execution: A general tax lien and a special improvement assessment lien are not of equal rank. Support of government is higher obligation than cost of local improvement. Where a special assessment for city improvement became delinquent on November 30, 1940, and was certified by the city to the County Clerk on December 7, 1940, and by the County Treasurer entered upon the tax rolls as a lien against the property, a county tax deed issued on December 23, 1940, extinguished the lien for the 1940 installment of the city special improvement assessment, because under 15-18-309 (since repealed) such assessment installment was payable before execution of the tax deed. Hartman v.

Nimmack, 116 M 392, 154 P2d 279 (1944), cited in First Trust Co. of Mont. v. Great Falls, 256 M 390, 845 P2d 1227, 50 St. Rep. 45 (1993).

Extinguishment of Lien: Under our statutory provisions with relation to special improvements in cities and towns, any special assessment made and levied to defray the cost and expenses of special improvements constitutes a lien upon all property included in an improvement district, but under the provisions of 15-18-403 (since repealed), such a lien is extinguished by the issuance of a tax deed on sale of the property for delinquent taxes. Stanley v. Jeffries, 86 M 114, 284 P 134 (1929); State ex rel. Great Falls v. Jeffries, 83 M 111, 270 P 638 (1928).

Commencement of Lien: Where the City Council had acquired jurisdiction to order a special improvement and levy the assessment to pay for it, the assessment became a lien against the property benefited by it from the date the assessment became due, not affected by the circumstance that plaintiffs had recovered judgments against the city for damages caused by the improvement. Allen v. Butte, 55 M 205, 175 P 595 (1918).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 in (4)(a) at end inserted "or, if the bonds to be refunded bear interest at a variable rate, the council determines that the issuance of fixed rate refunding bonds is in the best interest of the owners of property in the district and the city or the council determines that the issuance of variable rate refunding bonds based on a different index or formula than that of the refunded bonds is reasonably expected to result over the remaining term of the bonds to be refunded in an interest rate at least 1/2 of 1% a year less than the rate of interest on the refunded bonds". Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of introductory clause of (4) deleted "Unless there is, or will be on the next payment date, a default in the payment of bond principal or interest"; inserted (4)(b) relating to an actual default or a default by next payment date; inserted (4)(c) relating to a greater than 50% delinquency rate; in (6)(b) inserted "that will not be satisfied by a loan from the revolving fund"; inserted (6)(c) relating to a delinquency rate greater than 50%; and made minor changes in form and phraseology. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Severability: Section 18, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a severability clause.

City Obligation to Make Revolving Fund Loans and Levy Taxes to Discharge Special Improvement District Bonds: When a city has established a revolving fund to secure payments on special improvement district (SID) bonds and when an SID fund does not have sufficient amounts to make payments on its bonds, the city must continue to make loans from the revolving fund to the SID fund and continue to levy the property tax in accordance with 7-12-4222 until the obligations on all bonds and warrants in the SID are discharged. 42 A.G. Op. 82 (1988).

7-12-4201. Use of bonds and warrants.

Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: In first sentence inserted "acquisition or" and "or incurred in the issuance of the bonds or warrants of the district, including incidental expenses".

Case Notes

No Power to Assess Expenses Apart From Bond Sale: Under this statute, a city does not have the authority to levy special improvement district assessments against property for incidental expenses of anticipated improvements when the improvements are not constructed on the property by the city. The statute clearly provides that creation costs shall be payable by special improvement district bonds. Assessments for special improvements must be in proportion to the benefits conferred by the improvement. Tocci v. Three Forks, 216 M 159, 700 P2d 171, 42 St. Rep. 720 (1985).

Issuance of Bonds at Discount: City Council has no power to issue bonds or warrants at a discount in payment of special improvement work, and a contract let to one who in making out his bid took into consideration the fact that the warrants he would receive were worth only 90 cents on the dollar and therefore added 10% to the actual cost was invalid as an attempt to do indirectly what the Council was prohibited from doing directly. Evans v. Helena, 60 M 577, 199 P 445 (1921).

2019 Amendment: Chapter 107 in (1)(b) at end deleted "if the principal amount of the bonds is $500,000 or less and the governing body of the municipality obtains separate written opinions from underwriters of Montana special improvement district bonds stating the bonds are not marketable through a competitive bond sale. Bonds sold in principal amounts below $250,000 do not require a marketability opinion". Amendment effective April 1, 2019.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 277 deleted former (3) that read: "(3) As used in part 41 and this part, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise, the following definitions apply:

(a) "Amortization bonds" means the form of bonds that bear interest at a fixed rate and on which:

(i) a part of the principal must be paid each time that interest becomes payable;

(ii) the part payment of principal increases at each installment in the same amount that the interest decreases;

(iii) the combined interest and principal due on each due date remains the same until the bonds are paid;

(iv) the final payment may vary from prior payments in the amount resulting from disregarding fractional costs in prior payments; and

(v) the initial payment may be larger than subsequent payments if the increase represents interest accrued over an additional period not greater than 6 months.

(b) "Serial bonds" means a bond issue payable in semiannual or annual installments commencing not more than 2 years from the date of issue, any one installment consisting of one or more bonds, with the principal amount of bonds maturing in each installment not exceeding five times the principal amount of the bonds maturing in the immediately preceding installment." Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 in (1)(a) inserted last two sentences providing that bonds or warrants sold at a private, negotiated sale may bear interest at a rate varying at times and on terms determined by the governing body of the municipality and allowing the terms to include a maximum interest rate or convertibility to a fixed rate; inserted (1)(b) stating when variable rate bonds may be sold at a private, negotiated sale; in (1)(c) in second sentence substituted "may bear the corporate seal" for "must bear the corporate seal"; in (3) in definition of amortization bonds in introductory clause inserted "that bear interest at a fixed rate and" and in definition of serial bonds near beginning substituted "semiannual or annual installments" for "annual installments"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 459 deleted former (3) that read: "(3) All special improvement district bonds must be amortization bonds unless, in the judgment of the city council, serial bonds will be more advantageous to the district and can be sold at a comparatively reasonable rate or rates of interest"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 256 in (2) inserted last sentence relating to when the term of a bond commences; in (4)(b) substituted definition of serial bonds for former language that read: "Serial bonds" means the form of bonds that are payable in annual installments and on which the amount maturing each year may not be more than three times the principal amount of bonds maturing in any previous year"; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective March 23, 1989.

Chapter 449 in (2), in first sentence, after "years", inserted clause authorizing a 30-year period for refunding bonds; in (4)(b) increased the annual maturity amount to five times from three times the principal amount from the previous year; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Saving Clause: Section 9, Ch. 256, L. 1989, and sec. 17, Ch. 449, L. 1989, were saving clauses.

1985 Amendment: Inserted (3) relating to preference for amortization bonds.

Subsection (4), defining amortization and serial bonds, was enacted as a separate section by sec. 51, Ch. 665, L. 1985, but is codified here for convenience.

1981 Amendment: Changed the payment of interest period to annually or semiannually at the discretion of the municipality on such dates as it prescribes, instead of on specified dates unless the municipality decided otherwise.

Case Notes

1985 Amendment: In (1) substituted “Special improvement district warrants or bonds shall be redeemed on any interest payment date from the proceeds of the bonds or warrants remaining after payment of all costs of the improvements, as provided in 7-12-4205, or from the prepayment of assessments levied in the district. Special improvement district bonds or warrants are subject to redemption and prepayment at the option of the city, in order of registration, on any interest payment date” for “The warrants or bonds shall be redeemed by the treasurer when there is money in the special improvement district fund against which the warrants or bonds are drawn, on presentation of the coupons belonging thereto, and any money remaining shall be applied to the payment of the principal and the redemption of the warrants or bonds in the order of their registration”; in (2), deleted former first sentence that read: “Whenever there is any money in any special improvement district fund after paying the interest on the warrants or bonds drawn against the fund, the treasurer shall call in for payment outstanding warrants or bonds which, together with the interest thereon to the date of redemption, will equal the amount of the fund on that date”, in first sentence substituted “mailing of notice” for “of service of notice”, in second sentence, after “give”, deleted “notice by publication once in a newspaper published in the city or, at the option of the treasurer, by”, and inserted “to be redeemed” in two places, and inserted last sentence requiring Treasurer to publish notice of redemption if addresses of holders of bonds or warrants are not known.

Case Notes

Where Action Held Maintainable to Recover on Warrants Paid Out of Order by County Treasurer: While the rule as to a city's liability to warrant holders damaged by reason of their warrants being paid out of order does not generally apply to county warrants, held, that where the County Commissioners created a special improvement district within an unincorporated town for the installation of waterworks, the county assumed the same duties as rest upon incorporated cities and towns and therefore was properly held liable for damage sustained by a holder of warrants not paid in the order of registration when the special fund became exhausted, and holder could presume Treasurer would do his duty by calling and giving notice. Witter v. Phillips County, 111 M 352, 109 P2d 56 (1941).

Mandamus to Pay Principal Held Up for Payment of Interest After Maturity: Where court refused mandamus proceedings on the ground that under this section the Treasurer was required to first pay all the accrued interest on outstanding bonds before payment of any principal, held, on appeal, that assessments could not provide a fund for payment of interest after maturity of the bonds and that plaintiff was entitled to payment of the principal of the bond sued upon but not to interest accrued thereon after maturity. State ex rel. Griffith v. Shelby, 107 M 571, 87 P2d 183 (1939).

Misapplication of Fund by Treasurer: The office of City Treasurer is a continuing one regardless of the person occupying the office at any particular time. The Treasurer is the servant of the city, and where he misapplies trust funds, such as for special improvement purposes, the municipality is liable to the warrant holders. Blackford v. Libby, 103 M 272, 62 P2d 216 (1936).

Statute of Limitations on Recovery — Trust Rule: The Statute of Limitations does not begin to run against registered city warrants or bonds until the City Treasurer calls them for payment or until the holder has an immediate cause of action. Being a trust fund, under the rule that as between trustee and beneficiary of an express and continuing trust, the Statute of Limitations does not begin to run until trust is repudiated and the beneficiary has received notice. Blackford v. Libby, 103 M 272, 62 P2d 216 (1936), distinguished as to creation of a trust and tolling of the statute of limitations in Samson v. St., 285 M 310, 948 P2d 232, 54 St. Rep. 1165 (1997).

Case Notes

Bond Issues — Payment: Where a special improvement district was established under 7-12-4102 and bonds were issued "payable from the collection of the special tax or assessment which is a lien against the real estate within said improvement district", the bonds were not a general obligation of the town and the town could not be compelled to redeem the bonds from a water fund made up of water rentals from water users, even though the town may have had authority to make payments from such fund. State ex rel. Truax v. Lima, 121 M 152, 193 P2d 1008 (1948).

Constitutionality — Validity as to Districts Created in Future, Invalidity as to Those Established in the Past: Contention that 7-12-4221 through 7-12-4228, referring to the matter of special improvement district revolving funds, are in conflict with Art. XIII, sec. 1, 1889 Mont. Const.; contravene Art. V, sec. 26, 1889 Mont. Const.; and conflict with Art. XII, sec. 11, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art V, sec. 9, 1972 Mont. Const.), held groundless under authority of the case of Stanley v. Jeffries, 86 M 114, 284 P 134 (1929). Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

7-12-4222. Sources of money for revolving fund.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 349 in (1)(b) near end after "amount" substituted "of at least 5% and not more than 10%" for "equal to 5%"; in (1)(c) in second sentence after "fund" substituted "will exceed 10% or, with the amount levied by the tax, will exceed 10%" for "exceeds 5%", at end of sentence inserted "after all required transfers have been made to the district funds through fiscal yearend", and deleted former third sentence that read: "If a tax is levied, the tax may not be an amount that would increase the balance in the revolving fund above 5% of the then-outstanding special improvement district bonds and warrants secured by the revolving fund"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 in (1)(b), at beginning, substituted "shall, if the bonds or warrants are secured by the revolving fund pursuant to 7-12-4225" for "may", near middle substituted "equal to 5%" for "up to 5%", and at end substituted "as provided in 7-12-4169" for "and deposit it in the revolving fund upon receipt of such proceeds"; in (1)(c), after "levy", deleted "and collect"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: "[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act]." Effective March 24, 1995.

1983 Amendment: In (1)(b) in the middle and at the end, inserted “secured thereby” following “special improvement district bonds and warrants”; and in (2) inserted “secured by the revolving fund” after “any bond or warrant of such district” near beginning and after “alley approach warrants” near end.

1981 Amendments: Chapter 308 substituted the last two sentences of (1)(b) concerning when a tax may not be levied and, if levied, the amount permitted for “such levy, together with such transfer, not to exceed in any one year 5% of the principal amount of the then-outstanding special improvement district bonds or sidewalk, curb, and alley approach warrants”.

Chapter 435 inserted (1)(a)(ii) relating to deposit of up to 5% in revolving fund.

Case Notes

City Ordinance Requiring Developer Surcharge — Valid Exercise of Self-Governing Power: A city ordinance imposing a 5% surcharge on developers of raw land prior to creation of a special improvement district was a valid exercise of the city’s self-governing powers. Diefenderfer v. Billings, 223 M 487, 726 P2d 1362, 43 St. Rep. 1934 (1986).

Attorney General’s Opinions

City Obligation to Make Revolving Fund Loans and Levy Taxes to Discharge Special Improvement District Bonds: When a city has established a revolving fund to secure payments on special improvement district (SID) bonds and when an SID fund does not have sufficient amounts to make payments on its bonds, the city must continue to make loans from the revolving fund to the SID fund and continue to levy the property tax in accordance with this section until the obligations on all bonds and warrants in the SID are discharged. 42 A.G. Op. 82 (1988).

7-12-4223. Loans from revolving fund to meet payments on bonds and warrants.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 at end inserted sentence stating that the loan must be made even if, in the case of bonds or warrants bearing interest at a variable rate, the interest rate on the special assessments when the loan is made is less than or later becomes less than the interest rate on the bonds or warrants. Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 at beginning of first sentence inserted “During the period described in 7-12-4225(2)” and near middle, after “fund”, inserted “after a transfer from the appropriate district reserve account, if established”; at end of second sentence substituted “and money available in the district fund” for “when added to such insufficient amount, as the case may require”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: “[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act].” Effective March 24, 1995.

1983 Amendment: In first sentence, inserted “which are secured by the revolving fund”.

Case Notes

“May” to Mean “Must”: The provision of this section “may, by order of the council be loaned” out of the special improvement revolving fund, held mandatory, the word “may” meaning “must”, thus leaving no discretion in the city officials or their successors. (See 2001 amendment.) Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

Unconstitutional in Part: Chapter 24, L. 1929 (7-12-4221 through 7-12-4228), insofar as it authorizes cities to assume liabilities for losses suffered by holders of special improvement bonds and warrants issued prior to the passage of the act, amounts to a reimbursement of the holders of such losses and is violative of Art. XII, sec. 11, 1889 Mont. Const. (now Art. V, sec. 9, 1972 Mont. Const.). Stanley v. Jeffries, 86 M 114, 284 P 134 (1929).

Attorney General’s Opinions

City Obligation to Make Revolving Fund Loans and Levy Taxes to Discharge Special Improvement District Bonds: When a city has established a revolving fund to secure payments on special improvement district (SID) bonds and when an SID fund does not have sufficient amounts to make payments on its bonds, the city must continue to make loans from the revolving fund to the SID fund and continue to levy the property tax in accordance with 7-12-4222 until the obligations on all bonds and warrants in the SID are discharged. 42 A.G. Op. 82 (1988).

7-12-4224. Lien arising due to loan from revolving fund.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 162 at end inserted “and that was determined at the time the loan was made, even if the interest rate on the bond or warrant subsequently changes”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 28, 2001.

Case Notes

Constitutionality: This section, providing a lien for money loaned to a special city improvement district, is not obnoxious to Art. I, sec. 10, U.S. Const., as impairing the obligations of the contracts of the holders of the bonds of the district, in that the lien is superior, senior, and prior to that of such holders, the purpose of the revolving fund being rather to add to the holders' security. Hansen v. Havre, 112 M 207, 114 P2d 1053 (1941).

7-12-4225. Covenants to use revolving fund — duration of revolving fund obligation — factors to be considered.Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 349 inserted (1)(c) concerning retaining balance of up to 10% in revolving fund; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 229 near middle of (1) substituted “the issuance of” for “any public offering of”; at beginning of (1)(a) substituted “make” for “issue orders annually authorizing”; in (1)(b), after parenthetical, deleted “as the city or town council may so agree to and undertake”; at end of (2) substituted “until the earlier of” for “so offered or any interest thereon remain unpaid”; inserted (2)(a) concerning payment or discharge; inserted (2)(b) concerning maturity or payment or discharge of assessments; inserted (3) concerning discharge of delinquent assessments; inserted (4) concerning factors to be considered; inserted (5) concerning conclusive evidentiary basis of findings; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 24, 1995.

Applicability: Section 16, Ch. 229, L. 1995, provided: “[This act] applies to all special improvement districts and rural special improvement districts created after [the effective date of this act] and, at the option of the city, town, or county, to bonds and warrants issued after [the effective date of this act], if the district was created before [the effective date of this act].” Effective March 24, 1995.

1983 Amendment: Inserted (3) authorizing bonds unsecured by revolving fund.

7-12-4227. Utilization of excess money in revolving fund.Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 349 in introductory clause after “excess of” substituted “10%” for “5%”, after “warrants” inserted “secured by the revolving fund”, and after “council may” deleted “by vote of all of its members at a meeting called for that purpose”; in (2) at beginning substituted “used” for “use the excess that is greater than the amount necessary for the payment or redemption of maturing bonds or warrants secured thereby or interest thereon or any part thereof”; in (3) at beginning inserted “used for the purchase of” and after “improvements” deleted “on account whereof”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

1983 Amendment: Inserted “secured thereby” following “payment or redemption of maturing bonds or warrants” near end of first paragraph, in middle of (1), and near beginning of (2).

1981 Amendments: Chapter 308 substituted “5% of the outstanding special improvement district bonds and warrants and the council considers any part of the excess to be greater than the amount” for “the amount which the council deems” after “in excess of” in the first sentence; substituted “the excess that is greater than the amount necessary for the payment or redemption of maturing bonds or warrants or interest thereon” for “such excess” in (1) and (2); inserted “amount of the” before “excess” in (1).

Chapter 435 inserted “deposited in the revolving fund under 7-12-4169(2) and in excess of the amount” after “excess of the amount” in the first sentence of the section.

7-12-4243. Procedure to create and maintain supplemental revolving fund — election required — qualified electors defined.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1)(a) substituted “at an election held in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 5” for “upon the question at a general election or a special election held in conjunction with a regular or primary election”. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1)(a) inserted “held in conjunction with a regular or primary election”; and made minor changes in style.

7-12-4244. Issuance of bonds based upon supplemental revolving fund — election.Compiler's Comments

Saving Clause: Section 17, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a saving clause.

7-12-4247. Details relating to bonds.Compiler's Comments

1989 Amendment: In (3) deleted reference to 7-12-4202; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Saving Clause: Section 17, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a saving clause.

7-12-4254. Hearing on petition — notice.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (2) at end of first sentence substituted “as provided in 7-1-2121” for “and the date of hearing thereon by publication at least once a week for 2 calendar weeks in a newspaper published or of general circulation in the county where the city or town is situated and also by posting a written or printed copy thereof in at least three public places in each voting precinct of said city or town” and in second sentence after “publication” deleted “and posting”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-12-4255. Contents of notice of hearing — protest.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Part 43Special Provisions for Special Improvement Lighting Districts*7-12-4301. Special improvement districts for lighting streets authorized.*Compiler's Comments

1981 Amendment: Changed the allocation of the cost of the lighting system to the property owners from between one-fourth and three-fourths to all or any portion of the cost in (1)(b).

Case Notes

Electric Lighting System: A special improvement district created under this section for the purpose of lighting the streets included within its boundaries may not be utilized to require the payment of maintenance costs, which in truth and in fact are not the cost of maintenance at all but are rather designed to reimburse the power company for its own costs incurred in installing its own lighting system. Marchi v. Brackman, 130 M 228, 299 P2d 761 (1956). (Dissenting opinion, 130 M 228, 299 P2d 761 (1956).)

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) in second sentence substituted “as provided in 7-1-4127” for “for 5 days in a daily newspaper or in one issue of a weekly newspaper in the city or town or, in case no newspaper is published in the city or town, then by posting for 5 days in three public places in the city or town”. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 127 in (1), in third sentence after “proposed district”, substituted “as listed on the current property tax record, at the property owner's address as the address is listed on the current property tax record” for “at his last-known address”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

7-12-4304. Protest against creation of lighting district.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-12-4305. Consideration of protest.Compiler's Comments

1983 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to weight of protests.

7-12-4307. Objections to irregular proceedings or manner of making improvements.Compiler's Comments

2019 Amendment: Chapter 159 in (1) at beginning of first sentence substituted "At any time within 60 days from the date the city or town council passes the resolution creating the special improvement lighting district" for "At any time within 60 days from the date of the award of a contract by a city or town council under the provisions of this part or at any time within 60 days from the date the council requires or instructs the street commissioner or any other official of the city or town to cause the posts, wires, pipes, conduits, lamps, or other suitable and necessary appliances for the purpose of lighting the streets of the city or town to be procured and erected". Amendment effective April 18, 2019.

Applicability: Section 6, Ch. 159, L. 2019, provided: "[This act] applies to special improvement lighting districts created or modified on or after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 18, 2019.

7-12-4308. Operation of district.Compiler's Comments

2019 Amendment: Chapter 159 in (1)(a) substituted "provide for the installation of the lighting system for the special improvement lighting district" for "cause the posts, wires, pipes, conduits, lamps, or other suitable and necessary appliances for the purpose of lighting said streets to be procured and erected by contract, by the street commissioner, or by any other official of the city or town, in such way and manner as the council shall provide"; in (1)(b) substituted "provide for the maintenance and operation of the lighting system after the lighting system has been installed" for "after such lighting system has been installed in such way and manner as the council shall elect, cause, by contract, the lights to be maintained thereon and electrical current furnished therefor"; in (2) substituted current text concerning size, character, and distribution of light posts in a special improvement lighting district for former text that read: "The posts in any such district shall be of uniform size and character and shall be distributed uniformly upon the street or streets or public highway or section thereof to be lighted in any such district"; in (3) in first sentence substituted current text concerning maintenance of lights for former text that read: "The lights in each district shall be maintained by contract for such period of time and in such way or manner as the city or town council shall elect", deleted former second sentence that read: "The council shall not let a contract for a period to exceed 3 years", and inserted last sentence concerning public utilities; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 18, 2019.

Applicability: Section 6, Ch. 159, L. 2019, provided: "[This act] applies to special improvement lighting districts created or modified on or after [the effective date of this act]." Effective April 18, 2019.

Section Not Codified: Part of section 11-2252, R.C.M. 1947, concerning districts created before June 30, 1943, was not codified in the MCA. The noncodified portions of this section have not been repealed and are still valid law. Compiler's Comments 1985 Amendment: In (1) in second sentence, after “resolution”, inserted “specifying the district assessment option and”.

1983 Amendment: In (1), substituted “The city council shall estimate, as near as practicable, the cost of maintenance in each established district annually, not later than the second Monday in August. The council shall pass and finally adopt a resolution levying and assessing all the property within the several districts with an amount equal to not less than 75% of the entire cost of said work” for “It shall be the duty of said council to estimate, as near as practicable, the cost of sprinkling in such districts so established for the season; and before the first Monday in November of each year, they shall pass and finally adopt a resolution levying and assessing all the property within the several districts with an amount equal to not less than 75% of the entire cost of said work, exclusive of the cost of sprinkling parks and public places.”; in (2), after “cost of” substituted “maintenance” for “sprinkling”; and after “shall contain” inserted “or refer to”.

7-12-4426. Notice of resolution for assessment.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) at end substituted “must be published as provided in 7-1-4127” for “for a period of 5 days, must be published at least once in a newspaper published in the city or town”; in (2) in last sentence near end before “publication” inserted “final”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 188 near middle of (1) after “assessment” inserted “or changing the method of assessment”; near middle of (2) after “council” inserted language requiring statement of method of proposed assessment for adoption or change in assessment method; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

1983 Amendment: Near middle of (1), after “cost of” substituted “maintenance” for “sprinkling”; and substituted “the district or districts” for “the several districts”.

7-12-4427. Hearing on resolution for assessment of costs.

Compiler's Comments

1983 Amendment: Near beginning of (1), after “shall meet” deleted “at their regular place of meeting”; in (2), after “delivered to the” substituted “financial officer” for “city treasurer on or before the first Monday in October”; and made minor changes in phraseology.

7-12-4428. Assessment of costs of improvements and maintenance of improvements.

Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: Near end after “7-12-4421”, substituted “and 7-12-4422” for “through 7-12-4424”.

1983 Amendment: After “the property in” substituted “maintenance” for “such sprinkling”.

7-12-4429. Financial assistance options.

Compiler's Comments

2019 Amendment: Chapter 139 in (1) in middle inserted reference to a building and loan association, savings and loan association, bank, or credit union that is regulated; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 16, 2019.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 100 in (1) near middle inserted “or the state of Montana”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

1987 Amendment: In (2) changed “7-12-4405” to “7-12-4402”.

1983 Amendment: Near middle of (2), after “derived from” deleted “such sprinkling”.

7-12-4436. Water user entities exempt from special assessments.

Compiler's Comments

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 276, L. 1987, provided in part: “. . . This act applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. . . . This act does not apply to any special assessments for the repayment of bonded indebtedness incurred before the effective date of this act if the bonds were issued on representations that the property exempted from special assessments by this act would be liable for repayment of the bonded indebtedness.”

Part 45

Special Provisions for Street Parking Districts

7-12-4502. Notice of intention to abandon district.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) substituted “publish a notice as provided in 7-1-4127 of the intention to abandon” for “give notice of such intention to abandon by one publication in a newspaper published in such city or town at least 10 days prior to the passage of a resolution abandoning the same. In case there is no publication of a newspaper in such city or town, then notice shall be given by the posting of a notice of such intention to abandon in three places within such district to be abandoned”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-12-4511. Water user entities exempt from special assessments.

Compiler's Comments

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 276, L. 1987, provided in part: “. . . This act applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. . . . This act does not apply to any special assessments for the repayment of bonded indebtedness incurred before the effective date of this act if the bonds were issued on representations that the property exempted from special assessments by this act would be liable for repayment of the bonded indebtedness.”

Part 46

Fire Hydrant Maintenance Districts

7-12-4601. Authorization to create fire hydrant maintenance districts.

Compiler's Comments

Preexisting Districts: Section 9, Ch. 572, L. 1983, provided: "Preexisting districts. A fire hydrant maintenance district established prior to July 1, 1983, is not subject to any provision of this part except 7-12-4611."

7-12-4603. Notice of resolution of intent to create fire hydrant maintenance district.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) in first sentence substituted "publish a notice of the passage as provided in 7-1-4127" for "give notice of such passage. The notice must be published for 5 days in a daily newspaper or, if there is no daily newspaper, in one issue of a weekly newspaper in the city or town. If no newspaper is published in the city or town, notice must be given by posting the notice for 5 days in three public places in the city or town." Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-12-4604. Protest against creation of fire hydrant maintenance district.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-12-4611. Resolution for assessment — assessment options.

7-12-4621. Water user entities exempt from special assessments.

Compiler's Comments

Applicability: Section 5, Ch. 276, L. 1987, provided in part: "... This act applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1986. ... This act does not apply to any special assessments for the repayment of bonded indebtedness incurred before the effective date of this act if the bonds were issued on representations that the property exempted from special assessments by this act would be liable for repayment of the bonded indebtedness."

CHAPTER 13

UTILITY SERVICES

Part 1

Metropolitan Sanitary and/or Storm Sewer District

Part Compiler's Comments

Section Not Codified: Section 16-4418, R.C.M. 1947, a validation clause, was not codified in the MCA. This clause has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 5, Ch. 165, L. 1965.

Part Case Notes

Benefit of Improvement to Be Commensurate With Burden of Levy: Although the creation of a sanitary and storm sewer district under the statutes was not challenged, appellant landowner challenged the creation of the district on the grounds that the burden imposed by the improvement tax to be levied exceeded the benefit to the property. As the property value after the improvement would increase from $500 per acre to $1,500 per acre, the trial court's finding that the benefit was commensurate with the burden was upheld. Duffie v. Metropolitan Sanitary & Storm Sewer District, 147 M 541, 417 P2d 227 (1966).

7-13-107. Notice of resolution of intention upon concurrence — hearing.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (2) in first sentence substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "for 10 consecutive days in a daily newspaper or in two issues of a weekly newspaper published nearest to the place where such improvement district is to be created. The board shall also cause a copy of such notice to be posted in three public places within the boundaries of such special improvement district" and at end of last sentence deleted "or posted"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-13-108. Right to protest.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-13-114. Applicable provisions of laws relating to rural improvement districts.

Compiler's Comments

2003 Amendment: Chapter 277 near beginning after "7-12-2107" deleted "7-12-2110"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 deleted 7-12-2106 from listed sections; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1989 Amendment: Deleted reference to 7-12-2170. Amendment effective April 5, 1989.

Saving Clause: Section 17, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 18, Ch. 449, L. 1989, was a severability clause.

1987 Amendment: Near middle of section, after "pertaining to", deleted "the powers and duties of the county commissioners in" and at end inserted "unless in conflict with the provisions of this part".

7-13-121. Assessment of costs.

Compiler's Comments

2019 Amendment: Chapter 42 inserted (2)(b) concerning assessment by methods provided in 7-12-2151; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 7, 2019.

Case Notes

Assessment Not Predicated Upon Future Public Action: Appellant landowner challenged the creation of a sanitary and storm sewer district on the grounds that an additional special improvement district would be necessary to make water available on his land for the sewer system. The rule that an assessment cannot be predicated upon future actions of public authorities was not violated as the water company testified it would extend its main upon residential development, thereby precluding a future special improvement district. Duffie v. Metropolitan Sanitary & Storm Sewer District, 147 M 541, 417 P2d 227 (1966).

7-13-124. Resolution to assess and levy tax for making improvements.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-13-126. Notice of resolution to assess and levy tax for making improvements — protest.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) at end substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "in at least one publication in a newspaper published nearest to where the special improvement is to be made"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-13-127. Hearing on protest.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (1) before "publication" inserted "final"; in (2) in third sentence before "2 days" inserted "within"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-13-141. Charges for services.

Compiler's Comments

2021 Amendment: Chapter 134 in (1) at end inserted language regarding rates billed to a metropolitan sanitary and/or storm sewer district; inserted (3) regarding the contents of a resolution to levy and assess rates, charges, and rentals; inserted (4) requiring resolutions be signed by the presiding officer of the board and kept on file; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2021.

1981 Amendment: Deleted "full power and" before "authority" in (1).

Effective Date: Section 7, Ch. 419, L. 1981, provided: "This act is effective on January 1, 1982."

Coordination With House Bill 765: Section 6, Ch. 419, L. 1981, provided: "If House Bill 765 [Ch. 607, L. 1981] introduced in the 47th legislature is passed and approved:

- (1) sections 1, 4, and 5 of this act are void and of no effect;
- (2) the amendatory material added to 7-13-141, MCA, as subsection (3) in section 2 of this act relating to regulatory authority of the public service commission is void and of no effect; and
- (3) the amendatory material added to 7-13-144, MCA, as new subsection (2) in section 3 of this act relating to the regulatory authority of the public service commission is void and of no effect and the code commissioner is authorized and instructed to internally renumber the subsections of section 7-13-144, MCA, accordingly.
- (4) the bracketed material in section 3 relating to House Bill 765 is effective."

7-13-144. Resolution to establish service charges — hearing — limitations and tax levy.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendment: Chapter 453 in (3) at beginning inserted reference to 15-10-420 and near middle after "district" deleted "not in excess of 2 mills on each dollar of taxable valuation"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

1981 Amendments: Chapter 403 in temporary version increased from $7 to $10 the maximum per unit charges in (1) and (2).

Chapter 419 inserted "subject to the provisions of Title 69, chapter 7" in first sentence; and deleted "not to exceed $7 per unit user per year," after "year" in (1) and after "charge" in (2).

Effective Date — Temporary Version: Section 3, Ch. 403, L. 1981, provided: "This act is effective on passage and approval." Approved April 17, 1981.

Coordination With Chapter 419: Section 2, Ch. 403, L. 1981, provided: "If house bill 790 [Ch. 419, L. 1981] introduced in the 47th legislature is passed and approved, this act becomes void and of no effect on the effective date of house bill 790 [January 1, 1982]."

1981 Amendment Version Effective January 1, 1982: Chapter 419 inserted "subject to the provisions of Title 69, chapter 7" in first sentence; and deleted "not to exceed $7 per unit user per year," after "year" in subsection (1) and after "charge" in subsection (2).

Effective Date — Version Effective January 1, 1982: Section 7, Ch. 419, L. 1981, provided: "This act is effective on January 1, 1982."

Coordination with Chapter 607 — Version Effective January 1, 1982: Section 6, Ch. 419, L. 1981, provided: "If House Bill 765 (Ch. 607, L. 1981) introduced in the 47th legislature is passed and approved:

- (1) sections 1, 4, and 5 of this act are void and of no effect;
- (2) the amendatory material added to 7-13-141, MCA, as subsection (3) in section 2 of this act relating to regulatory authority of the public service commission is void and of no effect; and
- (3) the amendatory material added to 7-13-144, MCA, as new subsection (2) in section 3 of this act relating to the regulatory authority of the public service commission is void and of no effect and the code commissioner is authorized and instructed to internally renumber the subsections of section 7-13-144, MCA, accordingly.
- (4) the bracketed material in section 3 relating to House Bill 765 is effective."

Termination by Chapter 607 — Version Effective January 1, 1982: Section 9, Ch. 607, L. 1981 (HB 765) provided: "This act shall become effective on July 1, 1981. It shall terminate on July 1, 1983." Chapter 588, L. 1983, effective April 19, 1983, removed the termination provision.

7-13-145. Hearing and notice on tax levy for operation and maintenance.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (2) at end deleted "and notice must also be posted in three public places within the district"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1985 Amendment: In (2) substituted language relating to notice pursuant to 7-1-2121 for "Notice clearly setting forth the subject matter of the hearing and the date and place thereof will be given by the commissioners by publication in a newspaper published and circulated in the county wherein the district is located once a week for 3 consecutive weeks. The notice shall also be posted in three public places within the district."

County Water and/or Sewer Districts

Part Compiler's Comments

Severability Clause: Section 2, Ch. 263, L. 1967, was a severability clause.

Section Not Codified: Section 16-4521, R.C.M. 1947, providing for the applicability of general election laws to elections authorizing bonded indebtedness, was not codified in the MCA, it being redundant with 7-13-2222. This section has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 21, Ch. 242, L. 1957. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

Part Case Notes

Jurisdiction of Public Service Commission Over County Water Districts: Nothing in 7-13-2201 through 7-13-2348 expressly precludes the review and regulatory process of the P.S.C. pursuant to Title 69. The board of directors is empowered to establish rates; however, such rates are subject to review and alteration by the P.S.C. if unjust, unreasonable, or discriminatory. Helena v. Dept. of Public Service Regulation, 194 M 173, 634 P2d 192, 38 St. Rep. 1560 (1981).

Title Not Defective: That the title to the County Water District Act (Ch. 242, L. 1957) fails to refer to the water tax, bond tax, initiative, referendum, and addition of land provisions and only refers to the construction of waterworks does not render it defective and the Act unconstitutional. The water tax and bond tax provisions are necessary to finance the construction, and the remaining provisions are germane to the management sections of the Act. Parker v. Yellowstone County, 140 M 538, 374 P2d 328 (1962).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

County Water District Subject to Single Audit Act: A county water district is a local government entity and is thus subject to the requirements of the State of Montana Single Audit Act, Title 2, ch. 7, part 5. The requirement applies whether or not the county water district has accepted local, state, or federal funds during the year. 50 A.G. Op. 3 (2003).

Federal Revenue Sharing Funds — Allocation by Board of County Commissioners: The Board of County Commissioners of a county which has not adopted a self-government form of local government may not make a grant of federal revenue sharing funds to individual county residents for the purpose of creating a water district under Title 7, ch. 13, parts 22 and 23, because there is no express or necessarily implied authority under which such a grant could be made and because the statutes provide a different mechanism for the creation and funding of a water district. 39 A.G. Op. 6 (1981).

7-13-2201. Definitions.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 inserted introductory language regarding applicability; in definition of board substituted "means" for "apply to" and inserted "elected or appointed as provided in 7-13-2231"; in definition of county substituted "city within the county or counties" for "city and county"; in definition of municipality substituted "means a municipality or" for "includes"; inserted definition of qualified elector; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

1993 Amendment: Chapter 160 in (3) inserted second sentence defining a district as a unit of local government; and made minor changes in style.

7-13-2202. Interpretation.Case Notes

Jurisdiction of Public Service Commission Over County Water Districts: Nothing in 7-13-2201 through 7-13-2348 expressly precludes the review and regulatory process of the P.S.C. pursuant to Title 69. The board of directors is empowered to establish rates; however, such rates are subject to review and alteration by the P.S.C. if unjust, unreasonable, or discriminatory. Helena v. Dept. of Public Service Regulation, 194 M 173, 634 P2d 192, 38 St. Rep. 1560 (1981).

Attorney General's Opinions

Exercise of Eminent Domain by County Precluded With Regard to Municipal Property: A county water and sewer district may not exercise the right of eminent domain with respect to municipal property located within the district and used by the municipality to provide sewer services. 43 A.G. Op. 13 (1989).

Retention of Municipal Authority After Incorporation in County District: This section disclaims any intent to supersede through formation of a county district a municipality's authority with respect to maintenance or creation of a sewer and water system. Therefore, a municipality retains all authority granted under Title 7, ch. 13, part 43, with respect to providing water and sewer services after a county water and sewer district, which includes the municipality, has been incorporated. 43 A.G. Op. 13 (1989).

7-13-2203. County water and/or sewer districts authorized.Attorney General's Opinions

Applicability of General Election Laws to County Water and Sewer Districts: The specific provisions governing water and sewer district elections in 7-13-2203, et seq., prevail over the requirements of the general election laws when the two conflict; therefore, the closure of registration and notice of closure requirements of 13-2-301 do not apply insofar as the time periods conflict. Reasonable time limitations can be adopted by the board of directors, giving electors at least 20 days' notice prior to closing registration. 37 A.G. Op. 45 (1977).

7-13-2204. Petition to create water and/or sewer district.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) after "signed by" deleted "either", substituted "qualified electors" for "registered voters", and at end deleted "or by the owners of all of the real property in the district"; in (2) substituted "qualified electors of the proposed district" for "registered voters of the territory within the county to be included within the proposed district or by the owners of all of the real property included in the proposed district". Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 341 in (1) at end substituted "either at least 10% of the registered voters of the territory included in the proposed district or by the owners of all of the real property in the district" for "registered voters within the boundaries of the proposed district equal in number to at least 10% of the registered voters of the territory included in such proposed district"; in (2) at end of second sentence inserted "or by the owners of all of the real property included in the proposed district"; in (3) near beginning after "petition" inserted "to create a water and/or sewer district"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

7-13-2205. Notice of petition — hearing required.Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: In (1) substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "once each week for 2 consecutive weeks in a newspaper printed and published", and at end deleted "together with a notice stating the time of the meeting at which same will be presented"; in (2) at beginning, deleted "The first publication shall be at least 2 weeks before the time at which the petition is to be presented"; and deleted former (3) that read: "With such publication there shall be published a notice of the time of the meeting of the board when such petition will be considered and that all persons interested therein may then appear and be heard."

Case Notes

Establishment of Boundaries of District Not a Taking: The hearing at which the boundaries of an improvement district are established does not constitute a taking. Hence, there is no constitutional right to be heard in opposition to the initiation of a project which may end in an assessment. Due process requirements are at issue when the assessment is actually imposed. Parker v. Yellowstone County, 140 M 538, 374 P2d 328 (1962).

7-13-2206. Hearing on petition — protest.Case Notes

Establishment of Boundaries of District Not a Taking: The hearing at which the boundaries of an improvement district are established does not constitute a taking. Due process requirements are at issue when the assessment is actually imposed. Parker v. Yellowstone County, 140 M 538, 374 P2d 328 (1962).

7-13-2208. Decision on petition — election required — exception.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2) substituted “hold an election” for “give notice of an election to be held in the proposed district”, at end of first sentence inserted exception clause, and substituted “conducted in accordance with Title 13, chapter 1, part 5” for “held in conjunction with a regular or primary election or must be conducted by mail ballot election as provided in Title 13, chapter 19”. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 341 inserted (3) describing when an election is not required; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Severability: Section 14, Ch. 341, L. 2005, was a severability clause.

1997 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 234 in (2), near middle of second sentence, inserted “conducted by mail ballot, as provided in Title 13, chapter 19, or must be”. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

Chapter 459 in (1), near beginning of first sentence, inserted “provided for in 7-13-2206”; at end of second sentence of (2) inserted “or may be held by mail ballot election as provided in Title 13, chapter 19”; and made minor changes in style.

Style changes in the chapters were slightly different. In each case, the codifier chose the more appropriate.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (2), in second sentence, substituted “The election must be held in conjunction with a regular or primary election” for “The date of the election shall be no less than 75 or more than 90 days from the date of the final hearing of such petition”; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: Near end of (2) substituted “no less than 75 or more than 90 days” for “not more than 60 days”.

7-13-2209. Application to include benefited lands.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-13-2210. Notice of election.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) substituted current language regarding notice requirements for former (1) and (2) that read: “(1) The notice of election required by 7-13-2208 shall describe the boundaries established and shall state the proposed name of the proposed incorporation (which name shall contain the words “... County water and/or sewer district”).

(2) This notice shall be published as provided in 13-1-108.” Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

7-13-2211. Ballot question for creating district.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 deleted former (1) that read: “(1) The election on the question of creating the district shall be conducted, the vote canvassed, and the result declared in the same manner as provided by Title 13 in respect to general elections, so far as it is applicable, except as otherwise provided in this part and part 23”; inserted “on whether a district should be incorporated”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Attorney General's Opinions

Voting Procedures in Expanding County Water and Sewer District: An election to add land to a county water and sewer district must be conducted in the same manner as an election for the initial organization of a district. 39 A.G. Op. 12 (1981).

7-13-2212. Qualifications to vote.Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 242 substituted current language for former language that read: "(1) Except as provided in subsection (2), an individual is not entitled to vote at any election under the provisions of part 23 and this part unless the individual possesses all the qualifications required of electors under the general election laws of the state and is a resident of the proposed district or the owner of taxable real property located within the county in which the individual proposes to vote and situated within the boundaries of the proposed district.

(2) An individual who is the owner of the real property described in subsection (1) need not possess the qualifications required of an elector in 13-1-111(1)(c), provided that the elector is qualified if registered to vote in any state of the United States and files proof of registration with the election administrator at least 40 days prior to the election in which the individual intends to vote." Amendment effective May 3, 2017.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 93 in (2) near end increased the time for filing proof of registration from 20 days to 40 days. Amendment effective March 30, 2007.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 341 in (2) near beginning after "property" inserted "described in subsection (1)" and at end inserted "at least 20 days prior to the election in which the individual intends to vote"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Severability: Section 14, Ch. 341, L. 2005, was a severability clause.

Attorney General's Opinions

"Individual" to Include Corporation: The Legislature contemplated the participation of corporate property owners as voters in elections creating water and sewer districts. Although voter participation is limited to "individuals", a construction that would limit voter participation to natural persons would be unwarranted. 38 A.G. Op. 47 (1979).

Initiation of Petition by Nonresident Corporate Property Owners: Although statutory procedures do not specifically provide for establishing a water and sewer district when there are no registered voters in the territory encompassing the proposed district, a water and sewer district may be initiated by a petition signed by all the nonresident corporate property owners within the district when there are no other registered voters in the proposed district. 38 A.G. Op. 47 (1979).

Nonresident Corporate Property Owner as "Registered Voter": A nonresident corporate property owner is a "registered voter" in the district for water and sewer district election purposes. 38 A.G. Op. 47 (1979).

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2) at end deleted "provided for in 7-13-2231 and elected and appointed as described in this part and part 23"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Case Notes

Water and Sewer District Power to Collect Delinquent Assessments: A water and sewer district had the power to bring an action under subsection (1)(b) of this section and 7-13-2301 to collect delinquent assessments from an individual without referring the same to a county for collection as taxes. RAE Subdivision County Water & Sewer District v. Gallatin County, 233 M 456, 760 P2d 755, 45 St. Rep. 1631 (1988).

Invalid Delegation of Power Not Present: This section is not unconstitutional as an invalid delegation of power. Adequate standards are provided in the County Water District Act (Ch. 242, L. 1957) to enable a district to know its rights and obligations. Parker v. Yellowstone County, 140 M 538, 374 P2d 328 (1962).

7-13-2218. District powers related to water and sewer projects.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 125 in (2) inserted reference to Title 70, chapter 30; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 518 inserted (8) allowing the hiring of architects and engineers for water or sewer systems, with the costs of their services apportioned against the properties in the district; and inserted (9) allowing rules for the operation, maintenance, use, and availability of systems and improvements. Amendment effective April 25, 1995.

1991 Amendment: In (7), after "purposes", inserted "or sell sewer service" and in two places, after "water", inserted "or sewerworks capacity".

1991 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 645, L. 1991, provided: "A statement of intent is provided for this bill because rulemaking authority is delegated to the board of health and environmental sciences [functions now transferred to Department of Natural Resources and Conservation] to prescribe procedures for administrative enforcement actions undertaken by the department of health and environmental sciences [functions now transferred to Department of Natural Resources and Conservation] in administering the public water supply laws, as provided in Title 75, chapter 6, and to develop a fee schedule to enable the department to recover costs in administering these laws. Rulemaking authority is also delegated to the department to develop fees to pay for costs of reviewing plats and subdivisions under the laws related to sanitation in subdivisions, as provided in Title 76, chapter 4. It is the intent of the legislature that the rules establish a reasonable fee schedule that approximates the department's actual and necessary costs.

The legislature anticipates that the department will expand its enforcement activity in order to address ongoing and increasing health problems with public water supply systems and public sewage systems in Montana. In undertaking this effort, the legislature expects that the department will have the option to pursue administrative enforcement as a means of expediting and encouraging compliance with Title 75, chapter 6. Nonetheless, it is the department's duty to clearly inform each violator of:

- (1) the nature of the action taken against it;
- (2) what the department requires to resolve the matter; and
- (3) what legal avenues are available to the violator if he desires to contest the matter.

The legislature recognizes that an economic hardship may be imposed on a public water supply system in order for that system to be brought into compliance with state and federal public water supply laws and that this hardship may be further increased by the levying of administrative and civil penalties for noncompliance. It is the intention of the legislature that the department adopt rules that establish a procedure for the progressive enforcement of this act in which the levying of administrative and civil penalties is a final action. The department may adopt rules that allow for the bypass of the enforcement procedures and the immediate assessment of penalties if specific circumstances warrant this action.

The rules also require the board of health and environmental sciences [functions now transferred to Department of Natural Resources and Conservation] to develop fees for recovery of costs incurred by the department in delivering services to persons who own or operate or intend to own or operate a public water supply system or public sewage system. These costs include costs associated with review of engineering plans and specifications, inspections, and general assistance. To assist the board in developing these rules, the department shall prepare and submit to the board a detailed estimate of projected costs associated with these services for fiscal years 1992 and 1993. The board shall develop a fee schedule that will provide revenues that are commensurate with the projected costs. A similar approach should be used by the department in developing rules setting new fees for review of plats and subdivisions under 76-4-105."

1989 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to property acquisition by eminent domain; and made minor changes in phraseology and punctuation. Amendment effective March 30, 1989.

Eligibility for Coal Impact Grants: "Local governmental units" eligible to receive impact grants from the Coal Board under 90-6-205 and 90-6-206 include counties, incorporated cities and towns, consolidated local governments, school districts, and any other statutorily created government unit or district empowered to exercise delegated sovereign powers over a defined geographical region of the state; county water and sewer districts; rural improvement districts that include areas of more than one county and have separate governing bodies (counties may apply for grants to pay for rural improvement district expenses); and special improvement districts within cities, towns, and consolidated units. Opinion No. 74, Vol. 36, Official Opinions of the Attorney General, is overruled except that portion excluding Indian tribes from impact grant eligibility. 37 A.G. Op. 22 (1977).

7-13-2222. Conduct of elections.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 substituted current text concerning the conduct of district elections for former text that read: "Except as otherwise provided in this part and part 23, the provisions of the law relating to the qualifications of electors, the manner of voting, the duties of election officers, the canvassing of returns, and all other particulars in respect to the management of general elections, so far as they may be applicable, shall govern all district elections." Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

Section Not Codified: Section 16-4521, R.C.M. 1947, was not codified in the MCA, it being redundant with this section. This section has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 21, Ch. 242, L. 1957. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

7-13-2225. Combination of elections.Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) near end inserted "qualified"; in (2) after "combined" deleted "the board of county commissioners shall so declare by resolution containing the provisions required by 7-13-2321. If the elections are combined" and in middle inserted "as provided in 7-13-2321"; in (3) at end deleted "and 7-13-2246"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2011 Amendment: Chapter 214 in (1) after "indebtedness" and before "so that" inserted reference to vote on salary; in (2) in second sentence after "indebtedness" inserted reference to monthly salary; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

Saving Clause: Section 13, Ch. 214, L. 2011, was a saving clause.

1991 Amendment: At end of (3) substituted "7-13-2241 and 7-13-2246" for "7-13-2235 through 7-13-2247".

1985 Amendment: At end of (3) changed "7-13-2248" to "7-13-2247".

1981 Amendment: In (2), inserted "shall contain" before "the names of the candidates"; deleted "may be given in the manner prescribed by 7-13-2210, [7-13-2248], or either of them" at the end of (2); made minor changes in phraseology; removed brackets around internal reference in (3).

2023 Amendment: See 2023 Session Law for amendment made by sec. 1, Ch. 593, L. 2023. Amendment effective May 18, 2023.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (1) substituted current text regarding election of board for former text that read: "At an election to be held within a district under the provisions of part 23 and this part and the laws governing general elections not inconsistent with part 23 and this part, the district shall elect a board of directors. The election must be conducted by mail ballot, as provided in Title 13, chapter 19, or must be held in conjunction with the next regular or primary election"; in (2) near beginning inserted "qualified", after "the directors" deleted "to be elected", after "in a certificate of appointment" deleted "presented to the board of directors of the district", and inserted "The certificate of appointment must be"; inserted (4) regarding expiration of appointed director's term; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 341 in (1) inserted third sentence concerning appointment of directors in certain circumstances. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 234 in (1), in second sentence, inserted "conducted by mail ballot, as provided in Title 13, chapter 19, or must be"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 11, 1997.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in first sentence of (1), after "district", substituted "shall elect a board" for "thus organized shall proceed, within 120 days after its formation, to the election of a board" and inserted "The election must be held in conjunction with the next regular or primary election"; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Jurisdiction of Public Service Commission Over County Water Districts: The board of directors is only intended to displace the County Commissioners' authority with regard to water and sewer functions. Part 23County Water and/or Sewer Districts*Continued*Part Compiler's Comments

Severability Clause: Section 2, Ch. 263, L. 1967, was a severability clause.

Part Case Notes

No Duty of County to Collect Delinquent Water and Sewer Charges — Mandamus Denied: A water and sewer district sought a writ of mandamus to compel a county to collect delinquent assessment owed by an individual. This part does not set forth a clear legal duty on the part of the county to collect the delinquent charges. The county can assess taxes sufficient to cover both bonded indebtedness payments and operating expenses, but only after advance notice required by 7-13-2304 through 7-13-2307. Delinquent water and sewer assessments levied against an individual are different from taxes levied against all district property under 7-13-2302. Absent a clear legal duty, mandamus was properly denied. RAE Subdivision County Water & Sewer District v. Gallatin County, 233 M 456, 760 P2d 755, 45 St. Rep. 1631 (1988).

Jurisdiction of Public Service Commission Over County Water Districts: Nothing in 7-13-2201 through 7-13-2348 expressly precludes the review and regulatory process of the P.S.C. pursuant to Title 69. The board of directors is empowered to establish rates; however, such rates are subject to review and alteration by the P.S.C. if unjust, unreasonable, or discriminatory. Helena v. Dept. of Public Service Regulation, 194 M 173, 634 P2d 192, 38 St. Rep. 1560 (1981).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

County Water District Subject to Single Audit Act: A county water district is a local government entity and is thus subject to the requirements of the State of Montana Single Audit Act, Title 2, ch. 7, part 5. The requirement applies whether or not the county water district has accepted local, state, or federal funds during the year. 50 A.G. Op. 3 (2003).

Federal Revenue Sharing Funds — Allocation by Board of County Commissioners: The Board of County Commissioners of a county which has not adopted a self-government form of local government may not make a grant of federal revenue sharing funds to individual county residents for the purpose of creating a water district under Title 7, ch. 13, parts 22 and 23, because there is no express or necessarily implied authority under which such a grant could be made and because the statutes provide a different mechanism for the creation and funding of a water district. 39 A.G. Op. 6 (1981).

7-13-2301. Establishment of charges for services — payment of charges.

Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 187 inserted (2)(a)(v) regarding payment of rates, fees, and charges; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 342 in (2)(a) near beginning of first sentence after “every” substituted “year” for “2 years”, after “rent” inserted “tax”, at beginning of second sentence inserted “Taking into account the collections of any special assessments levied pursuant to 7-13-2280 through 7-13-2290 and any property taxes that will be levied to pay debt service on general obligation bonds authorized pursuant to 7-13-2331, the amount to be collected and appropriated must” and after “adequate” deleted “with the collections of any special assessments levied pursuant to 7-13-2280 through 7-13-2289 and appropriated”; inserted (2)(b) allowing a portion of board charges to be charged to the owner of the lot, tract, or parcel under certain circumstances; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 351 in (2) at end of introductory clause inserted “with the collections of any special assessments levied pursuant to 7-13-2280 through 7-13-2289 and appropriated”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 19, 1999.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 518 in (2), in introductory clause, inserted review requirement and substituted “for the services, facilities, and benefits directly afforded by the facilities, taking into account services provided and direct benefits received that will be sufficient in each year to provide income and revenue adequate for” for “pay the operating expenses of the district, provide for repairs and depreciation of works owned or operated by it, pay the interest on any bonded debt, and so far as possible, provide a sinking or other fund for the payment of the principal of such debt as it may become due”; inserted (2)(a) through (2)(d) stating what the charges must be adequate to pay for; inserted (3) providing that a facility may not be used without paying the established rate and providing sanctions for nonpayment; inserted (4) providing for collection of delinquent charges, notice to the delinquent persons, content of the notice, a list of properties with unpaid charges, and assessment of the charges as a tax against the properties; inserted (5) allowing suit to collect unpaid charges; in (6) substituted references to facilities for references to treatment works; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 25, 1995.

Case Notes

No Authority to Levy Annual Assessment Against Nonusers: This section does not authorize a water and sewer district to levy annual assessments against nonusers. The assessments against the defendants were therefore void. RAE Subdivision County Water & Sewer District v. Frank J. Trunk & Son, 251 M 22, 823 P2d 845, 48 St. Rep. 1065 (1991).

Water and Sewer District Power to Collect Delinquent Assessments: A water and sewer district had the power to bring an action under 7-13-2217(1)(b) and this section to collect delinquent assessments from an individual without referring the same to a county for collection as taxes. RAE Subdivision County Water & Sewer District v. Gallatin County, 233 M 456, 760 P2d 755, 45 St. Rep. 1631 (1988).

Jurisdiction of Public Service Commission Over County Water Districts: The board of directors is only intended to displace the County Commissioners' authority with regard to water and sewer functions. The board of directors is empowered to establish rates; however, such rates are subject to review and alteration by the P.S.C. if unjust, unreasonable, or discriminatory. Helena v. Dept. of Public Service Regulation, 194 M 173, 634 P2d 192, 38 St. Rep. 1560 (1981).

7-13-2302. Levy of taxes to meet bond obligations and other expenses.

Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 342 in (2)(b) near end after “payment of the” substituted “other expenses or claims” for “bonded debt”. Amendment effective April 24, 2009.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 341 in (1) near beginning after “due” inserted “exclusive of revenue or special assessment bonded indebtedness incurred pursuant to 7-13-2333 or bonded indebtedness incurred to refund the revenue or special assessment bonded indebtedness without authorization at an election”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Severability: Section 14, Ch. 341, L. 2005, was a severability clause.

Attorney General's Opinions

County Water and Sewer District General Obligation Bonds Payable by Levy on All District Property: Under 7-13-2331, general obligation bonds for water and sewer districts are issued in the same manner prescribed for school district bonds, unless the school district process conflicts. School district bonds are payable by levy on the taxable value of all real and personal property within a school district. Sections 7-13-2301 and 7-13-2303 and this section set the manner and conditions for payment of a bonded debt that is primarily based on revenue or fees generated from water and sewer district services and contingently backed by a tax levy upon lands benefited by the district, but do not expressly outline the manner and conditions for payment of a bonded debt based on a general obligation. Therefore, general obligation bonds issued by a county water and sewer district are payable by levy on the taxable value of all real and personal property in the district in the same manner as school district bonds. 49 A.G. Op. 22 (2002).

Water and Sewer District Levies for Repayment of Loan Obligation as Property Taxes: Assessments levied by a water and sewer district pursuant to this section for the purpose of repaying a general loan obligation are considered property taxes under Title 15, ch. 10, part 4. Therefore, the property tax limitations of part 4 apply, even if the district has never previously exercised its levy authority under this section. 43 A.G. Op. 46 (1989).

Payment of Property Taxes for Municipal Sewer Service by County District Residents: Persons receiving municipal sewer services but residing within a county water and sewer district are required to pay that portion of property taxes imposed pursuant to this section with respect to the district's expenditures unrelated to principal and interest payments for bonded indebtedness. 43 A.G. Op. 13 (1989).

7-13-2303. Methods of assessment.

Compiler's Comments

2011 Amendment: Chapter 35 in (1) in introductory clause inserted "or any combination"; in (1)(a) substituted "may be" for "must be"; in (1)(b) after "The assessment may" deleted "at the option of the board or boards of county commissioners"; in (2) at end substituted "county" for "board of county commissioners"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 96 in (1) in introductory clause at end inserted "the county commissioners or board of directors may use one of the following methods of assessment"; inserted (1)(c) providing that each dwelling unit may be assessed a flat fee; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 25, 2009.

Case Notes

Area Basis Assessment Not Unconstitutional: The assessment of property within the district on an area basis was not violative of the 14th amendment to the United States Constitution as the evidence showed that the property assessed would be enhanced to the extent of the burden imposed. *Parker v. 1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 27 in (2)(c) substituted "property tax record maintained by the department of revenue for" for "assessment book on file in the office of the assessor of"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1994.

Applicability: Section 171(2), Ch. 27, Sp. L. November 1993, provided that the amendments to this section apply to tax years after December 31, 1993.

1985 Amendment: In (2)(b) substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "once each week for 2 consecutive weeks in a newspaper published in each county wherein the district is located"; and in (2)(c) substituted "mail as provided in 7-1-2122" for "regular first-class mail or registered or certified mail".

1983 Amendment: In (2)(c), after "owners" inserted "and the purchasers under contracts for deed".

1981 Amendment: Inserted "Except as provided in subsection (5)" at the beginning of (1); inserted (5) relating to adding contiguous land.

Case Notes

Jurisdiction of Public Service Commission: The Public Service Commission (P.S.C.) has no authority to determine water service area boundaries of an incorporated city, nor may the P.S.C. assume jurisdiction over the expansion of an adjoining county water district. Under this section, control over the size of a county water district is expressly vested in the board of directors and the electors. The statute does not mention a requirement of P.S.C. approval before land may be added to a county water district. It should be noted, however, that the P.S.C. has authority under 69-3-201 to determine on a case-by-case basis whether adequate service is provided at reasonable rates to customers who are within the service area. Billings v. P.S.C., 193 M 358, 631 P2d 1295, 38 St. Rep. 1162 (1981).

Duty to Maintain Pipes and Mains: When a city grants a water company the right to lay pipes and mains, there is also imposed an obligation to keep them in repair. Even though Public Service Commission rules required the owner of the premises being served by the water company to own, operate, maintain, and repair the curb box, neither the city nor the water company could pass the burden of reasonably safe maintenance on to the property owner. The property owner is merely the water company's agent for the performance of the water company's duty to maintain the pipes and mains. Nord v. Butte Water Co., 96 M 311, 30 P2d 809 (1934).

Duty to Restore Excavated Streets: A water company authorized by a city to excavate streets in supplying water to the city was under an obligation to restore the streets to the condition in which they were found and anticipate and guard against the effect of natural causes that might render them dangerous. The primary duty did not rest with the city. The water company's negligence in so restoring made it liable to the plaintiff when she overturned her carriage and suffered injuries as a result of the negligence. Robinson v. Mills, 25 M 391, 65 P 115 (1901).

Town Code Not Permitted to Charge for Unused Garbage Services: L&L Sanitation (L&L) hauled garbage for a number of years for the town of Culbertson. When its contract ended and was awarded to another hauler, L&L advertised to haul commercial and residential garbage for citizens living inside and outside the town limits. Citizens who requested L&L services then contacted the town clerk to discontinue their town garbage service but were advised that they could not discontinue their town garbage service and that if they did not pay their garbage bills, their water service would be turned off. L&L sought a declaratory judgment that the town, pursuant to its own town code, could not restrict garbage collection to the town's contracted service and had no power to shut off water service to any person or business disposing of garbage through contract with L&L or otherwise. The District Court found for the city, noting that although the town code did not provide that the town's contracted garbage service was exclusive, neither did the code provide that the collection fee was abated if the town collection service was not used. The Supreme Court reversed after examining the applicable town code and holding that the code neither required nor permitted a fee to be charged for its garbage service unless the service was used. The issue of the town's power to discontinue water service for failure to pay for garbage service was apparently not addressed. Labatte v. Culbertson, 282 M 342, 938 P2d 611, 54 St. Rep. 377 (1997).

Constitutionality — Substantial Impairment of Contractual Obligations: On November 25, 1978, a city and a private garbage collection service entered into a contract in which the latter was to provide garbage collection services for the city from November 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. On June 30, 1979, the city voted to provide its own garbage service beginning July 1, 1979. Retroactive application of this section would clearly substantially impair the contractual obligations of the city. Whether it constitutes an unconstitutional impairment of contract under Art. II, sec. 31, Mont. Const., was not decided because the contract expired before the effective date of the statute. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Red Lodge, 196 M 490, 640 P2d 461, 39 St. Rep. 287 (1982).

Effective Date: On November 25, 1978, a city and a private garbage collection service entered into a contract in which the latter was to provide garbage collection services for the city from November 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. On June 30, 1979, the city voted to provide its own garbage service beginning July 1, 1979. This section was not applicable, as there was no contract in existence on the section's effective date of July 1, 1979. Furthermore, this section was not intended to apply to contracts in existence before January 1, 1979. D & F Sanitation Serv. v. Red Lodge, 196 M 490, 640 P2d 461, 39 St. Rep. 287 (1982).

Part 42
Public Sewer Systems

7-13-4202. Construction of public sewers.

Case Notes

"Public Sewer" Defined:

In a sewer system composed of both public and district sewers, the main artery or trunkline is the public sewer. Also, a sewer built according to public sewer specification, which fits into the general sewer system of the city, serves the public, and will drain a large area of the city when other sewers are established, is a public sewer. Crutchfield v. Nash, 84 M 556, 276 P 938 (1929).

A sewer system designated a trunk sewer and intended to serve as an outlet for the district sewers to be constructed later is a public sewer; its construction costs cannot be assessed under the special improvement district laws. Rush v. Grandy, 66 M 222, 213 P 242 (1923).

7-13-4203. Financing of public sewers.

Case Notes

Main Trunkline Sewer Not to Be Paid for by Assessments: A special improvement district was created for construction of a main trunkline sewer, district main sewer, and submain sewer. This system would not serve a majority of the lots within the district until lateral sewers could be constructed, requiring the creation of local districts within the main trunkline district. This was improper, as the sewer system contemplated was a public sewer system and could not be paid for by assessments on the property within the district. Crutchfield v. Nash, 84 M 556, 276 P 938 (1929).

Special Improvement District Laws Not Appropriate for Public Sewers: A sewer system designated a trunk sewer and intended to serve as an outlet for the district sewers to be constructed later was a public sewer; its construction costs could not be assessed under the special improvement district laws. Rush v. Grandy, 66 M 222, 213 P 242 (1923).

Attorney General's Opinions

Jurisdiction Over Municipal Sewer Rates: Chapter 13, part 42, confers jurisdiction over municipal sewage rates upon the Public Service Commission only when the city finances its sewer system under the SID method for district sewers, appropriates money from the general or sewer fund or issues municipal bonds for public sewers, and has obtained voter approval to impose such rates as provided in 7-13-4204. 37 A.G. Op. 65 (1977).

Service Charge for Sewer Connection: A municipality may impose an initial service charge for connections to the municipal sewer system based upon the size of the water service as long as the fee is reasonable and can be placed in a special fund used for repairs and capital improvements. No special provisions exist as to public notice or hearings. 37 A.G. Op. 30 (1977).

Part 43Municipal Sewage and/or Water Systems*Part Case Notes

Termination of Service — Federal Due Process Requirements: The declaration by the State of Montana in 7-13-430, the pertinent enabling legislation, that municipally owned water service utilities are to be created for the benefit of the public, taken in conjunction with the fact that under 7-13-4306 the services provided by such utilities may be terminated only for cause, establishes that a customer has a justified expectation of continued water service, created and secured by existing state and local law. Accordingly, a customer serviced by a municipally owned water service utility in the State of Montana may assert a “legitimate claim of entitlement” within the protection of the federal Due Process Clause of the 14th amendment. This court reads the Due Process Clause to require, prior to termination of utility services for nonpayment of charges: (1) notice informing the customer not only of the possibility of termination but also of a procedure for challenging a disputed bill; and (2) an established procedure for resolution of disputes or some specified avenue of relief to customers who dispute the existence of a liability. Frates v. Great Falls, 568 F. Supp. 1330, 40 St. Rep. 1307 (D.C. Mont. 1983).

Implied Power of City to Allocate Proportionate Share of Construction Cost: A city sought to construct a shop complex that would be used by various departments of the city, including the water and sewer department. Although there is no express statute, the city possesses an implied power to allocate a share of the construction costs against the funds of each department. Greener v. Great Falls, 157 M 376, 485 P2d 932 (1971).

Net Income — Reasonable Expenses: A city sought to construct a shop complex that would be used by various departments of the city, including the water and sewer department. Construction costs were to be partially financed by money from the special funds of the departments and would be paid in installments over 5 years. As the repayment of outstanding bonds was not in jeopardy, the payments were held to be reasonable expenses of operation and maintenance of the water and sewer department. Greener v. Great Falls, 157 M 376, 485 P2d 932 (1971).

Constitutionality: Legal electors under 7-13-4303 (now repealed) were not the proper parties to attack its constitutionality on the grounds that some people who could not vote would have to pay or that some people outside of the city might be charged. Also, that there were some people who could vote on the project but would not be required to pay for it did not yield an unreasonable classification. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Separate Accounting Required for Equipment Reserve Account in Enterprise Fund: Enterprise funds, such as funds generated from the provision of income-producing municipal services like water and sewer systems, may not be consolidated with revenue from other sources. A city may not reclassify equipment reserves maintained in the enterprise funds. Therefore, equipment reserve accounts in enterprise funds must be maintained separately from other equipment reserve accounts in a capital improvement fund. 44 A.G. Op. 5 (1991).

Retention of Municipal Authority After Incorporation in County District: Section 7-13-2202 disclaims any intent to supersede through formation of a county district a municipality's authority with respect to maintenance or creation of a sewer and water system. Therefore, a municipality retains all authority granted under this part with respect to providing water and sewer services after a county water and sewer district, which includes the municipality, has been incorporated. 43 A.G. Op. 13 (1989).

7-13-4301. Establishment of sewage and water systems.

Case Notes

System Development Fees Allowable Form of Financing Future Expansion of City Water and Sewer System: When liberally construed, it is within the power of a self-governing municipality, as well as a reasonable extension of a city's express statutory authority, to implement the collection and accumulation of system development fees to fund a portion of the cost of future expansion of municipal water and sewer systems. The fees are proper as long as they are based on reasonably anticipated future costs of the city and the revenue generated from the fees is used solely to fund facility expansion or to pay for bonds sold for that purpose. Lechner v. Billings, 244 M 195, 797 P2d 191, 47 St. Rep. 1512 (1990).

7-13-4304. Authority to charge for services.

Case Notes

Sewer District Not Local Self-Governing Unit: The lower court granted a multicounty sewer district's motion for summary judgment, ruling that the district had the right to impose hookup inspection fees on the appellant, Seypar, Inc. Seypar, Inc., argued that the district did not have the authority to impose the fee against individual property owners and that the cost should have been assessed against the whole district. The Supreme Court ruled that although state law gave the district the same administrative powers as County Commissioners have over a single county sewer district, those powers are not the same as a local self-governing unit and therefore the district did not have the authority to exercise any power not prohibited by Montana law. The Supreme Court stated that since the district was not self-governing, it could not argue that the statutes relating to municipal districts applied to it by analogy. The Supreme Court held that the district did have the power to impose hookup fees under 7-12-2151. Seypar, Inc. v. Water & Sewer District No. 363, 1998 MT 149, 289 M 263, 960 P2d 311, 55 St. Rep. 578 (1998).

System Development Fees Allowable Form of Financing Future Expansion of City Water and Sewer System: When liberally construed, it is within the power of a self-governing municipality, as well as a reasonable extension of a city's express statutory authority, to implement the collection and accumulation of system development fees to fund a portion of the cost of future expansion of municipal water and sewer systems. The fees are proper as long as they are based on reasonably anticipated future costs of the city and the revenue generated from the fees is used solely to fund facility expansion or to pay for bonds sold for that purpose. Lechner v. Billings, 244 M 195, 797 P2d 191, 47 St. Rep. 1512 (1990).

Termination of Service — Federal Due Process Requirements: The declaration by the State of Montana in 7-13-430, the pertinent enabling legislation, that municipally owned water service utilities are to be created for the benefit of the public, taken in conjunction with the fact that under 7-13-4306 the services provided by such utilities may be terminated only for cause, establishes that a customer has a justified expectation of continued water service, created and secured by existing state and local law. Accordingly, a customer serviced by a municipally owned water service utility in the State of Montana may assert a “legitimate claim of entitlement” within the protection of the federal Due Process Clause of the 14th amendment. This court reads the Due Process Clause to require, prior to termination of utility services for nonpayment of charges: (1) notice informing the customer not only of the possibility of termination but also of a procedure for challenging a disputed bill; and (2) an established procedure for resolution of disputes or some specified avenue of relief to customers who dispute the existence of a liability. Frates v. Great Falls, 568 F. Supp. 1330, 40 St. Rep. 1307 (D.C. Mont. 1983).

Assessment to Be Equitable: Plaintiffs were assessed a tax for a portion of the costs of storm sewers and paid this tax under protest. At trial, the plaintiffs showed that it was highly unlikely that water running off their property would end up in the sewer system. Therefore, the assessments were not as equitable as possible in proportion to the services rendered and were erroneous. Berger v. Billings, 186 M 326, 607 P2d 558, 37 St. Rep. 397 (1980).

Commercial/Residential Rate Disparity: That commercial users of a storm sewer were charged three times as much as residential users is not objectionable because of the difference in runoff from the property. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

Duty Upon City to Administer: This section imposes a duty on a city to impose rates following an affirmative bond issue. A city ordinance setting forth the rates is an administrative act. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

Indirect Benefit Assessable: Because persons living within an existing storm sewer system would be indirectly benefited by a proposed extension of the system, they were properly assessable. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

No Violation of Legislature’s Authority to Delegate Power: In authorizing a municipality to set rates for a water or sewage system, the Legislature has not violated its authority to delegate its powers. A considerable amount of administrative detail is necessary to implement such rates. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

Prevention of Pollution Not Required: Subsection (1) is specific and directly deals with rates and charges. The language does not require a finding of prevention of pollution before rates and charges can be assessed. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

Vacant Lots Not Charged for Storm Sewers: That certain vacant lots were not charged for storm sewer service is not objectionable because runoff was minimal and enforcement of the charges was impractical. Billings v. Nore, 148 M 96, 417 P2d 458 (1966).

Attorney General’s Opinions

Municipal Authority to Set Water and Sewer Service Rates — Applicability of Human Rights Act to Setting of Water and Sewer Rates: A provision in this section provides that the rates for municipal water and sewer charges may be fixed in advance and must be uniform for like services in all parts of the municipality. The city of Bozeman sought to provide discounts or preferential rates to senior citizens on water and wastewater charges. The question was whether the senior rates violated the statutory requirement for uniform or equitable rates. The Attorney General held that because water and sewer ratemaking is not an area affirmatively subject to state control, a local government with self-government powers may set rates for those services without regard to the requirements of this section. However, the Attorney General noted that age discrimination does violate Title 49, ch. 2, commonly known as the Montana Human Rights Act, that Bozeman is subject to the Act despite its status as a self-governing municipality, and that discrimination in government services is affirmatively subject to state control. Without deciding whether Bozeman’s proposed ordinance would meet the standard of strict construction of reasonable grounds based on age, the Attorney General nevertheless concluded that 49-2-308 of the Act did apply to the Bozeman ordinance setting senior rates for municipal water and sewer services. 50 A.G. Op. 10 (2004).

Service Charge for Sewer Connection: A municipality may impose an initial service charge for connections to the municipal sewer system based upon the size of the water service as long as the fee is reasonable and can be placed in a special fund used for repairs and capital improvements. No Lien for Nonpayment of Water Bill: A city or town may not file a lien against a landowner's property due to a tenant's failure to pay for water service contracted for and used by the tenant. Discontinuance of service is the only statutory remedy provided for nonpayment of water charges. When a power is conferred upon a municipality and the mode in which it is to exercise that power is prescribed, such mode must be pursued. 40 A.G. Op. 7 (1983).

2005 Amendment: Chapter 451 in (1), in (2) in first sentence near middle and third sentence near end, and in (3)(b) near end after reference to sewer inserted "or water". Amendment effective April 28, 2005.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 423 in (2) near beginning substituted "July 7" for "July 15" and near middle substituted "paid within 30 days of the notice" for "paid by August 15"; in (3)(a) near beginning substituted "at the time that the annual tax levy is certified to the county clerk" for "on September 1"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 27 in (2), at end, substituted "shown in property tax records maintained by the department of revenue" for "recorded in the office of the county assessor"; in (3)(a), in two places, substituted "department of revenue" for "county assessor"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 1994.

Applicability: Section 171(2), Ch. 27, Sp. L. November 1993, provided that the amendments to this section apply to tax years after December 31, 1993.

1987 Amendments: Chapter 114 in (2) changed dates from January 15 to July 15, from January 1 to July 1, and from July 1 to August 15; and in (3)(a) changed March 1 to September 1.

Chapter 115 in (2) inserted fourth sentence relating to collection by suit; and inserted (4) relating to suing for debt.

7-13-4311. Authorization to furnish water and sewer services to industrial consumers.Compiler's Comments

1997 Amendment: Chapter 42 in (2)(a), after "reasonable rates", deleted "filed by the city or town council and approved by the public service commission"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 12, 1997.

Case Notes

Public Service Commission Jurisdiction: By using the phrase "as a public utility", the Legislature equated municipal sewage plants with other easily recognizable public utilities. Accordingly, Public Service Commission approval of sewage rates is a condition precedent to the institution of those rates. (See 1997 amendment.) Gwynn v. Eureka, 178 M 191, 582 P2d 1262 (1978).

2011 Amendment: Chapter 214 at end of first sentence deleted "and approved, when otherwise required by statute, by the public service commission"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2011.

Saving Clause: Section 13, Ch. 214, L. 2011, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 14, Ch. 214, L. 2011, was a severability clause.

Case Notes

Public Service Commission Jurisdiction: By using the phrase "as a public utility", the Legislature equated municipal sewage plants with other easily recognizable public utilities. Accordingly, Public Service Commission approval of sewage rates is a condition precedent to the institution of those rates. Gwynn v. Eureka, 178 M 191, 582 P2d 1262 (1978).

Connections Within Service Area: A business located outside the corporate limits but within the city's water supply service area cannot be refused a connection to a service main already in place. Polson v. P.S.C., 155 M 464, 473 P2d 508 (1970).

No Duty to Furnish Mains: A city is under no duty to furnish mains to an area outside the corporate limits even though it has agreed to supply water to the area. The decision is within its discretion. Crawford v. Billings, 130 M 158, 297 P2d 292 (1956).

Attorney General's Opinions

Municipality Authorized to Assess Charge for Providing Water Service to Fire Hydrants Owned by Rural Improvement District: When a rural improvement district requests that a municipal water utility provide water service to fire hydrants owned by the district, the municipality is authorized to provide that service and to assess a charge for it. 45 A.G. Op. 4 (1993).

7-13-4314. Annexation as requirement for receiving service.Case Notes

Annexation Waivers Required After Annexation Proceedings Commenced — No Fraud or Duress: A municipality may require annexation waivers in exchange for utility services even if the waivers are requested after annexation proceedings are initiated. Because waivers received after the city of Lewistown advised landowners that their water service would be terminated were valid, the District Court did not err in determining that there was not a majority of valid protests against an annexation. St. John v. Lewistown, 2017 MT 126, 387 Mont. 444, 395 P.3d 486. See also Schanz v. Billings, 182 Mont. 328, 597 P.2d 67 (1979), and Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 Mont. 109, 99 P.3d 151.

City Resolution Allowing Implied Consent to Annexation Upon Continued Use of Utility Services Affirmed: The city of Whitefish adopted a municipal resolution requiring that property owners consent to annexation in order to continue to receive city utility services and allowing the city to imply consent to annexation from property owners that continued to receive the services after they received notice requiring them to disconnect from the utilities. Property owners contended that the resolution was invalid, but the District Court held the resolution valid, and the Supreme Court affirmed. The Attorney General held in 46 A.G. Op. 12 (1995), that a municipality may establish a rule requiring consent to annexation as a condition for continued receipt of services, and that opinion is in accord with 69-7-201. Further, the utility rule in this case put the burden on the property owner to arrange to disconnect from services if protesting annexation, so once proper notice was given, under 7-2-4710 and 28-2-503 the city's procedure to imply consent was a proper method to determine if a property owner wished to continue to receive city services or to protest annexation. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004).

Recorded Waiver of Annexation Protest by Prior Property Owner — Present Owner Precluded From Protesting Annexation: In 1966, the city of Whitefish adopted a policy that a landowner outside the city boundary had to agree to waive the right to protest future annexation in order to continue to receive city water and sewer services. The waivers were properly recorded and later used by the city to invalidate annexation protests by current landowners in 1998. The District Court concluded that the waivers constituted a covenant running with the land and that the current owners were precluded from protesting the proposed annexation. On appeal, the current owners argued that the right to protest in 7-2-4710 resided with the current property owner and that the statutory consent to annexation authorized by this section only applied to the initiation of services and could not transfer to subsequent purchasers. The Supreme Court disagreed. Under 7-1-113, a self-governing entity may act even when there are controlling state laws as long as the local government's actions are not inconsistent with or lower or less stringent than state requirements. The purpose of this section is to ensure that property owners outside a municipality can request utility services and to ensure that the local government can later require annexation in exchange for utilities. Creating a covenant that runs with the land furthers this purpose. In addition, 70-17-203 also provides that every covenant made for the direct benefit of the property runs with the land. The waivers directly benefited the property and were allowable, so the District Court was affirmed. Gregg v. Whitefish City Council, 2004 MT 262, 323 M 109, 99 P3d 151 (2004). See also State ex rel. Swart v. Molitor, 190 M 515, 621 P2d 1100 (1981), and St. John v. Lewistown, 2017 MT 126, 387 Mont. 444, 395 P.3d 486.

City's Annexation Ordinance Not Coercive: A city's annexation ordinance requiring property to be annexed prior to extension of water and sewer services was not tantamount to coercion and would not render the principles of estoppel inapplicable. Schanz v. Billings, 182 M 328, 597 P2d 67, 36 St. Rep. 1163 (1979).

Part 44Water Supply and Regulation*Part Case Notes

City Ordinance Not Conclusive Presumption of Necessity — Standard of Proof: A city ordinance adopted pursuant to 7-5-4106 did not establish a conclusive presumption that the taking of private property for a water system was necessary. The controlling statutes are in this part, and absent an agreement to purchase, 7-13-4404 requires that the standard of proof outlined in 70-30-111 be met before private property may be taken for a public use. Since the District Court has the power to determine whether a condemnation is necessary, the votes of the people and the city council cannot be considered as dispositive of the issue of necessity; however, the public interest as expressed in these votes must be considered and weighed with the other factors in determining whether acquisition is necessary. Missoula v. Mtn. Water Co., 228 M 404, 743 P2d 590, 44 St. Rep. 1633 (1987).

7-13-4402. Obtaining municipal water supply.

Case Notes

Power of Local Governments to Require All Residents to Connect to City Water Supply: The defendants argued that a city ordinance requiring them to hook up to the city water system violated their right to privacy by denying them the freedom to choose the type of water they wanted to use. The Supreme Court held that the interest asserted did not involve matters so fundamentally affecting the defendants' rights as to invoke constitutional protection. The court also held that a local government's concern with preventing health problems is a legitimate reason for controlling the water supply and a proper exercise of governmental power. Ennis v. Stewart, 247 M 355, 807 P2d 179, 48 St. Rep. 228 (1991).

Grant of Power to Cities: This section is the basic grant of power that allows cities to engage in the water business and charge for water and services provided. Leischner v. Knight, 135 M 109, 337 P2d 359 (1959).

Method of Installing Fixtures Within City's Discretion: As the statute is silent on the method to be used in tapping the main and installing the necessary fixtures, a city has discretionary power to decide the matter. Where a city chose its own employees, not licensed plumbers, to do the work exclusively instead of hiring independent plumbing contractors, it did not abuse its discretion. Leischner v. Knight, 135 M 109, 337 P2d 359 (1959).

7-13-4403. Acquisition of private water supply system.

Case Notes

Condemnation of Private Water System: The city of Missoula filed a complaint to condemn the water system privately owned by the defendant water company. The city previously lost an attempt to condemn the water system in Missoula v. Mtn. Water Co. (Mountain Water I), 228 Mont. 404, 743 P.2d 590 (1987), and Missoula v. Mtn. Water Co. (Mountain Water II), 236 Mont. 442, 771 P.2d 103 (1989). The District Court issued a preliminary order of condemnation. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, finding that the defendants presented no compelling evidence that they were deprived of due process, that the District Court properly refused to grant a continuance and no actual prejudice resulted, that the defendants did not make a compelling case that they were not ready for trial because they were able to present a full and well-prepared defense, that the District Court properly declined to admit all of the proposed valuation evidence and the Legislature clearly intended for valuation to be determined by unbiased fact finders after the necessity determination, that the District Court properly refused to dismiss a party, that collateral estoppel was inappropriate because there was a change of circumstances sufficient to warrant a new analysis of whether public ownership of the water system was more necessary than private ownership and the city's previous attempt to acquire the water system did not bar the new action, that the District Court properly found that the effect of condemnation on employees was one of several nondispositive factors that must be considered, and that the District Court correctly determined that public ownership of the water system was more necessary than private ownership. Missoula v. Mtn. Water Co., 2016 MT 183, 384 Mont. 193, 378 P.3d 1113.

Acquisition by City Not Mandatory: Where there is an existing water supply system being operated under a franchise granted by the city, it is not incumbent upon the city to acquire that system before it procures its own system. Carlson v. Helena, 39 M 82, 102 P 39 (1909).

Local Water Quality Districts

Part Compiler's Comments

1991 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 357, L. 1991, provided: "A statement of intent is required for this bill in order to provide guidance to the board of health and environmental sciences [functions now transferred to Board of Environmental Review] concerning rulemaking and approval of local water quality programs. The board shall adopt rules concerning the format of local water quality programs, including the level of information necessary for a local water quality district to show that its proposed program will be consistent with Title 75, chapter 5, and that its program will be effective in protecting, preserving, and improving the quality of surface water and ground water. The board may define by rule the types of best management practices that may be imposed upon each of the types of facilities and sources of pollution that may be regulated by local ordinances as authorized under [section 24(4)] [75-5-311(4)]. It is the intent of the legislature that administrative responsibilities be clearly allocated and, when necessary, clearly divided between the department of health and environmental sciences

[functions now transferred to Department of Environmental Quality] and a local water quality district, insofar as possible, to ensure that permitholders, permit applicants, and citizens are not subject to conflicting or duplicative requirements. Through its approval of local water quality programs, the board of health and environmental sciences [functions now transferred to Board of Environmental Review] shall ensure that the department of health and environmental sciences' [functions now transferred to Board of Environmental Review] ability to continue to administer federally delegated water quality protection programs is not impaired. The board may also adopt rules to specify the procedures the department of health and environmental sciences [functions now transferred to Department of Environmental Quality] shall follow pursuant to 75-5-106 to authorize a local water quality district to enforce provisions of Title 75, chapter 5. It is the intent of the legislature that the boundaries of local water quality districts should correspond to the area or areas in which water quality problems have been documented.

Except as expressly provided in this bill, nothing in this bill may be considered to limit or restrict the authority of local governments to adopt rules and regulations authorized by other laws of the state."

WHEREAS, these transportation services and systems can be expanded by using state funding, known as Transportation Assistance for the Disabled and Elderly or TransADE, to match increases in federal transit funding; and

WHEREAS, this expansion of service addresses coordinated transportation options available to Montana’s transit-dependent residents.”

2005 Amendments — Code Commissioner Correction: Chapter 596 in (1) at end of second sentence substituted “15-1-122(3)(e)” for “61-3-321(6)(a)”. Amendment effective January 1, 2006.

In (1) at end the code commissioner substituted “15-1-122(3)(e)” for “61-3-321(5)(a)” to reflect the amendments made by Ch. 542, L. 2005.

2003 Amendment: Chapter 114 in (1) substituted “61-3-321(6)(a)” for “61-3-406”. Amendment effective October 1, 2003.

Effective Date: Section 10, Ch. 337, L. 2001, provided that this section is effective on passage and approval. Approved April 21, 2001.

Applicability: Section 11, Ch. 337, L. 2001, provided: “[This act] applies to registrations of motor vehicles occurring after December 31, 2001.”

Case Notes

Distribution of TransADE Funds Compliant With Constitutional Requirement for Strict Accountability of Public Funds: In a challenge to the Department of Transportation’s TransADE grant program providing funds for transportation services to elderly and disabled persons, the petitioner asserted that the Legislature’s delegation of legislative authority to the Department in 7-14-112 and the Department’s delegation to lead grantees to oversee the disbursement of grant funds violates Art. VIII, sec. 12, Mont. Const., by failing to provide strict accountability of public funds. On appeal, the Supreme Court disagreed and held that the Legislature responded to the nonself-executing mandate of Art. VIII, sec. 12, Mont. Const. by assigning audit power to the Legislative Auditor and requiring the Auditor to conduct financial and compliance audits of each state agency every 2 years. This audit power is sufficient to satisfy the requirement of providing strict accountability for the use of public funds. Mont. Independent Living Project v. St., 2019 MT 298, 398 Mont. 204, 454 P.3d 1216.

MAPA Process Not Required for TransADE State Management Plan: Under the TransADE program, the Department of Transportation administers formula grants to agencies that provide transportation services for elderly and disabled persons. The Department awards the grants using guidelines found in the State Management Plan (Plan) as required by 7-14-112(3)(a). The program was challenged in part with the argument that the Plan was the result of unauthorized rulemaking by the Department, but the Supreme Court disagreed. While the Department awards grants to lead agencies as set forth in the Plan, the grant applications are required to follow the core legislative requirements in 7-14-112. Because the Plan abides by these core requirements, the Department neither exceeds nor contradicts the authority specifically granted to it by statute and is not required to go through rulemaking under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act (MAPA). Mont. Independent Living Project v. St., 2019 MT 298, 398 Mont. 204, 454 P.3d 1216.

Meeting Notice and Attendance Records Destroyed — Affidavits Sufficient to Prove Adequate Notice and Opportunity to Be Heard: In a dispute over the administration of the TransADE program in 7-14-112, the Department of Transportation was accused of violating Art. II, sec. 8, Mont. Const., when developing the TransADE State Management Plan. The Department was unable to provide records of notice of meetings conducted around the state or the attendance records of participants because the records had been destroyed according to the Department’s 10-year record retention schedule. However, the Department submitted two affidavits from staff members that multiple meetings were attended by a variety of community members and that the public comment provided was part of the development of the State Management Plan. Together, the facts were sufficient to prove that the Department provided the public with adequate notice and an opportunity to be heard. Mont. Independent Living Project v. St., 2019 MT 298, 398 Mont. 204, 454 P.3d 1216.

TransADE Program Not Unconstitutional Delegation of Legislative Authority: The Legislature enacted the TransADE program to provide bus transportation for elderly and disabled persons around the state. The program, administered by the Department of Transportation, required the Department to calculate and distribute formula grants to applicants meeting the criteria. The program was challenged as an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority and was upheld by the Montana Supreme Court. The Court held that the statute's policy was clear, requiring certain funds to be used for transportation services for elderly and disabled persons, that the implicit yet clear rationale was evidence to efficiently administer grant awards to avoid duplication of services in geographic areas, and that the statute provides a standard sufficient for the Department to understand its obligations. Mont. Independent Living Project v. St., 2019 MT 298, 398 Mont. 204, 454 P.3d 1216, following Duck Inn, Inc. v. Mont. St. Univ.-N., 285 Mont. 519, 949 P.2d 1179 (1997).

Urban Transportation Districts

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Urban Transportation District Not Authorized to Tax and Manage County Roads: Yellowstone County sought an opinion on whether an urban transportation district is authorized to tax and manage county roads within its border or whether it is restricted to operating general public transportation systems. Although "transportation services and facilities" in 7-14-201 is not defined, the Attorney General construed these terms to denote a public transportation system, as opposed to road creation or maintenance. The Attorney General noted that the County Commissioners were expressly granted authority over county roads, and interpreting the urban transportation districts as having the power to create, manage, or levy taxes for public roads would directly conflict with this power. 55 A.G. Op. 1 (2013).

Case Notes

Port Authority Insured Under County Insurance Policy — Extrinsic Evidence Considered — Policy Construed Against Drafter — Insurer Not Immune From Suit as Reinsurer: After a port authority building was destroyed by a fire, the port claimed that it qualified as an insured under a county insurance company policy that included county members and any other county entities that receive insurance through a county joint insurance authority. The insurance company claimed that the language in the policy did not extend to county entities such as the port. Additionally, the insurance company claimed that it was a reinsurer and therefore it was improper for the port to bring a direct claim against it. The Supreme Court held that the port qualified as an insured under terms of the policy and that a direct claim was proper. In reaching a conclusion that was contrary to the language of the policy, the court gave meaning to the entire contract, considered extrinsic evidence, and construed ambiguous language in the policy against the insurer as the drafter. In determining that a direct claim was proper, the court reasoned that the port dealt directly with the insurance company, and therefore the insurer was an excess insurance carrier, rather than a reinsurer. *Lincoln County Port Authority v. 2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 deleted former (3)(b) that read: “(b) The notice and conduct of the election is governed, to the extent applicable, as provided for municipal general obligation bonds in Title 7, chapter 7, part 42, for an election called by cities and towns, and as provided for county general obligation bonds in Title 7, chapter 7, part 22, for an election called by counties”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 495 in (3)(a) substituted “an election” for “a special election” and substituted “as provided in 15-10-425” for “in conjunction with a regular or primary election”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Chapter 574 near middle of (3)(a) substituted “an election” for “a special election” and substituted “held pursuant to 15-10-425” for “held in conjunction with a regular or primary election”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in (1), in first sentence after “10,000”, deleted “with respect to bonds issued pursuant to this part by the local government or by an authority in which the local government is included”; inserted (3)(a)(ii) requiring the special election to be held in conjunction with a regular or primary election; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

County Commissioners Decision to Abandon Road Proper — Broad Discretion of “Board” — Substantial Evidence Existed: The plaintiffs challenged a finding of the District Court in a writ of review proceeding that substantial evidence supported the Board of County Commissioners’ decision to abandon a portion of a short, dead-end county road. The Supreme Court affirmed, reasoning that substantial evidence supported the Board’s decision. The Board did not exceed its jurisdiction, and the evidence provided by the plaintiffs was often unclear and could be subject to multiple interpretations. The Supreme Court held that it may not intrude into an area where a board holds broad discretion without substantially clearer evidence that the board was acting outside of its authorized scope. Williams v. Stillwater Bd. of County Comm’rs, 2021 MT 159, 404 Mont. 424, 490 P.3d 1234.

Failure to Follow Proper Procedure After Denial of Road Abandonment by County Commissioners — Dismissal Proper: Landowners submitted a request to the Board of County Commissioners to abandon a portion of a county road, which the Board denied. The landowners then filed a complaint for declaration action and injunctive relief in District Court. The District Court dismissed the case. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that because the plaintiffs had first submitted their claims to the Board, they should have instead filed a writ of review of the commissioners’ denial. Because the plaintiffs did not follow the proper procedure, the dismissal of their complaint was proper. Bugli v. Ravalli County, 2018 MT 177, 392 Mont. 131, 422 P.3d 131.

Authority of County to Dedicate Public Road on Public Land Prior to Statehood: Defendants contended that plaintiff county had no authority to dedicate a public road over a school section of state land and requested summary judgment on the issue. Summary judgment was denied, and on appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed. The road was established several months before Montana statehood, at a time when the land was still under the authority of the federal government. Because the land had not yet been conveyed to the state, the Board of County Commissioners had authority under sec. 2477, Revised Statutes of the United States (1866), to create roads across the section of federal land. Powell County v. 5 Rockin' MS Angus Ranch, Inc., 2004 MT 337, 324 M 204, 102 P3d 1210 (2004). See also Peterson v. Baker, 81 P 681 (Wash. 1905), and U.S. v. Wyo., 195 F. Supp. 692 (D.C. Wyo. 1961).

County Roads Properly Established Prior to 1895 — Record Taken as a Whole — Summary Judgment Proper: Powell County filed an action seeking a declaratory judgment and injunctive relief to establish that two roads were considered public roads established in 1889 and 1903. Defendants denied that the roads were public and counterclaimed to quiet title. The District Court found for the county, and defendants appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. As held in McCauley v. Thompson-Nistler, 2000 MT 215, 301 M 81, 10 P3d 794 (2000), there were four ways that a public highway could be established prior to 1895: (1) by action of the proper authorities in accordance with statute; (2) by prescriptive use for the period required by statute; (3) by opening and dedication by the private owner; and (4) upon partition of real property. In the present case, there was some question whether the roads in question were properly established in 1889; however, as provided in Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), a party is not required to produce complete documentary evidence of procedures that created a road many years ago, and the District Court may consider whether the record taken as a whole indicates that a public road was created. The record in this case sufficiently established the creation and dedication of the roads at issue, and absent any disputed material facts concerning whether the roads were properly created, summary judgment was proper. Powell County v. 5 Rockin' MS Angus Ranch, Inc., 2004 MT 337, 324 M 204, 102 P3d 1210 (2004). See also Sayers v. Chouteau County, 2013 MT 45, 369 Mont. 98, 297 P.3d 312, and Letica Land Co., LLC v. Anaconda-Deer Lodge County, 2015 MT 323, 381 Mont. 389, 362 P.3d 614.

No Intent to Abandon Public Road Despite Reconveyance of Surrounding Property to Private Interests: In 1939 and 1940, the Shelby Country Club conveyed 160 acres of land to the city of Shelby with the understanding that the city would beautify the property as a park and lease it to the country club for a golf course. The city graded a road to the property and maintained Club Road thereafter. When the city could not obtain funds for a park, the property was reconveyed to the country club, and eventually, plaintiff acquired most of the property, while an 11.75-acre parcel was acquired by defendants. Plaintiff sought to have Club Road declared a private road and asked for damages for defendants' use of the road. The city subsequently annexed the road into the city limits and intervened in the suit, along with Toole County, to protect the public interest. The District Court declared Club Road to be a public road, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Although the District Court relied on section 32-103, R.C.M. 1947, rather than the applicable section 1612, R.C.M. 1921, the fact remained that once Club Road was laid out by the city as a public road and maintained its character through more than 50 years of public use, it remained a public road despite the reconveyance of the surrounding property to private interests, absent any clear intent by the city to abandon it. Smith v. Russell, 2003 MT 326, 318 M 336, 80 P3d 431 (2003).

Substantial Evidence of Establishment of County Road — Quiet Title Denied: Plaintiffs petitioned to have a road crossing their property abandoned as a county road, and when the county denied the petition, plaintiffs sought to quiet title and injunctive relief to prevent public use of the road. The District Court denied the request. Applying Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), the Supreme Court examined the record as a whole and determined that the road had been proposed, viewed, constructed, and dedicated in substantial compliance with laws in effect in 1915 and that long-time historic use clearly indicated that the road was a public road. Absent any evidence that the county ever took affirmative steps to indicate an intent to abandon the road, the road remained a public road, and the District Court was affirmed. Galassi v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2003 MT 319, 318 M 288, 80 P3d 84 (2003), followed in Roe Family LLC v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2008 MT 70, 342 M 108, 179 P3d 514 (2008), to the extent that the record, taken as a whole, showed that a public road was created.

Creation of County Road — Applicability of Curative Statute of 1895: Garrison brought an action against Lincoln County, alleging that the county had no right or interest in a road that crossed Garrison's property. The District Court held that the road was a county road or, alternatively, that even if the road was not a county road, the public had obtained a prescriptive easement covering the road. Garrison appealed, arguing that County Commissioners in 1912 and 1913 failed to strictly comply with the statutory requirements for creating a county road, rendering the road private property, despite the fact that the road was declared public in 1913 and had been used extensively by the public and maintained by the county for over 50 years. The District Court properly relied on Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), to conclude that the record taken as a whole presented clear evidence that despite discrepancies in its description or location, a county road was created and that any defects in the procedure used to create the road were remedied by the curative statute 2600 of the Political Code of 1895 that provided that all roads laid out, traveled, or used by the public were considered public highways. Garrison v. Lincoln County, 2003 MT 227, 317 M 190, 77 P3d 163 (2003), distinguishing Pederson v. Dawson County, 2000 MT 339, 303 M 158, 17 P3d 393 (2000).

County Right-of-Way Considered Easement — Injunction Proper Remedy to Ensure Access to Right-of-Way: Jefferson County filed a complaint for a temporary injunction, an order allowing entry upon land to survey McCarty Creek Road, which passed through McCauley's land to public land beyond, and an order setting a show cause hearing. The District Court issued the injunction allowing the survey and set a date for hearing. At the hearing, the court found extensive documentary evidence, dating back to 1883, confirming the existence of McCarty Creek Road and, in its final order, determined that the road, as it crossed McCauley's property, was a dedicated and established county road. The court further enjoined McCauley from interfering with access or obstructing ingress and egress on the road. The Supreme Court affirmed, finding substantial credible evidence to support the District Court's determination and finding no abuse of discretion in enjoining McCauley from interfering with the public use of McCarty Creek Road. Jefferson County v. McCauley Ranches, 1999 MT 333, 297 M 392, 994 P2d 11, 56 St. Rep. 1329 (1999), following Bolinger v. Bozeman, 158 M 507, 493 P2d 1062 (1972), Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210, 38 St. Rep. 631 (1981), and Bailey v. Ravalli County, 201 M 138, 653 P2d 139, 39 St. Rep. 2010 (1982), and distinguishing Porter v. K&S Partnership, 192 M 175, 627 P2d 836 (1981), Knudson v. McDunn, 271 M 61, 894 P2d 295 (1995), and Lurie v. Sheriff, 284 M 207, 944 P2d 205, 54 St. Rep. 847 (1997).

Contempt Order Against County for Failure to Follow Proper Procedures Annulled: The lower court found the county in contempt for abandoning and changing a portion of a road without following the procedures suggested in an earlier court order. The Supreme Court stated that not all of the record had been before the lower court. An examination of the entire record indicated that the county had tried to follow the procedures set out in statute and the earlier court order. The Supreme Court annulled the contempt order and suggested that the parties might want to move to have the injunction against changing or abandoning the relevant portion of the road dissolved. State ex rel. Fallon County v. District Court, 245 M 382, 801 P2d 610, 47 St. Rep. 2187 (1990).

Abandoned Public Road to Revert to Abutting Property Owners: An action was filed to quiet title to a county road that had been established as a public road in 1909. The certificate of dedication of the 1909 plat stated that the streets therein were "granted and dedicated to the use of the public forever". In 1944, pursuant to section 1635, R.C.M. 1935, a petition for county road closure was filed. That same year the petition was granted by the County Commissioners. After 1944, neither the plaintiffs nor their predecessors in interest paid any taxes on the roadway and no portion of the roadway was fenced into the lands now belonging to the plaintiffs until 1980. The court quieted title in the plaintiffs, ruling that the 1909 plat dedication was the equivalent of a right-of-way deed under which the public acquired only the right-of-way and the incidents necessary to its enjoyment and that upon abandonment the fee in the street reverted to the abutting landowners, with each abutting landowner taking fee from the edge of his property to the center of the street. Bailey v. Ravalli County, 201 M 138, 653 P2d 139, 39 St. Rep. 2010 (1982), followed in Herreid v. Hauck, 254 M 496, 839 P2d 571, 49 St. Rep. 884 (1992), and Knutson v. Schroeder, 2008 MT 139, 343 M 81, 183 P3d 881 (2008).

Bid Calling and Fund Expenditure — Administrative Functions: In calling for bids and preparing to expend county funds for a paving project, the County Commissioners were performing administrative functions in furtherance of their responsibility to manage and maintain county roads. For this reason a referendum directing them not to expend funds or call for bids was invalid. The referendum did not address the decision of whether the county should pave the road, a legislative function. Chouteau County v. Grossman, 172 M 373, 563 P2d 1125 (1977).

Attorney General's Opinions

Access to Rivers and Streams Via County Road Right-of-Way and Bridges: Given that the public has the right to use public highways in any manner and for any purpose consistent with or reasonably incidental to public travel, this right includes the use of public rights-of-way created by county roads to gain access to rivers and streams. Using a county road right-of-way as an access point to a river or stream right-of-way is consistent with and reasonably incidental to the public's right to travel on county roads. Further, a bridge and its abutments, as part of a public highway, offer the same access to rivers and streams for recreational use as the highway to which they are attached. However, the public's right of access is not unlimited and is subject to the following limitations: (1) the recreating public must stay within the county road and bridge right-of-way, which is assumed to be 60 feet unless otherwise stated by petition or dedication; (2) access may be limited by the reasonable exercise of a governing body's police power to control the use of roads for purposes such as safety and parking; and (3) use of a public highway may be limited by the manner in which it was created, such as a road created by prescriptive easement, which is limited both in size and usage to the original use during the prescriptive period and may include access for hunting, fishing, and recreation. 48 A.G. Op. 13 (2000).

Maintenance of County Roads — Discretionary or Mandatory: A county is required to maintain county roads established through the petition process but is not legally required to maintain other county roads, which include county roads created by dedication to the public. The Board of County Commissioners exercised its discretion to authorize maintenance of a county road created by dedication to the public from 1952 until 1981. The county is not required by law to maintain the road but has, within the limits of available funds, the power and discretion to do so. 41 A.G. Op. 32 (1985).

Duty to Install Culverts: The duty to build bridges imposed by 7-14-2204(1) includes the duty to install culverts when such devices are deemed most appropriate for conveying water beneath a public street or highway. 38 A.G. Op. 39 (1979).

Authority to Close Roads Because of Hazardous Conditions: Because the county is potentially liable for failure to maintain county roads in a safe condition, it has the implied power to temporarily close county roads when hazardous conditions exist. It is also responsible for the placement and maintenance of traffic control devices necessary to warn and regulate traffic. The procedures to be followed and the individual who is to make the decision to close roads are to be determined by the Board of County Commissioners. A county road superintendent or supervisor, if appointed, would be appropriate. Only in case of extreme emergency may the Highway Patrol block traffic. 37 A.G. Op. 116 (1977).

"Public Highways" — Forest Development Roads: Use of the term "public highways" for the purpose of imposing a gross vehicle weight tax, a special fuels tax, license plates requirements, or weight limitations does not include forest development roads. 37 A.G. Op. 9 (1977).

Attorney General's Opinions

Parameters of County Commission Authority to Permit County Road Use for Pipelines: A Board of County Commissioners is charged with a significant amount of discretion under 7-1-2103, this section, and 7-14-2107 in determining whether to permit the use of a county road right-of-way for the laying of permanent or temporary pipelines. This discretion is potentially limited by state regulations under Title 69, ch. 13, concerning pipeline carriers, depending on specific factual situations. To be consistent with the holding in Bolinger v. Bozeman, 158 M 507, 493 P2d 1062 (1972), the Board must find that the action: (1) is necessary for the best interest of the county roads and the road districts; (2) does not unreasonably impair the special easements of abutting owners in the street for purposes of access, light, and air; and (3) is conducive to the public welfare and serves one of the purposes for which highways and streets are dedicated. 42 A.G. Op. 40 (1987).

Responsibility for Costs of Maintenance and Repair of County Road Established by Petition: If a rural special improvement district is created to improve a county road established by the county road petition process, the district is responsible for the costs of maintenance and repair of the road. 41 A.G. Op. 61 (1986).

Authority to Close Roads Because of Hazardous Conditions: Because the county is potentially liable for failure to maintain county roads in a safe condition, it has the implied power to temporarily close county roads when hazardous conditions exist. It is also responsible for the placement and maintenance of traffic control devices necessary to warn and regulate traffic. The procedures to be followed and the individual who is to make the decision to close roads are to be determined by the Board of County Commissioners. A county road superintendent or supervisor, if appointed, would be appropriate (see 1995 amendment allowing appointment of County Surveyor). Only in case of extreme emergency may the Highway Patrol block traffic. 37 A.G. Op. 116 (1977).

Case Notes

No Abandonment of County Road Through Combination of Nonuse and Building of Highway: Defendants fenced a section of Flathead County road G since 1955, placing five gates across the road in various places. The road provided the only access for a land company and was used by state personnel to access state lands. The road was established in 1893, and no document on record indicated that the road was ever abandoned. Defendants refused to remove the gates upon request, so suit was filed to enjoin them from erecting and maintaining gates across the road, and because no genuine issue of fact existed to show that the county abandoned or intended to abandon the road, the District Court granted summary judgment to the state. To prove abandonment of a road by a government entity, there must be a showing of a clear intent to abandon and the conduct that is claimed to demonstrate the intent to abandon must be some affirmative official act, rather than mere implication. On appeal, defendants argued that the county evidenced its clear intent to abandon the right-of-way by the coupling of two circumstances: (1) relocation of a roadway by the public authority; and (2) subsequent nonuse of the roadway. The Supreme Court found the argument illogical. If nonuse does not create abandonment and the building of a highway does not create abandonment, then the combination of the two also does not create abandonment. The District Court was affirmed. St. v. Fisher, 2003 MT 207, 317 M 49, 75 P3d 338 (2003), following Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106 (1992). See also *Ashby v. Attorney General's Opinions

Responsibility for Costs of Maintenance and Repair of County Road Established by Petition: If a rural special improvement district is created to improve a county road established by the county road petition process, the district is responsible for the costs of maintenance and repair of the road. 41 A.G. Op. 61 (1986).

Maintenance of County Roads — Discretionary or Mandatory: A county is required to maintain county roads established through the petition process but is not legally required to maintain other county roads, which include county roads created by dedication to the public. The Board of County Commissioners exercised its discretion to authorize maintenance of a county road created by dedication to the public from 1952 until 1981. The county is not required by law to maintain the road but has, within the limits of available funds, the power and discretion to do so. 41 A.G. Op. 32 (1985).

Authority to Close Roads Because of Hazardous Conditions: Because the county is potentially liable for failure to maintain county roads in a safe condition, it has the implied power to temporarily close county roads when hazardous conditions exist. It is also responsible for the placement and maintenance of traffic control devices necessary to warn and regulate traffic. The procedures to be followed and the individual who is to make the decision to close roads are to be determined by the Board of County Commissioners. A county road superintendent or supervisor, if appointed, would be appropriate. Only in case of extreme emergency may the Highway Patrol block traffic. 37 A.G. Op. 9 (1977).

Case Notes

Use of Public Road Created by Prescriptive Use Extends to All Reasonably Foreseeable Uses: Once a public road is established by prescriptive use, the use of that road is not limited to the adverse usage through which the road was acquired, but rather extends to all reasonably foreseeable uses, including foot travel. Pub. Lands Access Ass'n, Inc. v. Madison County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2014 MT 10, 373 Mont. 277, 321 P.3d 38.

Width of Public Right-of-Way Established by Prescription — Portion of Right-of-Way Necessary to Maintain County Road for Public Use — Not Reserved to County: Plaintiff association sued the county because property owners had erected fences along the county road to the ends of a bridge, thereby preventing the public from using the right-of-way access to the river. The parties stipulated that the right-of-way for this portion of the road had been established by prescriptive use. The plaintiff argued that the public's right-of-way extended not only to the road, but to portions along the road necessary to maintain it. The District Court disagreed and ruled that only the county had an easement that exceeded the fences for the purpose of maintaining and repairing the road. The plaintiff appealed and the Supreme Court reversed, holding that the width of a public road right-of-way established by prescriptive easement includes the areas necessary to support and maintain the road and that those areas are not reserved for the county. The Supreme Court therefore remanded the matter to the District Court to determine the actual width of the right-of-way in accordance with its guidelines. Pub. Lands Access Ass'n, Inc. v. Madison County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2014 MT 10, 373 Mont. 277, 321 P.3d 38.

Right-of-Way Incidents: Where a county grants a city permission to lay a sewerline along a county road, the consent of landowners abutting the road is not necessary. A public right-of-way may be used as the convenience and welfare of the public demand, not only according to the usages when dedicated but in light of advancing civilization. Bolinger v. Bozeman, 158 M 507, 493 P2d 1062 (1972), followed in Adams v. Dept. of Highways, 230 M 393, 753 P2d 846, 45 St. Rep. 298 (1988), and Jefferson County v. McCauley Ranches, 1999 MT 333, 297 M 392, 994 P2d 11, 56 St. Rep. 1329 (1999).

Attorney General's Opinions

Access to Rivers and Streams Via County Road Right-of-Way and Bridges: Given that the public has the right to use public highways in any manner and for any purpose consistent with or reasonably incidental to public travel, this right includes the use of public rights-of-way created by county roads to gain access to rivers and streams. Using a county road right-of-way as an access point to a river or stream right-of-way is consistent with and reasonably incidental to the public's right to travel on county roads. Further, a bridge and its abutments, as part of a public highway, offer the same access to rivers and streams for recreational use as the highway to which they are attached. However, the public's right of access is not unlimited and is subject to the following limitations: (1) the recreating public must stay within the county road and bridge right-of-way, which is assumed to be 60 feet unless otherwise stated by petition or dedication; (2) access may be limited by the reasonable exercise of a governing body's police power to control the use of roads for purposes such as safety and parking; and (3) use of a public highway may be limited by the manner in which it was created, such as a road created by prescriptive easement, which is limited both in size and usage to the original use during the prescriptive period and may include access for hunting, fishing, and recreation. 48 A.G. Op. 13 (2000).

Parameters of County Commission Authority to Permit County Road Use for Pipelines: A Board of County Commissioners is charged with a significant amount of discretion under 7-1-2103, 7-14-2102, and this section in determining whether to permit the use of a county road right-of-way for the laying of permanent or temporary pipelines. This discretion is potentially limited by state regulations under Title 69, ch. 13, concerning pipeline carriers, depending on specific factual situations. To be consistent with the holding in Bolinger v. Bozeman, 158 M 507, 493 P2d 1062 (1972), the Board must find that the action: (1) is necessary for the best interest of the county roads and the road districts; (2) does not unreasonably impair the special easements of abutting owners in the street for purposes of access, light, and air; and (3) is conducive to the public welfare and serves one of the purposes for which highways and streets are dedicated. 42 A.G. Op. 40 (1987).

Case Notes

Requirement That Public Highways Be 60 Feet — No Control Over Roads Created by Prescription or Dedication: When no boundary markers were found marking a right-of-way at issue, the District Court determined the city's right-of-way was 60 feet in width, based in part on a surveying expert's opinion. The surveyor's opinion partially relied on a 1907 version of this section that specified public highways were 60 feet unless the County Commissioners specified otherwise. The Supreme Court agreed with the outcome of the surveyor's opinion for other reasons but noted that although this section supported the District Court's determination, it did not control roads created by prescription or dedication. Wohl v. Missoula, 2013 MT 46, 369 Mont. 108, 300 P.3d 1119. See also St. v. Portmann, 149 Mont. 91, 423 P.2d 56 (1967).

Public Roads Created by Prescriptive Use: The width of a public road created by prescriptive use is determined by the extent of its use. This section applies only to public roads laid out by official act. Povah v. Portmann, 149 M 91, 423 P2d 56 (1967). However, see Pub. Lands Access Ass'n, Inc. v. Madison County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2014 MT 10, 373 Mont. 277, 321 P.3d 38, holding that once a public road is established by prescriptive use, the use of that road is not limited to the adverse usage through which the road was acquired.

Right-of-Way Applicable to Operation and Maintenance Road in Herd District Within Irrigation Project: As part of the Huntley irrigation project, Yellowstone County constructed an operation and maintenance road along one side of an irrigation canal. A nearby property owner later used the road to move cattle, and after plaintiffs complained to the County Sheriff several times over a period of years, plaintiffs installed cattle guards. The county subsequently removed the cattle guards, claiming that the road was a county road and that the county had a 60-foot right-of-way, giving it the right to remove obstructions, including cattle guards and overgrowth from trees obstructing the road. The county then trimmed and killed several of plaintiffs' trees, and plaintiffs sued the county, contesting the county's right-of-way. The District Court examined the historical use of the road and determined that the county's right-of-way was about 20 feet. The court also held that because the property was in a herd district and because all the parties preferred cattle guards to gates, the county was required to replace the cattle guards. The county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. The county road was superimposed on the operation and maintenance road and thus was not more or less extensive than the operation and maintenance road, so the easement was 20 feet as the road currently existed. Further, because the project was a federal operation, the rights of the federal government prevailed. A witness for the federal government testified that cattle guards were preferable, so ordering the replacement of the cattle guards was also not erroneous. Weatherwax v. Yellowstone County, 2003 MT 215, 317 M 119, 75 P3d 788 (2003).

WHEREAS, a Montana Attorney General's Opinion in 2000 (48 A.G. Op. 13) held that the use of a county road right-of-way to gain access to streams and rivers is consistent with and reasonably incidental to the public's right to travel on county roads and that the public may gain access to streams and rivers by using the bridge, its right-of-way, and its abutments; and

WHEREAS, during the 2007-08 interim a group of stakeholders met to address the controversy and agreed in principle that a legislative solution was preferable and that past legislative attempts may have failed because they were overly complex; and

WHEREAS, the stakeholders also agreed in principle that any proposed legislation needed to provide:

- (1) that a fence in a county road right-of-way abutting a bridge should not be considered an encroachment;
- (2) that the public may access streams and rivers from a county road or bridge right-of-way, but that the public must stay in the right-of-way to gain access;
- (3) that the legislation neither create any right nor extinguish any right related to county roads established by prescriptive use that exist at the time of passage;
- (4) a process to define the physical characteristics of a fence used for public access in county road and bridge rights-of-way; and
- (5) an approach with broad scope rather than an attempt to resolve a myriad of possible contingencies; and

Attorney General's Opinions

Maintenance of Bridge Utilized by Public but Not Located on County Road: Prior to July 1, 1979, it would appear that a bridge on a road utilized by the public, which was located over a boundary between two counties, would be the common responsibility of the two counties. However, by adding a definition of "public bridges", the 1979 Legislature made it clear that counties are not responsible for maintenance of bridges that, although utilized by the public, are not located in a city or town in the county or on a county road maintained by the county. 38 A.G. Op. 50 (1979).

Duty to Install Culverts: The duty to build bridges imposed by 7-14-2204(1) includes the duty to install culverts when such devices are deemed most appropriate for conveying water beneath a public street or highway. 38 A.G. Op. 39 (1979).

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

1989 Amendment: In (1) substituted "20 mills" for "15 mills" and "23 mills" for "18 mills". Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

1981 Amendment: Increased the permissive county road levy from 12 to 15 mills and from 15 to 18 mills in fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh class counties.

Case Notes

No Exemption From Property Road Tax: The exemption statute, 7-33-2314, exempts firefighters from the per capita road tax, not from the property road tax. Missoula Rural Fire District v. Missoula County, 222 M 178, 720 P2d 1170, 43 St. Rep. 1153 (1986).

Attorney General's Opinions

Mill Increase for County Roads and Bridges Not Exception to I.M. No. 105 Tax Freeze: The 1989 increase in allowable mills for county road construction, maintenance, or improvement, as set out in this section, and for county bridge construction, maintenance, and repair, as set out in 7-14-2502, was not an exception to the I.M. No. 105 property tax freeze established in 15-10-402, but rather was intended to be implemented by a reduction of millage in other areas of the county budget. (See 1999 amendment.) 43 A.G. Op. 74 (1990).

Mill Levy Increase — Proration to Parts of Fiscal Year to Accommodate October Effective Date: Section 7-14-2501 was amended in 1981 to authorize the Board of County Commissioners to levy 15 mills rather than 12 mills for the county road fund. (See 2001 amendment.) The increase, under the 1981 amendments to 1-2-201, becomes effective October 1, 1981. However, the county budget year begins July 1, 1981. The reasonable way to give effect to both amendments is to construe them to allow the Board to apply a rate of 12 mills for the 3 months of the current county fiscal year which fall before October 1, 1981, and a rate of 15 mills for the 9 months of the current county fiscal year which fall after October 1, 1981. 39 A.G. Op. 29 (1981).

7-14-2502. Special bridge tax authorized — combined ferry and bridge fund.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 in (1) after "tax" deleted "not to exceed 8 mills"; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) Subject to 15-10-420, an additional levy for these purposes may be made under the following conditions:

(a) In any county where the taxable value of property in that county is $20 million or less, the board may, if necessary, levy 1 mill.

(b) In counties where the taxable value of property in that county is not less than $20 million or more than $40 million, the board may, if necessary, levy 2 mills"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 in (1) and (2) inserted reference to 15-10-420; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

1989 Amendments: Chapter 36 in (4), at beginning of last sentence, inserted "Except when the county has a combined ferry and bridge fund"; and inserted (5) authorizing combination of revenue from bridge and ferry levies. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

Chapter 147 in (1) increased mill levy amount from 4 mills to 8 mills; near beginning of (2)(a), after "where", deleted "the total linear feet of bridges or bridge construction is more than 4,000 and”; and near beginning of (2)(b), after “where”, deleted “the total linear feet of bridges or bridge construction is more than 6,000 and”. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

Maintenance of Bridge Utilized by Public but Not Located on County Road: Prior to July 1, 1979, it would appear that a bridge on a road utilized by the public, which was located over a boundary between two counties, would be the common responsibility of the two counties. However, by adding a definition of “public bridges”, the 1979 Legislature made it clear that counties are not responsible for maintenance of bridges that, although utilized by the public, are not located in a city or town in the county or on a county road maintained by the county. 38 A.G. Op. 50 (1979).

Duty to Install Culverts: The duty to build bridges imposed by 7-14-2204(1) includes the duty to install culverts when such devices are deemed most appropriate for conveying water beneath a public street or highway. 38 A.G. Op. 39 (1979).

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 deleted former (2)(b) that read: "(b) if the 10-year term requires an annual tax levy for payment of the refunding bonds which exceeds 10 mills on all property subject to taxation, the term may be so extended as to reduce the annual levy to 10 mills"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

7-14-2524. Limitation on amount of bonds issued.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 187 in (2) and (3) near middle after "exceed" substituted "2.5%" for "1.4%". Amendment effective July 1, 2007.

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 7 in (1)(a)(i) in first sentence substituted "15-36-324(14)" for "15-36-324(13)". Amendment effective October 1, 2001. The amendment by Ch. 29 rendered the amendment by Ch. 7 void.

Chapter 29 in (1) near middle after "emergency bonds" substituted "exceeds 0.68% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "will exceed 11.25% of the total of the taxable value of the property" and after "county" substituted "as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes" for "plus:

(a) (i) the value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(13). The taxable property and the amount of taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production must be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes prior to the issuance of the bonds.

(ii) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(b) for fiscal year 2001, an additional 25% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(c) for fiscal year 2002, an additional 50% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(d) for fiscal year 2003, an additional 75% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(e) for fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 2%, an additional 100% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of class six property, multiplied by 11.25%, and an additional 77% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 11.25%;

(f) for fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 1%, an additional 94% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 11.25%; and

(g) for the fiscal year and succeeding fiscal years in which 15-6-138 is repealed, an additional 100% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 11.25%; in (2) near beginning after "exceeds" substituted "0.68% but does not exceed 1.4% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "11.25% but does not exceed 22.5% of the total of the taxable value of the property, as adjusted in subsection (1), plus an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by the amount that exceeds 11.25% but does not exceed 22.5% and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by the amount that exceeds 11.25% but does not exceed 22.5%"; in (3) after "exceed" substituted "1.4% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "22.5% of the total of the taxable value of the property" and after "the county" substituted "as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes prior to the issuance of the bonds" for "as adjusted in this section"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Section 39(2), Ch. 556, L. 1999, provided that this section applies to fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2000.

1997 Amendments: Chapter 219 in two places, after "bonds and warrants", deleted reference to exception for county high school bonds; and in (3), after "indebtedness of the county", deleted reference to exception for county high school bonds. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

Chapter 466 in (1), (2), and (3) substituted "15-36-324(13)" for "15-36-324(10)". Amendment effective April 30, 1997.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 23, Ch. 219, L. 1997, provided: "[This act] is effective July 1, 1997, and applies to bonds issued on or after [the effective date of this act]."

1995 Amendment: Chapter 451 in (1), (2), and (3), after "plus the", substituted "value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(10)" for previous formula (see 1995 Session Law for text). Amendment effective January 1, 1996.

Applicability: Section 55, Ch. 451, L. 1995, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to oil and natural gas produced and sold on or after January 1, 1996.

(2) (a) [Sections 21 through 26] [7-1-2111, 7-7-2101, 7-7-2203, 7-14-2524, 7-14-2525, and 7-16-2327] apply to county fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(b) [Sections 38 through 46] [20-9-104, 20-9-141, 20-9-161, 20-9-331, 20-9-333, 20-9-501, 20-9-507, 20-10-144, and 20-10-146] apply to school fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(3) (a) An operator is subject to provisions of Title 15, chapter 23, parts 1 and 6 [part 6 now repealed]; Title 15, chapter 36; Title 15, chapter 38; and Title 82, chapter 11, part 1, as those laws read on December 31, 1995, for all oil and natural gas produced and sold by the operator before January 1, 1996. [On December 31, 1995, Title 15, ch. 36, contained only part 1, now repealed. Part 3 of that chapter became effective January 1, 1996.]

(b) Except as provided in subsection (3)(c), the payment, collection, and distribution of taxes on oil and natural gas production occurring before January 1, 1996, must be made according to the provisions of the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) governing the tax in effect on the last day of the tax period in which the activity, enterprise, or product being taxed was engaged in, took place, or was produced and sold.

(c) [Section 19] [15-36-325, now repealed] applies to the payment, collection, and distribution of the local government severance tax for oil and natural gas produced and sold after December 31, 1994, and before January 1, 1996.

(d) All taxes collected pursuant to audit or collected after the date the tax is payable under the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) must be distributed according to the statute governing allocation of the tax in effect on the date when the tax liability was incurred."

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 9 near middle of (1), (2), and (3), after "amount of", substituted "taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production" for "interim production and new production taxes levied", inserted reference to subsection (2)(c), and after "new production" inserted "and production from horizontally completed wells"; at end of (1), after "amount of", substituted "taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production" for "interim production and new production taxes levied"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective December 17, 1993.

Report Required: Section 21, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "The board of oil and gas conservation shall report at least once a year to the revenue oversight committee regarding the implementation of [this act]. The reports must include but are not limited to information regarding:

- (1) the methods used to determine production decline rates;
- (2) rules adopted to implement [this act];
- (3) the number of enhanced recovery projects completed or anticipated to be completed in a year; and
- (4) the number of horizontal wells completed or anticipated to be completed in a year and the method of recovery from the horizontal wells."

Severability: Section 23, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, was a severability clause.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 24, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved December 17, 1993] and applies to oil production from new or expanded enhanced recovery projects and to tax years that begin after December 31, 1993."

1993 Amendment: Chapter 10 in (2) and (3), after "15-23-612" (now repealed), inserted "multiplied by 60%"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Special Session Amendment: At end of first sentence of (1) inserted "multiplied by 60%, plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%"; in (2) and (3), after "15-23-612", inserted "plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%"; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective August 11, 1989, and applies retroactively to net proceeds taxes, severance taxes, and local government taxes on oil and gas, other than interim production and new production, produced after December 31, 1988.

1987 Amendment: In (1), (2), and (3), before "new production taxes", inserted "interim production and" and after "multiplied by 60%" inserted "plus the amount of value represented by new production exempted from tax as provided in 15-23-612" (now repealed).

Effective Date — Applicability — 1987 Enactment: Section 28, Ch. 655, L. 1987, provided: "This act is effective on passage and approval [approved April 13, 1987] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable quarters beginning on or after April 1, 1987. The tax rate and filing method applicable to a well that qualifies as interim production under section 10 but which did not qualify as new production under 15-23-601 [now repealed] prior to the applicability date of this act does not change for tax periods prior to the applicability date."

1985 Amendment: In (1), (2), and (3), near middle, before "taxable value", inserted "total of the"; in (1), (2), and (3) inserted "plus the amount of new production taxes levied divided by the appropriate tax rates described in 15-23-607(2)(a) or (2)(b) [now repealed] and multiplied by 60%"; and in second sentence of (1) near beginning, inserted "and the amount of new production taxes levied".

1981 Amendment: Increased 9% to 11.25% wherever it appears; and increased 18% to 22.5% wherever it appears.

7-14-2525. Refunding agreements and refunding bonds authorized.

(c) [Section 19] [15-36-325, now repealed] applies to the payment, collection, and distribution of the local government severance tax for oil and natural gas produced and sold after December 31, 1994, and before January 1, 1996.

(d) All taxes collected pursuant to audit or collected after the date the tax is payable under the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) must be distributed according to the statute governing allocation of the tax in effect on the date when the tax liability was incurred."

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 9 near middle of (1), after "amount of", substituted "taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production" for "interim production and new production taxes levied", inserted reference to subsection (2)(c), and after "new production" inserted "and production from horizontally completed wells"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective December 17, 1993.

Report Required: Section 21, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "The board of oil and gas conservation shall report at least once a year to the revenue oversight committee regarding the implementation of [this act]. The reports must include but are not limited to information regarding:

- (1) the methods used to determine production decline rates;
- (2) rules adopted to implement [this act];
- (3) the number of enhanced recovery projects completed or anticipated to be completed in a year; and
- (4) the number of horizontal wells completed or anticipated to be completed in a year and the method of recovery from the horizontal wells."

Severability: Section 23, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, was a severability clause.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 24, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved December 17, 1993] and applies to oil production from new or expanded enhanced recovery projects and to tax years that begin after December 31, 1993."

1989 Special Session Amendment: In (1), after "15-23-612" (now repealed), inserted "multiplied by 60%, plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%"; and made minor change in phraseology. Amendment effective August 11, 1989, and applies retroactively to net proceeds taxes, severance taxes, and local government taxes on oil and gas, other than interim production and new production, produced after December 31, 1988.

1987 Amendment: In (1), before "new production taxes", inserted "interim production and" and after "multiplied by 60%" inserted "plus the amount of value represented by new production exempted from tax as provided in 15-23-612".

Effective Date — Applicability — 1987 Enactment: Section 28, Ch. 655, L. 1987, provided: "This act is effective on passage and approval [approved April 13, 1987] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable quarters beginning on or after April 1, 1987. The tax rate and filing method applicable to a well that qualifies as interim production under section 10 but which did not qualify as new production under 15-23-601 [now repealed] prior to the applicability date of this act does not change for tax periods prior to the applicability date."

1985 Amendment: In (1), near middle of lead-in language, before "taxable value", inserted "total of the" and after "property therein", inserted "plus the amount of new production taxes levied divided by the appropriate tax rates described in 15-23-607(2)(a) or (2)(b) [now repealed] and multiplied by 60%".

1981 Amendment: Increased 18% to 22.5% in (1).

1985 Amendment: Deleted former (3) that read: "Nothing contained in this section shall be construed as amending or repealing 7-16-2201 through 7-16-2205".

Part 26

Establishment, Alteration, and Abandonment of County Roads

Part Case Notes

No Statutory Designation of Public Road — Record Taken as Whole: After landowners with nearby property began restricting access to a road, a nonprofit organization filed a complaint for declaratory judgment asserting that the disputed road was a public road pursuant to either federal law, statutory dedication through 7-14-2601 through 7-14-2614, or prescriptive easement. The District Court found that a public road had not been created under any of the theories advanced. Regarding designation by statutory petition, the District Court cited evidence that it had found persuasive, including the following: (1) although there had been three petitions submitted to designate roads near the disputed road, there was no evidence to suggest the disputed road had ever been included in a petition; (2) the county had never performed maintenance functions on the road; and (3) there was no evidence presented on the need for the disputed road to be a county road. The District Court also discussed evidence that was presented in support of the disputed road being a public road but ultimately found the opposing evidence more credible and persuasive. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, finding that substantial credible evidence supported the conclusion that the disputed road was not public. Pub. Land/Water Access Ass'n v. Robbins, 2021 MT 75, 403 Mont. 491, 483 P.3d 1102.

Road Created in 1889 by Petition — Record Taken as Whole — Legal Standards: The failure to prove one or more particular conditions was not determinative of whether an 1889 county road was created. The record did not have to rely solely on county-created evidence, nor did the county's failure to depict the road on county maps determine whether the road was public. Rather, except for specifically showing a condition precedent requiring benefiting parties to bear the burden of building the road, the record as a whole demonstrated that the lower branch of Modesty Creek Road was created in substantial compliance with the statutory procedures for establishing an 1889 county road by petition. After reviewing the factual findings for clear error and the "record taken as a whole" conclusion of law for correctness, which requires substantial credible evidence, the Supreme Court affirmed the District Court's conclusions concerning the lower branch of Modesty Creek Road. Letica Land Co., LLC v. Anaconda-Deer Lodge County, 2015 MT 323, 381 Mont. 389, 362 P.3d 614.

Authority of County to Dedicate Public Road on Public Land Prior to Statehood: Defendants contended that plaintiff county had no authority to dedicate a public road over a school section of state land and requested summary judgment on the issue. Summary judgment was denied, and on appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed. The road was established several months before Montana statehood, at a time when the land was still under the authority of the federal government. Because the land had not yet been conveyed to the state, the Board of County Commissioners had authority under sec. 2477, Revised Statutes of the United States (1866), to create roads across the section of federal land. Powell County v. 5 Rockin' MS Angus Ranch, Inc., 2004 MT 337, 324 M 204, 102 P3d 1210 (2004). See also Peterson v. Baker, 81 P 681 (Wash. 1905), and U.S. v. Wyo., 195 F. Supp. 692 (D.C. Wyo. 1961).

County Roads Properly Established Prior to 1895 — Record Taken as a Whole — Summary Judgment Proper: Powell County filed an action seeking a declaratory judgment and injunctive relief to establish that two roads were considered public roads established in 1889 and 1903. Defendants denied that the roads were public and counterclaimed to quiet title. The District Court found for the county, and defendants appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. As held in McCauley v. Thompson-Nistler, 2000 MT 215, 301 M 81, 10 P3d 794 (2000), there were four ways that a public highway could be established prior to 1895: (1) by action of the proper authorities in accordance with statute; (2) by prescriptive use for the period required by statute; (3) by opening and dedication by the private owner; and (4) upon partition of real property. In the present case, there was some question whether the roads in question were properly established in 1889; however, as provided in Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), a party is not required to produce complete documentary evidence of procedures that created a road many years ago, and the District Court may consider whether the record taken as a whole indicates that a public road was created. The record in this case sufficiently established the creation and dedication of the roads at issue, and absent any disputed material facts concerning whether the roads were properly created, summary judgment was proper. Powell County v. 5 Rockin' MS Angus Ranch, Inc., 2004 MT 337, 324 M 204, 102 P3d 1210 (2004). See also Sayers v. Chouteau County, 2013 MT 45, 369 Mont. 98, 297 P.3d 312, and Letica Land Co., LLC v. Anaconda-Deer Lodge County, 2015 MT 323, 381 Mont. 389, 362 P.3d 614.

No Intent to Abandon Public Road Despite Reconveyance of Surrounding Property to Private Interests: In 1939 and 1940, the Shelby Country Club conveyed 160 acres of land to the city of Shelby with the understanding that the city would beautify the property as a park and lease it to the country club for a golf course. The city graded a road to the property and maintained Club Road thereafter. When the city could not obtain funds for a park, the property was reconveyed to the country club, and eventually, plaintiff acquired most of the property, while an 11.75-acre parcel was acquired by defendants. Plaintiff sought to have Club Road declared a private road and asked for damages for defendants' use of the road. The city subsequently annexed the road into the city limits and intervened in the suit, along with Toole County, to protect the public interest. The District Court declared Club Road to be a public road, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Although the District Court relied on section 32-103, R.C.M. 1947, rather than the applicable section 1612, R.C.M. 1921, the fact remained that once Club Road was laid out by the city as a public road and maintained its character through more than 50 years of public use, it remained a public road despite the reconveyance of the surrounding property to private interests, absent any clear intent by the city to abandon it. Smith v. Russell, 2003 MT 326, 318 M 336, 80 P3d 431 (2003).

Right-of-Way Applicable to Operation and Maintenance Road in Herd District Within Irrigation Project: As part of the Huntley irrigation project, Yellowstone County constructed an operation and maintenance road along one side of an irrigation canal. A nearby property owner later used the road to move cattle, and after plaintiffs complained to the County Sheriff several times over a period of years, plaintiffs installed cattle guards. The county subsequently removed the cattle guards, claiming that the road was a county road and that the county had a 60-foot right-of-way, giving it the right to remove obstructions, including cattle guards and overgrowth from trees obstructing the road. The county then trimmed and killed several of plaintiffs' trees, and plaintiffs sued the county, contesting the county's right-of-way. The District Court examined the historical use of the road and determined that the county's right-of-way was about 20 feet. The court also held that because the property was in a herd district and because all the parties preferred cattle guards to gates, the county was required to replace the cattle guards. The county appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. The county road was superimposed on the operation and maintenance road and thus was not more or less extensive than the operation and maintenance road, so the easement was 20 feet as the road currently existed. Further, because the project was a federal operation, the rights of the federal government prevailed. A witness for the federal government testified that cattle guards were preferable, so ordering the replacement of the cattle guards was also not erroneous. Weatherwax v. Yellowstone County, 2003 MT 215, 317 M 119, 75 P3d 788 (2003).

No Abandonment of County Road Through Combination of Nonuse and Building of Highway: Defendants fenced a section of Flathead County road G since 1955, placing five gates across the road in various places. The road provided the only access for a land company and was used by state personnel to access state lands. The road was established in 1893, and no document on record indicated that the road was ever abandoned. Defendants refused to remove the gates upon request, so suit was filed to enjoin them from erecting and maintaining gates across the road, and because no genuine issue of fact existed to show that the county abandoned or intended to abandon the road, the District Court granted summary judgment to the state. To prove abandonment of a road by a government entity, there must be a showing of a clear intent to abandon and the conduct that is claimed to demonstrate the intent to abandon must be some affirmative official act, rather than mere implication. On appeal, defendants argued that the county evidenced its clear intent to abandon the right-of-way by the coupling of two circumstances: (1) relocation of a roadway by the public authority; and (2) subsequent nonuse of the roadway. The Supreme Court found the argument illogical. If nonuse does not create abandonment and the building of a highway does not create abandonment, then the combination of the two also does not create abandonment. The District Court was affirmed. St. v. Fisher, 2003 MT 207, 317 M 49, 75 P3d 338 (2003), following Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106 (1992). See also Ashby v. Maechling, 2010 MT 80, 356 Mont. 68, 229 P.3d 1210.

Statutory Requirements to Be Followed for Creation of County Road: The Pedersons contended that because the county had constructed their road, maintained it, and accepted a right-of-way easement for the road, the county's actions were tantamount to acceptance of the road as a county road. The Supreme Court held that state law required the County Commissioners to make an affirmative decision to establish a county road and that in the present case, there was no record of any action taken by the Board; therefore, a county road could not have been established. Pederson v. Dawson County, 2000 MT 339, 303 M 158, 17 P3d 393, 57 St. Rep. 1441 (2000).

Public Highway Established Pursuant to 1895 Law — Mere Nonuse by County Not Considered Abandonment — Inapplicability of Prescriptive Easement and Reverse Adverse Possession: The District Court found that the Tucker Gulch Road was clearly defined and in use by the public for at least 27 years prior to enactment of sec. 2600, The Codes and Statutes of Montana (1895), which declared all highways and roads then used by the public as public highways. However, the court went on to hold that it was not a petitioned county road and that there was a prescriptive easement by the public over the road that had been lost through abandonment and by reverse adverse possession when a new road was relocated near the old one. The District Court properly found that Tucker Gulch Road was a public highway; however, mere nonuse or lack of maintenance by the county was insufficient to indicate a clear intent to abandon the road without notice and a public hearing. Moreover, the county's failure to respond to several quiet title actions in which the county was not served and the county's adoption of a resolution naming the road did not indicate an intent to abandon. Abandonment cannot be established by mere implication. The Supreme Court cited Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106 (1992), for the general rule that title to a public road may not be obtained by adverse possession. The Supreme Court also cited Granite County v. Komberec, 245 M 252, 800 P2d 166 (1990), and affirmed the District Court's finding that there was not a public prescriptive easement along the relocated new road because most of the nonpermissive use of the new road was by occasional recreationists. The District Court's conclusion that creation of the easement was not specific and that the easements were designed for the access of the owners for activities associated with residential living was in error, however, absent evidence in the access agreement or survey establishing such a restriction. Thus, the grant of unrestricted access to landowners who had owned a mine adjoining the property in question was not in error. McCauley v. Thompson-Nistler, 2000 MT 215, 301 M 81, 10 P3d 794, 57 St. Rep. 855 (2000), distinguishing Pub. Lands Access Ass'n, Inc. v. Boone & Crockett Club Foundation, Inc., 259 M 279, 856 P2d 525 (1993), and followed in Lee v. Musselshell County, 2004 MT 64, 320 M 294, 87 P3d 423 (2004). The Supreme Court clarified its ruling in McCauley on abandonment of a public highway in Soup Creek, LLC v. Gibson, 2019 MT 58, 395 Mont. 105, 439 P.3d 369.

Abandonment of State Highway — Statements by State Field Supervisor Contemporaneous With Removal of Asphalt Held Not Evidence of Official Act by State Evidencing Clear Intent to Abandon Easement — Asphalt Alone Not "Highway": DeVoe brought a declaratory judgment action against the state, claiming that the removal of asphalt from a curving intersection and statements by a supervisor of a crew removing the old roadway evidenced an intent by the state to abandon its easement granted in 1937. DeVoe argued that statements by James Williams, the state's field project manager in charge of removal of the asphalt from the section of highway on the state's easement claimed by DeVoe to have been abandoned, showed that the state intended to abandon the easement. The Supreme Court held that the statements by Williams, to the effect that the state might give up the easement, were evidence of an intent to abandon but did not constitute evidence of an official act by the state indicating a clear intent to abandon the 1937 easement. The Supreme Court also noted that a "highway" is defined as including the highway right-of-way and that, for this reason, removal of asphalt does not constitute removal of the highway. The Supreme Court held that the District Court properly granted summary judgment against DeVoe because the District Court properly found that the easement was still subject to highway-related uses. DeVoe v. St., 281 M 356, 935 P2d 256, 54 St. Rep. 207 (1997).

Abandonment of County Road — Discretion in County Commission:

Following remand of Baertsch, infra, the landowners appealed the District Court decision establishing the county's 100-foot right-of-way. The Supreme Court affirmed on all issues, holding that the trial court properly determined that: (1) procedural requirements for creating the right-of-way by statute were met; (2) the County Commission, in granting the petition for the right-of-way in 1890, was obviously granting its contents, which was a request for a 100-foot right-of-way; (3) mere nonuse of the right-of-way, even for extended periods of time, was insufficient in itself to indicate an intent to abandon the public property; (4) the public road could not be obtained by adverse possession; (5) failure to apply equitable estoppel did not create a manifest injustice to the landowners; and (6) because the county was not properly a party to the prior litigation, res judicata did not apply. Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106, 49 St. Rep. 1162 (1992), followed in DeVoe v. St., 281 M 356, 935 P2d 256, 54 St. Rep. 207 (1997).

After the decision in Ingram-Clevenger, infra, essentially the same landowners filed their complaint in this action, contending that: (1) the county road in its entirety was never properly dedicated; (2) the county abandoned all that portion of the road right-of-way not actually used for roadway and barrow pits; (3) the landowners obtained title to the disputed portion of the right-of-way by adverse possession; and (4) the county's claim was barred by equitable estoppel. The county raised the defense of res judicata, and the District Court concluded that res judicata was applicable. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that the issues in the two cases were not the same, noting that in Ingram-Clevenger the title to the road was not involved whereas in this case the claims were related to the title and could not properly have been presented as part of the proceedings for vacation of the road. As a result, the present case was not barred under a theory of res judicata, merger, the rule against splitting causes of action, or the doctrine of equitable estoppel. The case was remanded for a trial of the issues on the merits. Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 223 M 206, 727 P2d 504, 43 St. Rep. 1660 (1986).

This part provides that the abandonment of a county road is discretionary with the Board of County Commissioners; thus, unless discretion is manifestly abused, mandamus will not lie. Although the provisions of 7-14-2103(3) appear to mandate the abandonment of a road upon proper petition, this part, being more specific, governs and the provisions of 7-14-2103(3) may be interpreted to conform with this part. Ingram-Clevenger, Inc. v. Lewis & Clark County, 194 M 43, 636 P2d 1372, 38 St. Rep. 1696 (1981).

Adverse Possession Inapplicable to Title to Public Roads: The general rule in Montana law is that title to public roads may not be obtained by adverse possession. Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106, 49 St. Rep. 1162 (1992), following Billings v. Pierce Packing Co., 117 M 255, 161 P2d 636 (1945).

Statutory Requirements to Be Followed: Madison County attempted to establish a county road across defendants' land. The county invoked eminent domain. Section 70-30-108 requires compliance with the statutory provisions relating to the establishment of county roads. Title 7, ch. 14, generally requires a chain of events involving: (1) the filing of a proper petition with the county; (2) the option of the county surveying a specific route; (3) the county determination of the affected landowners and assessment of their damages; (4) the county offer of an award of damages; and (5) if the award is rejected, the beginning of condemnation proceedings. In this case the county did not receive a proper petition. The county offered damages for one proposed route but began condemnation on a different route for which no offer was made. The proceedings did not comply with the statutes and were not cured by 7-14-2609. The county may not ignore the mandates of the statutes or they would be of no consequence. Madison County v. Elford, 203 M 293, 661 P2d 1266, 40 St. Rep. 457 (1983).

Equitable Estoppel — Not Applicable to Road Abandonment: County officers gave erroneous information on how to petition for abandonment of a county road. Although the public has a right to rely on the advice of public officers, the doctrine of equitable reliance was not applicable. Because the public interest in the disposal of public lands merits a higher consideration than the reliance on statements made by public officers, road abandonment requires substantial compliance with statutory requirements. Chennault v. Sager, 187 M 455, 610 P2d 173, 37 St. Rep. 857 (1980), distinguished, in cases involving a private right of action, in Quirin v. Weinberg, 252 M 386, 830 P2d 537, 49 St. Rep. 331 (1992), and followed in Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106, 49 St. Rep. 1162 (1992).

Case Notes

Board Decision to Abandon Road Proper — Proper Procedure Followed: The plaintiffs challenged a finding of the District Court that the Board of County Commissioners adequately documented its decision to abandon a county road as required by statutes and case law. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that the Board properly appointed viewers to investigate the petition to abandon the road, received historical records, held multiple public meetings and hearings, made its decision on the minutes of its regular meeting, and sent notice of the decision through certified mail. Williams v. Stillwater Bd. of County Comm'rs, 2021 MT 159, 404 Mont. 424, 490 P.3d 1234.

County Commissioners Decision to Abandon Road Proper — Broad Discretion of "Board" — Substantial Evidence Existed: The plaintiffs challenged a finding of the District Court in a writ of review proceeding that substantial evidence supported the Board of County Commissioners' decision to abandon a portion of a short, dead-end county road. The Supreme Court affirmed, reasoning that substantial evidence supported the Board's decision. The Board did not exceed its jurisdiction, and the evidence provided by the plaintiffs was often unclear and could be subject to multiple interpretations. The Supreme Court held that it may not intrude into an area where a board holds broad discretion without substantially clearer evidence that the board was acting outside of its authorized scope. Williams v. Stillwater Bd. of County Comm'rs, 2021 MT 159, 404 Mont. 424, 490 P.3d 1234.

Board Decision Supported by Record and Within Scope of Statutory Authority — Writ Properly Denied: The Ravalli County Board of County Commissioners denied the petition of a group of landowners to abandon a portion of a county road extending beyond their gate. The Board denied the petition because it found that the county road extended miles past the gate and that it was precluded from abandoning the portion beyond the landowners' gate because no other road provided similar access to the public land and waters at the end of the road. The landowners filed a petition for writ of review in the District Court, which the District Court denied. On review, the Supreme Court found that the District Court did not abuse its discretion by denying the writ because the landowners failed to show that the Board had exceeded its discretion. The Board had jurisdiction to consider petitions to establish, alter, or abandon county roads and to complete the investigations necessary to establish the feasibility, desirability, and cost of granting such petitions. Bugli v. Ravalli County, 2019 MT 154, 396 Mont. 271, 444 P.3d 399.

Road Created in 1889 by Petition — Record Taken as Whole — Legal Standards: The failure to prove one or more particular conditions was not determinative of whether an 1889 county road was created. The record did not have to rely solely on county-created evidence, nor did the county's failure to depict the road on county maps determine whether the road was public. Rather, except for specifically showing a condition precedent requiring benefiting parties to bear the burden of building the road, the record as a whole demonstrated that the lower branch of Modesty Creek Road was created in substantial compliance with the statutory procedures for establishing an 1889 county road by petition. After reviewing the factual findings for clear error and the "record taken as a whole" conclusion of law for correctness, which requires substantial credible evidence, the Supreme Court affirmed the District Court's conclusions concerning the lower branch of Modesty Creek Road. Letica Land Co., LLC v. Anaconda-Deer Lodge County, 2015 MT 323, 381 Mont. 389, 362 P.3d 614.

Authority of County to Dedicate Public Road on Public Land Prior to Statehood: Defendants contended that plaintiff county had no authority to dedicate a public road over a school section of state land and requested summary judgment on the issue. Summary judgment was denied, and on appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed. The road was established several months before Montana statehood, at a time when the land was still under the authority of the federal government. Because the land had not yet been conveyed to the state, the Board of County Commissioners had authority under sec. 2477, Revised Statutes of the United States (1866), to create roads across the section of federal land. Powell County v. 5 Rockin' MS Angus Ranch, Inc., 2004 MT 337, 324 M 204, 102 P3d 1210 (2004). See also Peterson v. Baker, 81 P 681 (Wash. 1905), and U.S. v. Wyo., 195 F. Supp. 692 (D.C. Wyo. 1961).

County Roads Properly Established Prior to 1895 — Record Taken as a Whole — Summary Judgment Proper: Powell County filed an action seeking a declaratory judgment and injunctive relief to establish that two roads were considered public roads established in 1889 and 1903. Defendants denied that the roads were public and counterclaimed to quiet title. The District Court found for the county, and defendants appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. As held in McCauley v. Thompson-Nistler, 2000 MT 215, 301 M 81, 10 P3d 794 (2000), there were four ways that a public highway could be established prior to 1895: (1) by action of the proper authorities in accordance with statute; (2) by prescriptive use for the period required by statute; (3) by opening and dedication by the private owner; and (4) upon partition of real property. In the present case, there was some question whether the roads in question were properly established in 1889; however, as provided in Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), a party is not required to produce complete documentary evidence of procedures that created a road many years ago, and the District Court may consider whether the record taken as a whole indicates that a public road was created. The record in this case sufficiently established the creation and dedication of the roads at issue, and absent any disputed material facts concerning whether the roads were properly created, summary judgment was proper. Powell County v. 5 Rockin' MS Angus Ranch, Inc., 2004 MT 337, 324 M 204, 102 P3d 1210 (2004). See also Sayers v. Chouteau County, 2013 MT 45, 369 Mont. 98, 297 P.3d 312, and Letica Land Co., LLC v. Anaconda-Deer Lodge County, 2015 MT 323, 381 Mont. 389, 362 P.3d 614.

No Intent to Abandon Public Road Despite Reconveyance of Surrounding Property to Private Interests: In 1939 and 1940, the Shelby Country Club conveyed 160 acres of land to the city of Shelby with the understanding that the city would beautify the property as a park and lease it to the country club for a golf course. The city graded a road to the property and maintained Club Road thereafter. When the city could not obtain funds for a park, the property was reconveyed to the country club, and eventually, plaintiff acquired most of the property, while an 11.75-acre parcel was acquired by defendants. Plaintiff sought to have Club Road declared a private road and asked for damages for defendants' use of the road. The city subsequently annexed the road into the city limits and intervened in the suit, along with Toole County, to protect the public interest. The District Court declared Club Road to be a public road, and the Supreme Court affirmed. Although the District Court relied on section 32-103, R.C.M. 1947, rather than the applicable section 1612, R.C.M. 1921, the fact remained that once Club Road was laid out by the city as a public road and maintained its character through more than 50 years of public use, it remained a public road despite the reconveyance of the surrounding property to private interests, absent any clear intent by the city to abandon it. Smith v. Russell, 2003 MT 326, 318 M 336, 80 P3d 431 (2003).

Substantial Evidence of Establishment of County Road — Quiet Title Denied: Plaintiffs petitioned to have a road crossing their property abandoned as a county road, and when the county denied the petition, plaintiffs sought to quiet title and injunctive relief to prevent public use of the road. The District Court denied the request. Applying Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), the Supreme Court examined the record as a whole and determined that the road had been proposed, viewed, constructed, and dedicated in substantial compliance with laws in effect in 1915 and that long-time historic use clearly indicated that the road was a public road. Absent any evidence that the county ever took affirmative steps to indicate an intent to abandon the road, the road remained a public road, and the District Court was affirmed. Galassi v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2003 MT 319, 318 M 288, 80 P3d 84 (2003), followed in Roe Family LLC v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2008 MT 70, 342 M 108, 179 P3d 514 (2008), to the extent that the record, taken as a whole, showed that a public road was created.

County Right-of-Way Considered Easement — Injunction Proper Remedy to Ensure Access to Right-of-Way: Jefferson County filed a complaint for a temporary injunction, an order allowing entry upon land to survey McCarty Creek Road, which passed through McCauley's land to public land beyond, and an order setting a show cause hearing. The District Court issued the injunction allowing the survey and set a date for hearing. At the hearing, the court found extensive documentary evidence, dating back to 1883, confirming the existence of McCarty Creek Road and, in its final order, determined that the road, as it crossed McCauley's property, was a dedicated and established county road. The court further enjoined McCauley from interfering with access or obstructing ingress and egress on the road. The Supreme Court affirmed, finding substantial credible evidence to support the District Court's determination and finding no abuse of discretion in enjoining McCauley from interfering with the public use of McCarty Creek Road. Jefferson County v. McCauley Ranches, 1999 MT 333, 297 M 392, 994 P2d 11, 56 St. Rep. 1329 (1999), following Bolinger v. Bozeman, 158 M 507, 493 P2d 1062 (1972), Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210, 38 St. Rep. 631 (1981), and Bailey v. Ravalli County, 201 M 138, 653 P2d 139, 39 St. Rep. 2010 (1982), and distinguishing Porter v. K&S Partnership, 192 M 175, 627 P2d 836 (1981); Knudson v. McDunn, 271 M 61, 894 P2d 295 (1995), and Lurie v. Sheriff, 284 M 207, 944 P2d 205, 54 St. Rep. 847 (1997).

Contempt Order Against County for Failure to Follow Proper Procedures Annulled: The lower court found the county in contempt for abandoning and changing a portion of a road without following the procedures suggested in an earlier court order. The Supreme Court stated that not all of the record had been before the lower court. An examination of the entire record indicated that the county had tried to follow the procedures set out in statute and the earlier court order. The Supreme Court annulled the contempt order and suggested that the parties might want to move to have the injunction against changing or abandoning the relevant portion of the road dissolved. State ex rel. Fallon County v. District Court, 245 M 382, 801 P2d 610, 47 St. Rep. 2187 (1990).

Quiet Title Action — Record Taken as a Whole: A landowner filed an action to quiet title to a county road established 80 years earlier, claiming that defects in the 1902 proceedings prevented establishment of a statutorily created 60-foot-wide public highway and that the existing public road was acquired by prescriptive use and was limited to the greatest width actually used. The record contained the actual petition to establish a road, signed by more than 20 residents of the area, including the appellant's predecessor in interest. The District Court decreed the road to be a 60-foot-wide declared county right-of-way, and the Supreme Court affirmed. The county is not required to prove on the face of the record that public officials had jurisdiction to create a public road if the record, taken as a whole, shows that a public road was created. Sheldon v. Flathead County, 218 M 270, 707 P2d 540, 42 St. Rep. 1573 (1985). See also O'Neill v. St., 225 M 364, 732 P2d 1330, 44 St. Rep. 305 (1987).

Abandoned Public Road to Revert to Abutting Property Owners: An action was filed to quiet title to a county road that had been established as a public road in 1909. The certificate of dedication of the 1909 plat stated that the streets therein were "granted and dedicated to the use of the public forever". In 1944, pursuant to section 1635, R.C.M. 1935, a petition for county road closure was filed. That same year the petition was granted by the County Commissioners. After 1944, neither the plaintiffs nor their predecessors in interest paid any taxes on the roadway and no portion of the roadway was fenced into the lands now belonging to the plaintiffs until 1980. The court quieted title in the plaintiffs, ruling that the 1909 plat dedication was the equivalent of a right-of-way deed under which the public acquired only the right-of-way and the incidents necessary to its enjoyment and that upon abandonment the fee in the street reverted to the abutting landowners, with each abutting landowner taking fee from the edge of his property to the center of the street. Bailey v. Ravalli County, 201 M 138, 653 P2d 139, 39 St. Rep. 2010 (1982), followed in Herreid v. Hauck, 254 M 496, 839 P2d 571, 49 St. Rep. 884 (1992), and Knutson v. Schroeder, 2008 MT 139, 343 M 81, 183 P3d 881 (2008).

Proceedings to Abandon Public Roadway Not to Be Questioned When More Than Thirty Years Have Elapsed Since Abandonment: In 1944, a roadway was abandoned by the County Commissioners pursuant to proceedings instituted under section 1635, R.C.M. 1935. In its review of the District Court's 1981 decision to quiet title to the roadway in the abutting property owners, the Supreme Court ruled that even though the record does not affirmatively show that the statutory notice requirements were met, in the absence of any question being raised by abutting landowners or the county over a period of more than 30 years, the proceedings cannot now be questioned. Bailey v. Ravalli County, 201 M 138, 653 P2d 139, 39 St. Rep. 2010 (1982).

Quiet Title Action — Petition to Establish Road: A landowner brought an action to quiet title to a road crossing his property. Despite jurisdictional defects, such as failure to require production of a copy of the petition establishing the road or proof that the petition was signed by 10 qualified petitioners, the record taken as a whole showed that a public road was created. Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210, 38 St. Rep. 631 (1981), followed in Jefferson County v. McCauley Ranches, 1999 MT 333, 297 M 392, 994 P2d 11, 56 St. Rep. 1329 (1999), Galassi v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2003 MT 319, 318 M 288, 80 P3d 84 (2003), Lee v. Musselshell County, 2004 MT 64, 320 M 294, 87 P3d 423 (2004), and Sayers v. Chouteau County, 2013 MT 45, 369 Mont. 98, 297 P.3d 312.

Insufficient Petition to Abandon — Number of Signatures: A petition for abandonment of a county road without the necessary number of signatures does not substantially comply with statutes on abandonment. Thus, the County Commissioners were without authority to act with respect to the abandonment. Chennault v. Sager, 187 M 455, 610 P2d 173, 37 St. Rep. 857 (1980).

Petition by District Freeholders Affected — Majority in District Required: When the only persons signing a petition for abandonment of a county road were the four freeholders residing on land adjacent to the road, their petition was insufficient. "A majority of the freeholders of the road district" cannot be construed "a majority of those directly affected", even though the road district in this instance consisted of an entire county containing 40,000 residents. Chennault v. Sager, 187 M 455, 610 P2d 173, 37 St. Rep. 857 (1980).

Substantial Compliance: Under former law, technical strictness in complying with the statute was not required, only substantial compliance. Oates v. Knutson, 182 M 195, 595 P2d 1181, 36 St. Rep. 1011 (1979).

Case Notes

Board Decision to Abandon Road Proper — Proper Procedure Followed: The plaintiffs challenged a finding of the District Court that the Board of County Commissioners adequately documented its decision to abandon a county road as required by statutes and case law. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that the Board properly appointed viewers to investigate the petition to abandon the road, received historical records, held multiple public meetings and hearings, made its decision on the minutes of its regular meeting, and sent notice of the decision through certified mail. Williams v. Stillwater Bd. of County Comm'rs, 2021 MT 159, 404 Mont. 424, 490 P.3d 1234.

County Commissioners Decision to Abandon Road Proper — Broad Discretion of "Board" — Substantial Evidence Existed: The plaintiffs challenged a finding of the District Court in a writ of review proceeding that substantial evidence supported the Board of County Commissioners' decision to abandon a portion of a short, dead-end county road. The Supreme Court affirmed, reasoning that substantial evidence supported the Board's decision. The Board did not exceed its jurisdiction, and the evidence provided by the plaintiffs was often unclear and could be subject to multiple interpretations. The Supreme Court held that it may not intrude into an area where a board holds broad discretion without substantially clearer evidence that the board was acting outside of its authorized scope. Williams v. Stillwater Bd. of County Comm'rs, 2021 MT 159, 404 Mont. 424, 490 P.3d 1234.

Board Decision Supported by Record and Within Scope of Statutory Authority — Writ Properly Denied: The Ravalli County Board of County Commissioners denied the petition of a group of landowners to abandon a portion of a county road extending beyond their gate. The Board denied the petition because it found that the county road extended miles past the gate and that it was precluded from abandoning the portion beyond the landowners' gate because no other road provided similar access to the public land and waters at the end of the road. The landowners filed a petition for writ of review in the District Court, which the District Court denied. On review, the Supreme Court found that the District Court did not abuse its discretion by denying the writ because the landowners failed to show that the Board had exceeded its discretion. The Board had jurisdiction to consider petitions to establish, alter, or abandon county roads and to complete the investigations necessary to establish the feasibility, desirability, and cost of granting such petitions. Bugli v. Ravalli County, 2019 MT 154, 396 Mont. 271, 444 P.3d 399.

Board Decision Supported by Record and Within Scope of Statutory Authority — Writ Properly Denied: The Ravalli County Board of County Commissioners denied the petition of a group of landowners to abandon a portion of a county road extending beyond their gate. The Board denied the petition because it found that the county road extended miles past the gate and that it was precluded from abandoning the portion beyond the landowners' gate because no other road provided similar access to the public land and waters at the end of the road. The landowners filed a petition for writ of review in the District Court, which the District Court denied. Ravalli County*, 2019 MT 154, 396 Mont. 271, 444 P.3d 399.

Abandonment of Public Highway Only by Order or Operation of Law — McCauley Clarified: The plaintiffs alleged that a road that traversed their property to the defendants' property, for which the defendants did not have an easement, was abandoned and filed an action to declare the road private. The defendants counterclaimed that the road was a public highway. The District Court determined that the road, though once a public highway, had been abandoned, and the court ruled in favor of the plaintiffs. On appeal, the Supreme Court reversed, clarifying McCauley v. Thompson-Nistler, 2000 MT 215, 301 Mont. 81, 10 P.3d 794, and holding that a public highway can only be abandoned by an order of county commissioners or a court, or by an operation of law. Soup Creek LLC v. Gibson, 2019 MT 58, 395 Mont. 105, 439 P.3d 369.

Failure to Follow Proper Procedure After Denial of Road Abandonment by County Commissioners — Dismissal Proper: Landowners submitted a request to the Board of County Commissioners to abandon a portion of a county road, which the Board denied. The landowners then filed a complaint for declaration action and injunctive relief in District Court. The District Court dismissed the case. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that because the plaintiffs had first submitted their claims to the Board, they should have instead filed a writ of review of the commissioners' denial. Because the plaintiffs did not follow the proper procedure, the dismissal of their complaint was proper. Bugli v. Ravalli County, 2018 MT 177, 392 Mont. 131, 422 P.3d 131.

Substantial Evidence of Establishment of County Road — Quiet Title Denied: Plaintiffs petitioned to have a road crossing their property abandoned as a county road, and when the county denied the petition, plaintiffs sought to quiet title and injunctive relief to prevent public use of the road. The District Court denied the request. Applying Reid v. Park County, 192 M 231, 627 P2d 1210 (1981), the Supreme Court examined the record as a whole and determined that the road had been proposed, viewed, constructed, and dedicated in substantial compliance with laws in effect in 1915 and that long-time historic use clearly indicated that the road was a public road. Absent any evidence that the county ever took affirmative steps to indicate an intent to abandon the road, the road remained a public road, and the District Court was affirmed. Galassi v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2003 MT 319, 318 M 288, 80 P3d 84 (2003), followed in Roe Family LLC v. Lincoln County Bd. of Comm'rs, 2008 MT 70, 342 M 108, 179 P3d 514 (2008), to the extent that the record, taken as a whole, showed that a public road was created.

No Abandonment of County Road Through Combination of Nonuse and Building of Highway: Defendants fenced a section of Flathead County road G since 1955, placing five gates across the road in various places. The road provided the only access for a land company and was used by state personnel to access state lands. The road was established in 1893, and no document on record indicated that the road was ever abandoned. Defendants refused to remove the gates upon request, so suit was filed to enjoin them from erecting and maintaining gates across the road, and because no genuine issue of fact existed to show that the county abandoned or intended to abandon the road, the District Court granted summary judgment to the state. To prove abandonment of a road by a government entity, there must be a showing of a clear intent to abandon and the conduct that is claimed to demonstrate the intent to abandon must be some affirmative official act, rather than mere implication. On appeal, defendants argued that the county evidenced its clear intent to abandon the right-of-way by the coupling of two circumstances: (1) relocation of a roadway by the public authority; and (2) subsequent nonuse of the roadway. The Supreme Court found the argument illogical. If nonuse does not create abandonment and the building of a highway does not create abandonment, then the combination of the two also does not create abandonment. The District Court was affirmed. St. v. Fisher, 2003 MT 207, 317 M 49, 75 P3d 338 (2003), following Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106 (1992). See also Ashby v. Maechling, 2010 MT 80, 356 Mont. 68, 229 P.3d 1210.

Public Highway Established Pursuant to 1895 Law — Mere Nonuse by County Not Considered Abandonment — Inapplicability of Prescriptive Easement and Reverse Adverse Possession: The District Court found that the Tucker Gulch Road was clearly defined and in use by the public for at least 27 years prior to enactment of sec. 2600, The Codes and Statutes of Montana (1895), which declared all highways and roads then used by the public as public highways. However, the court went on to hold that it was not a petitioned county road and that there was a prescriptive easement by the public over the road that had been lost through abandonment and by reverse adverse possession when a new road was relocated near the old one. The District Court properly found that Tucker Gulch Road was a public highway; however, mere nonuse or lack of maintenance by the county was insufficient to indicate a clear intent to abandon the road without notice and a public hearing. Moreover, the county's failure to respond to several quiet title actions in which the county was not served and the county's adoption of a resolution naming the road did not indicate an intent to abandon. Abandonment cannot be established by mere implication. The Supreme Court cited Baertsch v. Lewis & Clark County, 256 M 114, 845 P2d 106 (1992), for the general rule that title to a public road may not be obtained by adverse possession. The Supreme Court also cited Granite County v. Komberec, 245 M 252, 800 P2d 166 (1990), and affirmed the District Court's finding that there was not a public prescriptive easement along the relocated new road because most of the nonpermissive use of the new road was by occasional recreationists. The District Court's conclusion that creation of the easement was not specific and that the easements were designed for the access of the owners for activities associated with residential living was in error, however, absent evidence in the access agreement or survey establishing such a restriction. Thus, the grant of unrestricted access to landowners who had owned a mine adjoining the property in question was not in error. McCauley v. Thompson-Nistler, 2000 MT 215, 301 M 81, 10 P3d 794, 57 St. Rep. 855 (2000), distinguishing Pub. Lands Access Ass'n, Inc. v. Boone & Crockett Club Foundation, Inc., 259 M 279, 856 P2d 525 (1993), and followed in Lee v. Musselshell County, 2004 MT 64, 320 M 294, 87 P3d 423 (2004). The Supreme Court clarified its ruling in McCauley on abandonment of a public highway in Soup Creek, LLC v. Gibson, 2019 MT 58, 395 Mont. 105, 439 P.3d 369.

Court Jurisdiction: The District Court did not follow proper statutory procedure for obtaining jurisdiction to abandon or order the abandonment of a road; therefore, it did not have jurisdiction to order County Commissioners to abandon the road and could not hold the Commissioners in contempt for violating the order. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. District Court, 203 M 44, 659 P2d 266, 40 St. Rep. 284 (1983), followed in Lee v. Musselshell County, 2004 MT 64, 320 M 294, 87 P3d 423 (2004). See also Bugli v. Ravalli County, 2018 MT 177, 392 Mont. 131, 422 P.3d 131, affirming the District Court's determination that it lacked jurisdiction over a county road abandonment case.

Attorney General's Opinions

Notice Requirement — Road Abandonment: Before abandonment of a county road, actual notice must be given to all landowners of record affected thereby. An abandonment order is effective only as to interested parties properly notified. 37 A.G. Op. 130 (1978).

7-14-2616. Procedure to discontinue street.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (3) in first sentence substituted "as provided in 7-1-2121" for "or posted in three public places" and deleted former second sentence that read: "Such notice must be published in a newspaper or posted at least 1 week before the petition is acted on"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Case Notes

Closed for School Purposes: Erection of fence by school board on city-owned land adjacent to street in such a manner as to block neither vehicular nor pedestrian traffic would not be a discontinuance, closing, or vacation of all or part of street and would not fall within natural import of language "closed for school purposes" as used in this section, so that approval by 75% of lot owners on street was not required. State ex rel. Smart v. Big Timber, 165 M 328, 528 P2d 688 (1974).

Evidence of Public Detriment: Where the record did not show that the Commissioners made a finding of fact that a street could be closed without detriment to the public interest but it did show a detriment to abutting landowners, to the city, and to the public interest generally, the petition for discontinuance should have been denied. Miller v. Schrock, 135 M 409, 340 P2d 154 (1959).

7-14-2621. Establishment and alteration of stock lanes.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 125 in (3) in first sentence inserted reference to Title 70, chapter 30; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

7-14-2622. Recognition of county road route by district court.Compiler's Comments

Effective Date: This section is effective October 1, 2009.

Part 28Ferries and Wharves*7-14-2801. General powers of county relating to ferries.*Compiler's Comments

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 in (1) and (2) inserted reference to 15-10-420; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

Case Notes

Use of Funds and Acceptance of Bids — Administrative Functions: The use of funds and acceptance of bids by a Board of County Commissioners are not subject to referendum as they concern administrative rather than legislative functions. Chouteau County v. Grossman, 172 M 373, 563 P2d 1125 (1977).

7-14-2802. Construction and operation of ferries uniting two counties.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-14-2803. Establishment and operation of public ferry or wharf upon petition.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 125 in first sentence inserted reference to Title 70, chapter 30; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

Case Notes

Ferry as Incident of Highway: That a Board of County Commissioners had no express authority until 1909 to issue bonds for and establish public ferries is immaterial because a ferry is an incident or movable portion of a highway where it crosses a stream. Reid v. Lincoln County, 46 M 31, 125 P 429 (1912).

7-14-2804. Acquisition of property for public ferries and wharves.Compiler's Comments

Section Not Codified: Section 16-1117, R.C.M. 1947, was not codified in the MCA, because it was redundant with this section. This section has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 2, Ch. 33, L. 1909. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

7-14-2805. Establishment and operation of public ferry or wharf by county upon its own motion.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Operation of Ferry a Proprietary Function: The county operated an aerial basket carrier to transport the public across a river in the winter season when the county ferry was inoperable. The county was found to be performing a proprietary function in operating the carrier and hence was liable for the plaintiff's injuries sustained while attempting to board the carrier. (Section 1, Ch. 38, L. 1943, declared such operation by the county to be a governmental function.) Jacoby v. Chouteau County, 112 M 70, 112 P2d 1068 (1941), distinguished with regard to functions of the Montana State Hospital in Murphy v. St., 248 M 82, 809 P2d 16, 48 St. Rep. 335 (1991).

7-14-2807. Tax levy for public ferry — combined ferry and bridge fund.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 in (1) substituted "tax on the taxable value of all taxable property" for "special tax, not to exceed 2 mills on the dollar, on the taxable property". Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 at beginning of (1) inserted reference to 15-10-420; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

1989 Amendment: At beginning of (1) inserted "If a county owns or operates a public ferry"; and inserted (2) authorizing combination of revenue from bridge and ferry levies. Amendment effective July 1, 1989.

7-14-2822. Notice of application to operate ferry.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in first sentence inserted "as provided in 7-1-2121" and in second sentence inserted "Publication must be made"; deleted former (2) that read: "(2) by posting three notices in three public places in the township for 4 successive weeks"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

7-14-2823. Hearing and decision on application.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1987 Amendment: Near end of (2)(a) and (2)(c) inserted "on" to clarify meaning.

1985 Amendment: In (2)(a) before "bond", deleted "penal".

7-14-2826. Regulation of ferry operation — penalties.Compiler's Comments

2013 Amendment: Chapter 123 in (1)(e) substituted "crossing is not to be made" for "crossing is to be"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2013.

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

1987 Amendment: In second sentence of (4), after “collected”, inserted “except as provided in 3-10-601”.

Part 41

General Provisions Related to Municipal Trafficways and Public Grounds

Part Attorney General's Opinions

“Discontinue” Clarified: The term “discontinue”, as used in Title 7, ch. 14, parts 26 and 41, is synonymous with the terms “abandon” and “vacate”. 40 A.G. Op. 23 (1983).

7-14-4101. Municipal authority to establish, alter, and maintain trafficways and public grounds.

Case Notes

City Authority to Plant Trees: Plaintiff filed suit against the city to prevent the planting of trees in the boulevard area of the sidewalk in front on his property. The District Court dismissed plaintiff's complaint for failure to state a cause of action because the City Council has broad discretion under this section to alter and maintain city streets and avenues, including the planting of trees. A statement by the City Council Public Works Committee that no trees would be planted if plaintiff objected did not create a contract binding on the city. The elements of a contract are missing here, and there was no action by the City Council as required by 7-5-4121 to create a contract. Duncan v. Missoula, 239 M 201, 779 P2d 519, 46 St. Rep. 1619 (1989).

Limited Power to Vacate: The power of a city to vacate, discontinue, or close a street is limited by 7-14-2616. State ex rel. Smart v. Big Timber, 165 M 328, 528 P2d 688 (1974).

Issuance of License Conditional on Removal of Encroachment: Although a town has express authority to compel the removal of encroachments upon public property within its boundaries, it may do so indirectly under 7-21-4101 by tying the removal of a house encroaching on an alley to the issuance of a license to operate a mobile home court. Barnes v. Belgrade, 164 M 467, 524 P2d 1112 (1974).

Method of Issuing Bonds: When an indebtedness is incurred for the paving, repairing, and widening of streets, the accepted method of issuing bonds is by means of a special assessment and the creation of a special improvement district under 7-12-4131. Dietrich v. Deer Lodge, 124 M 8, 218 P2d 708 (1950).

No Power to Incur Indebtedness: This section does not give a City or Town Council the power to incur indebtedness or issue bonds for street purposes. Dietrich v. Deer Lodge, 124 M 8, 218 P2d 708 (1950).

Street Work Within Exclusive Jurisdiction of City: With relation to work to be done on the streets of a city, such streets are within the exclusive jurisdiction of the municipality through its Council. State ex rel. Butte v. Healy, 105 M 227, 70 P2d 437 (1937).

7-14-4102. Regulation of trafficways and public grounds.

Compiler's Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 173 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 287 in (6), after “sliding”, inserted “skateboarding, rollerblading”; and made minor changes in style.

Case Notes

Municipality’s Authority to Adopt Ordinance Limiting University Students’ Rights to Park on City Streets: A university student association challenged the legality of a city ordinance limiting parking in residential areas near the university to residents of those areas. The Supreme Court held that municipalities have the power to regulate parking and that regulating parking to relieve congestion in certain residential neighborhoods was a reasonable exercise of governmental authority. Assoc. Students v. Missoula, 261 M 231, 862 P2d 380, 50 St. Rep. 1301 (1993).

Equitable Estoppel — Municipal Corporations: After a building permit was issued and construction began, it was discovered that the building encroached upon a city street. Relying on the assurance of the City Council that the building would not have to be removed, the builder resumed construction. Later the City Council ordered the building removed. Although the doctrine of equitable estoppel is applied to municipal corporations with great caution and only in exceptional cases, all six elements were present in this case. Boulder v. Bullock, 193 M 493, 632 P2d 716, 38 St. Rep. 1344 (1981).

Issuance of License Conditional on Removal of Encroachment: Although a town has express authority to compel the removal of encroachments upon public property within its boundaries, it may do so indirectly under 7-21-4101 by tying the removal of a house encroaching on an alley to the issuance of a license to operate a mobile home court. Barnes v. Belgrade, 164 M 467, 524 P2d 1112 (1974).

State Law and Ordinance Covering Same Subject: Since state traffic laws in effect in 1951 covered offenses both within and without municipalities, a city ordinance prohibiting drunken driving and providing for a penalty was void. An ordinance punishing an act made penal by an existing state law must yield to the state law. Billings v. Herold, 130 M 138, 296 P2d 263 (1956).

Parking Meters: The state has given the cities and towns a broad and comprehensive power over the streets within their limits. The use of parking meters as an aid in regulating motor vehicle traffic is a valid exercise of this power. Glodt v. Missoula, 121 M 178, 190 P2d 545 (1948).

7-14-4103. Regulation of motor vehicles.

Compiler’s Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 173 in (1) at beginning inserted exception clause; in (2) substituted current definition of motor vehicles for “shall include all vehicles propelled by any power other than muscular power, except traction engines, road rollers, fire wagons and engines, fire department vehicles, and police patrol wagons”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

Case Notes

State Law and Ordinance Covering Same Subject: Since state traffic laws in effect in 1951 covered offenses both within and without municipalities, a city ordinance prohibiting drunken driving and providing for a penalty was void. An ordinance punishing an act made penal by an existing state law must yield to the state law. Billings v. Herold, 130 M 138, 296 P2d 263 (1956).

7-14-4104. Prevention of obstructions on trafficways and public grounds.

Compiler’s Comments

2015 Amendment: Chapter 173 at beginning inserted exception clause and near end after “public grounds with” deleted “carriages, wagons, lumber, firewood, or other”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2015.

Case Notes

Implied Power to Compel Observance: This section carries with it the implied power of the officers and employees of a municipality to compel its observance. Lazich v. Butte, 116 M 386, 154 P2d 260 (1944).

7-14-4105. Lighting and cleaning of trafficways and public grounds.

Case Notes

Property Owner’s Liability — Removal of Snow: A city ordinance which requires a property owner to keep the adjoining sidewalks free from snow and ice under penalty of fine is not intended for the protection of the individual by the owner. Rather, the owner is aiding the city in discharging the city’s primary duty. Failure to comply with the ordinance with consequent injury to a pedestrian does not give rise to a cause of action against the owner. Steen v. Grenz, 167 M 279, 538 P2d 16 (1975); Childers v. Deschamps, 87 M 505, 290 P 261 (1930).

Electric Lighting System Owned by Corporation: Under this section, 69-4-101, and the sections authorizing special improvement districts, an improvement district may be created for the purpose of maintaining an electric lighting system and furnishing electrical current to the system even though the system is owned by an individual or corporation. Marchi v. Brackman, 130 M 228, 299 P2d 761 (1956).

Nuisance Action Improper: A claim under this section that parking meters are a nuisance and obstruction necessitating removal by the city is improper, as this section merely authorizes a city to clean and enforce cleaning of streets. Glodt v. Missoula, 121 M 178, 190 P2d 545 (1948).

Garbage Removal Within Police Power: The authority of cities to remove garbage and to provide a special tax against the property from which it is removed to meet the cost falls within the police power in the interest of public health. N. Pac. Ry. v. Lutey, 104 M 321, 66 P2d 785 (1937).

Duty of City — Sidewalks: If a city ordinance requires the abutting owner to keep a sidewalk in repair, the city's duty to the public is not affected; it merely makes the abutting owner a joint agent with the city for the performance of the city's duties. Headley v. Hammond Bldg., Inc., 97 M 243, 33 P2d 574 (1934).

Nuisance Created by City's Disposal of Garbage: Although a city has the power to regulate the removal and disposition of garbage, it does not have the right to so deposit it as to create a condition injurious to health or offensive to the senses and thus interfere with the comfortable enjoyment of life and property. Lennon v. Butte, 67 M 101, 214 P 1101 (1923).

Removal of Snow and Ice by Occupant: An ordinance required the occupant of premises to keep adjoining sidewalks free of ice and snow. As the remedy against the occupant is merely cumulative and not inconsistent with the power granted, a city has the right to proceed against the occupant as well as the owner. Helena v. Kent, 32 M 279, 80 P 258 (1905).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority to Tax for Garbage Removal Services: A city does not have authority under 7-14-4106(1) to impose a tax for city garbage removal services; rather, 7-6-4401 provides this authority. 38 A.G. Op. 30 (1979).

(Annotator's Note: Section 7-14-4106(1), MCA 1978, contained a typographical error that was determinative of this aspect of the opinion. The error was corrected in the Official Report of the Code Commissioner—1979 at page 8. Section 7-14-4106(1) does indeed authorize a city to impose a tax for city garbage removal services.)

7-14-4106. Payment for cost of removing waste.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 near end substituted "charge" for "tax"; and deleted former (2) that read: "(2) The city or town council may further, until full liquidation is realized, include in such tax an amount not to exceed 20% of any floating indebtedness consisting of valid outstanding warrants drawn and issued against the fund or funds used to defray the expense of removing such matter, existing at the close of business on June 30, 1943, together with not to exceed such per centum of the current interest thereon from such last-mentioned date. The money derived from such portion of such levy and assessment for such additional amount, if included in such tax, may only be expended toward liquidating such floating indebtedness, together with the interest thereon, and not otherwise"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Case Notes

Assessment of All Property Within City: It is not always possible to ascertain from what property garbage in the streets arises. Whether all of the property in a city derives a benefit from its removal is doubtful; however, its removal is necessary for the public health. If the levy in question covers too much property, the assessment is unlawful in part only. N. Pac. Ry. v. Lutey, 104 M 321, 66 P2d 785 (1937).

Garbage Removal Within Police Power: The authority of cities to remove garbage and to provide a special tax against the property from which it is removed to meet the cost falls within the police power in the interest of public health. N. Pac. Ry. v. Lutey, 104 M 321, 66 P2d 785 (1937).

Tax Similar to Special Assessment: The special tax provided for by this section in essence requires property owners to pay for services rendered. It is similar to a special assessment in that the city must determine what property should be assessed. Such a determination, in the absence of fraud or manifest mistake, is conclusive. N. Pac. Ry. v. Lutey, 104 M 321, 66 P2d 785 (1937).

Attorney General's Opinions

Authority to Tax for Garbage Removal Services: A city does not have authority under this section to impose a tax for city garbage removal services; rather, 7-6-4401 provides this authority. 38 A.G. Op. 30 (1979).

(Annotator's Note: Section 7-14-4106(1), MCA 1978, contained a typographical error that was determinative of this aspect of the opinion. The error was corrected in the Official Report of the Code Commissioner—1979 at page 8. Section 7-14-4106(1) does indeed authorize a city to impose a tax for city garbage removal services.)

7-14-4107. Maintenance of trafficways.

Compiler's Comments

1983 Amendment: Near beginning of section, after "town council" substituted "may" for "has power to"; after "for the" substituted "maintenance" for "sprinkling"; near middle of section, after "town and" substituted "may fix" for "to fix the"; and at end of section, inserted references to Title 7, ch. 12, part 44.

Case Notes

Burden on County to Show Material Fact Regarding Height of Hedge — Nonconforming Use Not Proved — Summary Judgment Improper: A municipal code provision, passed in 1978, regulated, for traffic safety purposes, the height of hedges that could be grown on corners of intersections at 3 feet, but also permitted the existence of nonconforming uses prior to 1978. Ramirez was injured in a vehicle accident at an intersection where the hedge was taller than 5 feet and sought to hold the county accountable for failing its duty to enforce the ordinance. In granting summary judgment to the county, the District Court held the hedge to be a prior nonconforming use, noting that the hedge had been there since at least 1959. The Supreme Court reversed, finding that the county had offered no proof that the hedge was either taller than 3 feet in 1978 or had not been trimmed since 1978. The county did not meet its burden of showing the absence of this genuine issue of material fact; thus, summary judgment was improper. Ramirez v. Hatch, 1999 MT 107, 294 M 316, 979 P2d 1281, 56 St. Rep. 441 (1999).

Sprinkling as Maintenance — Liability of City: Because the sprinkling of streets is related more to the maintenance of the streets than to public health, it is a corporate rather than a governmental function. A city is therefore liable for injuries arising from the negligence of the driver of a sprinkling truck. Griffith v. Butte, 72 M 552, 234 P 829 (1925).

7-14-4108. Authority to contract for road work when federal funds involved.

Compiler's Comments

1995 Amendment — Phrase Change: Section 6, Ch. 75, L. 1995, directed the Code Commissioner to change references in the MCA to Highway Commission to Transportation Commission. In this section, the Code Commissioner has made the change in the last sentence. Amendment effective July 1, 1995.

1991 Amendment: Substituted references to Department of Transportation for references to Department of Highways. Amendment effective July 1, 1991.

7-14-4109. Power to order certain improvements without creation of special improvement district.

Compiler's Comments

2005 Amendment: Chapter 451 in (5)(a) in first sentence near middle after "special warrants" inserted "or bonds" and after "ordinance" inserted "or resolution", at end of second sentence inserted "or semiannually", and inserted third sentence regarding warrants or bonds authorized by city council; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 28, 2005.

1983 Amendments: Chapter 457, in (5)(b), substituted "pursuant to 17-5-102" for "of up to 6% a year". This amendment is effective July 1, 1983.

Chapter 526, in (3), after "owner" inserted "and to any purchaser under contract for deed". This amendment is effective October 1, 1983.

Case Notes

Sidewalk Along State Highway Within Department's Jurisdiction: A city cannot levy a special assessment for a sidewalk installed by the city along a state highway without the involvement of the Department of Highways (now Department of Transportation). Palffy v. Bozeman, 168 M 108, 540 P2d 955 (1975).

Attorney General's Opinions

Purchase of Sidewalk, Curb, or Gutter Warrants by City Officials Prohibited: An elected or appointed city official may not purchase a sidewalk, curb, or gutter warrant without violating the prohibition against city officers' purchasing city warrants. These warrants are not covered by the exceptions of 2-2-204, nor are they held by a city officer for services rendered or evidence of the funded indebtedness of the city. 38 A.G. Op. 79 (1980).

7-14-4110. Assessments for costs.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 159 in (1) near end of first sentence increased period from 12 to 20 years; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 6, 2007.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 3, Ch. 159, L. 2007, provided: "[This act] applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to city or town council orders for the construction of sidewalks, curbs, gutters, or alley approaches occurring after December 31, 2006."

1983 Amendment: In (1), increased payment term from 8 to 12 years.

Case Notes

Sidewalk Along State Highway Within Department's Jurisdiction: A city cannot levy a special assessment for a sidewalk installed by the city along a state highway without the involvement of the Department of Highways (now Department of Transportation). Palffy v. Bozeman, 168 M 108, 540 P2d 955 (1975).

7-14-4114. Procedure to discontinue streets.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 354 in (3) in first sentence after "must be published" deleted "or posted in three public places" and in second sentence substituted "as provided in 7-1-4127" for "in a newspaper or posted at least 1 week before the petition is acted on"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1989 Amendment: In (1), in middle of introductory phrase after "town", deleted "upon the petition in writing of all owners of lots on the street or alley" and at end inserted "upon"; inserted (1)(a) and (1)(b) concerning petitions; and in (2), after "school purposes", inserted clause relating to discontinuance of street or alley and at end, after "closed", deleted "will be required".

Section Not Codified: The last paragraph of section 11-2801, R.C.M. 1947, a validation clause, was not codified in the MCA. This clause has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 1, Ch. 36, L. 1945.

Case Notes

Authority to Permanently Close: The City Commission had authority to make a temporary closure permanent without a further petition when the original petition requested that action be taken "on a trial basis until a final determination has been made by the City Commission that the overall effect . . . has been beneficial". This language gave the Commission continuing authority after the closure on a temporary basis. Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802, 36 St. Rep. 1589 (1979).

Closure Versus Vacation: Closure and vacation are not synonymous. The former merely alters the use of a street, while the latter effects the vacation of the city's legal interest in the street. Therefore, a city may close a street without meeting the notice requirements of 7-3-4448 if it complies with the notice requirements of this section, and in such a case the requirement of 7-3-4448 that the right of access be maintained does not apply. Further, there is no reversion to the lot owners of half the closed street since the city retains its rights in the street. Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802, 36 St. Rep. 1589 (1979).

Percentage of Signatures Required — Closure for School Purposes: When the petition for closure requested the closure of four segments of a street, the required number of signatures was 75% of the lot owners of the whole part of the street to be closed and not 75% of the lot owners abutting on a particular closed segment. The whole part of the street to be closed was determined by looking at the total effect of the simultaneous closure of the four segments. Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802, 36 St. Rep. 1589 (1979).

Restriction of Access by Street Closure Not Compensable: The abutting lot owners do not suffer compensable damage when a street closure restricts their access to their property as long as some "adequate and reasonable" means of access are preserved. Wynia v. Great Falls, 183 M 458, 600 P2d 802, 36 St. Rep. 1589 (1979).

7-14-4116. No authority to require fee and permit for oversize vehicles.Compiler's Comments

Effective Date: This section is effective October 1, 2015.

7-14-4122. Construction and maintenance of sidewalks, curbs, and gutters.Case Notes

Liability of City for Actions of Executive Branch Officers of City With Self-Governing Powers: Although this section gives city councils the power to regulate and repair sidewalks, the section does not apply when a city has adopted a charter that provides for separate branches of government and delegates different duties to each branch. When a charter gave the executive branch the power to enforce the ordinance pertaining to sidewalk repair, any negligent acts or omissions connected with the maintenance of sidewalks were attributable to the executive branch and neither the city's legislative body nor its agents were implicated by the executive's failure to repair the sidewalks. Accordingly, the city was not immune from suit under 2-9-111 for the negligent maintenance of a city sidewalk. Woods v. Billings, 248 M 254, 811 P2d 534, 48 St. Rep. 421 (1991).

Lack of Notice: An assessment levied in 1908 to pay for the expense incurred by a city in the construction of a sidewalk without first giving the owner of the abutting property notice and affording him an opportunity to construct it himself, as required by the statute and an ordinance of the city then in force, was invalid and constituted no lien on the property. Murray v. Helena, 65 M 485, 211 P 197 (1922).

Part 42Establishment and Change of Street Grade*Part Case Notes

Subway Under Railroad Tracks: A city ordered a railroad company to construct a subway under its tracks on the city's main street. Two businesses were situated on the railroad's right-of-way adjacent to the main street whose means of ingress and egress would be destroyed by the lowering of the grade. Because the main street had existed for 50 years and had been paved and improved, the grade could not be changed without first complying with this part. State ex rel. Miles City v. N. Pac. Ry., 88 M 529, 295 P 257 (1930).

7-14-4201. Establishment and alteration of street grade.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-14-4202. Payment of damages resulting from change of grade.Case Notes

Change of Grade Outside City or Town: This section should not be construed to mean that no compensation may be awarded for a change of grade when the highway involved is located outside the limits of a city or town. St. Highway Comm'n v. Keneally, 142 M 256, 384 P2d 770 (1963).

7-14-4203. Determination of damages.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Attempt to Agree Before Appraisers Appointed: Before a city may appoint a board of appraisers it should appear that the city and the property owner tried but were unable to agree on the amount of damages. State ex rel. Butte v. District Court, 48 M 614, 139 P 791 (1914).

Part 43
Municipal Regulation of Railways and Street Railroads

7-14-4301. Regulation of railways.

Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Case Notes

Railroad Right-of-Way — Extent of Uses: When the grant of a right-of-way is made to a railroad company without restrictions, it contemplates not merely the railroad as it may be established in the first instance but the railroad with all its necessary appurtenances as it may from time to time come necessarily to be. The construction and use of coal docks by the railroad company within its right-of-way are therefore proper. Smith v. N. Pac. Ry., 50 M 539, 148 P 393 (1915).

Commercial Railroad Distinguished From Street Railroad: A mining company's railroad used for carriage of its and the public's supplies, ore, and merchandise is not a commercial railroad as distinguished from a street railroad. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 M 509, 110 P 237 (1910).

Mining Company's Railroad as Public Use: A city may permit the use of its streets in any manner and for any purpose reasonably incident to public travel. Because modes of public travel change, the owner of adjacent property is presumed to have received compensation when the way was created for changing public uses. The use of a mining company's railroad for carriage of its and the public's supplies, ore, and merchandise which otherwise would be transported by teams is a public use. Kipp v. Davis-Daly Copper Co., 41 M 509, 110 P 237 (1910).

7-14-4302. Regulation of lighting for railway right-of-way — crossings.

Case Notes

Change of Grade Resulting From Railroad Crossing: Before a city may order the construction of a subway street crossing necessitating a change in the grade of the street, it must comply with 7-14-4201, et seq. State ex rel. Miles City v. N. Pac. Ry., 88 M 529, 295 P 257 (1930).

Not Applicable to Street Railroads: Because this section does not apply to street railroads, an ordinance requiring a street railway company to light its track within the corporate limits without expense to the city is void. Helena Light & Ry. v. Helena, 47 M 18, 130 P 446 (1913).

7-14-4303. Authorization for and regulation of street railroads.

Case Notes

Authority Over Street Railroads: This section and 7-5-4101 confer all the powers necessary for the policing of street railroads. Helena Light & Ry. v. Helena, 47 M 18, 130 P 446 (1913).

Railroads and Street Railroads Distinguished: The frequent use in the laws of this state of the prefix "street" before "railroads" or "railways" indicates the legislative intention to maintain a distinction between railroads and street railroads. In construing enactments pertaining to railroads, they should not be held to apply to street railroads unless the intention is apparent. Helena Light & Ry. v. Helena, 47 M 18, 130 P 446 (1913).

Part 44
Municipal Bus Services

7-14-4402. Limit on indebtedness to provide bus service.

Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 29 in first sentence after "exceed" substituted "the debt limitation established in 7-7-4201" for "28% of the total taxable value of the property of the city or town subject to taxation as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1981 Amendment: Increased 18% to 28%.

7-14-4403. Operation of municipal busline.Compiler's Comments

2009 Amendment: Chapter 246 inserted (2) and (3) enabling a city or town council or commission to adopt ordinances or resolutions to provide for the safe operation of municipal transportation and to provide for enforcement of the ordinances or resolutions; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2009.

1983 Amendment: Deleted former (2), which read: "(2) Such operations shall be subject to all the provisions of (Title 69, chapter 12) except that:

(a) such municipality may be issued a certificate of public convenience and necessity without proof of the existence of public convenience and necessity; and

(b) the municipality shall be exempt from the payment of fees provided by 69-12-421 and 69-12-422."

7-14-4404. Tax levy for contracts to operate bus service.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 495 at end of second to last sentence substituted "at an election held pursuant to 15-10-425" for "either at the regular annual election held in the city or town or at a special election that is held in conjunction with a regular or primary election and that is called for that purpose by the council of the city or town". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Chapter 574 in second sentence near middle substituted "15-10-420" for "law" and at end substituted "as provided in 15-10-425" for "either at the regular annual election held in the city or town or at a special election that is held in conjunction with a regular or primary election and that is called for that purpose by the council of the city or town. The additional levy may not exceed 1 ½ mills." Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Style changes were slightly different in the chapters. In each case, the codifier chose appropriate text.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 387 in second sentence, near end before "called", inserted "that is held in conjunction with a regular or primary election and that is" and in third sentence, after "levy", deleted "in excess of the levy now allowed by law"; and made minor changes in style.

Part 45 Municipal Parking

7-14-4501. Acquisition, construction, and maintenance of parking areas.Compiler's Comments

Parking Commissions

7-14-4609. Appointment of commission.Compiler's Comments

1999 Amendment: Chapter 189 at beginning of (1) and (2) inserted exception clause; inserted (3) authorizing city to appoint board of trustees of coterminous business improvement district to serve as area's parking commission members; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

7-14-4610. Term of office.Compiler's Comments

1999 Amendment: Chapter 189 at beginning of (1) and (2) inserted exception clause; inserted (3) establishing same term of office for business improvement district trustee also serving as parking commissioner; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 1999.

7-14-4612. Organization and operation of commission.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-14-4622. Powers of parking commission related to provision of parking services.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 125 in (2) at beginning inserted "subject to 7-14-4626" and substituted "as provided in Title 70, chapter 30, any property" for "any property in accordance with the applicable provisions of law of eminent domain"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

Case Notes

Appeal of Condemnation Award Before Final Judgment: An award in a condemnation action may not be appealed to the District Court until the District Court Clerk serves notice of the Commissioners' award and a copy of their report upon the proper parties pursuant to 70-30-303. Prior to this, a property owner's motion to dismiss the condemnation action because of a Parking Commission's failure to pay the condemnation award is improper. Bozeman Parking Comm'n v. First Trust Co. of Mont., 190 M 107, 619 P2d 168, 37 St. Rep. 1610 (1980).

7-14-4626. Limitation on power of eminent domain.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 125 in (1) at beginning deleted "Notwithstanding the provisions of 7-14-4622(2)" and inserted reference to parking commission; in (2) inserted reference to Title 70, chapter 30; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Interim Study Bill — Eminent Domain: Chapter 125, L. 2001, was enacted as a result of an interim study. See Eminent Domain in Montana, published by the Legislative Environmental Policy Office, May 2001.

7-14-4630. Notice for bids to lease parking facility.Compiler's Comments

1985 Amendment: In (1) inserted "as provided in 7-1-2121", and after "inviting bids", deleted "with two or more insertions thereof, not less than 5 days apart, in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in such city or city and county. The publication shall be commenced not less than 15 days prior to the date set in the notice for the opening of bids. If there be no newspaper of general circulation printed or published therein, notice shall be given by posting copies of said notice inviting bids in at least three public places in the city or city and county not less than 15 days prior to the date set in the notice for the opening of bids."

7-14-4631. Compliance with land use laws required.Compiler's Comments

Part Attorney General's Opinions

No County Authority to Provide Housing to Low-Income Elderly: A county with general government powers does not have the authority under Art. XI, sec. 4, Mont. Const., or 7-8-2102 to construct or maintain an apartment complex for elderly low-income citizens that does not otherwise constitute a boarding or nursing home under 7-34-2301 and that does not constitute a public building under 7-8-2102. Instead, a county or municipal housing authority should be created under Title 7, ch. 15, parts 21 or 44, to provide such housing. 42 A.G. Op. 20 (1987).

Section Not Codified: Section 35-135, R.C.M. 1947, a purpose section, was not codified in the MCA, because it was in part redundant with this section and in part obsolete. This section has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 1, Ch. 138, L. 1935. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncoded provision.

Case Notes

Legislative Finding of "Public Purpose" Upheld: Legislation having for its purpose the eradication of slums and the substitution of safe and sanitary dwellings is well within the definition of "public purpose". The Legislature having so declared, it is not the duty or the prerogative of the Supreme Court to interfere with that finding in the absence of a clear showing that the determination was wrong. Rutherford v. Great Falls, 107 M 512, 86 P2d 656 (1939).

County Housing Authority — Implicit Power to Finance Rehabilitation of Private Dwellings: A county housing authority has implicit statutory power to administer the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing, and a general power county government may therefore administer the CDBG program through a county housing authority. This conclusion is reached because the Legislature recognizes the existence of substandard housing in rural as well as urban areas, and the constitution mandates the resolution of reasonable doubts in favor of local government power. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

General Government Power County — No Power to Finance Rehabilitation of Private Dwellings: A county with general government powers has no inherent authority to administer a program for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing funded under the Community Development Block Grant program since no statutes expressly confer this power on general power county governments. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

General Provisions Related to Municipal Housing and Construction

Part Case Notes

Equitable Estoppel Defense Defeated — Failure of Counterclaim to State Claim for Which Relief May Be Granted: The city of Whitefish sought and obtained a permanent injunction against Troy Town Pump, Inc. (Town Pump), requiring removal of a sign that violated the city's ordinance. Town Pump's defense was that the city's approval of the original building plan equitably estopped the city's claim. Alternatively, Town Pump counterclaimed for the costs of remodeling the building. In order for the city to obtain a permanent injunction, it first had to overcome Town Pump's counterclaim that it was equitably estopped from doing so. The city successfully defeated the counterclaim. Absent a legal theory upon which to base damages, the city could not be held liable, so the District Court did not err in dismissing Town Pump's counterclaim for damages on grounds that it failed to state a claim for which relief could be granted. Whitefish v. Troy Town Pump, Inc., 2001 MT 58, 304 M 346, 21 P3d 1026 (2001).

Revocation of Prior City Approval of Building Plan Based on Incorrect Conclusion That Proposed Fascia Did Not Constitute Sign — Equitable Estoppel Inapplicable — Jurisdiction Properly Retained: The city of Whitefish adopted a master plan that included a policy providing that commercial signs are a blighting factor and that contained strict limits on the size and character of signs. Troy Town Pump, Inc. (Town Pump), submitted blueprints to the city for a new exterior, referred to as a fascia, that included lettering above an awning. The city manager reviewed the blueprints for the design before it was installed and, believing that only the written words but not the entire awning constituted a sign, approved the design and issued a building permit. When installed, the awning consisted of a band of translucent, raspberry-colored material 4 feet 11 inches high, extending about 162 feet across the entire length of the front of the building. Four rows of white fluorescent light tubes located behind the awning extended the entire length of the material and lit it from behind, and four neon lights were placed in front of the awning, which ran horizontally the entire length of the front of the building and approximately 42 feet along the rear of the building. The City Council concluded that the entire awning constituted a sign that violated the city ordinance because it was too big and directed Town Pump to remove the lighting. When Town Pump refused, the city sought an injunction prohibiting Town Pump from operating the lighting. Town Pump's defense was that the city's claims were barred under the doctrine of equitable estoppel, because the design had already been reviewed and the building permit issued. During a bench trial, the city manager testified that if he had realized that the fascia would create a lighting scheme that dwarfed the lettering and far exceeded general lighting needs, he would not have approved the building permit. The District Court issued a permanent injunction requiring removal of all lighting and reserved jurisdiction to determine whether the entire awning constituted a sign within the meaning of the ordinance, thereby justifying further injunctive relief. In a subsequent order, the court granted the city's motion for judgment on the pleadings on the counterclaim on grounds that the counterclaim failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. Town Pump appealed. The Supreme Court held that original approval of the building permit was based on an incorrect misrepresentation of law, not fact, that the fascia did not constitute a sign. Thus, Town Pump failed to establish the first element of equitable estoppel, which requires a misrepresentation of fact. Further examination revealed that Town Pump failed to establish even one element of equitable estoppel, dooming its defense to the city's request for an injunction. The city's broad definition of sign was intended to include not only traditional signs, but also embellishments intended to draw attention to a traditional sign or to the business itself, so the District Court did not abuse its discretion in ordering removal of the lighting. Further, under the city's broad request for relief, the court did not err in retaining jurisdiction to allow the city to return to court after the lighting was removed to consider an order requiring removal of the awning. The court simply exercised its discretion in a manner that allowed it to grant all relief necessary in the matter. Whitefish v. Troy Town Pump, Inc., 2001 MT 58, 304 M 346, 21 P3d 1026 (2001).

Arbitrary Denial of Building Permit by City Council — City, City Council, and Individual Council Members Liable: In an action under 43 U.S.C. 1983, the court of appeals upheld the District Court's holding that the Billings City Council's refusal to issue a building permit after the applicant had satisfied all the requirements for issuing the permit was an arbitrary and capricious action that deprived the applicant of his substantive due process rights. The city, City Council, and individual members of the City Council have no immunity from such action and are all liable for damages. Bateson v. Geisse, 857 F2d 1300 (9th Cir. 1988).

7-15-4102. Findings and policy with regard to unsanitary and unsafe private dwellings.

Attorney General's Opinions

County Housing Authority — Implicit Power to Finance Rehabilitation of Private Dwellings: A county housing authority has implicit statutory power to administer the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing, and a general power county government may therefore administer the CDBG program through a county housing authority. This conclusion is reached because the Legislature recognizes the existence of substandard housing in rural as well as urban areas, and the constitution mandates the resolution of reasonable doubts in favor of local government power. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

General Government Power County — Not to Enter Agreement With City to Rehabilitate Rural Dwellings: A county with general government powers and a city generally may not enter into an interlocal agreement under which the county could administer the Community Development Block Grant project for the rehabilitation of privately owned housing because neither is statutorily authorized to rehabilitate dwellings outside the city limits. 40 A.G. Op. 17 (1983).

Case Notes

“Area” Concept — Taking: The “area” concept of taking, that so long as a city establishes boundaries of an urban renewal district it need not prove necessity for taking individual properties, does not prevail if it is shown that the property is not reasonably necessary to the clearance of the blighted area and prevention of recurrence of blight. Helena v. DeWolf, 162 M 57, 508 P2d 122 (1973).

No Conclusive Presumption of Public Use: Condemnation by a city for urban renewal of a blighted area does not create a conclusive presumption of public use and necessity as provided by 7-5-4106. Helena v. DeWolf, 162 M 57, 508 P2d 122 (1973).

Showing of Necessity to Take Property: A city sought to condemn property for parking facilities designed to serve structures to be built by private enterprise. Because the city was unable to predict when such structures would be built, if at all, a showing of necessity to take property for an urban renewal project was not made. Helena v. DeWolf, 162 M 57, 508 P2d 122 (1973).

2019 Amendment: Chapter 270 in (1) in first sentence near beginning inserted “with an urban renewal district containing a tax increment provision”; in (1)(a) substituted “7-15-4286(1) and (2)” for “7-15-4286”; and in (2) at end inserted “pursuant to 7-15-4286(3) or this section”. Amendment effective October 1, 2019.

Applicability: Section 6, Ch. 270, L. 2019, provided: “[This act] applies to targeted economic development districts with a tax increment provision created on or after [the effective date of this act].” Effective October 1, 2019.

Saving Clause: Section 5, Ch. 270, L. 2019, was a saving clause.

2017 Amendment: Chapter 22 in (1) in first sentence substituted “a local government may enter into an agreement to remit” for “the local government may also enter into agreements with the other affected taxing bodies to remit to those taxing bodies” and inserted last sentence listing requirements for remittance agreements. Amendment effective October 1, 2017.

Applicability: Section 2, Ch. 22, L. 2017, provided: “[This act] applies to remittance agreements entered into on or after [the effective date of this act].” Effective October 1, 2017.

2015 Amendment: Chapter 405 in (1) at beginning inserted “Subject to subsections (2) through (5)”; inserted (2), (3), (4), and (5) concerning the use of tax increment remitted to a school district; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 5, 2015.

Transition: Section 4, Ch. 405, L. 2015, provided: “(1) A school district that has executed an agreement with a local government pursuant to 7-15-4291 on or before [the effective date of this act] [May 5, 2015] shall prepare a transition plan.

(2) (a) The transition plan must be limited to paying contractual obligations that were incurred prior to [the effective date of this act] [May 5, 2015] when the increment was anticipated as a funding source for the contract when the contract was executed. In order to qualify as an obligation, there must be a written signed contract meeting all elements of 28-2-102 between a school district and a third party. Evidence of a contract does not include the listing of a capital project on a list or plan that was created before [the effective date of this act] [May 5, 2015].

(b) (i) If the obligation relates to paying bonded indebtedness, a district may utilize the remittance for the life of the bond issue.

(ii) If the obligation relates to other contracts, a district may utilize the increment to pay for the contracted project until the end of the contract.

(3) For the purpose of subsection (2), a contract does not include the agreement with a local government pursuant to 7-15-4291.

(4) If a portion of the increment does not satisfy the conditions of subsection (2), it must be expended according to the provisions of [sections 1 through 3] [7-15-4251, 20-9-104, and 20-9-141].”

Applicability: Section 6, Ch. 405, L. 2015, provided: “(1) Except as provided in subsection (2), [this act] applies to tax increment financing districts created after December 31, 1979.

(2) A school district that has executed an agreement with a local government pursuant to 7-15-4291 on or before [the effective date of this act] [May 5, 2015] is subject to the provisions of [section 4] [a transition section].”

2013 Amendment: Chapter 214 substituted “local government” for “municipality”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

2021 Amendment: Chapter 575 in (1)(b) inserted last sentence concerning the term of bonds for targeted economic development districts created after June 30, 2022. Amendment effective May 20, 2021.

Saving Clause: Section 6, Ch. 575, L. 2021, was a saving clause.

2013 Amendment: Chapter 214 in (1) inserted “contained in an urban renewal plan or a targeted economic development district comprehensive development plan”; in (2)(b) and (2)(b)(i) substituted “local government” for “municipality”; in (2)(b)(i) after “renewal project” inserted “or targeted economic development district project”; in (2)(b)(iii) after “renewal plan” inserted “or targeted economic development district comprehensive development plan”; in (3) substituted “or targeted economic development district” for “the industrial district, the technology district, or the aerospace transportation and technology district”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2013.

2009 Amendment: Chapter 394 in (2)(a) at end before “district” inserted “area or”; in (3) near middle after “technology district” inserted “or the aerospace transportation and technology district” and at end after “bodies” inserted “as provided by law”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 28, 2009.

2005 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 545 in (1)(a) after “adoption” deleted “or, if the tax increment provision was adopted prior to January 1, 1980, upon the 17th year following adoption”; in (2)(a) at beginning inserted exception clause; inserted (2)(b) regarding retention and use of certain funds by municipality; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2005.

Chapter 566 in (1)(a) after “adoption” deleted “or, if the tax increment provision was adopted prior to January 1, 1980, upon the 17th year following adoption”; in (3) after “industrial district” inserted “or the technology district”; in (4) at end of first sentence after “provisions” deleted “adopted after January 1, 1980, and the 17th anniversary of tax increment provisions adopted prior to January 1, 1980”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 2, 2005.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 422 deleted (5) and (6) that read: “(5) (a) If a municipality issues bonds secured in whole or in part by a tax increment provision after the 10th year following a tax increment provision adopted after January 1, 1980, or after the 12th year following a tax increment provision adopted before January 1, 1980, it is not entitled to the full distribution provided in 20-9-360(2).

(b) The state treasurer shall reduce the distribution to the municipality in each fiscal year after the fiscal year in which the bonds referred to in subsection (5)(a) are issued by an amount equal to the increased taxable value of the project property multiplied by the total number of mills levied and assessed for school district purposes against the property in the previous calendar year. The department of revenue shall certify to the state treasurer by September 1 of each year the increased taxable value of the project property.

(c) If the municipality issues more than one bond series after January 1, 1991, the distribution to the municipality as provided in 20-9-360(2) is reduced, as determined in subsection (5)(b), by the sum of the amounts of each bond issue.

(6) For the purposes of subsection (5):

(a) “project property” is the value of property within an urban renewal area affected by an urban renewal project to be financed in whole or in part from the proceeds of the bonds issued pursuant to subsection (5)(a), certified by the municipality to the department of revenue at the time the bonds are issued and identified by a tax identification number. Property is affected by an urban renewal project if the property:

(i) is to be acquired or improved as part of the urban renewal project;

(ii) is located on property that is to be acquired or improved as part of the urban renewal project;

(iii) is contiguous to, or located on property contiguous to, property referred to in subsection (6)(a)(i) or (6)(a)(ii), including adjacent property separated by a road, stream, street, or railroad; or

(iv) is included in an agreement between a person and the municipality in connection with the urban renewal project for the issuance of the bonds and if under the agreement, the person undertakes to develop or redevelop the property.

(b) “increased taxable value” means the difference between the taxable value of the project property for the current fiscal year and the taxable value of the project property for the fiscal year in which the bonds were issued”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 1997.

1991 Amendment: Near beginning of (1)(a) extended termination date for tax increment from 10th to 15th year after its adoption and near end extended termination date from 12th to 17th year; at beginning of (4) substituted “Bonds secured in whole or in part by a tax increment provision” for “No bonds with tax increment provisions for the repayment thereof”, near middle of first sentence extended anniversary of tax increment from 10th to 15th, near end of first sentence extended anniversary of tax increment from 12th to 17th, and at end inserted sentence concerning conditions for issuing additional bonds; inserted (5) concerning distribution by State Treasurer to municipality in each fiscal year after fiscal year bonds are issued; inserted (6) defining project property and increased taxable value; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 16, 1991.

1989 Amendment: Near middle of (3) inserted “or the industrial district”.

1985 Amendment: At end of (1)(a) inserted “or, if the tax increment provision was adopted prior to January 1, 1980, upon the 12th year following adoption”; made minor phraseology changes throughout (1); and at end of (4) substituted “the 10th anniversary of tax increment provisions adopted after January 1, 1980, and the 12th anniversary of tax increment provisions adopted prior to January 1, 1980” for “10 years after April 29, 1977”.

Chapter 566 near beginning after “industrial district” inserted “or a technology district”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 2, 2005.

2003 Amendment Not Codified: Because of the temporary nature of the changes made by sec. 1, Ch. 525, L. 2003, the code commissioner has not codified the following amendments: Section 1, Ch. 525, inserted (2) that read: “(2) In cases of tax increment financing districts that were created on or after January 1, 1998, and before July 1, 2001, for which bonds were not issued, a municipality may adjust the base taxable value to account for a loss of taxable value resulting from a statutory change if the municipality has given notice of and has held a hearing on the proposed change”; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective April 26, 2003, and terminates June 30, 2003.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 at end substituted “estimate the base taxable value so that the tax increment resulting from the increased incremental value is sufficient to pay all principal and interest on the bonds as those payments become due” for “calculate the base taxable value as it would have been on the date of the original determination had the change been in effect on that date. The governing body may adjust the base taxable value to that value reported by the department of revenue, under the provisions of 7-15-4287.” Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1989 Amendment: Near beginning inserted “or an industrial district”.

1981 Amendment: Inserted “administrative, or judicial” before “change in the method” near the beginning of the first sentence; inserted “or the taxable valuation of property if the change in taxable valuation is based on conditions existing at the time the base year was established” after “the tax exemption status of property” in the first sentence; substituted “change” for “statutory changes” near the end of the first sentence.

Part Case Notes

General Municipal Statutes Not Applicable to Housing Authority: After the City Council exercises its discretion to empower the Mayor to appoint Commissioners and proceed with incorporation of a housing authority, appropriates money for the authority's first-year expenses, and does other acts of similar import, the general municipal statutes cease to have any further application to the authority, it being under the exclusive control of 7-15-4401, et seq., and 7-15-4501, et seq. State ex rel. Great Falls Housing Authority v. Great Falls, 110 M 318, 100 P2d 915 (1940).

Exemption From State and Local Taxation: Because the property and securities of a housing authority are essentially public property, they qualify for the exemption from state and local taxation under Art. VIII, sec. 5, Mont. Const. Rutherford v. Great Falls, 107 M 512, 86 P2d 656 (1939).

Legislative Finding of "Public Purpose" Upheld: Legislation having for its purpose the eradication of slums and the substitution of safe and sanitary dwellings is well within the definition of "public purpose". Power of Municipal and County Housing Authorities to Enter Into Interlocal Agreements: The Missoula Housing Authority may not enter into an interlocal agreement with Ravalli and Mineral Counties to administer federal rent subsidy programs beyond its jurisdictional boundaries. However, it may so administer via cooperative agreements with other housing authorities. 39 A.G. Op. 37 (1981).

Administration of Federal Rent Supplement Program — Purpose of Municipal Housing Authorities — Jurisdictional Area: Although there is no explicit statutory authority for a municipal housing authority to administer federal rent supplement funds, an authority may do so because the purpose of the federal program falls within the range of duties of a municipal housing authority. The federal program may not be administered outside an authority's 10-mile jurisdictional boundaries. 39 A.G. Op. 4 (1981).

7-15-4415. Cooperation between housing authorities.Attorney General's Opinions

Department of Commerce Authorized to Administer Housing Assistance Payments Program — No Restriction in Area Served by Municipal Housing Authority: The Montana Department of Commerce fits the description of a public housing authority under regulations of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and is authorized to contract with HUD to administer HUD's Housing Assistance Payments Program, including federal Section 8 certificate and voucher programs. The restriction in 7-15-4414 applies only to municipal housing authorities operating in the same geographic location and therefore does not restrict the administration of federal Section 8 housing programs in the same area by an authorized state agency. 44 A.G. Op. 23 (1992).

Power of Municipal and County Housing Authorities to Enter Into Interlocal Agreements: The Missoula Housing Authority may not enter into an interlocal agreement with Ravalli and Mineral Counties to administer federal rent subsidy programs beyond its jurisdictional boundaries. Section Not Codified: Section 35-136(part), R.C.M. 1947, was not codified in the MCA, because it was redundant with this section. This provision has not been repealed and is still valid law. Citation may be made to sec. 1, Ch. 138, L. 1935. See 1-2-208, stating that amendment to a codified provision is given effect over an uncodified provision.

Case Notes

Appropriation of Funds by City Mandatory: A city may not refuse to make an appropriation for a housing authority's first-year expenses and overhead on the grounds that it has no funds appropriated for that purpose or no funds not otherwise appropriated. Funds required to be expended under this section constitute "mandatory expenditures required by law" within the meaning of 7-6-4251 (now repealed). State ex rel. Helena Housing Authority v. Helena, 108 M 347, 90 P2d 514 (1939).

Donation of Funds by City — Constitutionality: City funds may constitutionally be donated to a housing authority as the city is performing, indirectly through a public agency created by the state, one of the primary functions of municipal government. State ex rel. Helena Housing Authority v. Helena, 108 M 347, 90 P2d 514 (1939); Rutherford v. Great Falls, 107 M 512, 86 P2d 656 (1939).

Estimate Within City's Discretion: A city has discretion in making the estimate of the housing authority's first-year expenses and overhead and will not be overruled absent a clearly arbitrary abuse of this discretion. State ex rel. Helena Housing Authority v. Helena, 108 M 347, 90 P2d 514 (1939).

7-15-4431. Appointment of commissioners.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 197 in first sentence of (2) after "must be" substituted "directly assisted by" for "tenants of" and at end inserted "and are known as resident commissioners", deleted former second through fourth sentences that read: "One tenant commissioner shall represent family tenants, and one tenant commissioner shall represent elderly tenants and tenants with disabilities. Nominees for tenant commissioner shall submit to the city clerk a petition signed by not less than 25 adult tenants of the authority or 25% of the adult tenants of the authority, whichever is greater. The city clerk shall submit a list of the tenant nominees to the mayor for appointment to the housing authority", and in second sentence substituted "resident" for "tenant" and at end inserted exception clause. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 472 in second sentence of (2) substituted "tenants with disabilities" for "handicapped tenants"; and made minor changes in style.

1989 Amendment: In (1) raised from five to seven the number of commissioners comprising an authority; inserted (2) setting out tenant commissioner requirements and explaining the nominating process; and made minor changes in phraseology.

Attorney General's Opinions

Tenant's Eligibility as Commissioner: A tenant of a housing authority is ineligible to serve as a commissioner of that housing authority. (See 1989 and 2001 amendments.) 37 A.G. Op. 110 (1978).

7-15-4432. Term of office.Compiler's Comments

2001 Amendment: Chapter 197 at beginning of (1) inserted "Subject to subsection (2)"; at beginning of first sentence of (2) substituted "resident" for "tenant"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

1989 Amendment: Inserted (2) establishing terms for tenant commissioners; and made minor changes in phraseology.

7-15-4433. Compensation of commissioners.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

Contract With City for Slum Clearance: A contract between a city and a housing authority whereby the city agreed to eliminate unsafe and unsanitary dwellings in the city to an extent at least equal to the number of new dwelling units to be erected by the authority and to cooperate generally in the program of the authority was valid. Rutherford v. Great Falls, 107 M 512, 86 P2d 656 (1939).

Administration of Federal Rent Supplement Program — Purpose of Municipal Housing Authorities — Jurisdictional Area: Although there is no explicit statutory authority for a municipal housing authority to administer federal rent supplement funds, an authority may contract to administer the funds because the purpose of the federal program falls within the range of duties allocated to a municipal housing authority. The federal program may not be administered outside an authority's 10-mile jurisdictional area because there is no authority to bypass the 10-mile limit and because the commissioners are required to strictly comply with the provisions of law. 39 A.G. Op. 4 (1981).

7-15-4454. General powers related to housing programs.Case Notes

"Persons of Low Income": That this section authorizes the commissioners to determine who are "persons of low income" without providing a specific standard does not result in an unconstitutional delegation of legislative powers. Because housing authorities will be funded chiefly by federal programs, the federal restrictions will assure uniformity in the standard throughout the state. Rutherford v. Great Falls, 107 M 512, 86 P2d 656 (1939).

7-15-4455. Housing projects subject to planning, zoning, and building laws.Case Notes

Subcontractor's Lien Against Housing Authority Improper: A subcontractor's mechanics' lien (now construction lien) for utility installation on a Montana Housing Authority project was improper. Even though Montana's mechanics' lien (now construction lien) laws are to be liberally construed to protect the rights of lien claimants and housing authorities may be sued, 7-15-4532 exempts Authority property from levy and sale by execution and 27-18-102 exempts it from attachment and execution. Bender v. Rookhuizen, 211 M 366, 685 P2d 343, 41 St. Rep. 1418 (1984).

Strict Conformance With General Laws Not Required: Considered in connection with 7-15-4440, this section can only mean that when the general laws are required to be generally applied they shall be so only when the application will not defeat the purpose of the housing authority law. *State ex rel. 2015 Amendment: Chapter 49 in (2)(a) after "electors of the county" deleted "at the next general election" and at end before "election" deleted "general". Amendment effective November 4, 2015.

2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 495 in middle of (1) before "tax, not to exceed 2 mills" deleted "special"; in (2)(b) substituted "as provided in 15-10-425" for "substantially as follows":

□ FOR the imposition (or continued imposition) of a property tax, not to exceed 2 mills, for county parks and for county-owned cultural, social, and recreational facilities.

□ AGAINST the imposition (or continued imposition) of a property tax for county parks and for county-owned cultural, social, and recreational facilities"; and in (2)(c) after "levy the tax" deleted "for the 2 subsequent fiscal years". Amendment effective October 1, 2001.

Chapter 574 in (1) near middle substituted "a tax" for "a special tax, not to exceed 2 mills on each dollar of the taxable valuation for any 1 year"; in (2)(b) substituted "submitted as provided in 15-10-425" for "submitted substantially as follows":

□ FOR the imposition (or continued imposition) of a property tax, not to exceed 2 mills, for county parks and for county-owned cultural, social, and recreational facilities.

□ AGAINST the imposition (or continued imposition) of a property tax for county parks and for county-owned cultural, social, and recreational facilities"; and in (2)(c) after "tax" deleted "for the 2 subsequent fiscal years". Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

Effective Date: Section 3, Ch. 48, L. 1993, provided: “[This act] is effective on passage and approval.” Approved February 18, 1993.

Part 23County Board of Park Commissioners*Part Attorney General's Opinions

Board — No Authority to Levy Tax: A County Park Board does not have the authority to levy a special tax for park purposes. 40 A.G. Op. 49 (1984).

Authority of Board of County Commissioners Over Parkland: A County Park Board may not sell county park property. However, a Board of County Commissioners may sell land that has been dedicated to the public for park purposes in accordance with procedures set out in 7-16-2324, and it may sell county land which has been used or purchased but not dedicated for park purposes subject to the limitations set out in 7-8-2211 through 7-8-2220. 36 A.G. Op. 38 (1975).

Duties of County Park Board: A County Park Board may expend its funds only for the improvement of any parkland to which the county holds legal title. However, Montana law does not require a County Park Board to develop every parcel of parkland or any particular parcel of parkland. 36 A.G. Op. 38 (1975).

Restriction of Use to Residents of a Particular Area: Generally, a County Park Board may not restrict the use of any county park to the residents of any particular area, although the history and circumstances of each park must be reviewed to determine whether there are any special circumstances that would create an exception to this general rule. Of course, no such restriction exception should be made without also considering whether the constitutional guarantee of equal protection under the law would be violated thereby. 36 A.G. Op. 38 (1975).

1995 Amendment: Chapter 543 near middle substituted "each county" for "all counties" and at end inserted "subject to the provisions of 7-1-201 through 7-1-203"; and deleted (2) that read: "(2) Such board shall constitute a department of the county government with the powers provided in this part."

7-16-2312. County park superintendent.Compiler's Comments

2007 Amendment: Chapter 61 made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2007.

7-16-2322. Rules and ordinances to implement part.Compiler's Comments

1991 Amendment: In (2)(b) substituted "46-1-202" for "46-1-201"; and made minor changes in style.

1985 Amendment: Inserted (2) relating to criminal offenses and employment and status of a park warden; and made minor changes in phraseology.

2005 Amendment: Chapter 333 in (1) near middle after "76-3-621" deleted "or a similar statute or pursuant to any instrument not specifically conveying land to a governmental unit other than a county" and at end after "lands" inserted "unless conveyance to a governmental unit other than a county is provided by law or agreement". Amendment effective October 1, 2005.

1995 Amendment: Chapter 468 in (1) and (4) substituted "76-3-621" for "76-3-606 and 76-3-607"; and made minor changes in style.

1995 Statement of Intent: The statement of intent attached to Ch. 468, L. 1995, provided: "It is the intent of the legislature that the department of commerce, local government assistance division, update its model subdivision rules to minimize the fiscal impacts to local governments in implementing this legislation."

Applicability: Section 13, Ch. 468, L. 1995, provided: "Funds in a park fund that exceed $10,000 as of [the effective date of this act] [October 1, 1995] must be used for park land acquisition and initial development. Funds in a park fund up to $10,000 as of [the effective date of this act] [October 1, 1995] may be used for park maintenance in accordance with a formally adopted park plan."

1985 Amendment: In (3)(d) inserted "as provided in 7-1-2121".

Case Notes

Writ of Certiorari Not Available — Appropriation of In-Lieu Funds: When the County Commission appropriated in-lieu park funds to a project not specifically authorized in the county outdoor recreation and open space plan, a Writ of Certiorari did not lie because the Commission, in appropriating money, was acting in a legislative, not judicial, capacity. There is no action more clearly legislative than that of appropriation of public funds. Burgess v. Gallatin County Comm'n, 215 M 503, 698 P2d 862, 42 St. Rep. 585 (1985).

Attorney General's Opinions

Park Board Partly Funded by County General Fund: The funding for the county park board's obligations is derived from the county general fund as well as from other specific sources as enumerated by 7-16-2328, 76-3-606 (now repealed), and this section. Since a specific separate tax levy is not authorized for the park fund, additional money must be appropriated from the county general fund authorized by 7-6-2501 if the revenue from sources other than taxation is insufficient to meet the necessary expenditures. 40 A.G. Op. 49 (1984).

Restriction on Use of Revenues Received From Sale of Park Lands and Donations: Revenues raised from sale of park lands and from cash donations in lieu of dedication of land for park purposes pursuant to 76-3-606 (now repealed) and this section are restricted in use to the purposes of purchase of additional lands or the initial development of parks and playgrounds. While these revenues are part of the park fund, they should be separated from unrestricted park fund revenues. 40 A.G. Op. 49 (1984).

Authority of Board of County Commissioners Over Parkland: A County Park Board may not sell county park property. However, a Board of County Commissioners may sell land that has been dedicated to the public for park purposes in accordance with procedures set out in this section, and it may sell county land which has been used or purchased but not dedicated for park purposes subject to the limitations set out in 7-8-2211 through 7-8-2220. 36 A.G. 2001 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 7 in (2)(a)(i) substituted "15-36-324(14)" for "15-36-324(13)"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective October 1, 2001. The amendment by Ch. 29 rendered the amendment by Ch. 7 void.

Chapter 29 in (2)(a) after "exceed" substituted "0.79% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111" for "13% of the total of the taxable value of the taxable property" and at end after "indebtedness" deleted "plus:

- (i) the value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(13);
- (ii) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the city or town for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%;

(iii) for fiscal year 2001, an additional 25% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%;

(iv) for fiscal year 2002, an additional 50% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%;

(v) for fiscal year 2003, an additional 75% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%, and an additional 60% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%;

(vi) for fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 2%, an additional 100% of the taxable value of class six property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of class six property, multiplied by 13%, and an additional 77% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, multiplied by 13%;

(vii) for fiscal years in which the tax rate for class eight property is 1%, an additional 94% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 13%; and

(viii) for the fiscal year and succeeding fiscal years in which 15-6-138 is repealed, an additional 100% of the taxable value of former class eight property within the county for tax year 1999, in each case of former class eight property, multiplied by 13%"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: (Version effective July 1, 2000) Chapter 285 at end of (2)(a) inserted "as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of the indebtedness"; at end of (2)(a)(i) after "15-36-324(13)" deleted "as ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of the indebtedness"; inserted (2)(a)(iii) relating to fiscal year 2001; inserted (2)(a)(iv) relating to fiscal year 2002; inserted (2)(a)(v) relating to fiscal year 2003; inserted (2)(a)(vi) relating to fiscal years when class eight property tax rate is 2%; inserted (2)(a)(vii) relating to fiscal years when class eight property tax rate is 1%; inserted (2)(a)(viii) relating to fiscal years after repeal of 15-6-138; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2000.

Chapter 426 in (2)(a)(i) at end deleted "ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of the indebtedness"; inserted (2)(a)(ii) relating to taxable value of telecommunications property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 556 inserted (2)(a)(ii) regarding taxable value attributable to electrical generation property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Saving Clause: Section 29, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Section 36, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a saving clause.

Severability: Section 30, Ch. 285, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Section 37, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Applicability: Section 43, Ch. 426, L. 1999, provided: "[This act] applies to tax years beginning after December 31, 1999."

Section 39(2), Ch. 556, L. 1999, provided that this section applies to fiscal years beginning after June 30, 2000.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 466 in (2) substituted "15-36-324(13)" for "15-36-324(10)". Amendment effective April 30, 1997.

1995 Amendments: Chapter 451 in (2)(a), after "plus the", substituted "value provided by the department of revenue under 15-36-324(10)" for previous formula (see 1995 Session Law for text). Amendment effective January 1, 1996.

Chapter 543 in (1), at end, substituted "in order to carry out its powers and duties" for "for the purposes of 7-16-2321(1) and (2)"; and made minor changes in style.

Applicability: Section 55, Ch. 451, L. 1995, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to oil and natural gas produced and sold on or after January 1, 1996.

(2) (a) [Sections 21 through 26] [7-1-2111, 7-7-2101, 7-7-2203, 7-14-2524, 7-14-2525, and 7-16-2327] apply to county fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(b) [Sections 38 through 46] [20-9-104, 20-9-141, 20-9-161, 20-9-331, 20-9-333, 20-9-501, 20-9-507, 20-10-144, and 20-10-146] apply to school fiscal years beginning after June 30, 1996.

(3) (a) An operator is subject to provisions of Title 15, chapter 23, parts 1 and 6 [part 6 now repealed]; Title 15, chapter 36; Title 15, chapter 38; and Title 82, chapter 11, part 1, as those laws read on December 31, 1995, for all oil and natural gas produced and sold by the operator before January 1, 1996. [On December 31, 1995, Title 15, ch. 36, contained only part 1, now repealed. Part 3 of that chapter became effective January 1, 1996.]

(b) Except as provided in subsection (3)(c), the payment, collection, and distribution of taxes on oil and natural gas production occurring before January 1, 1996, must be made according to the provisions of the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) governing the tax in effect on the last day of the tax period in which the activity, enterprise, or product being taxed was engaged in, took place, or was produced and sold.

(c) [Section 19] [15-36-325, now repealed] applies to the payment, collection, and distribution of the local government severance tax for oil and natural gas produced and sold after December 31, 1994, and before January 1, 1996.

(d) All taxes collected pursuant to audit or collected after the date the tax is payable under the laws referred to in subsection (3)(a) must be distributed according to the statute governing allocation of the tax in effect on the date when the tax liability was incurred."

1993 Special Session Amendment: Chapter 9 near middle of (2), after "amount of", substituted "taxes levied on new production, production from horizontally completed wells, and incremental production" for "interim production and new production taxes levied", inserted reference to subsection (2)(c), and after "new production" inserted "and production from horizontally completed wells"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective December 17, 1993.

Report Required: Section 21, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "The board of oil and gas conservation shall report at least once a year to the revenue oversight committee regarding the implementation of [this act]. The reports must include but are not limited to information regarding:

- (1) the methods used to determine production decline rates;
- (2) rules adopted to implement [this act];
- (3) the number of enhanced recovery projects completed or anticipated to be completed in a year; and
- (4) the number of horizontal wells completed or anticipated to be completed in a year and the method of recovery from the horizontal wells."

Severability: Section 23, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, was a severability clause.

Effective Date — Applicability: Section 24, Ch. 9, Sp. L. November 1993, provided: "[This act] is effective on passage and approval [approved December 17, 1993] and applies to oil production from new or expanded enhanced recovery projects and to tax years that begin after December 31, 1993."

1989 Special Session Amendment: In (2)(a), after "15-23-612" (now repealed), inserted "plus the value of any other production occurring after December 31, 1988, multiplied by 60%"; and made minor changes in phraseology. Amendment effective August 11, 1989, and applies retroactively to net proceeds taxes, severance taxes, and local government taxes on oil and gas, other than interim production and new production, produced after December 31, 1988.

1987 Amendment: In (2)(a), before "new production taxes", inserted "interim production and" and after "multiplied by 60%" inserted "plus the amount of value represented by new production exempted from tax as provided in 15-23-612".

Effective Date — Applicability — 1987 Enactment: Section 28, Ch. 655, L. 1987, provided: "This act is effective on passage and approval [approved April 13, 1987] and applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to taxable quarters beginning on or after April 1, 1987. The tax rate and filing method applicable to a well that qualifies as interim production under section 10 but which did not qualify as new production under 15-23-601 [now repealed] prior to the applicability date of this act does not change for tax periods prior to the applicability date."

1985 Amendment: In (2)(a), near middle, before "taxable value", inserted "total of the" and after "county", inserted "plus the amount of new production taxes levied divided by the appropriate tax rates described in 15-23-607(2)(a) or (2)(b) [now repealed] and multiplied by 60%".

1981 Amendment: Substituted "must not at any time exceed 13% of the taxable value of the taxable property in the county" for "must not at any time exceed 3% of the value of the taxable property of the county" in (2)(a); and substituted "No money may" for "No money must" at the beginning of (2)(b).

Part 41General Provisions*Affecting Municipal Government*Part Case Notes

Municipal Parks Within Exclusive Control of City: Matters pertaining to creation and maintenance of public parks in cities are of purely local and private concern over which, under the doctrine of self-government, the municipalities have exclusive control. State ex rel. Gerry v. Edwards, 42 M 135, 111 P 734 (1910).

7-16-4101. Municipal authority to establish, alter, and maintain parks.Case Notes

Land Dedicated for Park Purposes — Vacating Park: A city has the authority to vacate a public park located on land expressly dedicated for public park purposes where no reversionary clause is involved. Smith v. Hot Springs, 125 M 458, 240 P2d 249 (1952).

No Formal Action Required to Vacate: No formal action need be taken to vacate a public park. It may be accomplished by unequivocal acts showing a clear intent to abandon the use as a park, such as the erection of permanent structures for nonpark purposes. Smith v. Hot Springs, 125 M 458, 240 P2d 249 (1952).

Vacating Part of Park: A part of a public park may be vacated as well as the whole. Smith v. Hot Springs, 125 M 458, 240 P2d 249 (1952).

Land Deeded for Park Purposes — Reversionary Clause: Lands were deeded to a city for park purposes by deeds providing for reversion to the grantors if used for any other purpose. The lands may be used for some other purpose if the city obtains a waiver, quitclaim deed, or unconditional deed from the owner of the reversionary interest removing the restriction. The city then will own the lands in fee and may use the property as it sees fit. Lloyd v. Great Falls, 107 M 442, 86 P2d 395 (1938).

7-16-4103. Authorization to establish various cultural, social, and recreational facilities.

Case Notes

Operating Swimming Pool Not Governmental Function: Municipal operation of a public swimming pool is a proprietary and not a governmental function. A municipality is liable, in a proper case, for tortious acts of its officers and employees in such operation. Felton v. Great Falls, 118 M 586, 169 P2d 229 (1946).

Attorney General's Opinions

Election Required to Issue Bonds to Furnish Swimming Pool: An election is required pursuant to 7-7-4221 to issue general obligation bonds for the purpose of furnishing a municipal swimming pool; however, there is no statutory requirement for an election to borrow money for that purpose by means other than issuing general obligation bonds. 41 A.G. Op. 73 (1986).

7-16-4104. Authorization for municipal indebtedness for various cultural, social, and recreational purposes.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 29 in (2)(a) after "exceed" substituted "0.9% of the total assessed value of taxable property, determined as provided in 15-8-111, within" for "16.5% of the taxable value of the taxable property of" and after "indebtedness" deleted "plus:

(i) for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal year 1998, an additional 22% of the taxable value of class eight property within the county for tax year 1995 and, for general obligation bonds to be issued during fiscal years 1999 through 2008, an additional 33% of the taxable value of class eight property within the city for tax year 1995, in each case of class eight property, multiplied by 16.5%;

(ii) an additional 50% of the taxable value of telecommunications property under 15-6-141 within the city or town for tax year 1999, multiplied by 16.5%, and an additional 50% of the taxable value attributable to electrical generation property under 15-6-141 within the city or town for tax year 1999, multiplied by 16.5%"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

Saving Clause: Section 33, Ch. 29, L. 2001, was a saving clause.

Applicability: Section 35, Ch. 29, L. 2001, provided: "(1) [This act] applies to the authorization and issuance of bonds occurring on or after July 1, 2001.

(2) Debt limits established under [this act] do not apply to bonds authorized before July 1, 2001, regardless of when the bonds are issued."

1999 Amendments — Composite Section: Chapter 136 in (2)(a)(i) inserted provisions allowing inclusion of class eight property in debt limit in amount of 22% for bonds issued in fiscal year 1998 and 33% for fiscal years 1999 through 2008; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective March 23, 1999.

Chapter 426 in (2)(a)(ii) inserted language relating to taxable value of telecommunications property; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Chapter 556 in (2)(a)(ii) inserted clause including 50% of taxable valuation attributable to electrical generation property multiplied by 16.5% in formula for total amount of indebtedness; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective January 1, 2000.

Applicability: Section 43, Ch. 426, L. 1999, provided: "[This act] applies to tax years beginning after December 31, 1999."

Severability: Section 37, Ch. 556, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

1997 Amendment: Chapter 459 in (1)(c), after "equipping", inserted "repairing, or rehabilitating"; and made minor changes in style.

1981 Amendment: Substituted "may not at any time exceed 16.5% of the taxable value" for "may not at any time exceed 3% of the value" in (2).

Attorney General's Opinions

Use of Open-Space Bond Proceeds: A city may use proceeds from bonds issued pursuant to Title 76, ch. 6, the Open-Space Land and Voluntary Conservation Easement Act, for the maintenance of open-space land acquired with bond proceeds and to fund the development of a comprehensive plan (now growth policy) for purchase, use, development, and maintenance of open-space land. 47 A.G. Op. 8 (1997).

Election Required to Issue Bonds to Furnish Swimming Pool: An election is required pursuant to 7-7-4221 to issue general obligation bonds for the purpose of furnishing a municipal swimming pool; however, there is no statutory requirement for an election to borrow money for that purpose by means other than issuing general obligation bonds. 41 A.G. Op. 73 (1986).

Repair or Maintenance of Swimming Pool — City Not to Borrow Money: Section 7-16-4104, authorizing a city to incur indebtedness, does not include authority to do so for maintenance or repairs (see 1997 amendment). The Legislature intended that maintenance or repair of swimming pools be funded by tax levy under 7-16-4105 or by park funds under 7-16-4107; therefore, a city may not borrow money to maintain or repair a municipal swimming pool. 41 A.G. Op. 73 (1986).

7-16-4105. Authorization to levy tax for various cultural, social, and recreational facilities.

2001 Amendment: Chapter 574 at end substituted "a tax on the taxable value of all taxable property in the city or town" for "an amount not exceeding 7 mills on the dollar on the taxable value of the property to be taxed in the city or town". Amendment effective July 1, 2001.

1999 Amendment: Chapter 584 at beginning inserted reference to 15-10-420; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective May 10, 1999.

Severability: Section 172, Ch. 584, L. 1999, was a severability clause.

Retroactive Applicability: Section 175, Ch. 584, L. 1999, provided that this section applies retroactively, within the meaning of 1-2-109, to tax years beginning after December 31, 1998.

Attorney General's Opinions

Repair or Maintenance of Swimming Pool — City Not to Borrow Money: Section 7-16-4104, authorizing a city to incur indebtedness, does not include authority to do so for maintenance or repairs (see 1999 amendment). The Legislature intended that maintenance or repair of swimming pools be funded by tax levy under 7-16-4105 or by park funds under 7-16-4107; therefore, a city may not borrow money to maintain or repair a municipal swimming pool. 41 A.G. Case Notes

Development and Use Agreement Not Precluding City From Entering Agreement for Construction Project on Public Property — Franchise Agreement Outside Scope of Citizen Group's Agreement With City: A citizen's group entered a franchise agreement with a professional baseball organization to bring a team to Missoula. After two potential sites were rejected, the city of Missoula accepted a gift of property upon which to construct a baseball facility and granted the citizen group the right to finance and construct the stadium on the property and to convey the completed facility to the city. The citizen group moved to enjoin the city from development of the proposed civic baseball stadium because of the city's failure to comply with statutory requirements for planning, funding, and managing the facility. All claims were dismissed on summary judgment, and the citizen group appealed, but the Supreme Court affirmed. The development and use agreements in this case did not preclude the city from executing an agreement with another entity for the construction of a similar facility on public property or from leasing a city-owned facility for baseball games or any other purpose. Any franchise agreement between the baseball organization and the citizen group was outside the scope of the group's agreement with the city, so the voter-approval provisions of 7-5-4321 did not apply. The citizen group's argument that the city was required to comply with urban renewal laws also failed. The decision whether to proceed with development under the urban renewal statutes was up to the city, and the fact that the city designated the capital improvements associated with the stadium construction as an urban renewal project did not require that the citizen group's building project come under the same purview. Rather, under this section, the city is permitted to obtain an athletic field and civic stadium through purchase, donation, or condemnation and to regulate its use, but nothing in the statute prohibits the city from designating a stadium project as an urban renewal project or mandates that the project be designated as an urban renewal project. The District Court properly found that the city appropriately exercised its administrative authority in accepting the gift property and then leasing the site to the citizen group for purposes of constructing a stadium using private financial resources. The citizen group failed to raise a genuine issue of material fact that would preclude summary judgment. Fair Play Missoula, Inc. v. Missoula, 2002 MT 179, 311 M 22, 52 P3d 926 (2002).

Land Deeded for Park Purposes — Reversionary Clause: Lands were deeded to a city for park purposes by deeds providing for reversion to the grantors if used for any other purpose. The lands may be used for some other purpose if the city obtains a waiver, quitclaim deed, or unconditional deed from the owner of the reversionary interest removing the restriction. The city then will own the lands in fee and may use the property as it sees fit. Lloyd v. Great Falls, 107 M 442, 86 P2d 395 (1938).

CHAPTER 21BUSINESS, AGRICULTURE, AND LIVESTOCK SERVICES AND REGULATION*Part 21*General County Licensing Authority*7-21-2101. General licensing power of counties.*Case Notes

Licensing Classifications: The Legislature imposed a license tax on motion picture theaters. The statute was attacked as containing an arbitrary classification because vaudeville and other classes of entertainment were excluded from its operation. Such theaters were taxable under a different statute. The court held that while the Legislature may impose a license tax on certain occupations and not on others, arbitrary and unreasonable classifications are not permissible. A classification, however, cannot be said to be unreasonable and arbitrary unless it precludes the assumption that it was made in the exercise of legislative judgment and discretion. No unlawful discrimination was involved. State ex rel. Griffin v. Greene, 104 M 460, 67 P2d 995 (1937).

Occupation — Valid Licensing Classification: Occupation is a valid ground for license tax classification, whether as to the amount imposed or as between subjection to and immunity from imposition. Equitable Life Assurance Co. v. Hart, 55 M 76, 173 P 1062 (1918); St. v. Hammond Packing Co., 45 M 343, 123 P 407 (1912).

Constitutionality:

This section is not, because of the exemptions therein contained, an unconstitutional denial of the equal protection of the laws. Quong Wing v. Kirkendall, 223 US 59, 56 L Ed 350, 32 S Ct 192 (1912).

Assuming that this section classifies laundries for license purposes into steam laundries and laundries operated by hand, such classification is not arbitrary or unreasonable. Quong Wing v. Kirkendall, 39 M 64, 101 P 250 (1909), affirmed 223 US 59, 56 L Ed 350, 32 S Ct 192 (1912).

The Legislature is not required to tax all occupations equally or uniformly. It had power to single out proprietors of hand laundries and compel them to pay a license, and so long as the law was uniform as to all persons operating such laundries, there was no denial of the equal protection of the laws. Quong Wing v. Kirkendall, 39 M 64, 101 P 250 (1909), affirmed 223 US 59, 56 L Ed 350, 32 S Ct 192 (1912), affirmed on remittitur, 47 M 16, 130 P 2 (1913).

License tax upon laundries did not violate Art. XII, sec. 11, 1889 Mont. Const. (similar to Art. VIII, sec. 3, 1972 Mont. Const.), requiring uniformity in the assessment and levy of taxes. St. v. Camp Sing, 18 M 128, 44 P 516 (1896); State ex rel. Sam Toi v. French, 17 M 54, 41 P 1078 (1895).

Invalidity of Similar Section: Section 816 of the Revised Statutes of 1879 (now repealed), a statute similar to this section, authorized the summary seizure and sale of property belonging to another but in use by a person from whom a license fee was due. The section created a lien thereon and was held unconstitutional under Due Process of Law Clause of the federal constitution. Chauvin v. Valiton, 8 M 451, 20 P 658 (1889).

Construction of Statute: The words “any person required to take out a license” mean any person engaged in a profession, trade, or occupation for which a license tax is required, and a person engaged in any such business, upon the payment of the required fee, can demand a license as a matter of right. In the enactment of the section, the Legislature intended nothing more than to provide means for the collection of a license fee from one entitled to a license as a matter of right upon payment of the fee. Part Attorney General’s Opinions

Constitutionality — Licensing Requirement Prior to Entry of Goods Into State: Sections 7-21-2301 through 7-21-2310 held unconstitutional as violating Art. I, sec. 8, U.S. Const., insofar as they attempt to impose a license for persons selling or seeking to sell the goods of a nonresident of Montana prior to the introduction of such goods in the state. 11 A.G. Case Notes

Power to Prohibit Door-to-Door Solicitation: The city of Billings enacted an ordinance declaring uninvited door-to-door solicitation a nuisance punishable as a misdemeanor. It was argued that a state statute regulating itinerant vendors did not empower a city to prohibit their activities, therefore precluding the ordinance. The Supreme Court disagreed. Under the expanded powers of local self-government provided by Montana’s Constitution, a city possessing those powers may exercise any power not prohibited by the constitution or state statute. A city possessing self-government powers may prohibit uninvited door-to-door solicitation by itinerant vendors, and a licensing statute does not legalize an activity otherwise prohibited. Any statements to the contrary contained in DeLong v. Downes, 175 M 152, 573 P2d 160 (1977), are expressly overruled. Tipco Corp. v. Billings, 197 M 339, 642 P2d 1074, 39 St. Rep. 600 (1982).

2009 Amendment: Chapter 286 near middle after "levy" substituted "or assessment for a county fair district or a multiple county fair district" for "provided for in 7-21-3410"; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective July 1, 2009.

Saving Clause: Section 42, Ch. 286, L. 2009, was a saving clause.

Transition — Repealed: Section 43, Ch. 286, L. 2009, provided: "(1) Subject to subsection (2), a special district in existence on [the effective date of this act] [effective July 1, 2009] must comply with the provisions of [sections 1 through 20] [Title 7, ch. 11, part 10] upon alteration of its boundaries or a change in its amount or method of assessment. If dissolution is proposed for a special district in existence on [the effective date of this act] [effective July 1, 2009], the proposal is subject to the provisions of [section 20] [7-11-1029].

(2) A special district in existence on [the effective date of this act] [effective July 1, 2009] is required to comply with the provisions of [section 10] [7-11-1014] only upon alteration of its boundaries." This transition section was repealed by sec. 2, Ch. 97, L. 2019. See the code commissioner explanation under 7-11-1004.

Part 41 Municipal Licensing Authority

7-21-4101. General licensing power of municipalities.

Case Notes

Tax on Sale of Attorney's Services — Invalid: A city ordinance imposing an annual tax on every lawyer or law firm carrying on the practice of law, calculated on the basis of gross revenue generated from attorney-client relationships, was held to be an unconstitutional sales tax. The tax was beyond the scope of self-government powers and in violation of 7-1-112, since it was not related to any regulatory control measure for the health or welfare of the city but was a tax on the sale of attorneys' services. Brueggemann v. Billings, 221 M 375, 719 P2d 768, 43 St. Rep. 905 (1986).

Regulatory Municipal Business License Applicable to Attorneys — Unconstitutional: A business license ordinance enacted by a self-governing municipality requiring municipal licensure of attorneys and that provided for regulation was an unconstitutional encroachment on the Supreme Court's authority to regulate the bar as provided in Art. III, sec. 2, Mont. Const., because the ordinance conditions attorneys' access to the practice of law. The ordinance included police provisions that could conceivably cover standards of practice, prohibited attorneys from carrying on their occupation without procuring a municipal license, required municipal licensure of nonresident attorneys practicing in the municipality, and provided for fines and incarceration for failing to comply with the ordinance. Harlen v. Helena, 208 M 45, 676 P2d 191, 41 St. Rep. 162 (1984).

Mandamus: Action of Town Council in refusing to issue a mobile home court license until petitioner had removed a house which encroached onto a public alley was not an abuse of discretion, and mandamus will not lie to compel the issuance of the license. State ex rel. Barnes v. Belgrade, 164 M 467, 524 P2d 1112 (1974).

Abuse of Discretion: City Council could not, at its discretion, deny developers a license to operate a trailer park, where developers had complied with the city's health ordinances, Council disregarded the findings of the city's administrative officers, and developers had begun construction of the park before the area had been rezoned. State ex rel. Bennett v. Stow, 144 M 599, 399 P2d 221 (1965).

Ordinance Required: Where the city's licensing ordinance did not include the operation of a call office for drycleaning, the city was without jurisdiction to arrest the operator of such an establishment for conducting business without a license. In the absence of a licensing ordinance, the city is powerless to attempt to exact license fees or to regulate the operation of any business. State ex rel. Willumsen v. Butte, 135 M 350, 340 P2d 535 (1959).

No Power to License Liquor Sales: The Prohibition Act of 1917, repealing all conflicting acts and all municipal ordinances relating to issuance of liquor licenses, divested municipalities of power to license sale of liquor under general statutes. Stephens v. Great Falls, 119 M 368, 175 P2d 408 (1946).

State Liquor Statutes to Control: Special statutes subsequently enacted relating to liquor traffic and licensing of sale of liquor control the more general statutes authorizing cities generally to license businesses and occupations and will be regarded as an exception to or qualification of the prior general statutes. State ex rel. Wiley v. District Court, 118 M 50, 164 P2d 358 (1945).

Interference on Gross Abuse: The power to license has been properly delegated to cities and towns by this section. It grants them the power to fix the amount, terms, and manner of issuing and revoking licenses or to refuse to issue them. Courts will not interfere in this exercise except when there has been a gross abuse of discretion. State ex rel. McIntire v. Libby, 107 M 216, 82 P2d 587 (1938).

Plumber's License Applicant — Court Review: Sections 5183 through 5193, R.C.M. 1921 (now repealed), relating to the municipal regulation of the plumbing business, were attacked by an unsuccessful applicant for a license as an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority to a municipal board. The statutes were not so lacking in detail as to how examinations for applicants for licenses were to be conducted or as to the nature of the examination to amount to a conferring of arbitrary or capricious power on the Board of Examiners. Though the statutes did not provide for review by the courts of the Board of Examiners' actions, an aggrieved applicant for a license could by an appropriate proceeding have an allegation of arbitrary or capricious action reviewed by the courts. St. v. Stark, 100 M 365, 52 P2d 890 (1935).

Validity of Licensing Ordinance — Discretionary Granting: An ordinance vested in public officials the discretion to grant or refuse a license to carry on an ordinarily lawful business without referring to all of the classes to which the ordinance was intended to apply and without specifically enumerating the conditions to which similarly situated persons had to conform. Such an ordinance is normally invalid but is subject to the qualification that where it is impractical to lay down an all-comprehensive rule or where it relates to the administration of the police power and is necessary to protect the general welfare, morals, and safety of the public, it is not essential that the ordinance prescribe all the conditions upon which the license will be granted or refused. A person arbitrarily denied a license under such an ordinance may apply to the courts for relief. State ex rel. Altop v. Billings, 79 M 25, 255 P 11 (1927).

Amount of License Fee: What is a reasonable license fee must depend largely upon the sound discretion of the City Council, having reference to the circumstances and necessities of the case. Unless, however, the amount is manifestly unreasonable in view of its purpose as a regulation, the court will not adjudge it a revenue measure. Bozeman v. Nelson, 73 M 147, 237 P 528 (1925).

Taxi License:

Taxicabs and autobuses operated for hire are legitimate objects of license fees. Bozeman v. Nelson, 73 M 147, 237 P 528 (1925).

Subdivision 3 of section 5039, R.C.M. 1921 (now 7-21-4101), provided that the license fee which a city might impose upon industries and businesses must not exceed the sum required by statute when the state requires a license therefor. Chapter 154, L. 1923 (since repealed), while authorizing the State Railroad Commission (now Public Service Commission) to require the payment of a license not to exceed $10 per motor vehicle, does not declare that a license shall be exacted. A city imposed a license fee of $25 for the first taxi operated for hire and $12 for each additional one. The Supreme Court held that in the absence of a showing that the Railroad Commission (now Public Service Commission) had exercised the power given it by Ch. 154, the fee exacted by the City Council cannot be said to exceed the fee imposed by the state for the same purpose. State ex rel. Bozeman v. Police Court, 68 M 435, 219 P 810 (1923).

License Authority — Police Power: The Legislature may not constitutionally authorize a city to provide revenue for general municipal purposes by the imposition of license taxes. It may, however, properly authorize it to impose such a tax upon any industry or upon the right to transact any business which falls within the scope of police regulations. Bozeman v. Nelson, 73 M 147, 237 P 528 (1925).

Revenue Incidental: Although revenue may result incidentally from an undisputed exercise of the police power, that fact alone does not divest the regulation of its police character and make it an exercise of the taxing power. Bozeman v. Nelson, 73 M 147, 237 P 528 (1925).

Power to Impose License Tax: A city cannot raise revenue for general municipal purposes by the imposition of license taxes. State ex rel. Bozeman v. Police Court, 68 M 435, 219 P 810 (1923).

Coal Dealer: Section 84-1402, R.C.M. 1947 (15-58-102, now repealed), required every coal dealer in the state to pay annually to the state a license fee of $1 and in addition thereto 5 cents per ton for every ton of coal sold by him during any one year upon which the mines license fee exacted by section 84-1302, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), had not been paid by the mine operator. Under subdivision 3 of section 5039, R.C.M. 1921 (now 7-21-4101), the power of cities or towns to license an industry or business was limited to an amount not to exceed the sum required by the state to be paid to it by the same business. A city ordinance exacting a fee of $1 from coal dealers and in addition 5 cents for every ton of coal sold, without incorporating therein the clause limiting the payment of the 5 cents to coal upon which the mines license fee exacted by section 84-1302, R.C.M. 1947 (now repealed), had not been paid to the state, was invalid as in excess of the power of the city to impose. State ex rel. Butte v. Police Court, 65 M 94, 210 P 1059 (1922).

Attorney General's Opinions

City Licensing: A city can license local aspects of interstate commerce if not a direct burden or impediment, but enterprises preempted by state regulation are not subject to city licensing. 37 A.G. Op. 100 (1977).

Regulation of Gambling Hours: A city may restrict by ordinance the hours of licensed gambling since it is the type of subject matter traditionally the object of reasonable regulation for the protection of the public health, safety, and welfare. 37 A.G. Op. 67 (1977).

Implied Amendment: This section was held impliedly amended by section 66-411, R.C.M. 1947 (37-30-307, now repealed), as amended by sec. 4, Ch. 183, L. 1937, to the extent that section 11-903, R.C.M. 1947 (now 7-21-4101), may have authorized cities and towns to license barbers. 17 A.G. Op. 314 (1938).

Part 42
Municipal Regulation of Business and Commodities

Part Case Notes

Regulatory Municipal Business License Applicable to Attorneys — Unconstitutional: A business license ordinance enacted by a self-governing municipality requiring municipal licensure of attorneys and that provided for regulation was an unconstitutional encroachment on the Supreme Court's authority to regulate the bar as provided in Art. III, sec. 2, Mont. Const., because the ordinance conditions attorneys' access to the practice of law. The ordinance included police provisions that could conceivably cover standards of practice, prohibited attorneys from carrying on their occupation without procuring a municipal license, required municipal licensure of nonresident attorneys practicing in the municipality, and provided for fines and incarceration for failing to comply with the ordinance. Harlen v. Helena, 208 M 45, 676 P2d 191, 41 St. Rep. 162 (1984).

7-21-4201. Regulation of certain activities.Case Notes

Pawnshop: An ordinance making it unlawful to keep a pawnshop open after 6 p.m. is not a prohibition of the business but a regulation of it authorized by this section. Butte v. Paltrovich, 30 M 18, 75 P 521 (1904).

Police Regulations: The power conferred upon a city by this section is primarily to enact such police regulations, with reference to the occupations therein enumerated, as shall be necessary to the good order and general welfare of its citizens. Butte v. Paltrovich, 30 M 18, 75 P 521 (1904).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Power to Contract With Humane Society: Counties which have enacted dog licensing requirements may contract with local humane societies for the impoundment and disposition of unlicensed dogs. In addition, counties may contract with local humane societies for kenneling and disposition of animals incidental to the Sheriff's performance of his duties as humane officer. 37 A.G. Op. 105 (1978).

City Licensing of Real Estate Firms: A city may not require real estate firms to obtain business licenses. 37 A.G. Op. 71 (1977).

7-21-4202. Regulation of foodstuffs.Compiler's Comments

2017 Amendment: Chapter 28 in (3) inserted exception clause; and made minor changes in style. Amendment effective February 17, 2017.

1987 Amendment: Near beginning, after "inspection of", deleted "beef, pork".

7-21-4205. Licensing and regulating of vehicles engaged in transporting persons and property.Case Notes

Taxicabs: An ordinance requiring taxicab drivers to occupy a position by the side of their vehicles along the curb line of the street fronting a railway station and prohibiting them from soliciting patronage on railway property was a valid exercise of the police power. It withstood the objections that it was in conflict with the Due Process of Law Clause of the federal and state constitutions, indirectly interfered with interstate commerce carried on partially within the state, and impaired the obligations of contracts between the operator of the taxicabs and railway companies. Butte v. Roberts, 94 M 482, 23 P2d 243 (1933).

Ordinance — License Fee — Tax — Determination: An ordinance required the operator of buses and taxis to pay a license fee to aid in the police power and regulation by the city. The operator contended that it was an unlawful tax. Where a fee is imposed for the purpose of regulation and the ordinance imposing it requires compliance with conditions in addition to the payment of the prescribed fee, it is a license imposed under the police power. When the fee is exacted solely for revenue purposes without further conditions, it is a tax. In this case, the fee was a license and the ordinance was not invalid as imposing an unreasonable tax. State ex rel. Bozeman v. Police Court, 68 M 435, 219 P 810 (1923).

Part Administrative Rules

Title 4, chapter 5, ARM Noxious weed management.

Part Attorney General's Opinions

Establishment of Rural Improvement District for Weed Control — Preemption: A Board of County Commissioners may not use 7-12-2102 or 7-12-4102 to authorize a rural improvement district to provide weed control because those statutes are subordinate to and preempted by the specific statutory scheme of weed control in Title 7, ch. 22, part 21. 42 A.G. Op. 90 (1988).

County Recoupment of Costs of Weed Control — Landowner Agreements — Former Law: Under 7-22-2146 the County Commissioners and weed control supervisors (now District Weed Board) are not required to have an agreement to assist landowners with weed control. Landowners in counties without such agreements are obliged to carry the entire financial burden of the weed program. If 7-22-2147 (now repealed) were to be interpreted to allow recovery by the county of only two-thirds of the costs incurred in destroying weeds on the property of noncomplying landowners, it would be economically advantageous for the landowners to refuse to cooperate in the program and let the county control all weeds instead. Complying landowners would bear the total cost of weed control while recalcitrant landowners would be liable for only two-thirds of the expenses. Therefore, in counties in which the full financial responsibility for a weed control program lies with the landowners, the county may recover the full amount of the cost incurred in noxious weed control if the weed board must institute weed control measures pursuant to 7-22-2124 (now repealed) without the consent of the owner. 39 A.G. Op. 13 (1981).

Written Notice to Enter Land: A county weed control district (now weed management district) must serve a written notice, pursuant to 7-22-2123 (now repealed), prior to entering land for weed control purposes unless it has prior written permission to enter the land from the person owning, occupying, or controlling the land. 36 A.G. Op. 103 (1976).

(2) This section shall apply to all persons, partnerships, corporations, or companies owning, occupying, or controlling lands, easements, or rights-of-way, as well as all county, state, and federally owned and controlled highways and state lands and also all drainage and irrigation ditches, spoil banks, borrow pits, and rights-of-way for canals and laterals within the district”.

Case Notes

Seller's Failure to Control Weeds Not Breach of Contract: Property buyers claimed breach of contract because of seller's failure to control noxious weeds on adjacent property. The Supreme Court noted the existing statutory remedy for allowing propagation of noxious weeds in holding that the failure to control weeds was not sufficient to forgive payment on a contract by buyers for the purchase of land. Burgess v. Shiplet, 230 M 387, 750 P2d 460, 45 St. Rep. 293 (1988).

Attorney General's Opinions

County Recoupment of Costs of Weed Control — Landowner Agreements — Former Law: Under 7-22-2146 the County Commissioners and weed control supervisors (now District Weed Board) are not required to have an agreement to assist landowners with weed control. Landowners in counties without such agreements are obliged to carry the entire financial burden of the weed program. If 7-22-2147 (now repealed) were to be interpreted to allow recovery by the county of only two-thirds of the costs incurred in destroying weeds on the property of noncomplying landowners, it would be economically advantageous for the landowners to refuse to cooperate in the program and let the county control all weeds instead. Complying landowners would bear the total cost of weed control, while recalcitrant landowners would be liable for only two-thirds of the expenses. Therefore, in counties in which the full financial responsibility for a weed control program lies with the landowners, the county may recover the full amount of the cost incurred in noxious weed control if the weed board must institute weed control measures pursuant to 7-22-2124 (now repealed) without the consent of the owner. 39 A.G. Op. 13 (1981).

Case Notes

Landlord Not Liable for Tenants' Mixed Breed Dog — Animal Liability and Premises Liability Separate Claims: The plaintiffs sued the defendant landlord and defendant tenants after both of their children were bitten by the tenants' dog. On summary judgment against the landlord, the plaintiffs stipulated that there was no evidence in the record that the landlord was aware the dogs had previously bitten anyone. The District Court concluded that the plaintiffs' negligence claim failed because the landlord did not know the dogs were vicious and that the plaintiffs' strict liability claim failed because the dog was not a purebred pit bull breed. On appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed, holding that injury by animal and premises liability are separate theories of liability and that absence of liability under one theory does not preclude recovery under the other. However, the plaintiffs' claim failed because there was insufficient evidence to conclude that the landlord had reason to know the dogs were vicious and because the record did not demonstrate that the dogs were inherently vicious by nature of their breed. Knapton v. Monk, 2015 MT 111, 379 Mont. 1, 347 P.3d 1257.

Case Notes

Proper Function: Any rule made by a Board of Health having a reasonable and direct relation to securing protection from rabid animals is a proper exercise of the Board's functions. The determination as to the means used to meet a threatening situation is vested in the Board and not the courts. Ruona v. Billings, 136 M 554, 323 P2d 29 (1958).

Attorney General's Opinions

Interlocal Cooperation Agreements: Since 7-31-4101 allows any city to provide for a Board of Health and 50-2-104 creates a County Board of Health in each county and even though 50-2-107 holds that cities other than first- and second-class cities cannot participate in a District Board of Health, 7-11-104 allows a public agency to contract with another public agency to perform an administrative service when both agencies are authorized by law to perform such services. Therefore, it appears as though all cities and counties can enter a contract for the provision of such common services. 35 A.G. Op. 48 (1973).
